Let the people rule

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 2, 1896. NO. 10.

Liberty is to be dethroned and the people reduced to industrial slavery.

Debt is slavery.

The owner of a "chattel slave" held a bill of sale of him.

It was a deed.

What did it imply?

The right to say to him: "You shall work for me."

One man holds a note against another.

What does it imply?

The legal right to say: "Go to work and give to me the proceeds of your labor until the note is canceled."

If the note is small the debtor may only be a temporary slave. But if it is large enough so that it requires all of the surplus products of his labor to pay the interest he is a slave for life, and his children after him.

This is industrial slavery. This is the kind that the banker wants to fasten upon the people.

He seeks to do it under the plea of "sound money."

It is a lie, blacker than hell itself, for it seeks to destroy human liberty.

GOVERNMENT OF CITIES.

Purely a Matter of Business, and Not of Partisan Politics.

In all cities where the People's party have nominated candidates for office they have demanded that the municipality should own and operate all public utilities.

It is self-evident that the management of the affairs of a city should be purely a matter of business, not of sentiment or of politics.

It is equally clear that under our present system of ward caucuses controlled by the leaders, who are monopolists, of the two old parties, and who care only for self interest and the office, is not for the best interests of the public.

The greatest inducement to public mismanagement of city affairs is the idiotic practice of permitting private individuals and corporations to enrich themselves by controlling public utilities. Public control will alone remove such cause of exploiting the public. If we only stop to think a little we will see how absurd it is for a city to grade and pave its streets at great expense, and keep them in repair by taxing the people, and then to grant the use of a portion of these same streets to a private corporation, which forthwith proceeds to lay down tracks or gas or water mains, and make big dividends out of the people. Such business conduct is worthy of a Pacific Islander's brain.

Berlin, Germany, is said to be the best governed city in the world. Its streets are the cleanest, its pavement the best, yet Berlin, by owning the gas works, electric lights, water works, street railways, city telephones, and even the fire insurance, in fact, all the public improvements, makes a profit every year of 5,000,000 marks, or $1,250,000 above all expenses.

Although the Berlin street railway (Stadt-Bahn) cost about $200,000 a mile, her citizens can ride a distance of five miles as many times each day, for 365 days, as they wish for only $4.50. It costs $36 to ride the same distance on the elevated railways in New York city to and from work each day.

In the city of Glasgow, Scotland, it costs only two cents to ride on the municipal street railways. The street cleaning in Denver is managed by the city at an ex[illegible] 75 per mile per day, while it [illegible] which has the contract [illegible] mile per day. It is [illegible] on owned the [illegible] uld be [illegible]

[illegible] pays [illegible] for [illegible] moon don[illegible] te, while [illegible], Ill., having no better advantages in fuel or other supplies, but owning its plant, has 240 lights burning all night without regard to the moon, at $60 each per year. Dunkirk, N. Y., owns its own plant, furnishing light all night and every night for $36.50 each per year. The average price paid to private parties by the various cities is $105.13 per light per year. The same service performed directly under municipal management averages to the citizens a cost of $52.12½. Boston pays a private corporation the enormous sum of $180 per light, but Chicago, which owns a plant, pays for the same service $65 a year. Manchester pays $1.70 per 1,000 cubic feet for gas, which it might have for $1 if the city manufactured the gas. Wheeling, W. Va., owns the gas plant and figures the cost of gas in burner, including leakage, at 29½ cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Philadelphia owns its gas plant, and while the people enjoy cheap gas, the city makes a net profit of nearly $1,000,000 a year besides what the city consumes in its public buildings, etc., which, reckoned at $1.20 per 1,000 cubic feet, is equal to a saving of $960,000, or a total net profit to the city of over $1,960,000 each year.

A report of the N. Y. senate shows that the people of New York city, under private ownership, have been bled in the last ten years to the extent of $30,07[illegible]715.27 above what they ought to have paid. Municipal ownership in the United States shows a net saving of 40 per cent. City ownership of all public utilities is a necessity. Let the people demand public ownership of public improvements and they will save more money each year than all the total direct taxes paid. Workingmen, you who produce all the wealth, investigate, and then vote for your own interests.—Twentieth Century.

The London (England) Times wants the American people to elect Grover Cleveland again. We don't wonder at this; Cleveland is the best representative of British interests that has ever occupied the presidential chair.

THE SITUATION NOW.

THE IMMORALITY IN THE BUSINESS WORLD.

"The Rich Man's Wealth Is His Strong City: the Destruction of the Poor Is Their Poverty"—The Law Governing Buyer and Seller.

Wealth Makers: When we stop to think of it, is it not an amazing thing that there is so much misery, want and anxiety in the world among people who are willing to work and capable of producing with their labor all sorts of wealth to satisfy their needs? How many there are all about us, here, there and everywhere, who are in need of good, well-furnished homes! And the carpenters, masons, producers of all sorts of building materials, painters, decorators, carpet weavers, furniture makers, artists, authors, publishers, printers, and the rest, would gladly build, beautify and furnish luxuriously homes for all. They could do it easily if kept at work. The farmers could feed all, the factories could clothe all, and the workers could all be rich, with every legitimate want supplied, if all the able-bodied were kept at work eight hours a day, six days in the week, 300 days in the year, for a period of ten years. Modern machinery and natural motive power have so multiplied the results of labor in almost every branch of industry that need should be unknown. But machinery, steam and electricity have not benefited the poor. Invention and tireless motive power have not done away with poverty. The percentage of landless, homeless, dependent people is even steadily increasing. Great numbers of sober, capable men and women cannot obtain regular employment, cannot exchange services with one another and so meet their mutual wants.

It is true of the different classes that the rich are growing richer, the people with small means are growing poorer, the numbers who cannot find regular employment are increasing, and the struggle between competing workers for the insufficient places and wages [illegible] to them by the landlords and [illegible] ore desperate [illegible] degrading and [illegible] In the [illegible] gree that wealt[illegible] ting world is growi[illegible] more miserable. [illegible] ich man's wealth is his strong city; the destruction of the poor is their poverty." "The rich ruleth over the poor, and the borrower is servant unto the lender." Capitalists are organized and organizing to increase their power and exactions; the wage-workers are organizing to resist wage reductions; and between these two commercial forces relentless, wasteful, terrible war is determined. Between contract and contract truces are observed, but there is no such thing as settled peace. On the one side the capitalists, never satisfied, out of the profits from under-paid labor are buying up and monopolizing more and more of the natural resources, the increasingly valuable land, mines, oil wells, lumber regions, municipal monopolies, costly machinery, the necessary means of production and exchange, and are so increasing yearly the sum total of their tribute; and on the other side the wage workers are organizing the fight for enough to live on, and they will never cease demanding more and more, until we have industrial equality as well as political equality, or until, starved to desperation, the bomb and torch shall be resorted to by the maddened masses. The great consolidating corporations and the class called monopolists, with the law and customs of the centuries behind them, will not force less from the workers than they have obtained power to, and the workers will not endure dependence and destitution as their permanent place and part in society. It is also true that the knowledge of injustice is spreading, and an explosion upward cannot be long prevented by force or subtlety. An industrial despot, when men are enlightened, will be seen to be as oppressive a tyrant as a political despot. A monopolist is as much of a king as if crowned and publicly proclaimed such.

But monopolists cannot be condemned, save as we condemn the business system which has made them. And have we not all plunged into it and lived by its law, or rule? In view of the results of the business struggle it is forced upon us to ask, is it right? is it Christian? are the commercial transactions which all engage in, the acts of trade commonly regarded as legitimate, moral?

From an editorial in an Omaha daily we clipped a few years ago the plain statement following, written in answer to a query of a correspondent. That paper said:

"It is the law of the business world and the law of the industrial world that the buyer and seller, whether labor or material be bought or sold, stand for the time being in antagonism to each other."

Each gets as much as he can and gives as little as he must, buys cheap and sells dear, if he can do so, and considers it practical wisdom and necessary business so to do. It matters not how much kindness of heart and sympathy individuals may possess, it is not allowed to interfere to any appreciable extent with the business struggle. "Business is business," we say.

But this struggle for gain one of another, which we call "business," is anti-Christian, is exactly contrary to the moral law. "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." And it is this selfish struggle which has divided men and produced all the innumerable, immeasurable, indescribable evils which flow out of selfishness. Let this statement sink down into your minds and receive careful consideration, that the business system of selfish force which fixes all prices and wages and distributes the rewards of labor, is anti-Christian, immoral, and we must [illegible]rate ourselves from it. We must [illegible] out of this Babylon, whose doom foretold approaches, or we shall continue to suffer her plagues and go down with her into final destruction. "For her sins have reached unto heaven and God hath remembered her iniquities."

THE RECENT ELECTION.

What It Means—What Its Results Will Be.

At every election, of late years, the old party papers suppress all reports of the Populist vote, and then howl, "The People's party is dead!" And every time it dies it grows stronger.

This year we have increased our vote everywh[illegible], notwithstanding the [illegible]ch the old parties have been [illegible]ading in our garments. In [illegible]e South, the Democrats swear by the Populist platform and [illegible]ee silver, and in the moun[illegible]n states and the West the Republicans do the same thing. We read that the Democrats carried Mississippi "on a free-silver platform," and the Republicans did the same thing in Nebraska. In Kentucky both parties were at the same time bimetallists and monometallists. The poor Populists are confused. They find it hard to vote against their old party when it is preaching their distinctive doctrine. They feel like Job Scroggins, the carter, when he woke up in his cart, very drunk, to find his horse stolen. Said he: "Be I Job Scroggins, or be I not? If I be Job Scroggins I have lost a horse; and if I beant Job Scroggins I have found a cart." And so our brethren in the South and West scratch their heads and say: "Am I a Populist or am I not? If I am a Populist I have got an awful lot of converts; and if I cannot agree with the enemy, who are whooping it up for free silver, where do I belong?"

But all these fogs will disappear next year. The national conventions will have to "fish or cut bait." They will have to be either "fish, flesh or good red-herring." If they go in on the side of the gold-bugs, as is highly probable, they will lose the greater part of the voters they have been feeding so recklessly on free silver pabulum. Paul's advice to be "all things to all men that you may win some" is good politics up to a certain point. Prior to 1860 the Whig and Democratic parties played that game with the slavery question; but there came a time when the people would stand subterfuges no longer and the Whig party was wiped out, as the Democracy have just been, and died the death. The meaning of the recent conflict is that the Democratic party has ceased to be a national organization. Its eastern and western ends are not agreed upon a single political principle—tariff, silver or anything else. It is two parties in one, tied together by the tails, like the Kilkenny cats, and there will be some dreadful scratching when they are hung over a line in the national convention next year. Heretofore the divergent elements of the party have been held together by the hope of success—but that hope is now crushed forever, and the fragments will fly apart by an irresistible centrifugal force.

There can be only two parties in this country—one representing Thomas Jefferson and the other Alexander Hamilton—one representing the rights of man and the other the rights of capital—one representing a forward movement to higher levels of progress and liberty; the other symbolizing a retrograde movement toward darkness and despotism. The past and the future stand face to face, and all the temporary expedients that come between them will be ground to powder.

The Republican party have won the elephant, and the question is how to feed him. The menagerie will open in about three weeks, and the stench and the roar will be dreadful. They must agree upon some policy, and what shall it be? Ah! There's the rub. They must produce good times to satisfy the people, and, at the same time, sustain bad policies that will satisfy plutocracy. And that which will satisfy plutocracy will not satisfy the people. And in the meantime, like the closing in of an Arctic winter, settles down upon the world the deadly effects of cutting in two the metallic money of mankind and throwing one-half of it away.

The Democracy has been destroyed trying to unify its forces on this question. The same doom awaits the Republicans. They will be caught between the upper and nether millstones of plutocracy and prosperity.

The Populists can afford to stand still and look on and "laugh when their fear cometh."—Representative.

LATEST MACHINERY.

The Trades in Which Its Ravages Are Felt.

Cotton spinning: One man and two boys do the work which it required 1,100 spinners to do but a small number of years ago.

Cotton weaving: One man does the work now of 40 weavers, which were required at the time of his grandfather.

Cotton printing machines have replaced 1,500 per cent of hand labor.

Horseshoes: One machine, with one man as attendant, manufactures as many horseshoes in one day as it would take 500 men to make in the same time.

Log sawing: Out of 500 men formerly employed at this business, 499 have lost their jobs through the introduction of modern machinery.

Nails: One nail machine has taken the place of 1,000 men.

Paper: In the manufacture of this article 95 per cent of former hand labor has been replaced.

Pottery: One man now makes as much ware in the same time as 1,000 could do before machinery was applied.

Shipping: By the use of machinery in loading and unloading ships one man can perform the labor of 2,000 men.

Steel ties machines: A saving of 500 per cent.

Steel wire nail machines: A saving of 200 per cent.

Typesetting machines: A saving of 150 per cent.

Watches: An expert watchmaker can turn out from 250 to 300 watches each year with the aid of machinery, 85 per cent of former hand labor being thus replaced.

Wood carving: One man now does as much work as 100 men could do fifty years ago.

And similar proportions hold good in all other trades.—N. Y. Commonwealth.

Some men never think until they become hungry—that is to say they seem to think with their stomachs. A little sensible forethought would save much suffering. The people are responsible for the present condition on account of foolish partisan blindness.

We have government ownership of the postal service, let us have government ownership of the railroads and telegraphs.

There is no property right where a human right has been violated to obtain possession of the property.

ORGANIZATION.

Without It But Little Can Be Accomplished.

While honest and patriotic effort is being made to accomplish much-needed reforms, we should not lose sight of the fact that without organization but little can be accomplished. Thousands of men talk reform for 364 days in the year and then vote for one of the old parties on election day. One of the principal reasons for this is that the reform forces are not properly organized. No body of men ever accomplished their object without organization. It is the one needful thing to enable us to march to victory. The two old parties are well organized. In every campaign they are well supplied with money, and their leaders are active and vigilant. We cannot expect to float to victory "on flowery beds of ease."

We are now just entering one of the most momentous campaigns in the history of this government. The money power has been in the field for months. Its forces are organized, solid and compact. Millions of documents have been distributed in the interest of "sound money." The money power, having dethroned silver, will now bring every force to bear upon the greenback. Its efforts will be backed by every trust and corporation. The issue is whether the citizen or the dollar shall rule in this country. The effort will be made to place at once and forever property rights above human rights. If this battle is lost, we believe that the only resort left for the people is to overthrow by physical force a power which their own votes have unwittingly enthroned.

Nothing but the most stupendous effort can prevent the money power from defeating the will of the people.

To make that effort effective will require organization. We have the winter before us. The duty of the hour is to organize. If we fail in this we will fail of success at the polls. The two old parties will gather up the stragglers and the disgusted voters will stay at home and not vote. We should organize in every township, county, and state. We should begin at once a school house campaign. A census of each township should be taken, classifying the voters. It should contain a list of those who will probably vote the democratic, republican, and Populist tickets, as well as a list of the doubtful and disgusted voters. Meetings should be held at least twice a month in every township. Literature should be placed in the hands of all the voters who are disgusted with the old parties.

To do this it is not necessary to wait for a call of the chairman of the state or county central committee. Let each township look after the work of its own organization, and then help its weaker neighbors. When once we get the townships organized, county and state organization will quickly follow. The county chairman should have the names of from three to five active workers in each township. He should keep this list and forward a duplicate of it to the chairman of the state central committee. Each Populist editor in every state should send a copy of his paper to the chairman of the state central committee, and also a copy to the chairman of the national committee. By this method the chairmen will be kept posted as to the progress of the campaign throughout the whole field. The organization can be clubs or Industrial Legions. General Paul Van Dervoort, of Omaha, Nebraska, is pushing the work of organizing both clubs and legions. Write to him at once inclosing stamp for reply, and he will send you particulars. Now, let two or three men in each township take hold of this work at once and get ready for the greatest battle that has ever been fought.

W. S. MORGAN.

When Will They Learn?

When will the American people learn that in turning from one of the old parties to the other, they merely "change the place and keep the pain?" With a great flourish of trumpets, the people of Maryland have smashed the Gorman machine and given over the government of that state to the Republicans. One of the fruits of victory is a United States senatorship, and the man most prominently suggested for the place is Charles Jerome Bonaparte, the grand-nephew of his great uncle. Mr. Bonaparte is a hard, grasping, and avaricious man, an extensive owner of real estate, a more than usually greedy landlord. He was also prominent in a movement to give over to a monopoly the business of dredging for oysters in Chesapeake bay. What will it have profited the people of Maryland to turn down Boss Gorman if at the same time they turn up Boss Bonaparte? That is about all the political reforms have amounted to in this country so far—changing one set of spoilsmen for another. The trifles about which children quarrel are really more important to them than are the "issues" between the old parties over which the American people go daft every four years, if not oftener. The tithing of mint, anise and cummin is what excites them; while the weightier matters of the law, truth, mercy and judgment are as utterly neglected now as they were eighteen hundred years ago.—Star and Kansan.

About the only remnant of the government our fathers gave us is the Fourth of July, and the scream of the eagle on that day is a mere screech as compared with that of former days.

The only "sound money" there is, or can be, is the money that has behind it a stable government. No bank money is considered "sound" unless it is vouched for by the government.

It is no joke to ask what congress is now in session for?

REACTION IN THE STOCK MARKET.

Business Checked in Many Lines. Decline in Bessemer Pig—The Usual Holiday Dullness Increased by Delay of Orders—Cotton Goods Declined.

The foreign and financial messages of the president were followed by violent reaction in the stock market last Saturday, with grave fears of monetary trouble. The sudden panic checked business in many departments, and the industries cannot be expected to show signs of improvement until the new year begins. Orders have for months been so much smaller than they were in the summer, when production was expanding and prices mounting rapidly, that new causes of uncertainty have the more influence. Bessemer pig has declined 25 cents more at Pittsburg, the bar iron association has reduced its price, not yet to the rate at which steel as well as iron bars are actually sold, and in most departments this industry suffers from the speculative advance in prices and production last summer. It is noted that Bessemer and open hearth steel were offered at the same price in bids on 6,000,000 tons which a Pittsburg mill will produce for appraisers' stores here. In the great textile manufactures the usual holiday dullness is increased by delay of orders, though there is some accumulation of goods for the demand expected soon. Standard brown sheetings and drills are an eighth lower and cotton goods average a third of 1 per cent lower.

The shoe and leather business does not improve and both leather and manufactured goods decline slightly, though speculation is again hoisting hides about 10 per cent for all in two weeks, and for some kinds 25 per cent.

Cotton has remained at 8¼ cents since last Saturday, and enormous commercial and mill stocks here and abroad, with a demand for goods much smaller than in September, hinder an advance. The quantity which has come into sight is 30 per cent less than last year to date, but slightly larger than in 1893, when the crop was 6,700,000 bales.

Payments through clearing houses were abnormally swelled by last week's panic, so that the average daily for December at all points is 18 per cent more than in 1894, and 12.2 per cent less than in 1893. Foreign trade shows a gain of 19¼ per cent in exports from New York of three weeks of December, which is decidedly encouraging, and a decrease of 18¼ per cent in imports here.

CHATTANOOGA'S RIVER TRAFFIC.

Building Barges to Carry Ore; One for the Mississippi.

The J. C. Warner made her first trip for Kingston and way landings last week. The Warner will make regular trips throughout the winter, leaving Chattanooga every Wednesday at 10 a. m. and Saturday at 6 p. m.

The Ocoee left Friday evening for the Hiwassee river with a cargo of freight. She will arrive in Chattanooga on her return trip next Tuesday with about 1,500 bags of grain.

The Onega will arrive from Knoxville next Thursday with a cargo of 2,000 bags of grain.

The Key City left at 4 p. m. Saturday for Loudon. She will arrive in Chattanooga on her return trip next Tuesday with a barge load of broom handles from Kingston.

The local ship yards present a very animated appearance now. A. R. Perry, of Chattanooga, has the contract for building five large barges for Roberts & Sparks, of the Eureka Iron mines, near Kingston. These barges are of 300 tons capacity and will be used in ore transportation. They will cost about $1,200 each. Three of them have been completed and the other two are in course of construction. In addition to these, Mr. Perry has the contract for building the largest transfer barge ever turned out in Chattanooga. It is to be 225 by 34 feet in size and is being built for Cairo, Ill., parties for use on the Mississippi river.

Fatal to a Bystander.

At Aberdeen, Miss., Thursday night a personal encounter took place between L. L. Lann and W. C. Sykes, in which Sykes received two serious wounds from Lann's pistol. Later W. A. Sykes and Kirby Lann, brothers of the two first named, took up the quarrel and a street duel ensued. Sykes received a wound in the left breast and Lann was shot twice in the shoulder. Clifton Wicks, a bystander, aged 19, was struck by a bullet from one of the revolvers and killed. All of the parties belong to the best families of the city. A woman of the town was the direct cause of the trouble.

Seventeen Went Down.

The people on the Russian bark Palme, Captain Erikson, from Liverpool December 18, for Mobile, in ballast, which stranded in Dublin Bay on Tuesday last have been saved. As told in these dispatches Tuesday, a life boat that put out to the rescue of those on the Palme was capsized and its seventeen occupants were drowned. This morning the tender Tearaght reached the Palme and rescued the sixteen persons aboard of her. Among those saved are the captain's wife and child.

For the best acre of tobacco, Mr. J. S. Dejarnette, of South Fork, Ark., for 1,052 pounds, raised at an expense of $43.25.

For the best acre of sweet potatoes, Mr. W. S. Dill, of Sandy Flat, S.C., for 529⅓ bushels, raised at an expense of $24.80.

Two Alabamians received honorable mention for the second best crop, Mr. J. T. Sims, Hetor, Ala., and Mr. J. H. Caselberry, Greenville, Ala. We regret that some of our Chilton county farmers did not enter this competition.

SENATOR ALLEN ON POPULISM.

Mr. Allen declared that the populist party had no affiliation with either of the old parties. The populists had realized before the meeting of this congress that there was a clear majority of the senate in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver, and they had been perfectly willing to unite in bringing about the passage of a free silver measure. They had sent out invitations to the free silver senators, but with the exception of two or three of them they had not met with the populists, and therefore the populist party had resolved as a matter of policy to take no part whatever in the organization of the senate. The populists felt that the republican party was—as between itself and the democratic party—in the ascendency, and the responsibility for legislation should belong to the republican party in both houses as speedily as possible.

The populists had felt that it was due to themselves as a party that they should take no hand whatever in the organization of the senate, and should refrain from voting, thus leaving the republicans and democrats to settle the question of organization among themselves. The populist party in the senate, in the house and in the country was a distinct political entity, having its organization in every state and territory, and having a popular vote within 200,000 of the number which landed Mr. Lincoln in the presidency in 1861. The populists were a distinct organization, and they proposed to maintain it in this and in the future congresses

Mr. Harris, democrat, of Tennessee, asked Mr. Allen whether the populist senators—an annex of the republican party—had not deliberately determined to allow, by their silence, a republican organization of the senate, and whether, therefore, the senator from Nebraska did not understand and know that the populists were as responsible for the result of the vote as if they had cast their votes for the resolution, instead of sitting silent.

Mr. Allen replied that when the populists came to consider the question they realized that they held the balance of power in their hands, and he added, with much emphasis, that they were going to utilize it to its fullest extent as they went along. The democratic party, he continued, had proved itself absolutely incapable of legislation. (Laughter on the republican side of the chamber and in the galleries). It had claimed to be in favor of tariff reform, as he himself was, but when its tariff bill came before the senate last session it proved to be loaded at both ends and in the middle for protection. (Laughter). He had no faith in the democratic party, in its capacity or its disposition to relieve the country—not the slightest. He wanted the responsibility for legislation to begin now, so that the people would see that the do-nothing policy of the republican party resulted in about the same thing as the policy of the democratic party. (Laughter on both sides of the chamber).

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhœa of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy," says Edward Shumpik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the remedy in this city for over seven years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by J. S. Johnson, Jr., M.D., Druggist.

How do you compare the volume of money with all the property for sale? By the general market-price, because the property for sale and the money in circulation are reciprocally the supply and demand of each other. If neither the property for sale, nor the volume of money, increases or decreases faster than the other general prices will remain stationary, therefore general prices indicate whether the volume of money is increasing or decreasing, as compared with the property for sale. The government cannot increase or decrease the property for sale at will, but it is the duty of the government to regulate the volume of money, so as to maintain stability of prices, and when general prices are falling, the government should supply more money, and prevent the unmitigated evil of falling prices. The fact that general prices have fallen 50 per cent within a few years is acccounted for by the demonetization of silver and the growth of population, which shows that no relief is possible for the universal distress which now prevails, but an increase of the volume of legal tender money, by the restoration of silver or the issuance of money stamped on some other material, which does not have to be redeemed in gold.—Silver Knight.

There is good reason for the popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Davis & Buzard, of West Monterey, Clarion Co., Pa., says: "It has cured people that our physicians could do nothing for. We persuaded them to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and they now recommend it with the rest of us." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by J. S. Johnson, Jr., M.D. Druggist.

THE NEW ELECTION LAW.

No. 357 AN ACT. S. 459.

To amend Section 5, to repeal Section 35 and Section 36, and to add Section 49 to an act entitled An Act to Further Regulate Elections in the State of Alabama, approved February 21, 1893.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Alabama, That Section 5 of an act entiled An Act to Further Regulate Elections in the State of Alabama be amended so as to read as follows: Section 5. Be it further enacted, That it shall not be lawful to register any elector in any precinct or ward in this State after the time herein prescribed for such registration, but the registrars shall be present at the polling places in the precincts or wards for which they are respectively appointed on the day of any general or special election to register such persons as may have reached the age of 21 years since the last registration; such other persons as may make oath that they became bona fide residents of the precinct in which they propose to register not less than thirty days before the day of election and since the last registration; but electors having the Constitutional qualifications who may have resided in any incorporate city in this State having a population of more than 5,000 inhabitants, as determined by the last federal census, for thirty days immediately preceding any election and have within such thirty days removed their residence from one precinct to another in the same city shall, after a residence of one day, be entitled to vote in the precinct in which they reside at the time of the election, but each of such electors herein last provided for must first deposit with the inspectors of election in said precinct the certificate of the Judge of Probate that said elector is duly registered in the precinct from which he has removed, and no other person than those provided for in this section shall be permitted to register on the the day of the election. The present resistrar shall furnish to each elector who may register on the day of election a certificate of registration, which shall be substantially in this form: State of Alabama, County of ——. Precinct No. ——, I, ——, precinct registrar, hereby certify that —— has this day registered before me as an elector. —— Registrar, Precinct No. ——, and if precinct registrar fails to attend or there is a vacancy in the office, the county registrar shall appoint some competent person as precinct registrar for that day, and if no appointment is made by 10 o'clock of that day, then the inspectors of election, or any two if them, may appoint a precinct registrar, who may qualify and act as such for that day; provided nothing in this act shall be construed as repealing, altering or amending the ordinances now or hereafter ordained by any municipal corporation chartered by the General Assembly providing for the separate registration of electors for municipal elections

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That Section 35 and Section 36 of said act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, That said act be amended by adding thereto Section 49, in words as follows: Sec. 49. Be it further enacted, That upon opening the polls the inspectors must appoint two markers or assistants, one for each of the opposing political parties who may have candidates to be voted for at the election; and each of whom must be a discreet person, able to read and write, if practicable, and the inspectors, or any two of them shall, in like manner, from time to time, and as often as may be necessary to give every illiterate elector and every physically disabled elector an opportunity to vote, appoint a marker, who must be selected as provided for the selection of the first two. Every marker before entering upon his duties must take an oath, which may be administered by any person authorized by law to administer oaths, or by any one of the inspectors, to perform the duties of marker at the election according to law. No inspector, clerk or marker shall be appointed nor shal act as such except in the beat of his residence at the time of the election. Clerks and markers must be appointed from a list of persons not less than six nor more than ten in any beat, who may be suggested for that purpose by the duly constituted authorities respectively of the opposing political parties having candidates to be voted for at the election. Every illiterate or physically disabled elector shall be permitted to have the assistance of a marker, who has been appointed by the inspectors, and who may be selected by him from the number of markers. Any inspector who may refuse to appoint markers from the opposing parties, so as to give every illiterate or physically disabled elector the opportunity to select a marker of his own political party, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and must, on conviction, be fined not less than $100 nor more than $500. It is the sense of this section that the opposing party shall each have the right to suggest a list of names, not less than six nor more than ten persons, to act as markers and clerks. If no lists are furnished the inspectors shall appoint clerks and markers from opposing political parties.

Approved February 18, 1895.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

One of the fundamental principles of the Farmer's Alliance is to beautify and make home attractive, but how to do this is the all absorbing question. It is a momentous question, one that should interest all parents. When home is pleasant it is attractive and children love to stay about home and are not so subject to get off and fall into bad company and be led astray by the wiles of the devil and his angels. It is a fact that parents are neglecting, in a great measure, their duties toward their children. We see a multitude of boys in our country who to-day are going to ruin for lack of mental training and proper encouragements to hold themselves above dissipation and place them upon a higher plane of existence. Some of them think it smart to go to church with a bottle of whiskey in their pocket and one in their stomach, and a pistol concealed, with which they destroy their character and their influence for good, and bring trouble, gray hairs and reproach upon their parents and they working in the coal mines

To make home attractive, parents should live a consistent life, "slow to anger" and should "provoke not their children to anger," but teach them to love each other and to conduct themselves so that they will be highly esteemed by all. Home should be supplied with good books and all kinds of instructive literature, music, etc. To do this parents will have to use a good deal of industry and economy and deny themselves of a great many useless habits they often engage in. Home should be supplied with vehicles for travel and better roads. The people of Chilton county take less interest in roads than any people I know of. Many places there are gullies on one side of the road and a stump on the other and often a blackjack bush over-head to pull off one's hat and throw it in the mud and scratch the face severely. Occasionally a log across the road to stay till it rots out.

THE NEW YORK WORLD THREE TIMES A WEEK AND THE BANNER FOR $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE TWICE-A-WEEK edition of the New York World has been converted into the THRICE-A-WEEK. It furnishes 3 papers of 6 pages apiece, or eighteen pages every week, at the old price of one dollar a year. This gives 156 papers a year for one dollar and every paper has six pages eight columns wide or 48 columns in all. The THRICE-A-WEEK World is not only much larger than any weekly or semi-weekly newspaper, but it furnishes the news with much greater frequency and promptness. In fact it combines all the crisp, fresh qualities of a daily with the attractive special features of a weekly.

Mr. Allen declared that the populist party had no affiliation with either of the old parties. The populists had realized before the meeting of this congress that there was a clear majority of the senate in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver, and they had been perfectly willing to unite in bringing about the passage of a free silver measure. They had sent out invitations to the free silver senators, but with the exception of two or three of them they had not met with the populists, and therefore the populist party had resolved as a matter of policy to take no part whatever in the organization of the senate. The populists felt that the republican party was—as between itself and the democratic party—in the ascendency, and the responsibility for legislation should belong to the republican party in both houses as speedily as possible.

The populists had felt that it was due to themselves as a party that they should take no hand whatever in the organization of the senate, and should refrain from voting, thus leaving the republicans and democrats to settle the question of organization among themselves. The populist party in the senate, in the house and in the country was a distinct political entity, having its organization in every state and territory, and having a popular vote within 200,000 of the number which landed Mr. Lincoln in the presidency in 1861. The populists were a distinct organization, and they proposed to maintain it in this and in the future congresses

Mr. Harris, democrat, of Tennessee, asked Mr. Allen whether the populist senators—an annex of the republican party—had not deliberately determined to allow, by their silence, a republican organization of the senate, and whether, therefore, the senator from Nebraska did not understand and know that the populists were as responsible for the result of the vote as if they had cast their votes for the resolution, instead of sitting silent.

How do you compare the volume of money with all the property for sale? By the general market-price, because the property for sale and the money in circulation are reciprocally the supply and demand of each other. If neither the property for sale, nor the volume of money, increases or decreases faster than the other general prices will remain stationary, therefore general prices indicate whether the volume of money is increasing or decreasing, as compared with the property for sale. The government cannot increase or decrease the property for sale at will, but it is the duty of the government to regulate the volume of money, so as to maintain stability of prices, and when general prices are falling, the government should supply more money, and prevent the unmitigated evil of falling prices. The fact that general prices have fallen 50 per cent within a few years is acccounted for by the demonetization of silver and the growth of population, which shows that no relief is possible for the universal distress which now prevails, but an increase of the volume of legal tender money, by the restoration of silver or the issuance of money stamped on some other material, which does not have to be redeemed in gold.—Silver Knight.

THE NEW ELECTION LAW.

No. 337 AN ACT. S. 401

To amend Section 5, to repeal Section 35 and Section 36, and to add Section 49 to an act entitled An Act to Further Regulate Elections in the State of Alabama, approved February 21, 1893.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Alabama, That Section 5 of an act entitled An Act to Further Regulate Elections in the State of Alabama be amended so as to read as follows: Section 5. Be it further enacted, That it shall not be lawful to register any elector in any precinct or ward in this State after the time herein prescribed for such registration, but the registrars shall be present at the polling places in the precincts or wards for which they are respectively appointed on the day of any general or special election to register such persons as may have reached the age of 21 years since the last registration; such other persons as may make oath that they became bona fide residents of the precinct in which they propose to register not less than thirty days before the day of election and since the last registration; but electors having the Constitutional qualifications who may have resided in any incorporate city in this State having a population of more than 5,000 inhabitants, as determined by the last federal census, for thirty days immediately preceding any election and have within such thirty days removed their residence from one precinct to another in the same city shall, after a residence of one day, be entitled to vote in the precinct in which they reside at the time of the election, but each of such electors herein last provided for must first deposit with the inspectors of election in said precinct the certificate of the Judge of Probate that said elector is duly registered in the precinct from which he has removed, and no other person than those provided for in this section shall be permitted to register on the the day of the election. The present registrar shall furnish to each elector who may register on the day of election a certificate of registration, which shall be substantially in this form: State of Alabama, County of ———. Precinct No. ———. I, ———, precinct registrar, hereby certify that——— has this day registered before me as an elector. ——— Registrar, Precinct No. ———, and if precinct registrar fails to attend or there is a vacancy in the office, the county registrar shall appoint some competent person as precinct registrar for that day, and if no appointment is made by 10 o'clock of that day, then the inspectors of election, or any two if them, may appoint a precinct registrar, who may qualify and act as such for that day; provided nothing in this act shall be construed as repealing, altering or amending the ordinances now or hereafter ordained by any municipal corporation chartered by the General Assembly providing for the separate registration of electors for municipal elections

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That Section 35 and Section 36 of said act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, That said act be amended by adding thereto Section 49, in words as follows: Sec. 49. Be it further enacted, That upon opening the polls the inspectors must appoint two markers or assistants, one for each of the opposing political parties who may have candidates to be voted for at the election; and each of whom must be a discreet person, able to read and write, if practicable, and the inspectors, or any two of them shall, in like manner, from time to time, and as often as may be necessary to give every illiterate elector and every physically disabled elector an opportunity to vote, appoint a marker, who must be selected as provided for the selection of the first two. Every marker before entering upon his duties must take an oath, which may be administered by any person authorized by law to administer oaths, or by any one of the inspectors, to perform the duties of marker at the election according to law. No inspector, clerk or marker shall be appointed nor shall act as such except in the beat of his residence at the time of the election. Clerks and markers must be appointed from a list of persons not less than six nor more than ten in any beat, who may be suggested for that purpose by the duly constituted authorities respectively of the opposing political parties having candidates to be voted for at the election. Every illiterate or physically disabled elector shall be permitted to have the assistance of a marker, who has been appointed by the inspectors, and who may be selected by him from the number of markers. Any inspector who may refuse to appoint markers from the opposing parties, so as to give every illiterate or physically disabled elector the opportunity to select a marker of his own political party, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and must, on conviction, be fined not less than $100 nor more than $500. It is the sense of this section that the opposing party shall each have the right to suggest a list of names, not less than six nor more than ten persons, to act as markers and clerks. If no lists are furnished the inspectors shall appoint clerks and markers from opposing political parties.

Approved February 18, 1895.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

One of the fundamental principles of the Farmer's Alliance is to beautify and make home attractive, but how to do this is the all absorbing question. It is a momentous question, one that should interest all parents. When home is pleasant it is attractive and children love to stay about home and are not so subject to get off and fall into bad company and be led astray by the wiles of the devil and his angels. It is a fact that parents are neglecting, in a great measure, their duties toward their children. We see a multitude of boys in our country who to-day are going to ruin for lack of mental training and proper encouragements to hold themselves above dissipation and place them upon a higher plane of existence. Some of them think it smart to go to church with a bottle of whiskey in their pocket and one in their stomach, and a pistol concealed, with which they destroy their character and their influence for good, and bring trouble, gray hairs and reproach upon their parents and they working in the coal mines

To make home attractive, parents should live a consistent life, "slow to anger" and should "provoke not their children to anger," but teach them to love each other and to conduct themselves so that they will be highly esteemed by all. Home should be supplied with good books and all kinds of instructive literature, music, etc. To do this parents will have to use a good deal of industry and economy and deny themselves of a great many useless habits they often engage in. Home should be supplied with vehicles for travel and better roads. The people of Chilton county take less interest in roads than any people I know of. Many places there are gullies on one side of the road and a stump on the other and often a blackjack bush over head to pull off one's hat and throw it in the mud and scratch the face severely. Occasionally a log across the road to stay till it rots out.

There was a nice Christmas tree at the church here on Christmas eve night. Many valuable and appreciative presents were distributed among the young people.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely and will not go into winter quarters as the literature for the next quarter has already arrived and been distributed. The average attendance for last quarter was forty.

The Largest Mail in America.

Postmaster Washington Hesing, referring to the Chicago postoffice, in a recent speech at the Auditorium, made the following statement: "This office is not second to, but is equal to New York in its importance, in the character of mail handled, in the volume of the same and in the number of registered packages. Be not astonished when I tell you that the largest patron of the postoffice in the United States is in Chicago—Montgomery Ward & Co."

AYER'S PILLS

"For fifteen years, I was a great sufferer from indigestion in its worst forms. I tested the skill of many doctors, but grew worse and worse, until I became so weak I could not walk fifty yards without having to sit down and rest. My stomach, liver, and heart became affected, and I thought I would surely die. I tried Ayer's Pills and they helped me right away. I continued their use and am now entirely well. I don't know of anything that will so quickly relieve and cure the terrible suffering of dyspepsia as Ayer's Pills."—JOHN C. PRITCHARD, Brodie, Warren Co., N. C.

THE NEW YORK WORLD THREE TIMES A WEEK AND THE BANNER FOR $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE TWICE-A-WEEK edition of the New York World has been converted into the THRICE-A-WEEK. It furnishes 3 papers of 6 pages apiece, or eighteen pages every week, at the old price of one dollar a year. This gives 156 papers a year for one dollar and every paper has six pages eight columns wide or 48 columns in all. The THRICE-A-WEEK World is not only much larger than any weekly or semi-weekly newspaper, but it furnishes the news with much greater frequency and promptness. In fact it combines all the crisp, fresh qualities of a daily with the attractive special features of a weekly.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS
Edited by ALBERT SHAW.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature are alone worth the subscription price.

FIVE MONTHS FOR $1.00.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION $2.50.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

"Matron of a Benevolent Home and knowing the good Dr. Miles' Nervine has done me, my wish to help others, overcomes my dislike for the publicity, this letter may give me. In Nov. and Dec., 1893, The inmates had the "LaGrippe," and I was one of the first. Resuming duty too soon, with the care of so many sick, I did not regain my health, and in a month I became so debilitated and nervous from sleeplessness and the drafts made on my vitality, that it was a question if I could go on. A dear friend advised me to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I took 2 bottles and am happy to say, I am in better health than ever. I still continue its occasional use, as a nerve food, as my work is very trying. A letter addressed to Milwaukee, Wis., will reach me."

$1.00 FOR YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.

Write us a letter covering these three points:

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

Fence the World in 20 Days.

In the sale of the "STAR" Machine, as shown below we have done more in recent years to enable the farmers of this country to get their fencing at the actual cost of the wire than all other fence manufacturers in the United States, because we figure and show how cheap the various styles of fence can be made, or what the actual cost of the wire is to make them, while those who make and sell the fence must add the cost of labor to manufacture and their profit to the actual cost of the wire. We can sell you a Machine and enough wire to make 100 rods of the best Woven Wire Fence on earth, horse high, bull strong, pig and chicken tight for the same money that will buy 100 rods of any good woven wire fence now on the market. In one case you have the fence alone. In the other you have not only the fence but a machine which enables you to be your own fence manufacturer and with which you can make over 50 styles, including several styles of Ornamental yard or lawn fences. To show how the farmers of this country appreciate this machine it is only necessary to say that if all the machines sold by us were run for twenty days, each machine making 40 rods per day, they would make enough fence to go around the world, being an average of 400,000 rods or 1,250 miles per day. If all of the machines were run only 60 days during the year, making 40 rods per day each, they would make a grand total of 24,000,000 rods, which would make an average of 76,800 rods or 240 miles for every working day in the year. The combined product of all the Loom Fence Factories of the United States would not equal this. One cent isn't much. Invest it in a postal card and send for our Large Illustrated Catalogue, telling all about fencing. It may save you many dollars. Sent Free for the asking. Address, Kitselman Bros., Box 1092, Ridgeville, Indiana.

$1800.00
GIVEN AWAY TO INVENTORS.

$150.00 every month given away to any one who applies through us for the most meritorious patent during the month preceding.

We secure the best patents for our clients, and the object of this offer is to encourage inventors to keep track of their bright ideas. At the same time we wish to impress upon the public the fact that such as the "car-window" which can be easily slid up and down without breaking the passenger's back, "sauce-pan," "collar-button," "nut-lock," "bottle-stopper," and a thousand other little things that most any one can find a way of improving; and these simple inventions are the ones that bring largest returns to the author. Try to think of something to invent.

IT IS NOT SO HARD AS IT SEEMS.

Patents taken out through us receive special notice in the "National Recorder," published at Washington, D. C., which is the best newspaper published in America in the interests of inventors. We furnish a year's subscription to this journal, free of cost, to all our clients. We also advertise, free of cost, the invention each month which wins our $150 prize, and hundreds of thousands of copies of the "National Recorder," containing a sketch of the winner, and a description of his invention, will be scattered throughout the United States among capitalists and manufacturers, thus bringing to their attention the merits of the invention.

All communications regarded strictly confidential.

Outrunning a Train.

By way of satirizing the running arrangements of slow railroads, absurd stories are sometimes told of dogs tied behind trains and keeping up with them; but a true story of this sort is undoubtedly a novelty. Such a story, seemingly well authenticated, comes from the department of the Lower Alps, in France:

The railway which runs from Manosque to Brillane crosses a hilly district, and is somewhat tortuous. Recently a lady who took the train at Manosque had been accompanied to the station by her dog. The dog was left outside, but the train had scarcely started when she saw that the faithful creature was in full pursuit, and trying to outrun the locomotive. He was soon distanced, of course, but when the train drew up at Volx, some time afterward, the lady was astonished to see the dog come panting up.

He had taken a short cut across the hills, and overhauled the train in this way. Nevertheless, the train started again without him, the dog still following. He repeated his tactics, and arrived at Brillanne, after a run of more than ten miles, a few seconds behind the train.

This time the dog's mistress endeavored to get him into her compartment. He had run out upon the second track, when a train coming in the opposite direction struck him, and killed him instantly.

The performance of the faithful creature had excited great admiration among the passengers, and there was much grief at the tragical end of his pursuit.

An English Gunpowder Factory.

The royal gunpowder factory at Waltham, England, bears more the appearance of a pleasure resort than of the prosaic plant that such a purpose involves. The factory covers in all its branches a beautiful stretch of wooded land, some 400 acres in extent, intersected by four miles of running streams. Electric launches ply between the different buildings, while cargoes of explosives are conveyed by sail barges, so as to reduce the liability to danger to a minimum. The threshold of the "danger building" is barred with a board, which not even the inspector may step over without having a special pair of large overboots on his feet, to keep his shoes from taking grit from outside upon the felt carpet. Once every week there is an explosion within the grounds, which is heard for many miles along the country side. In one part of the grounds is a pond into which the water from the nitro-glycerine factory is drained. This extraordinary lake is exploded every Saturday

Her First Railroad Ride.

It was the fate of pretty 16-year-old Lizzie Goddard, of Burnside, Ky., to be frightened to death by the first ride she had ever taken on the cars. Five minutes after she had arrived at Chattanooga on her first railway trip she was dead. Little Miss Goddard had been in constant fear of railroads all her life and boarded the train only after much persuasion. The train made a lunge a few miles from the city and she jumped from her seat and screamed in a frantic manner. She at once became unconscious and died as she was being removed from the train. Physicians agree that she died of fright.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

HOUSE.—The speaker announced the committees. The president's message urging financial legislation before the holiday recess was read and referred to the committee on ways and means. ....The resolution providing for a holiday recess was in like manner referred....Resolutions authorizing the committees on appropriations and ways and means to sit during recess were agreed to, and at 12:55 the house adjourned until Monday.

SENATE.—A letter from Secretary Olney gave a congratulatory cablegram from the Brazilian senate, transmitted through Minister Mendonca, of Brazil, on President Cleveland's recent enunciation of the Monroe doctrine. The resolution is as follows:

"The federal senate of the United States of Brazil sends its greetings to the senate of the United States upon the worthy message of President Cleveland, who strenuously guards the dignity, the sovereignty and the freedom of the American nations."

Mr. Proctor (rep., Vt.) submitted a resolution asking the secretary of war to submit information as to what amount could be profitably expended for coast defenses up to July, 1897. The resolution went over.

The first response to the president's message urging financial relief came in the form of a resolution offered by Mr. Vest (dem., Mo.) as follows:

"Resolved, That the secretary of the treasury is hereby directed in pursuance of the existing law, vesting in him full power to do so, to coin as rapidly as possible the silver bullion in the treasury purchased under the act of July 14, 1890, into standard silver dollars, and with such dollars redeem, cancel and retire the treasury notes of the United States commonly called greenbacks, in standard silver dollars, as well as in gold, using whichever may be most abundant and convenient."

Mr. Vest asked immediate consideration of the resolution, but Mr. Platt objected and the subject went over.

Mr. Butler (pop. N. C.) soon brought forward the subject in another form by asking immediate consideration of a resolution directing the secretary of the treasury to pay the government obligations in gold when the parity of the metals stood at 25 8-10 grains of gold for 412 1-3 grains of silver and to pay in silver when this parity was disturbed by the advance in the value of gold. Mr. Platt again objected.

In executive session the following nominations were confirmed:

Brigadier General Wesley Merritt to be Major General.

Colonel Zenas R. Bliss to be Brigadier General.

Colonel William P. Craighill to be chief of engineers and brigadier general.

Colonel T. H. Stanton to be paymaster general and brigadier general.

Also various other army promotions in the quartermaster generals, judge advocate generals, medical, engineer, and cavalry arms.

At 1:45 the senate adjourned until Tuesday.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

HOUSE.—A resolution authorizing a clerk for each of the three branches of the committee on elections was agreed to and the committee empowered to sit during the sessions of the house.

Mr. Dingley, chairman of the committee on ways and means, reported as the unanimous judgment of the committee that it would not be appropriate to take a holiday recess until a measure of relief had been considered by the house.

A resolution directing the committee on accounts to designate what committees should have clerks was agreed to.

Several bills and resolutions were introduced, among which were the following:

By Mr. Brewster, republican, of New York—To relieve the United States treasury by providing that hereafter no gold coin of a less a denomination than $10 shall be coined, nor shall there be issued any legal tender notes or paper currency of any kind of less denomination than $10.

Mr. Cummings, democrat, of New York, offered in the house today a joint resolution directing the secretary of the navy to accept the Katahdakin and to make her a part of the navy.

Mr. Dalzell, republican, of Pennsylvania, offered in the house a joint resolution appropriating $1,500,008 to enable the secretary of the navy to contract for a reserve supply of projectiles for the use of the navy.

The preamble to the resolution calls attention to the section of the annual report of the secretary of the navy, which states that the naval service has not reserve supplies of projectiles for itself or for auxiliary cruisers which would be fitted out in time of war.

At 12:30 the house adjourned until tomorrow.

SENATE.—No session.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

HOUSE.—A bill, by Mr. Cooper, of Florida, making Palm Beach, Fla., a substitute port of delivery and entry, was passed.....A communication from the secretary of the interior, Hoke Smith, in response to the resolution, by Delegate Flynn, of Oklahoma, relating to the delay in the allotment of the Wichita lands, was laid before the house.

Speaker Reed laid before the house the following telegram:

"Rio de Janeiro, Dec. 21.

"President Chamber of Representatives, Washington, D. C.:

"The chamber of deputies of the United States of the Republic of Brazil congratulates the chamber of representatives of the North American union for President Cleveland's worthy message, which so nobly and highly defends the rights and liberties of the American nations consecrated in the Monroe principles.

"Rosa E. Silva, President."

The reading of the message was followed by applause.

At 12:40 p. m., on motion of Mr. Dingley, the house adjourned until Thursday.

SENATE.—Resolutions and memorials from Ohio, indorsing the action of the president in relation to Venezuela, and in favor of recognizing the Cuban revolutionists as belligerents, were presented by Mr. Sherman, republican, of Ohio, and referred to the committee on foreign relations.

Several bills and resolutions were introduced.

The bill, by Mr. Hill, of New York, to repeal the statute which prohibits ex-Confederate officers, who had previously been commanding officers in the United States army or navy, from holding positions in the army or navy, was taken up and passed.

At 2 p. m. the senate adjourned until Friday.

NINETEENTH DAY.

HOUSE.—Mr. Dingley reported from the committee on ways and means "a bill to temporarily increase revenue to meet the expenses of the government and provide against a deficiency." By the provisions of this bill, which extends to August 1st, 1898, wools are taken from the free list, and clothing wools given a duty of 6 4-10 cents (60 per cent. of the duty provided by the act of 1890—the McKinley bill) and woolen goods are given a specific compensatory duty, 60 per cent. of what they had under the act of 1890, in addition to the ad valorem duty of the present law. Carpet wools are placed where they were under the act of 1890 and the same specific duty given to carpets as under the act of 1890; in addition to the ad valorem duties of the present law. The articles of lumber placed on the free list of the tariff of 1894 are transferred to the dutiable list with 60 per cent. of the duty that they had under the act of 1890. Then all the other dutiable schedules (except sugar, which is not touched), have all the duties raised 15 per cent.

Mr. Henderson reported from the committee on rules a resolution to close debate and vote on the passage of the bill at 5 o'clock. Adopted; yeas 213, nays 89. Upon the expiration of the time allotted for debate the bill was put to a vote and passed; yeas 205, nays 81. The populists voted with the democrats against the bill.

A joint resolution was agreed to providing for the transfer of the public property of Utah to the state government upon the admission of that territory as a state....At 5:45 the house adjourned until tomorrow.

SENATE. No session today.

TWENTIETH DAY.

HOUSE.—Chairman Dingley, of the committee on ways and means, reported the bill for the restoration and protection of the gold reserve by the sale of 3 per cent bonds, and to authorize the issue of certificates of indebtedness to meet deficiencies in the revenue. A rule was agreed to providing for a vote on the passage of the bill at 3 p. m. tomorrow. The bill was debated until 5 o'clock, when a recess until 7 was taken. On reassembling the debate was continued until 10 when the house adjourned until tomorrow.

SENATE.—Mr. Hill, of New York, introduced a joint resolution providing that all bonds issued hereafter shall be made payable in gold coin or in standard silver dollars at the option of the holders, and that the maximum rate of interest shall be 3 per cent. The proposition was discussed by Mr. Hill and Mr. Teller, of Colorado, until the hour of adjournment.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

HOUSE.—The discussion of the bond bill was resumed and continued until 3 o'clock, when a vote was taken on the first section, resulting in its adoption by 170 to 136. All the democrats but one, all the populists and forty-six republicans voted nay. The second section, which provides for the issue of certificates of indebtedness to supply any deficiency in revenues, was agreed to without division and the bill was then passed....Several resolutions of inquiry were agreed to, as was the senate joint resolution directing the secretary of the navy to accept the ram Katahdin..At 4:30 the house adjourned.

SENATE.—Not in session.

COTTON ACREAGE NEXT YEAR.

The Memphis Cotton Exchange Indorses the Cotton Growers.

The movement looking to no increase of the cotton acreage next year was inaugurated by the Memphis Cotton exchange Monday afternoon at a general meeting called for the purpose. The preamble sets forth a large crop of cotton grown at heavy expense brings but little if any larger total value, contrasting the present with the past years to establish the fact and adds: Another matter for the farmers to bear in mind is that at the present time there is a possibility of war, if such should occur, the inevitable effect would be to depreciate the value of cotton and appreciate the value of all food crops. Therefore be it

Resolved, That the Memphis Cotton exchange urgently recommends to the producers that the production of home supplies be made the first consideration in planting operations for the coming year, and that the acreage of cotton be not increased over that of last year.

Resolved, That we approve and indorse the American cotton growers for bringing about the reduction in the acreage of the crop now being marketed and we respectfully urge that Hon. Hector D. Lane the president, and his coadjutors, the presidents of the various cotton states of said association, to continue in the good work to take up the matter at the earliest practicable moment and urge it again upon the attention of the cotton producers of the south.

Resolved, That the various cotton exchanges throughout the south be and are hereby requested to co-operate with this exchange in this matter and that the southern newspapers are also requested to publish these resolutions.

Wages Raised 10 Per Cent.

Following the notice to the 16,000 coke workers employed by H. C. Frick & Co. of a 10 per cent advance in wages after the first of the year the announcement was made by W. J. Rainey that he would also advance the wages of his 2,000 employes 10 per cent to take effect next week. The past three months have been the busiest in the history of the coke trade. Out of 17,347 ovens in the region 16,011 are in operation and the prospects are that more ovens will be fired. The advance of wages will enable the men to make the highest wages ever paid in the Pennsylvania coke region.

SOME CHRISTMAS CASUALTIES.

Masked Highwaymen—Sad Result of Preparing Santa Claus for Children—A Centenarian Dies—Burglary and Robbery—Crew of Twenty-five Lost.

SOUTHERN.

In a fight on Christmas eve at Berea, Ky., two men, Bill Johnstone and Less Mitchell were killed. It is supposed that Mitchell's friends, after he had fallen, shot Johnstone.

On Christmas eve, at Bostwick, Fla., Mrs. John Dougherty's clothing caught fire as she was preparing her children's Christmas stockings. She was so badly burned that death resulted in a few hours.

Twenty-three federal prisoners made their escape from the United States jail at McAlister, I. T., early Thursday morning. They had been furnished with a skeleton key. Deputy marshals are in pursuit.

Saturday afternoon the plant of the Wolverine Lumber company burned, together with the stock of veneering and lumber. The mills were destroyed last summer, and the new plant had only been in operation a few months. The loss is total and exceeds $100,000; insurance, $79,000.

Henry Standfield, 9 years old, was accidentally killed at Trion, Ga., about 5 o'clock Saturday evening by an iron pipe weighing about 400 pounds falling and striking him on the neck and shoulder. Some boys were playing with the pipe, when it was pushed over and in falling struck the boy, killing him instantly.

At Crossville, Tenn., Will Tanner attempted to shoot Constable Burnett and a warrant was issued for his arrest. The constable and Circuit Clerk Parham attempted to serve the warrant, when Tanner fired at the constable and was about to fire at Parham, who shot first, killing Tanner instantly. The shooting is considered justifiable.

The four-story iron-front building at 5 and 7 West Baltimore street, Baltimore, was destroyed by fire Thursday night. The adjoining buildings, Nos 3 and 5 South Charles street and Nos. 1 and 3 West Baltimore street, were badly damaged by water. Loss on stock $200,000 and on buildings $100,000, fully covered by insurance.

Sheriff R. C. Burke received a telegram from St. Louis Landing, Ark., in the lower end of Phillip county, informing him that L. B. Oliver had killed a man named Johnson. Coroner H. B. Higgins and Deputy Sheriff Kitchens left at once to hold an inquest and make arrest. The telegram announced that there were no witnesses to the killing.

EASTERN.

At Nashua, N. H., on Christmas day Mrs. Hannah Lovett died at noon, aged 106. She was born in Kilmore, county Kerry, Ireland. She was the mother of twelve children. A brother died in Merrimac, Mass., a few years ago aged 105, and of eleven brothers and sisters all but one, who was killed, lived to be over 90.

There were in all twenty-two persons on the ill-fated schooner Victoria, believed to have foundered with 22 on board off Cabot island, on the Newfoundland coast. Among them were a family named Nozworthy, husband and wife and five children. The stem of the Victoria has been picked up at Horse island.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Townsend Burden, of No. 5 Madison square, north, New York, went to the opera Friday night with their daughter, leaving their two sons and six servants to care for the house. On their return it was discovered that burglars had entered and carried off diamonds valued at $65,000, besides a sum of money and a number of certified checks. About the same hour a thief entered the apartments of Mrs. Francis N. Barnes, at 239 Central park, west, while she was at dinner and stole her diamonds and jewelry, valued at $10,000.

WESTERN.

Five felonious homicides and one accidental are reported for Christmas day in St. Louis, Mo.

At Bloomfield Tunnel, O., two negroes ended a game of craps by one winning the other's money and then shooting him dead, upon his asking the loan of a dollar.

On Christmas night three masked men held up a street car in San Francisco, Cal., and robbed Richard Clarke of $3,000, after shooting him and two other men, wounding Clarke so that he will probably lose a leg.

On Christmas eve night burglars entered the postoffice at the suburban town of Harvey, Ill., and stole $2,200 in stamps and $300 in money. Entrance was effected through the rear entrance, and the burglars made quick work of getting into the old-fashioned safe with a chisel and making off with their plunder.

At Muskegon, Mich., William Smith, a milkman, Allen N. King, a second-hand furniture dealer, and a young man named Henser were held up late Christmas eve night by a lone highwayman and robbed. From Smith he secured 46 cents; from King a gold watch and $2, and from Henser a gold watch.

I. B. Porter, of Denver, Col., who has been chosen president of the New York mining stock exchange, will be escorted to New York by a large number of business men of Colorado. A special train will be run carrying at least $1,000,000 worth of ores besides millions of pure gold, under the protection of armed guards. The Colorado party will attend the first call of the New York exchange

Early Christmas morning J. A. Smith, of Saginaw, Mich., was cremated in a fire which destroyed Mrs. Goss' boarding house at Palatka, Fla. Smith was spending the winter in Florida for his health. There were two male nurses with him when the fire broke out. They claim the flames spread so rapidly they had to desert Mr. Smith to save themselves. The coroner is investigating.

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

Immigrants from Ohio.

During the year a hundred Ohians have located in Lauderdale and Colbert counties and thirty-eight more are booked to arrive January 8.

The Big Cotton Mill.

The Dwight cotton mill, the largest in the state having 30,000 spindles began operation Christmas day. It is situated near Gadsden and employs 800 people, requiring 250 cottages for their accommodation.

Solicitor Little Resigns.

Mr. James S. Little, solicitor of the Jefferson county criminal court, has resigned that office on account of continued ill health. He is now in New York for treatment, but his friends are not hopeful of his entire recovery.

Incendiary Fire.

The residence of J. C. Miller, mining superintendent of the Sheffield Coal, Iron and Steel company, at Gamble mines, Walker county, was burned Tuesday night, about midnight, Mr. Miller being absent on business at Birmingham.

Industrial Development.

N. S. Bouton and associates, of Chicago, on Saturday closed negotiations for the erection at Birmingham of car wheel works at a cost of $100,000. The contract was let and work begins on the plant January 1, which will be completed by May 1, and will have a capacity of 400 wheels daily, consuming sixty tons of iron.

Not Afraid of War.

Eighty-four couples celebrated Christmas in the county of Jefferson by becoming man and wife. The colored people led in this commendable movement. Forty-five couples from that class of citizenship took the vows of matrimony, while thirty-nine couples of white persons did likewise, as shown by the record in the probate judge's office.

Only One Still Free.

Deputy United States Marshal Arnold caught Allen Rutledge, colored, the sixth member of the Walker gang of moonshiners, Thursday night, and brought him to Scottsboro and placed him in jail Friday. There is only one more member of the Walker gang still at large and if the enterprising marshal catch him they will have caught an entire gang of moonshiners that have made more moonshine whisky than any gang in North Alabama. Rutledge will be tried before United States Commissioner B. [illegible]ott Parke next week.

Astonishing Verdancy.

Taylor Dearman, a wealthy farmer of Calhoun county, was beaten out of $230 near New Orleans while on his way to Texas. A stranger approached Dearman, and after telling him that he had an important shipment of goods at the next station, which the officials would not send to New Orleans unless the freight was paid in advance, asked his prospective victim to cash a certified check for $230, saying that when they reached New Orleans he would go with him to get the money. The stranger was accommodated and he then disappeared. The certified check, of course, was a forgery.

The Flames at Gurley.

Fire broke out Tuesday night at 9 o'clock at Gurley, in the store of O. L. Sullivan and before it could be gotten under control a large portion of the town was burned.

The losses are estimated as follows: Sullivan's loss, $6,000 insurance $3,000. [illegible]ion Mercantile company, loss $10,000, insurance $6,000.

J. C. Brannen's barber shop, $250.

Gurley store house, $2,500.

W. T. Lawler, $800; no insurance.

W. H. Beason store house, $3,500; insurance $1,000.

W. A. Given $500 loss; insurance $400.

J. C. Flyent store house and office, loss $1,100.

W. L. Giles' total loss $3,000.

One Boy Kills Another.

At Tuskegee Thursday night there occurred a most unfortunate affair, which cast a gloom over that entire community. Pellville Temple and Magruder Abercr[illegible] boys sixteen and thirteen [illegible] got into some [illegible] about hunting and the former was shot in the groin, intentionally or accidentally it has not yet been made clear, which resulted fatally in a few hours.

The shooting was done in the northern part of town between the residences of Dr. W. L. Lane and Captain W. H. Wright, and the shot attracted quite a crowd. Arriving on the scene two guns and a knife were found lying on the ground near the wounded boy. Magruder Abercrombie was arrested, charged with murder, and his preliminary hearing was postponed until tomorrow.

Prosperity in Florence.

Christmas day brought to a close the busiest fall season that Florence has known in many years. The trade for three weeks before Christmas was unusually large, the merchants being unable at times to attend to their customers. The financial condition of the town and country is believed to be better this year than any previous fall since the war. The farmers raised their cotton on a 4-cent basis and sold it for 7¾ and 8 cents, and as a result they have realized enough to pay themselves out of debt, and have a good surplus left. In town the factories are running full time, and the men are making good wages. A number of buildings are being built, and more are contemplated. The town has increased in population fully one thousand during the year, and is growing rapidly. The old year has been a satisfactory one, and the new year promises still greater prosperity.

Disastrous Gale.

The most disastrous storm in many years passed over Belford, Pa., Thursday night. Travel was delayed several hours on both the railroads and public highways. The roofs of many houses were blown off, the Chalybeate house, a noted summer resort, suffering the most injury, as an entire wing was blown down. A large tree blown across the track near Everett caused the wreck of a freight train and the death of a brakeman, whose name could not be learned.

RIPANS TABULES

W. C. Lloyd, a workingman, living at No. 68 White av., in the 18th Ward, Cleveland, O., first bought Ripans Tabules of Benfield, the druggist. In an interview had with him on the 8th of May, 1895, by a reporter named A. B. Calhoun, residing at 1747 East Madison av., Cleveland, Mr. Lloyd said that he was at present out of a job, but expected to go to work next week at the Bridge Works. "Anyway, I have the promise of a job there," were his words. He had been out of employment since last fall. We will let him tell his story in his own words: "Work was a little slack, and I was feeling so bad that I concluded to lay off for a few days, and when I returned my place was filled, so I've been out ever since. I don't care much, though. I've been gaining right along by my rest and treatment. Last fall I went to a doctor who was recommended to me as a good one and with quite a reputation. He gave me medicines of all kinds for nearly six weeks, and I got no benefit that I could see. In fact, I don't believe he knows what is the matter with me. A friend of mine called one evening and told me he had been using Ripans Tabules for a short time and had never found anything that helped his stomach and liver troubles as much as they did. He handed me a circular about them, which I read, and concluded that they were just what I needed and would fit my case exactly. I dropped Dr. —— at once, went over to the drug store and got a 50-cent box of them, out of which I took two a day for awhile, and within three days noticed and felt much improvement. That was about the middle of December. Last February I got another small box of the Tabules and took part of them only, as I was feeling so much better that I didn't think I needed any more. The rest of the box I gave to John C —— the other day. If I had heard of them at the time I stopped work I could have saved my doctor bill, and, better than all, probably kept right on with my work. But I do not begrudge the time lost nor the doctor bill, as I feel I am well paid for having learned of the Tabules. I now feel no pain whatever in my stomach, liver and bowels active and regular, and eat like a well man should eat."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce st., New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

OUR HOME MARKETS.

INVADED BY PRODUCTS OF SILVER COUNTRIES.

J. W. Devine Shows How the Demonetization of Silver Has Operated Against Our Home Manufacturers—Flooded with Products of China and Japan.

The recent invasion of the markets of the United States by the manufactures from Japan confronts the American manufacturer of like articles with the alternative of selling as cheap as the Japanese articles are offered or surrendering the market to the invaders.

The advent of manufactures from the Orient will force the manufacturers and laborers of the United States to investigate the cause and when discovered, it will be a most terrible awakening. The fact that through their own indifference and credulity they have been committing industrial suicide, will not modify their wrath against the politicians and press that have deceived them, or mitigate the terrible consequences that must follow.

When the bimetallic standard of money was destroyed by the demonetization of silver in 1873 there became two monetary standards in the world; the gold standard for the more highly civilized, manufacturing and commercial nations of Europe and America, and the silver standard for the Orient. The coinage ratio between silver and gold under the bimetallic standard fixed a par of exchange between gold coins and silver coins for all the world, without prejudice to either, but with the closing of the mints of America and Europe to the coinage of silver, two standards were created, a gold standard for the Western world and a silver one for the Eastern world. When equal monetary rights were no longer conferred on both metals by any one of the great commercial nations, affording a clearing house through which exchange on such nations as made their coins of gold alone, or silver alone, could pass, the legal ligature was cut that had hitherto established a par of exchange between coins of each metal wheresoever coined.

Silver thus became a commodity in gold standard countries, and gold a commodity in silver standard countries. The commodity silver in gold standard countries had its quotations in terms of money units made of gold. The commodity gold in silver standard countries had its quotations in terms of money units made of silver.

In the adjustment of international trade relations in gold standard countries silver exchange rises or falls to correspond with the fluctuations of the commodity silver; and in silver standard countries gold exchange rises or falls to correspond with the fluctuations of the commodity gold.

Thus it will be seen that the destruction of the bimetallic standard, through the derangement of the exchange market, introduced new economic problems with which economists were unfamiliar, and fraught with consequences which we charitably assume that the authors of the crime of demonetization did not anticipate or understand.

The Oriental nations comprising about one thousand millions of people have from tim[illegible]l been on the silver standard [illegible] still adhere. The gen[illegible] those countries has [illegible] since 1873. O[illegible] lations the d[illegible] the [illegible] of ex[illegible] during t[illegible] years of [illegible]population the [illegible] for existence always at the maximum of human endurance, the law of the survival of the fittest developed a race capable of subsistence on a tithe of what the average worker of Europe or America requires. But the Orientals, with fixed habits, the result of ages of exclusiveness, did not share the spirit of progress and invention that characterized the people of the Western world, whose onward career has been undisturbed, till now, by competition from that quarter.

Labor saving machinery, telegraphy, railways and the ocean steamship brought in their train perplexing problems to the more progressive nations, who now form integral parts of a gigantic industrial system.

The solutions of these problems were progressing without menace to a constantly advancing civilization and each step in advance continued to add to the sum of human happiness, when the creditor interests of the world, seeking unjust gain, struck what may prove the fatal blow, by outlawing silver, thus destroying the bimetallic standard of money.

Under bimetallism all the gold and silver of the world coined and uncoined was potentially money at the legal ratio, and whenever exchange on countries coining gold alone, or silver alone, departed from the coinage ratio sufficient to profitably transport coin to or from countries confering equal monetary rights on both metals, automatic adjustment took place.

But with the destruction of the bimetallic standard all this was changed.

The rapid and constant rise in the price of gold exchange in silver standard countries soon doubled the price of commodities imported from gold standard countries. The effect of this was to force the Asiatic countries where the wages of labor and prices in general have been for centuries and still continue at a lower level than ever known among any other people, to manufacture for themselves. The price of gold exchange having doubled had the same effect in increasing the price of imports from gold standard countries that an import of one hundred per cent would have.

While India and Japan under the stimulus thus afforded were developing their cotton mills until they now supply the Asiatic demand for cotton yarn, England was purchasing the wheat and cotton of India paying the same price in silver as before 1873, and laying the same down in Liverpool at a cost to them in gold as much below the price of 1873 as silver bullion had fallen below the mint price under free coinage.

It must be borne in mind that the cost of commodities, that is, the material, labor, land-rents, and interest on capital, together with the profits, must be reckoned in the money of the country where the goods are produced, and that they are always paid for in current money of the country where they are sold.

If goods are produced in the United States and sold in Japan sufficient silver must be received for them, that when exchanged for gold it will cover the cost and the profits, likewise that if goods are produced in Japan and sold in the United States, they can be sold for just sufficient gold, that when exchanged for silver it will cover the cost and the profits.

Under bimetallism it was shown that neither country was benefited or injured because of the metal comprising the current coin, but it will be readily seen that under existing conditions, the advantage is on the side of Japan and against the United States to the extent of the fall in silver exchange below the rate that prevailed prior to demoneti[illegible] in 1873.

[illegible]ousands [illegible] years behind us [illegible] which [illegible]ian nation[illegible] manifested no dis[illegible]rd commercial exploitati[illegible] trary resisted ever[illegible]on upon their long established modes of life, content with selling other nations the few articles of manufacture, peculiarly their own, and such products as soil and climate gave them a natural monopoly, there is no good reason for believing that this sleeping Giant of the East could have been aroused from his slumbers by conditions less extraordinary than were presented by the exchange after the manufacturing nations adopted the gold standard.

Agriculture in gold standard countries suffered first. The wheat and cotton from India in the Liverpool market keeping step with the fall in Rupee exchange soon cut the price of the world's crop in two and destroyed the profits and depreciated the property of the producers in all gold standard countries.

The only reason why the manufacturers and laborers in all gold standard countries have not suffered a worse fate than has overtaken the wheat and cotton growers, is that the Asiatic nations did not have competing articles to offer.

Silver in the Oriental nations continues to purchase raw material and labor as cheaply as at any time in the past. These over-populated nations containing one-half the human family, perpetually on the verge of famine, the frequency and fatalities of which have developed and intensified a universal system of hoarding constantly trenching upon the coin in circulation, has had for thousands of years and still continues to have a wage rate barely permitting continued existence to the teeming millions of toilers.

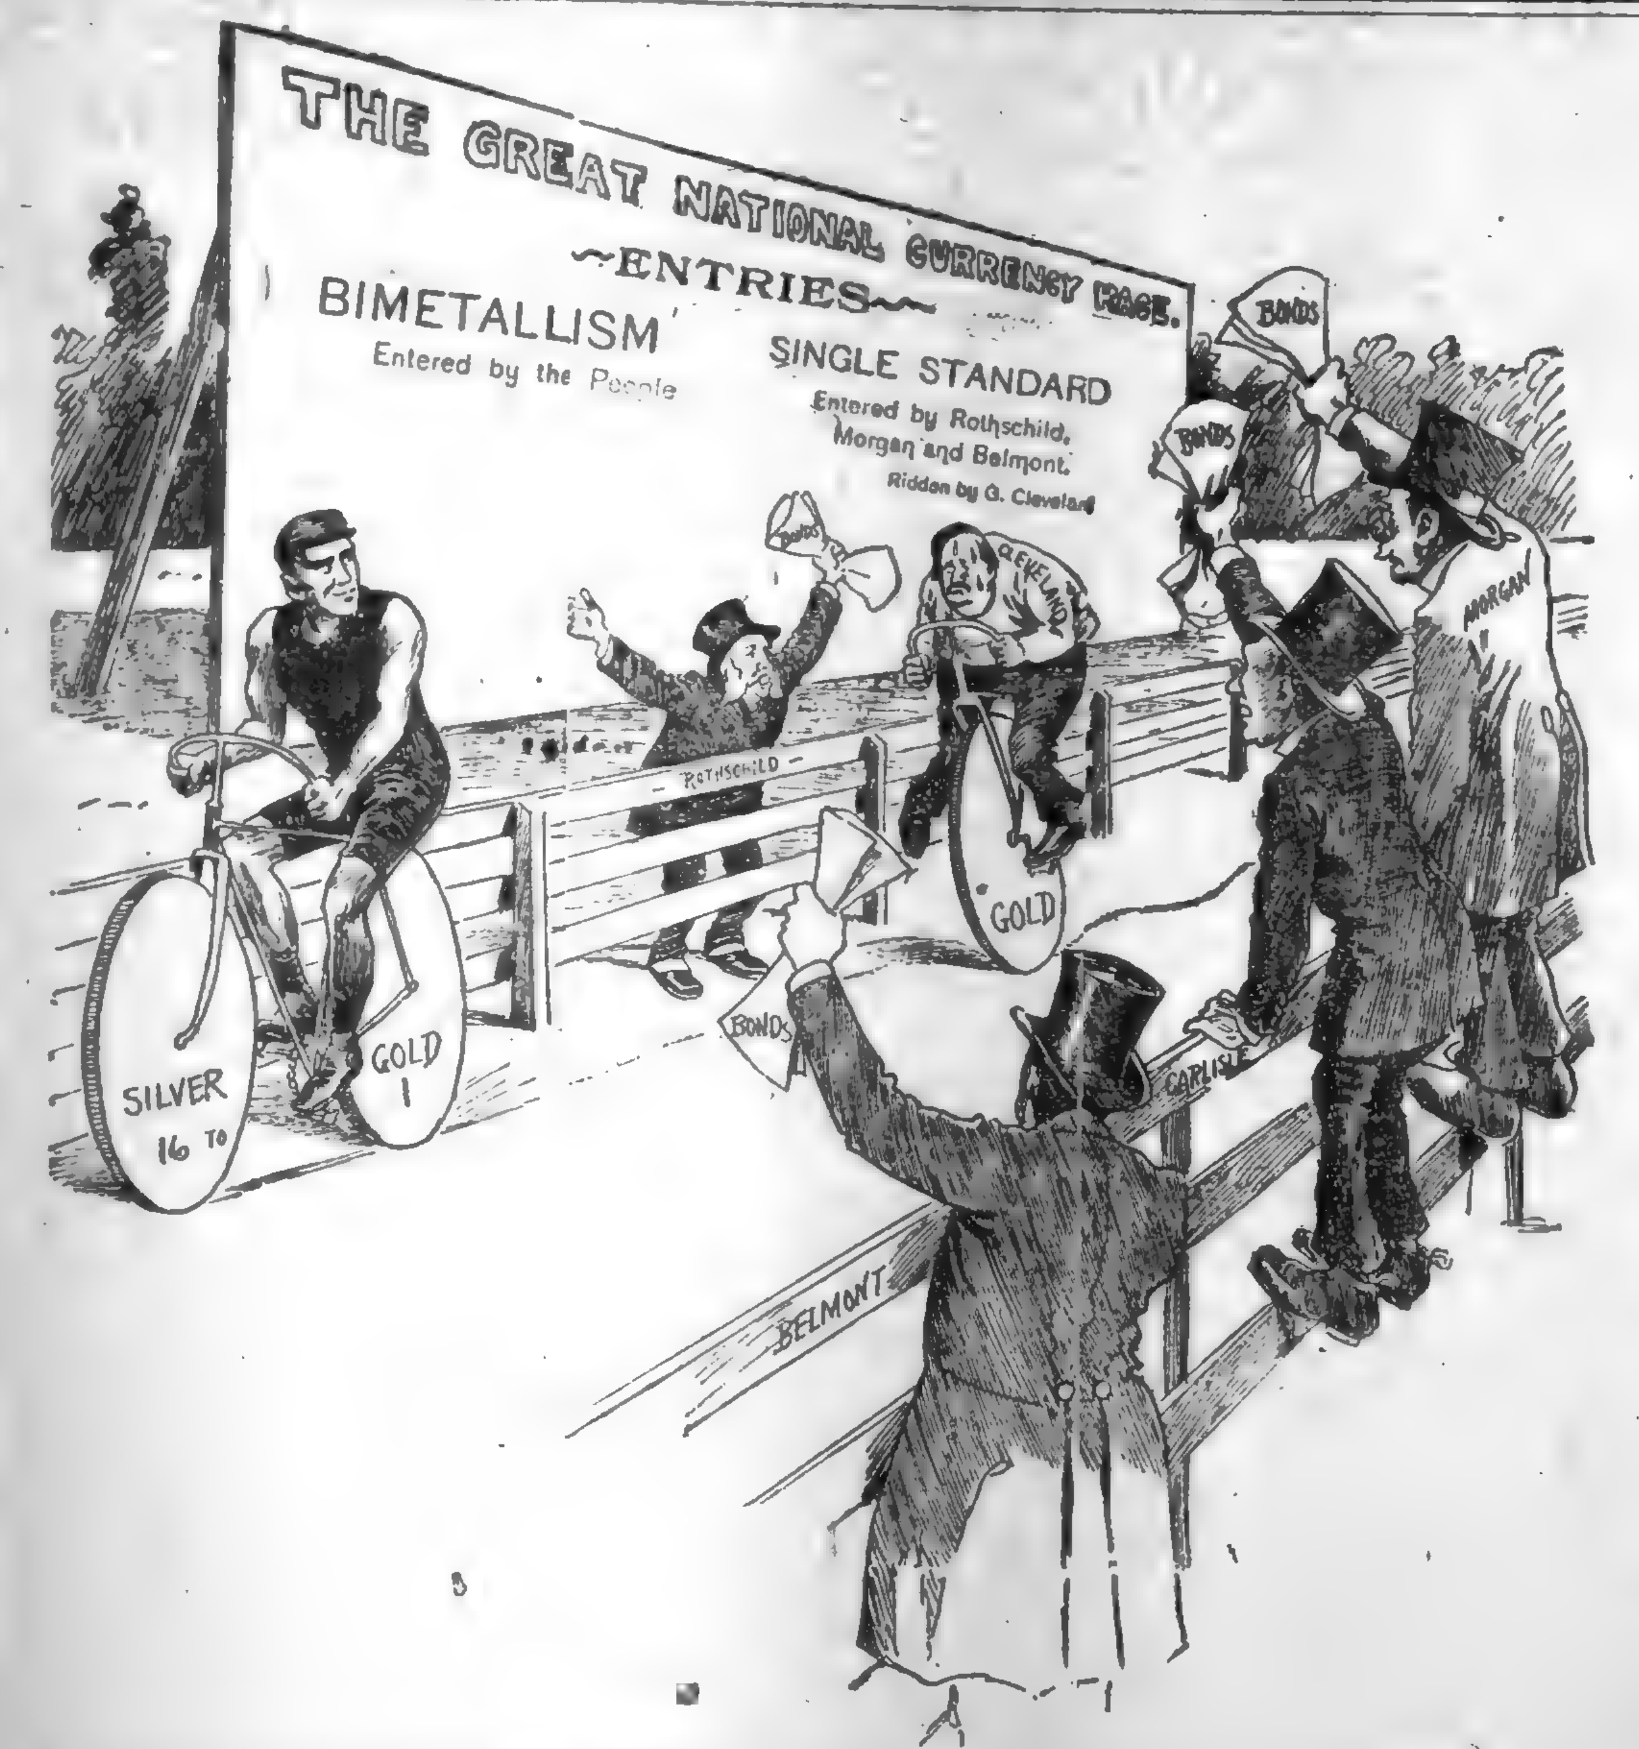
Before silver was outlawed in the Western world fifteen and a half ounces of silver in the Orient paid for commodities that cost an ounce of gold in the Occident, but at the present time it requires thirty-one ounces of silver to purchase the product of an ounce of gold.

Upon a wage in silver barely sufficient to continue life the alternative to the toilers of Asia was to manufacture for themselves the articles formerly imported from America and Europe or forego their use altogether.

These extraordinary and exasperating conditions awoke the Japanese from the sleep of inactivity. The recent invasion of our markets by manufactures from Japan is perhaps the most threatening and direful in the chain of calamities resulting from that ill-conceived and totally wicked effort of the world's creditors to plunder and enslave the world through the demonetization of silver.

Upon the gold standard, the present rate of exchange gives Japan an advantage over the manufacturing nations of America and Europe equivalent to a protective duty of one hundred per cent and an expert bounty of the same amount. This is the premium that the devotees of the gold standard in the United States have put upon the destruction of the civilization of the Western world. Who among them will contend that when factories are established in Japan, China and India, equipped with the latest improved labor saving machinery and operated by labor paid from two to three dollars per month that the era of colleges, schools and churches is not doomed?

J. M. DEVINE.



Cleveland—This blasted wheel wobbles too much. I never can catch that fellow ahead and you might as well save your breath. I am in a perplexing and delicate predicament as a result of ill-advised financial expedients.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Flashes of Thought from Independent Thinkers.

During the past seven years 134 American heiresses have married foreign titles and have practically transferred $200,000,000 o[illegible]th to foreign lands. Much [illegible] this wealth is in [illegible]onds, and draws dividends [illegible]erest from American enterprise. We are fast being made the serfs and supporters of the pauperiz[illegible] nobility of foreign lands.

The telegraphic monopoly has made $100,000,000 in twenty years. In 1858 the capital stock of the Western Union was only $358,700. It is now $150,000,[illegible]0. Its entire pl[illegible] could be dupli[illegible]ted for $30,000,00[illegible] The other $120,000,000 is water. Yet there are thousands and millions of people in this country who pretend to think that they would rather continue to pay prices for telegraphic service that yielded millions of dollars in dividends on watered stock than for the people to own and operate the wires as they do in England.

If Cleveland had been as great a success in managing the finances of the nation as he was in managing his own, the country would be quite prosperous. But while making a fortune for himself he has bankrupted pretty much everybody else. Perhaps the two things are counterparts of each other and if the first hadn't taken place the last would not have occurred.—Nonconformist.

Of course to do this he would have had to [illegible]se some other nation to have skinned, and to come to think of it we would like to have had him try his hand on old John Bull's people. If Grover could have made as complete a success of skinning them, as they, with his assistance, have in skinning us, we would now be flying.

The opinions of Grover Cleveland, who, with undisguised self-conceit, poses as the Moses of the financial question, are entitled to no more consideration to-day than when, as sheriff, he acted as hangman at Buffalo, N. Y.—Missouri World.

That's a center shot. A great people seem to think the moment a man is elected or appointed to a high position he becomes, in some mysterious manner endowed with a sagacity which he never possessed before. As a matter of fact he is not a bit smarter than he was, and in many instances it makes a fool out of a man, and he isn't as smart. Grover Cleveland seems to be of the latter class, and we are not inclined to think that he is as smart as he was when hanging men in Buffalo at $50 per hang.

It has been left for an agricultural paper to solve the vexing problem of living in a system of capital ownership of everything. It says if farmers' sons will be satisfied with no horse, no buggy, no good clothes and no education, they can save money on a farm even to-day.—Coming Nation.

Why of course. He might also leave off much that he eats. He might live principally on corn bread and cow peas, with hickory or walnuts thrown in occasionally for dessert. He might also reduce his hours of sleeping and increase the hours of labor. Why, most certainly, he could give half the products of his labor to plutocracy and then [illegible] money. But what we started out to [illegible] was that it is not every Agricultrual paper that is the farmers' friend or worthy the support of farmers. It was Buell's Bank Circular that announced the policy of buying up the religious and agricultural papers, and when you see one of them dealing out such trash as that you may put it down safely that it has either sold out, or don't know enough about farm interests to haul out manure.

Henry Watterson says: "We have, in fact, no democratic party at all. It is merely an agglomeration of quiddities thrown together by the upheaval of the times. A monster without a head, running wild through a wilderness of political incertitude."

Whoa, there, Henry. Is it that bad? Well, then, take the thing "thrum" us. If that's the kind of an individual it is, it ought to be prohibited by law from running at large. This, then, is the thing of great promise, a "monster without a head, running wild through a wilderness of incertitude." Well, we did not think it was so bad. We remember that Watterson told us the nomination of Cleveland would be a "march through the slaughter house to an open grave." Perhaps he meant the election of Cleveland, after all. In speaking of the President's message he said; "Nothing will come of it. Congress will not do anything at all, and if the republicans are wise they will simply pass the appropriation bill and go home."

It is very plain to see that Henry is overcome with large gobs of gloom, and that the "star-eyed goddess" seems to have forsaken him for the time being But he'll get over it—unless he has made it a profitable business transaction.

In a recent sermon Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage discussed the propensity of the American people to indulge in campaign lies and slanders, in the following picturesque style:

At every yearly or quadrennial election we have in this country great manufactories—manufactories of lies; and they are run day and night, and they turn out half a dozen a day, all equipped and ready for full sailing. Large lies and small lies. Lies private and lies public and lies prurient. Lies cut bias and lies cut diagonal. Long-limbed lies and lies with double-back action. Lies complimentary and lies defamatory. Lies that some people believe, and lies that all the people believe, and lies that nobody believes. Lies with humps like camels and scales like crocodiles, and necks as long as storks, and feet as swift as an antelope's, and stings like adders. Lies raw and scalloped and panned and stewed. Crawling lies and jumping lies and soaring lies. Lies with attachment screws and rufflers and braiders and ready-wound bobbins. Lies by Christian people who never lie except during elections, and lies by people who always lie, but beat themselves in a presidential campaign.

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

Left it There to Tempt Him.

A family in North Selma went to breakfast Friday morning leaving $20 in cash in the front bed room. When they returned the $20 and William Robinson, who had been about the place, were missing. A warrant was sworn out and Officer Munn arrested him this afternoon.

Sheriff Kills a Prisoner.

Deputy Sheriff T. L. Seal killed Amos Robertson, a prisoner, Saturday, at Columbiana. As Seale unlocked Robertson's cell door he and another prisoner ran over the deputy, knocking him to the floor. The deputy getting on his feet opened fire on the fleeing prisoners and Robertson fell dead. The cononor's verdict was justifiable killing.

Bre'r Possum Escapes Injury.

Near Kennedy, Lamar county, Alabama Saturday night James Runyon, and Bobert Young climbed a high tree for an opossum. On the same limb, 40 feet from the ground, they quarreled. Runyon pushed Young off the limb but was pulled off with him. Both lived just long enough to tell how it happened.

Car and Cotton Burned.

Collinsville was in a whirl of excitement early Friday morning when fire was discovered in a freight box car near the depot; the car and contents was entirely destroyed. But for the timely assistance of the citizens of the town the depot and contents would have burned. It is supposed that some tramps slept in the car last night and dropped fire probably from a pipe. The car contained twelve bales of cotton.

A Good Man Stricken.

Thursday evening while Rev. A. S. Andrews, D. D., of Greenville, Ala., was conducting the funeral services of Mr. J. M. McNameel at the First Methodist church in Opelika, he was stricken with congestive paralysis, and is lying critically ill at the home of Dr. J. M. Mason. This is the second stroke Dr. Andrews has had, and grave fears are entertained as to the result. His wife was immediately telegraphed for, and is now attending his bedside.

Allowed to Make Bond.

The preliminary trial of Arna Mahoney at Athens for the killing of Redus Westmoreland, in Elkmont, on November 5, 1895, closed late Friday afternoon, after occupying three days. Almost all day was occupied with argument, and within ten minutes after the close of the last speech Justice Christens rendered his decision allowing Mahoney his liberty upon the making of a bond for $2,500.

Prosperous and Hopeful.

The reports from merchants of Ashville show that their cash trade for 1895 was far in excess of any previous year. The farmers have paid up very well for 1895 with prospects of paying more before the season closes. Considering everything, the people commence the year 1896 in better shape than they have been in many [illegible]. It is estimated by the be[illegible] informed citizens that St. [illegible]ounty has more corn than it will require to supply the people, and very near enough meat to do them. There is a larger acreage planted to wheat than has been in fifteen years.

Go and Do Likewise.

Mr. C. A. Williamson has just finished killing his hogs. Out of four 15-months-old pigs he netted 1,340 pounds, and a 2-year-old yielded him 660 pounds. He thinks he has also about twenty-five gallons of lard. These porkers were raised right here in Tuskegee and at a small cost. Mr. Williamson is 73 years old, but with only the aid of a boy he raised last year seven bales of cotton, 100 bushels of sweet potatoes, thirty-six gallons of syrup [illegible] 150 bushels of corn, fifty bushels of oats, besides peas, fodder and ground peas. And all this yield was from twenty-three acres of ground. And yet able-bodied sneaks are going about begging.

Horribly Burned.

Every year women and children in Selma and vicinity are horribly burned by their clothes catching from an open grate. The first victim for this season is Sylvia Roan living on Sylvan street. The woman was standing with her back to the grate about noon today when her dress caught fire. Officer Eddy and Mr. John Briggs heard her screams and running in found the poor woman, her clothing almost burned off, running wildly and aimlessly from room to room setting everything on fire as she went. The officer grabbed a quilt and with considerable difficulty with Mr. Briggs's assistance smothered the flames, not, however, until the clothing almost up to the armpits was burned away. The woman was horribly burned, and the chances are that she will not recover.

Lieutenant Hay Acquitted.

Official notification has been received at Mobile of the acquittal of Third Lieutenant W. H. O. Hay, of the revenue cutter McLane, and formerly of the revenue cutter Forward, stationed at Mobile port, on the last court martial ordered to try charges of scandalous conduct and drunkenness, and conduct unbecoming an officer and man of integrity. He was acquitted on all three charges, and not one of the specifications was proven. This is the fourth time that Lieutenant Hay has been courtmartialed, and he has come out triumphantly every time with a single exception, when he was set back a few numbers in his rating. It is understood that he has recently passed his examination for promotion, and that he obtained 99 per cent on that examination.

FILLIBUSTERIG IN AFRICA.

Dr. Jameson Invades the Transvaal With an Army.

Dr. Jameson, who is administrator for the British South Africa company's territories in Mashonaland Matabeleland, having been appealed to by many English residents in the land of the Boers, and especially those of the city of Johannesbuag, who complain that while heavy taxes are exacted of them they are denied representation in the government, collected an army of 500 or 600 men and marched into the territory of the South African republic, cutting the wires behind him so that orders for his return, sent by the British government, could only reach him by messengers. It seems that a messenger did overtrke him but he disregarded the orders, and, as appears from the dispatches following, came to grief.

The Westminister Gazette says it is reported that Dr. Jameson, the administrator of the British South Africa company, who led a force of 500 armed men into the Transvaal, has been made a prisoner.

A dispatch has reached the colonial office stating that Dr. Jameson has had a battle with the Boers before Johannesburg, resulting in his surrender. A number of his followers were killed and wounded. No details are given.

A dispatch from Cape Town, sent by Governor Robinson, of Cape Colony, Thursday, 6;25 p. m., says; A messenger overtook Dr. Jameson ten miles on the other side of Elans river. The messenger brought back a verbal message that the dispatch received by Dr. Jameson would be attended to. The force was saddling up, and at once proceded eastward. Dr. Jameson thus erred and disregarded both my messages. Sir Jacobus Dewete, the British agent at Pretoria, telegraphs this morning that it would have been impossible for him to have gone to Dr. Jameson. If it had been possible his mission would have been futile, as the fighting commenced at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon."

A later dispatch from Pretoria says that Dr. Jameson was surrounded by a large force of Boers near Krugersdorn and was obliged to surrender.

Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, has sent a dispatch to Governor Robinson saying: "I regret that Dr. Jameson's disobedience has led to a deplorable loss of life. Do your best to secure generous treatment of the prisoners and the wounded."

This affair has created great excitement in Germany and Holland, whose people naturally sympathize with the Boers as their kinsmen. But the prompt repudiation of Dr. Jameson's foolish escapade, by the British government and the South African company, it is hoped will pacify both Germans and Dutch.

LATEST RROM CUBA.

The Spanish Forces Unable to Prevent the Destruction of Plantations.

Reports have been received to the effect that the insurgent forces moving westward from the southern portion of the province of Havana have now passed Melena, about fifty kilometers from Havana. The northern insurgent army has been reported at Aguacate, about seventy kilometers from Havana city.

Additional information aeccived this evening, shows that the insurgents have burned the cane fields of the plantation of Santa Teresa, near San Nicholas, which is some distance eastward of Melena and near Mt. Guanamon. The Cubans have also burned the fields in the districts of Neuva Paz, Guines, San Nicolas and Palonque, between Guines and Melena.

Word has also been received that the insurgents have burned the cane fields on the Sabrados plantation in the Cuaubo district and also the Encrucijada and Munez fields and the plantation of Delta in the district of Sagua. The village of Zulueuta, in the district of Caibarien, has been burned, and the railroad bridge over the river Hanabana destroyed.

Quintin Bandera, the third in command of the insurgent forces has transferred his headquarters to a spot between Guines and Sabana, which is not far from Jeruco. Sabana is not much more than twenty miles from this city. Another report has it that Bandera has moved his forces between Guines and Sabana and Robles to Xenes in the direction of Rainoa. Yet the column of General Echague is stationed in the immediate vicinity of Guinez, while General Navarro has forces both at San Nicolas and Falos, and General Aldecoa is at Nueva Paz. These forces are in the very country through which the insurgents have advanced, and men here ask themselves how they are able to accomplish it. General Valdez also is stationed at Madruga, the marine battalion at Aguacate, in the line of railroad between Matanzas rad Havana, and General Prat at Cieba Mercha, a little south of Aguacate, and between there and Madruga.

Finally Colonel Segera and Galvis are following in the rear of the insurgents.

Fatal Fall of an Elevator.

By the falling of a freight elevator in Chicago, B. Linde was killed, Samuel Breit fatally, and Henry Shafero seriously hurt. All the men were employed in the warehouse of Lowenthal Bros. on Canal street. The elevator fell from the fifth floor to the basement.

When the bimetallic standard of money was destroyed by the demonetization of silver in 1873 there became two monetary standards in the world; the gold standard for the more highly [illegible] manufacturing and commercial [illegible] Europe and America, and the silver standard for the Orient. The [illegible] between silver and gold under the bimetallic standard fixed a [illegible] exchange between gold coins and silver coins, for all the world, without prejudice to either, but with the closing of the mints of America and Europe to the coinage of silver, two standards were created, a gold standard for the Western world and a silver one for the Eastern world. When equal monetary rights were no longer [illegible] on both metals by any one of the great commercial nations, affording a clearing house through which exchange on such nations as made their coins of gold alone or silver alone, could pass, the legal ligature was cut [illegible] had hitherto established a par of exchange between coins of each metal [illegible].

[illegible] became a commodity in gold standard countries and gold a commodity in silver standard countries. [illegible] silver in gold standard [illegible] had its quotations in terms of money units made of gold. The commodity gold in silver standard countries had its quotations in terms of money units made of silver.

In the adjustment of international [illegible] relations in gold standard countries silver exchange rises or falls to correspond with the fluctuations of the [illegible] and in silver standard [illegible] exchange rises or [illegible] with the fluctuations [illegible] gold.

[illegible] the de-[illegible] standard [illegible] of the ex-[illegible] new [illegible] which economists [illegible] with con-[illegible] assume [illegible] of de-[illegible] or un-[illegible]

[illegible] comprising [illegible] millions of people [illegible] been on the [illegible]

[illegible] of Europe [illegible] charac-[illegible] Western world, [illegible] been undis-[illegible] from [illegible]

[illegible] machinery, telegraphy [illegible] train perplexing problems to the more progressive nations [illegible] integral parts of a gigantic industrial system.

[illegible] of these problems were [illegible] without menace to a constantly advancing civilization and [illegible] advance continued to add [illegible] of human happiness, when [illegible] interests of the world, [illegible] gain, struck what may [illegible] by outlawing silver [illegible] destroying the bimetallic [illegible].

[illegible] metallism all the gold and [illegible] world coined and uncoined [illegible] legally money at the legal [illegible] whenever exchange on countries coining gold alone, or silver [illegible] departed from the coinage ratio sufficient to profitably transport coin to [illegible] countries confering equal monetary rights on both metals, automatic adjustment took place.

[illegible] with the destruction of the bimetallic standard all this was changed. [illegible] rapid and constant rise in the [illegible] of gold exchange in silver standard countries soon doubled the price of commodities imported from gold standard countries. The effect of this was to [illegible] the Asiatic countries where the wages of labor and prices in general have been for centuries and still continue at a lower level than ever known among any other people, to manufacture for themselves. The price of gold exchange having doubled had the same effect in increasing the price of imports from gold standard countries that an import of one hundred per cent would have.

While India and Japan under the stimulus thus afforded were developing their cotton mills until they now supply the Asiatic demand for cotton yarn, England was purchasing the wheat and cotton of India paying the same price in silver as before 1873, and laying the same down in Liverpool at a cost to them in gold as much below the price of 1873 as silver bullion had fallen below the mint price under free coinage.

It must be borne in mind that the cost of commodities, that is, the material, labor, land-rents and interest on capital, together with the profits, must be reckoned in the money of the country where the goods are produced, and that they are always paid for in current money of the country where they are sold.

If goods are produced in the United States and sold in Japan sufficient silver must be received for them, that when exchanged for gold it will cover the cost and the profits, likewise that if goods are produced in Japan and sold in the United States, they must be sold for just sufficient gold that when exchanged for silver it will cover the cost and the profits.

Under bimetallism it was shown that neither country was benefited or injured because of the metal comprising the current coin, but it will be readily seen that under existing conditions, the advantage is on the side of Japan and against the United States to the extent of the fall in silver exchange below the rate that prevailed prior to demonetization in 1873.

[illegible] years behind us [illegible] nation, [illegible] to his [illegible] foreign exploitation [illegible] resisted every [illegible] upon their long established modes of life, content with selling other nations the few articles of manufacture peculiarly their own, and such products as soil and climate gave them a natural monopoly, there is no good reason for believing that this sleeping Giant of the East could have been aroused from his slumbers by conditions less extraordinary than were presented by the exchange after the manufacturing nations adopted the gold standard.

Agriculture in gold standard countries suffered first. The wheat and cotton from India in the Liverpool market keeping step with the fall in Rupee exchange soon cut the price of the world's crop in two and destroyed the profits and depreciated the property of the producers in all gold standard countries.

The only reason why the manufacturers and laborers in all gold standard countries have not suffered a worse fate than has overtaken the wheat and cotton growers, is that the Asiatic nations did not have competing articles to offer.

Silver in the Oriental nations continues to purchase raw material and labor as cheaply as at any time in the past. These over-populated nations containing one-half the human family, perpetually on the verge of famine, the frequency and fatalities of which have developed and intensified a universal system of hoarding constantly trenching upon the coin in circulation, has had for thousands of years and still continues to have a wage rate barely permitting continued existence to the teeming millions of toilers.

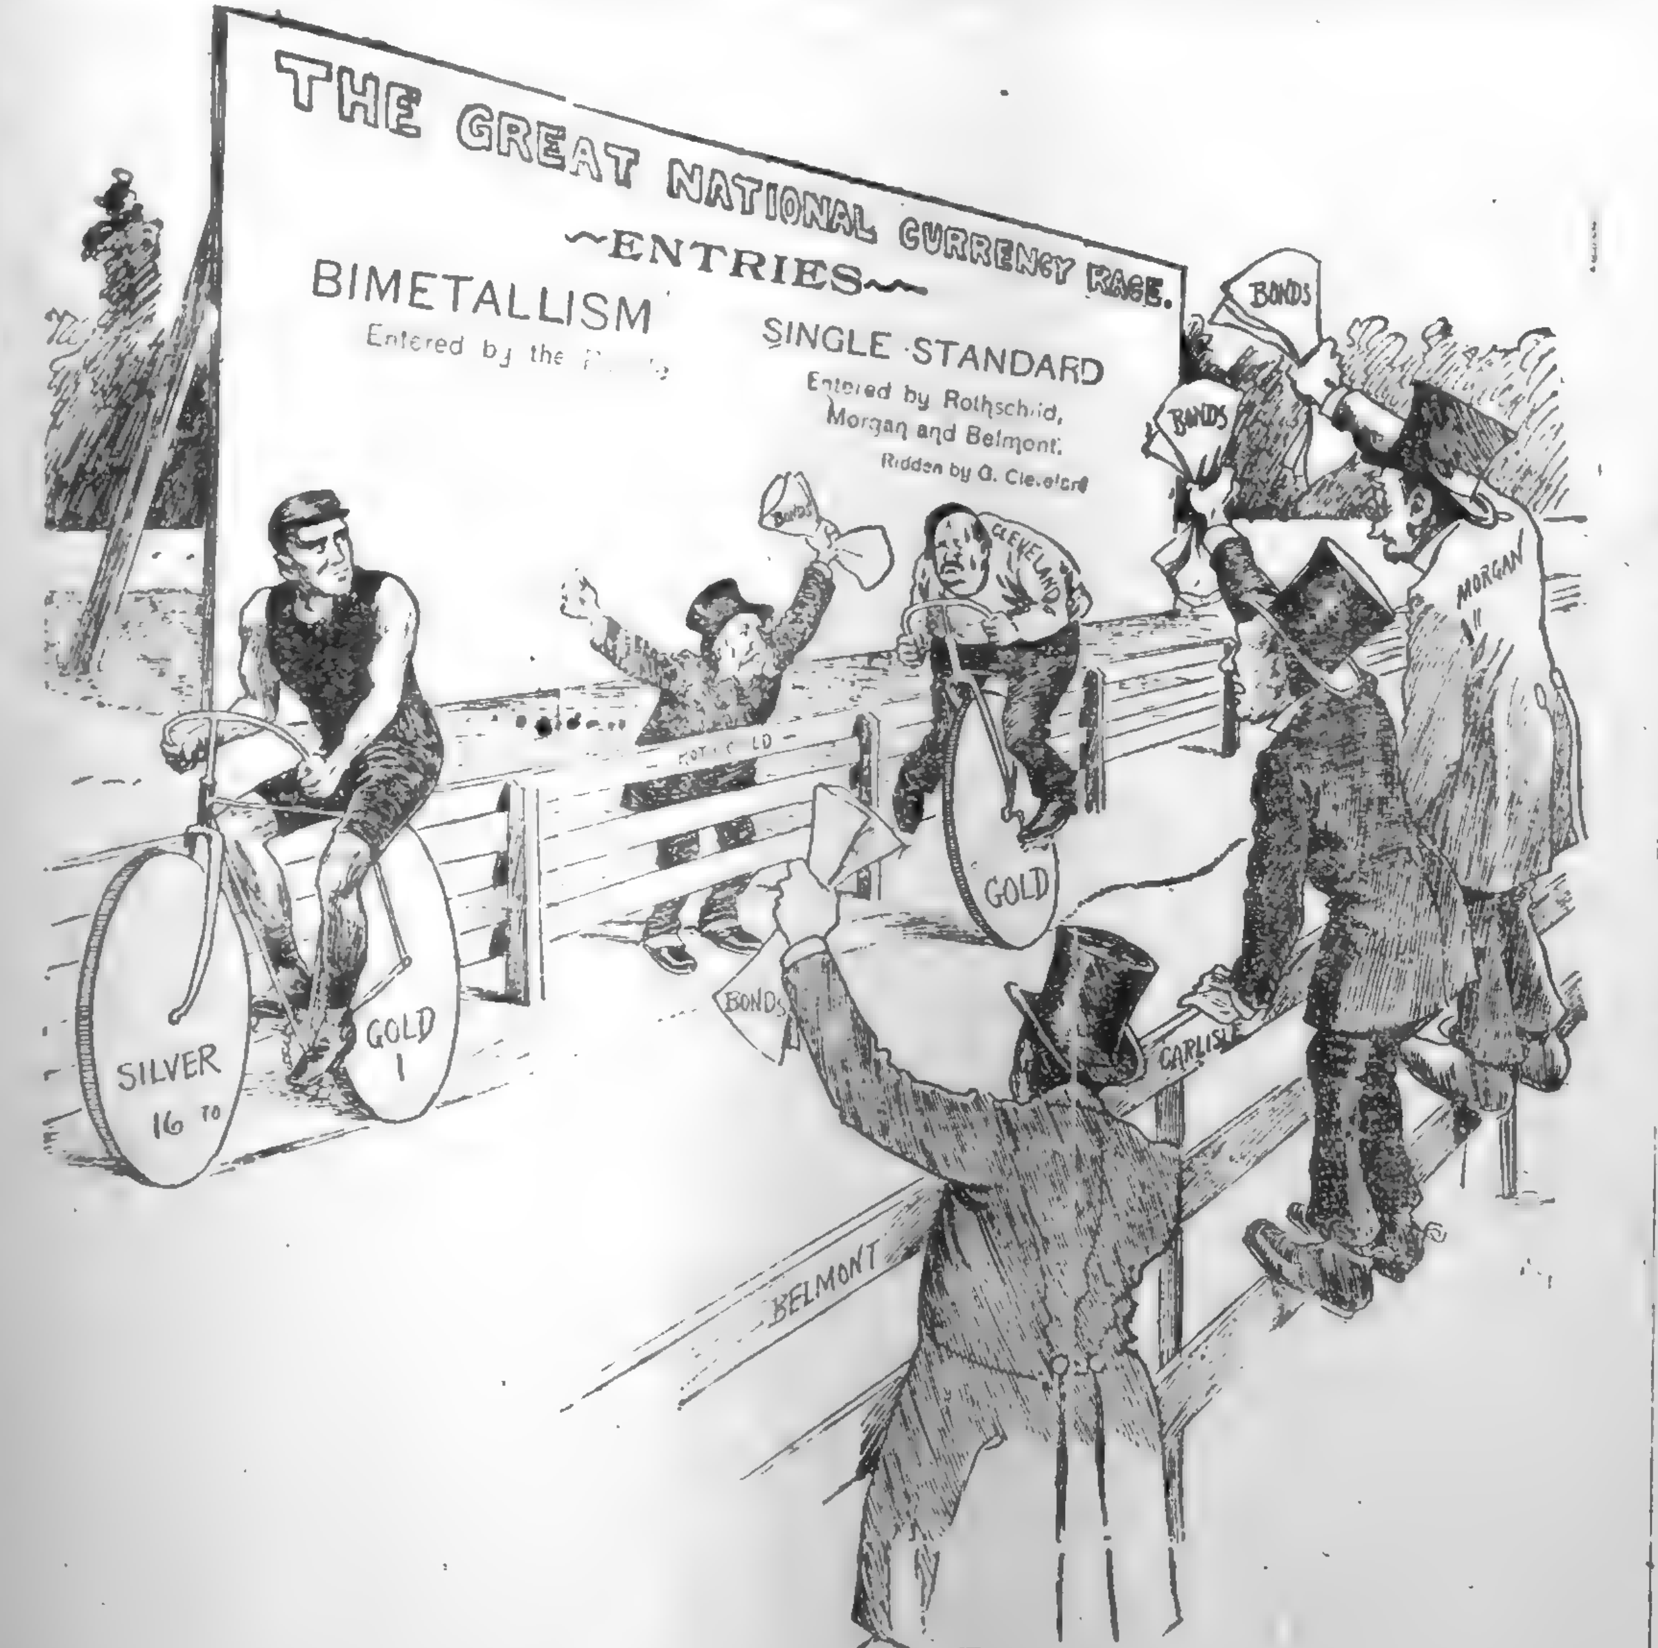
Before silver was outlawed in the Western world fifteen and a half ounces of silver in the Orient paid for commodities that cost an ounce of gold in the Occident, but at the present time it requires thirty-one ounces of silver to purchase the product of an ounce of gold.

Upon a wage in silver barely sufficient to continue life the alternative to the toilers of Asia was to manufacture for themselves the articles formerly imported from America and Europe or forego their use altogether.

These extraordinary and exasperating conditions awoke the Japanese from the sleep of inactivity. The recent invasion of our markets by manufactures from Japan is perhaps the most threatening and direful in the chain of calamities resulting from that ill-conceived and totally wicked effort of the world's creditors to plunder and enslave the world through the demonetization of silver.

Upon the gold standard, the present rate of exchange gives Japan an advantage over the manufacturing nations of America and Europe equivalent to a protective duty of one hundred per cent and an expert bounty of the same amount. This is the premium that the devotees of the gold standard in the United States have put upon the destruction of the civilization of the Western world. Who among them will [illegible] tend that when factories are [illegible] lished in Japan, China and India, equipped with the latest improved labor saving machinery and operated by labor paid from two to three dollars per month that the era of colleges, schools and churches is not doomed?

J. M. DEVINE.



Cleveland—This blasted wheel wobbles too much. I never can catch that fellow ahead and you might as well save your breath. I am in a perplexing and delicate predicament as a result of ill-advised financial expedients.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Flashes of Thought from Independent Thinkers.

During the past seven years 134 American heiresses have married foreign titles and have practically transferred $200,000,000 of wealth to foreign lands. Much of this wealth is in [illegible] bonds, and draws dividends [illegible] interest from American enterprise. We are fast being made the serfs and supporters of the pauperized nobility of foreign lands.

The telegraphic monopoly has made $1[illegible],000,000 in twenty years. In 1858 the capital stock of the Western Union was only $358,700. It is now $150,000,000. Its entire plant could be duplicated for $30,000,000. The other $120,000,000 is water. Yet there are thousands and millions of people in this country who pretend to think that they would rather continue to pay prices for telegraphic service that yielded millions of dollars in dividends on watered stock than for the people to own and operate the wires as they do in England.

If Cleveland had been as great a success in managing the finances of the nation as he was in managing his own, the country would be quite prosperous. But while making a fortune for himself he has bankrupted pretty much everybody else. Perhaps the two things are counterparts of each other and if the first hadn't taken place the last would not have occurred.—Nonconformist.

Of course to do this he would have had to use some other nation to have skinned, and to come to think of it we would like to have had him try his hand on old John Bull's people. If Grover could have made as complete a success of skinning them, as they, with his assistance, have in skinning us, we would now be flying.

The opinions of Grover Cleveland, who, with undisguised self-conceit, poses as the Moses of the financial question, are entitled to no more consideration to-day than when, as sheriff, he acted as hangman at Buffalo, N. Y.—Missouri World.

That's a center shot. A great people seem to think the moment a man is elected or appointed to a high position he becomes, in some mysterious manner endowed with a sagacity which he never possessed before. As a matter of fact he is not a bit smarter than he was, and in many instances it makes a fool out of a man, and he isn't as smart. Grover Cleveland seems to be of the latter class, and we are not inclined to think that he is as smart as he was when hanging men in Buffalo at $50 per hang.

It has been left for an agricultural paper to solve the vexing problem of living in a system of capital ownership of everything. It says if farmers' sons will be satisfied with no horse, no buggy, no good clothes and no education, they can save money on a farm even to-day.—Coming Nation.

Why of course. He might also leave off much that he eats. He might live principally on corn bread and cow peas with hickory or walnuts thrown in occasionally for dessert. He might also reduce his hours of sleeping and increase the hours of labor. Why, most certainly, he could give half the products of his labor to plutocracy and then [illegible] money. But what we started out to [illegible] was that it is not every Agricultrual paper that is the farmers' friend or worthy the support of farmers. It was Buell's Bank Circular that announced the policy of buying up the religious and agricultural papers, and when you see one of them dealing out such trash as that you may put it down safely that it has either sold out, or don't know enough about farm interests to haul out manure.

Henry Watterson says: "We have, in fact, no democratic party at all. It is merely an agglomeration of quiddities thrown together by the upheaval of the times. A monster without a head, running wild through a wilderness of political incertitude."

Whoa, there, Henry. Is it that bad? Well, then, take the thing "thrum" us. If that's the kind of an individual it is, it ought to be prohibited by law from running at large. This, then, is the thing of great promise, a "monster without a head, running wild through a wilderness of incertitude." Well, we did not think it was so bad. We remember that Watterson told us the nomination of Cleveland would be a "march through the slaughter house to an open grave." Perhaps he meant the election of Cleveland, after all. In speaking of the President's message he said: "Nothing will come of it. Congress will not do anything at all, and if the republicans are wise they will simply pass the appropriation bill and go home."

It is very plain to see that Henry is overcome with large gobs of gloom, and that the "star-eyed goddess" seems to have forsaken him for the time being. But he'll get over it—unless he has made it a profitable business transaction.

In a recent sermon Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage discussed the propensity of the American people to indulge in campaign lies and slanders, in the following picturesque style:

At every yearly or quadrennial election we have in this country great manufactories—manufactories of lies; and they are run day and night, and they turn out half a dozen a day, all equipped and ready for full sailing. Large lies and small lies. Lies private and lies public and lies prurient. Lies cut bias and lies cut diagonal. Long-limbed lies and lies with double-back action. Lies complimentary and lies defamatory. Lies that some people believe, and lies that all the people believe, and lies that nobody believes. Lies with humps like camels and scales like crocodiles, and necks as long as storks, and feet as swift as an antelope's, and stings like adders. Lies raw and scalloped and panned and stewed. Crawling lies and jumping lies and soaring lies. Lies with attachment screws and rufflers and braiders and ready-wound bobbins. Lies by Christian people who never lie except during elections, and lies by people who always lie, but beat themselves in a presidential campaign.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

Left it There to Tempt Him.

A family in North Selma went to breakfrst Friday morning leaving $20 in cash in the front bed room. When they returned the $20 and William Robinson, who had been about the place, were missing. A warrant was sworn out and Officer Munn arrested him this afternoon.

Sheriff Kills a Prisoner.

Deputy Sheriff T. L. Seal killed Amos Robertson, a prisoner, Saturday, at Columbiana. As Seale unlocked Robertson's cell door he and another prisoner ran over the deputy, knocking him to the floor. The deputy getting on his feet opened fire on the fleeing prisoners and Robertson fell dead. The cononor's verdict was justifiable killing.

Bre'r Possum Escapes Injury.

Near Kennedy, Lamar county, Alabama Saturday night James Runyon, and Robert Young climbed a high tree for an opossum. On the same limb, 40 feet from the ground, they quarreled. Runyon pushed Young off the limb but was pulled off with him. Both lived just long enough to tell how it happened.

Car and Cotton Burned.

Collinsville was in a whirl of excitement early Friday morning when fire was discovered in a freight box car near the depot; the car and contents was entirely destroyed. But for the timely assistance of the citizens of the town the depot and contents would have burned. It is supposed that some tramps slept in the car last night and dropped fire probably from a pipe. The car contained twelve bales of cotton.

A Good Man Stricken.

Thursday evening while Rev. A. S. Andrews, D. D., of Greenville, Ala., was conducting the funeral services of Mr. J. M. McNameel at the First Methodist church in Opelika, he was stricken with congestive paralysis, and is lying critically ill at the home of Dr. J. M. Mason. This is the second stroke Dr. Andrews has had, and grave fears are entertained as to the result. His wife was immediately telegraphed for, and is now attending his bedside.

Allowed to Make Bond.

The preliminary trial of Arna Mahoney at Athens for the killing of Redus Westmoreland, in Elkmont, on November 5, 1895, closed late Friday afternoon, after occupying three days. Almost all day was occupied with argument, and within ten minutes after the close of the last speech Justice Christens rendered his decision allowing Mahoney his liberty upon the making of a bond for $2,500.

Prosperous and Hopeful.

The reports from merchants of Ashville show that their cash trade for 1895 was far in excess of any previous year. The farmers have paid up very well for 1895 with prospects of paying more before the season closes. Considering everything, the people commence the year 1896 in better shape than they have been in many [illegible]. It is estimated by the best informed citizens that St. [illegible] county has more corn than it will require to supply the people, and very near enough meat to do them. There is a larger acreage planted to wheat than has been in fifteen years.

Go and Do Likewise.

Mr. C. A. Williamson has just finished killing his hogs. Out of four 15-months-old pigs he netted 1,340 pounds, and a 2-year-old yielded him 660 pounds. He thinks he has also about twenty-five gallons of lard. These porkers were raised right here in Tuskegee and at a small cost. Mr. Williamson is 73 years old, but with only the aid of a boy he raised last year seven bales of cotton, 100 bushels of sweet potatoes, thirty-six gallons of syrup [illegible] 150 bushels of corn, fifty bushels of oats, besides peas, fodder and ground peas. And all this yield was from twenty-three acres of ground. And yet able-bodied sneaks are going about begging.

Horribly Burned.

Every year women and children in Selma and vicinity are horribly burned by their clothes catching from an open grate. The first victim for this season is Sylvia Roan living on Sylvan street. The woman was standing with her back to the grate about noon today when her dress caught fire. Officer Eddy and Mr. John Briggs heard her screams and running in found the poor woman, her clothing almost burned off, running wildly and aimlessly from room to room setting everything on fire as she went. The officer grabbed a quilt and with considerable difficulty with Mr. Briggs's assistance smothered the flames, not, however, until the clothing almost up to the armpits was burned away. The woman was horribly burned, and the chances are that she will not recover.

Lieutenant Hay Acquitted.

Official notification has been received at Mobile of the acquittal of Third Lieutenant W. H. O. Hay, of the revenue cutter McLane, and formerly of the revenue cutter Forward, stationed at Mobile port, on the last court martial ordered to try charges of scandalous conduct and drunkenness, and conduct unbecoming an officer and man of integrity. He was acquitted on all three charges, and not one of the specifications was proven. This is the fourth time that Lieutenant Hay has been courtmartialed, and he has come out triumphantly every time with a single exception, when he was set back a few numbers in his rating. It is understood that he has recently passed his examination for promotion, and that he obtained 98 per cent on that examination.

FILLIBUSTERIG IN AFRICA.

Dr. Jameson Invades the Transvaal With an Army.

Dr. Jameson, who is administrator for the British South Africa company's territories in Mashonaland-Matabeleland, having been appealed to by many English residents in the land of the Boers, and especially those of the city of Johannesbuag, who complain that while heavy taxes are exacted of them they are denied representation in the government, collected an army of 500 or 600 men and marched into the territory of the South African republic, cutting the wires behind him so that orders for his return, sent by the British government, could only reach him by messengers. It seems that a messenger did overtrke him but he disregarded the orders, and, as appears from the dispatches following, came to grief.

The Westminister Gazette says it is reported that Dr. Jameson, the administrator of the British South African company, who led a force of 500 armed men into the Transvaal, has been made a prisoner.

A dispatch has reached the colonial office stating that Dr. Jameson has had a battle with the Boers before Johannesburg, resulting in his surrender. A number of his followers were killed and wounded. No details are given.

A dispatch from Cape Town, sent by Governor Robinson, of Cape Colony, Thursday, 8;25 p. m., says; A messenger overtook Dr. Jameson ten miles on the other side of Elans river. The messenger brought back a verbal message that the dispatch received by Dr. Jameson would be attended to. The force was saddling up, and at once proceeded eastward. Dr. Jameson thus erred and disregarded both my messages. Sir Jacobus Dewete, the British agent at Pretoria, telegraphs this morning that it would have been impossible for him to have gone to Dr. Jameson. If it had been possible his mission would have been futile, as the fighting commenced at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon."

A later dispatch from Pretoria says that Dr. Jameson was surrounded by a large force of Boers near Krugersdorn and was obliged to surrender.

Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, has sent a dispatch to Governor Robinson saying: "I regret that Dr. Jameson's disobedience has led to a deplorable loss of life. Do your best to secure generous treatment of the prisoners and the wounded."

This affair has created great excitement in Germany and Holland, whose people naturally sympathize with the Boers as their kinsmen. But the prompt repudiation of Dr. Jameson's foolish escapade, by the British government and the South African company, it is hoped will pacify both Germans and Dutch.

LATEST FROM CUBA.

The Spanish Forces Unable to Pr[illegible] the Destruction of Planta[illegible]

Reports have been received [illegible] the effect that the insurgent forces moving westward from the southern portion of the province of Havana have now passed Melena, about fifty kilometers from Havana. The northern insurgent army has been reported at Aguacate, about seventy kilometers from Havana city.

Additional information received this evening shows that the insurgents have burned the cane fields of the plantation of Santa Teresa, near San Nicolas, which is some distance eastward of Melena and near Mt. Guanamon. The Cubans have also burned the fields in the districts of Neuva Paz, Guines, San Nicolus and Palonque, between Guines and Melena.

Word has also been received that the insurgents have burned the cane fields on the Sabralos plantation in the [illegible] district and also the Encrucijade and Munez fields and the plantation of Delta in the district of Sagua. The village of Zulenata, in the district of Caibarien, has been burned, and the railroad bridge over the river Hanabana destroyed.

Quintin Bandera, the third in command of the insurgent forces has transferred his headquarters to a spot between Guines and Sabana, which is not far from Jeruco. Sabana is not much more than twenty miles from this city. Another report has it that Bandera has moved his forces between Guines and Sabuna and Robles to Xenes in the direction of Rainos. Yet the column of General Echague is stationed in the immediate vicinity of Guinez, while General Navarro has forces both at San Nicolas and Falos, and General Aldecoa is at Nueva Paz. These forces are in the very country through which the insurgents have advanced, and men here ask themselves how they are able to accomplish it. General Valdez also is stationed at Madruga, the marine battalion at Aguacate, in the line of railroad between Matanzas and Havana, and General Prat at Cieba Mercha, a little south of Aguacate, and between there and Madruga.

Finally Colonel Segera and Galvis are following in the rear of the insurgents.

Fatal Fall of an Elevator.

THE Cuban patriot army is reported to be within twelve miles of the city of Havana. While it is difficult to get truthful accounts of all that is transpiring in Cuba, there seems to be no doubt but that the revolutionists are making grand progress in their fight for freedom.

SECRETARY Carlisle, at midnight on Sunday, issued a notice calling for proposals for the purchase of $100,000,000 of United States 4 per cent bonds. The bonds will be issued February 1st. and be payable in coin thirty years after date. In spite of all opposition Cleveland evidently says bonds I want and bonds I'll have.

RICHARD H. CLARKE, goldbug of Mobile, has issued an address to the Democrats of Alabama, announcing himself as a candidate for the governorship. Capt. Joe Johnston, free silver man, of Birmingham, is already announced. If the gubernatorial contest lay between these two men only we would unhesitatingly prefer Capt. Johnston, who undoubtedly has a far larger following than any goldbug candidate can possibly hope for. As the Advertiser gang are supporting Mr. Clarke they will attempt to control the convention and secure for him the nomination and leave poor Capt. Johnston out in the cold. But the People's Party in due time will produce their candidate, who will be elected as in the last two elections and not only elected, but will take his seat in the gubernatorial chair.

A MEETING of Populists of Jefferson county was held last week in Bessemer for the purpose of formulating the county ticket for the ensuing campaign. A circular letter was prepared and ordered to be printed and distributed throughout Jefferson county. It contains the names of the gentlemen selected by the meeting for the several county offices. We extract from this circular some good Populistic doctrine and think it might be followed in other counties.

We believe that it is but just and politic to confer informally together as Populists to determine who shall be our candidates and not leave this most important matter subject to the action or manipulation of any so-called leaders, who too often assume to direct the affairs of a party and say who shall or who shall not run for office. Bossism has killed the old democratic party and driven many of us from its ranks. We should avoid all possible danger from this source in our organization. We want no leaders except as we select them for specific duty. The people must rule. As you know, however, it is not the offices that the Populists seek, but the protection of the interests of the people by the election of honest, worthy, reliable citizens to protect those interests.

WE have much pleasure in reprinting from last week's Tribune a letter from Hon. A. P. Longshore suggesting the name of the Hon. S. M. Adams as the People's Party gubernatorial candidate. Brother Adams is so well known in our county that it would be superfluous for us to say anything in regard to his qualifications. We can, however, assure him that if he receives the nomination at the State convention he can rely upon the unanimous and hearty support of the Populists of Chilton county.

COLUMBIANA, Ala., Dec. 18.

To The Tribune:

I have, for some time, been casting about for a suitable man to head the reform forces next year. We all realize that we must have a man who is, and has been heretofore, a reformer in every sense of the word. I am satisfied, after looking the field over, that Hon. S. M. Adams of Bibb is the man to head the ticket. He is an upright Christian gentleman, in whom the reformers of Alabama have the utmost confidence. He is an able speaker, a clear and concise reasoner, a bold and fearless champion of the rights of the people, an uncompromising foe to ballot box stuffing. He is well known in every county in the State, having been President for several years of the Farmers Alliance and Industrial Union. I have nothing to say in disparagement of any other man suggested, but I know of no man in the State who has more of the essentials of leadership than Hon. S. M. Adams of Bibb.

A. P. LONGSHORE.

WE have received a circular letter from the headquarters of the United Confederate Vetrans Association at New Orleans in reference to the proposed establishment of the Confederate Memorial Hall in which Confederate relics and mementoes are to be deposited for all time. At the Houston reunion Mr. Charles Broadway Rouss subscribed $100,000 for the purpose of establishing this Memorial hall, on the condition that the Veterans raised a like amount. A committee was appointed and they suggest that the most feasible manner of reaching the desired object is to set apart a "Memorial Festival Day," and the General Commanding designates Friday, May 1, 1896 as the most suitable time for the use of the women of the South in raising funds for this great Memorial Hall.

The General Commanding appeals to and urges these heroic women, survivors of a heroic age, and all the daughters of the South who take pride in the history of such worthy and glorious ancestors, to immediately organize societies and elect presidents, secretaries, teasurers and other officers, in every city, town, hamlet and neighborhood in the South, and to notify Colonel R. C. Wood, general manager of of the Confederate Memorial Association, No 44 Perdido street, New Orleans, La., so that he can at once supply them with subscription books and full instructions, and respectfully requests that they will commence without delay the collection of funds for the erection of this depository of the records of the valor of Southern manhood and the heroism of Southern womanhood, and continue their efforts symtematically, making the "Memorial Festival Day," May 1, 1896, the culmination of their efforts.

The money raised by each society and in each locality must be deposited in some good bank or other safe depository, to the order of the United Confederate Veterans for the use of the Confederate Memorial Association, to remain until called for by proper authority.

In the meantime, each society or locality, where money is raised, will report the amount collected to Colonel R. C. Wood, general manager of the Confederate Memorial Association, No. 44 Perdido street, New Orleans, La., so that an idea can be formed of the total amount thus secured.

The General Commanding requests the old veterans composing the 721 United Confederate Veteran Camps of this Association to render all the assistance possible to the ladies engaged in this holy cause.

A CONVENTION of the cotton growers is called by Hecter D. Lane, president of the American Cotton Growers' Protective Association, to meet at Memphis on Tuesday, January 21, to consider what steps shall be taken in regard to the next crop. Mr. Lane says:

According to official data, America has exported to Europe 1,323,000 bales less than last year. The northern mills have taken 450,000 bales less than last year. Stocks of cotton at American ports and interior towns are about the same as last year, but as the season progresses the stocks at the ports will daily grow less as compared with last year.

On the other hand, the mills of England, America and the continent are running full time, and if they keep up the present prices until next September they will need all your cotton; they cannot wait for the next crop. What, then, prevents your obtaining remunerative prices for the remaining portion of this crop?

Referring to the cotton speculators of New Orleans, New York and Liverpool, he says:

The southern planter has the power to depose these reckless despots and wholesale despoilers of our prosperity. Destroy the annual surplus, their able coadjutor, by a judicious decrease of acreage and these gentlemen will be out of a job. Plant only a moderate crop and you will be better off with a 7,000,000 to a 7,500,000 crop selling at 10 to 11 cents than a 10,000,000 bale crop selling at 5 to 6 cents.

We certainly believe Mr. Lane is correct in his assumption, and would again earnestly impress upon our Chilton county farmers that they make a point of first raising their home supplies and devote only their spare land and labor to raising cotton. Because you have received a little better price for your cotton this fall, mainly on account of the shortness of this crop, do not run into the extreme of planting nothing but cotton this year.

Christmas of 1895 is numbered among the events of the past, and the people are preparing for a new year. It is an undisputed fact that the farmers of this community are in a much better condition than at this time last year. With well filled corn cribs and plenty of home raised meat they are prepared to greet the new year with a feeling of independence, with smiling faces and happy hearts.

The Christmas has come and gone It passed off very quietly here. No drunks, no rows, no cutting and no shooting. The small boy and the darkie had their usual good noisy time popping firecrackers. And the local merchants did a rushing business for several days especially in Christmas goods.

There is plenty of corn, meat and molasses all over this county and I think more money than for several years past. The people have more generally paid their taxes than at any previous time. Collector B. M. Gentry will not be under the painful necessity of putting the penalty on many of his constituents.

The people are paying more attention to colts (horses and mules) cattle, hogs and goats than heretofore. I have not detected any improvements in sheep raising.

The people seem so much better off at the end of this year than of last, it does look like they ought to see diversified crops and living and boarding at home is the best and wisest policy, but I much fear many of them will run cotton crazy next year.

Late Literary News.

No one ever thought of introducing so expensive a feature as lithographic color work in the days when the leading magazines sold for $4.00 a year and 35 cents a copy. But times change, and the magazines change with them. It has remained for The Cosmopolitan, sold at $1.00 a year, to put in an extensive lithographic plant capable of printing 320,000 pages per day (one color). The January issue presents as a frontispiece a water-color drawing by Eric Pape, illustrating the last story of Robert Lewis Stevenson, which has probably never been excelled even in the pages of the finest dollar French periodicals. The cover of The Cosmoplitan is also changed, a drawing of page length by the famous Paris artist Rossi, in lithographic colors on white paper takes the place of the manilla back with its red stripe. Hereafter the cover is to be a fresh surprise each month.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR]

STRASBURG, Ala., Jan. 3, 1896.

Editor BANNER: Presuming upon your kindness in the past in publishing the many views of our people on various topics I once again present myself with a bundle of opinions, sincerely asking a fair and impartial hearing and consideration of the same, in regard to what seems to us to be for the best in the management of our political affairs, both for the State and county.

Of course, I understand that we have committees especially selected to attend to these matters, yet committees always like to have an expression from the people in regard to all very important actions that they may be sustained in their acts by the people. So, in all humbleness as a citizen and avowed populist I feel constrained to come forward with some suggestions, especially regarding the situation in our own county, for the time is rapidly drawing nigh when action must be taken as to the manner of nominating candidates for the various offices to be filled in this county.

Now all who give any attention to such things understand that there is quite a number of people spoken of for the various places, and to my mind I see nothing alarming in this more than that perhaps some foolish things may have been done and said for and against individual or prospective candidates. And now, because of these things we have some people who say that we ought to hold beat meetings, etc., and have an understanding who shall be candidates and not allow any man's name to come before the people who has even so much as been mentioned heretofore in order, as they say, to kill off aspirants and office-seekers.

Now this would be funny if it was not so serious, for who is it that can assume the right and privilege to say that any man in what we call a free country shall not have the right to submit himself or his name for any and all positions that the people may be willing to accept his services for, and more, there is not now nor ever will be a man in any office that did not in some degree aspire to it, and it would shake my confidence in any man were he to tell me that he had no aspiration for any official position which he may be holding.

Here is the thing to consider in our dealings publicly and privately, let our aspirations and ambitions be kept under the curb of honor and uprightness, and I want to say here and now that I condemn the idea of a few men in each beat coming together and laying down a requisition for everybody to be governed by. I am willing to submit to the voice of the whole people in primary where every man who will take the obligation to support the nominee, and the principles of our party in both county and State, is to have a vote.

And now with the foregoing explanations of my position, the[illegible] every man shall have a full and [illegible] privilege to offer himself and his services to the people, using his own judgment as to whether the people want those services or not being actuated and led by the principles as enunciated by the platform of our party, Yours L. B. POUNDS.

WEST CHILTON, Jan. 3. 1896.

Editor BANNER: I write you this card to let the people know that we are going to run Mr. E. W. Bailey candidate for our next tax assessor. He will serve us as assessor if we elect him, and I am satisfied that he can make as good bond as any man in the county, is competent of filling the office and I now put his name before the people of Chilton county as a candidate for our next tax assessor. I have known Mr. Bailey for a good many years; he is alright in every respect and is a high toned gentleman. The people may now consider him in the field as a candidate for we are going to run him and we are going to elect him, you may bet your socks on that.

DIXIE, Ala., Jan. 4, 1896.

Editor BANNER: The friends of E. W. Bailey are not satisfied at his declining to be a candidate for office and they will at the proper time announce his name for the office of Tax Assessor. In his statement as published a few weeks ago, he did not decline to serve the people, and we will ask the consideration of the voters of Chilton for him for assessor. Mr. Bailey is well qualified for the office and we the people do not think that we could do better than to nominate him. South Chilton will go solid for him.

A few days ago the house owned by Mr. Joel Friday and occupied by Jim Bailey (colored) caught fire and was burned to the ground. Bailey and his wife were absent, at work some distance from the house, and had left their three little children, the eldest of whom was not more than four years old, alone. It is surmised the children played near the fire in the open fireplace, and their clothing becoming ignited set the house ablaze. When the fire was discovered the back wall of the house was falling in, and it was too late to rescue the children. Their poor little bodies when taken from the ruins were all that could be found the arms and legs having been burned off.

THE NEW YORK WORLD THREE TIMES A WEEK AND THE BANNER FOR $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE TWICE-A-WEEK edition of the New York World has been converted into the THRICE-A-WEEK. It furnishes 3 papers of 6 pages apiece, or eighteen pages every week, at the old price of one dollar a year. This gives 156 papers a year for one dollar and every paper has six pages eight columns wide or 48 columns in all. The THRICE-A-WEEK World is not only much larger than any weekly or semi-weekly newspaper, but it furnishes the news with much greater frequency and promptness. In fact it combines all the crisp, fresh qualities of a daily with the attractive special features of a weekly.

THE NEW ELECTION LAW.

No. 357 AN ACT S. 459.

To amend Section 5, to repeal Section 35 and Section 36, and to add Section 49 to an act entitled An Act to Further Regulate Elections in the State of Alabama, approved February 21, 1893.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Alabama, That Section 5 of an act entitled An Act to Further Regulate Elections in the State of Alabama be amended so as to read as follows: Section 5. Be it further enacted, That it shall not be lawful to register any elector in any precinct or ward in this State after the time herein prescribed for such registration, but the registrars shall be present at the polling places in the precincts or wards for which they are respectively appointed on the day of any general or special election to register such persons as may have reached the age of 21 years since the last registration; such other persons as may make oath that they became bona fide residents of the precinct in which they propose to register not less than thirty days before the day of election and since the last registration; but electors having the Constitutional qualifications who may have resided in any incorporate city in this State having a population of more than 5,000 inhabitants, as determined by the last federal census, for thirty days immediately preceding any election and have within such thirty days removed their residence from one precinct to another in the same city shall, after a residence of one day, be entitled to vote in the precinct in which they reside at the time of the election, but each of such electors herein last provided for must first deposit with the inspectors of election in said precinct the certificate of the Judge of Probate that said elector is duly registered in the precinct from which he has removed, and no other person than those provided for in this section shall be permitted to register on the day of the election. The present registrar shall furnish to each elector who may register on the day of election a certificate of registration, which shall be substantially in this form: State of Alabama, County of ——. Precinct No. ——, I, ——, precinct registrar, hereby certify that —— has this day registered before me as an elector, —— Registrar, Precinct No. ——, and if precinct registrar fails to attend or there is a vacancy in the office, the county registrar shall appoint some competent person as precinct registrar for that day, and if no appointment is made by 10 o'clock of that day, then the inspectors of election, or any two of them, may appoint a precinct registrar, who may qualify and act as such for that day: provided nothing in this act shall be construed as repealing, altering or amending the ordinances now or hereafter ordained by any municipal corporation chartered by the General Assembly providing for the separate registration of electors for municipal elections.

Sec. 2. Be it further [illegible], That Section 35 and Section 36 of said act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, That said act be amended by adding thereto Section 49, in words as follows: Sec. 49. Be it further enacted, That upon opening the polls the inspectors must appoint two markers or assistants, one for each of the opposing political parties who may have candidates to be voted for at the election; and each of whom must be a [illegible] person, able to read and [illegible], if practicable, [illegible] electors, or any two of [illegible], in like manner, from time to time, and as often as may be necessary to give every illiterate elector and every physically disabled elector an opportunity to vote, appoint a marker, who must be selected as provided for the selection of the first two. Every marker before entering upon his duties must take an oath, which may be administered by any person authorized by law to administer oaths, or by any one of the inspectors, to perform the duties of marker at the election according to law. No inspector, clerk or marker shall be appointed nor shall act as such except in the beat of his residence at the time of the election. Clerks and markers must be appointed from a list of persons not less than six nor more than ten in any beat, who may be suggested for that purpose by the duly constituted authorities respectively of the opposing political parties having candidates to be voted for at the election. Every illiterate or physically disabled elector shall be permitted to have the assistance of a marker, who has been appointed by the inspectors, and who may be selected by him from the number of markers. Any inspector who may refuse to appoint markers from the opposing parties, so as to give every illiterate or physically disabled elector the opportunity to select a marker of his own political party, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and must, on conviction, be fined not less than $100 nor more than $500. It is the sense of this section that the opposing party shall each have the right to suggest a list of names, not less than six nor more than ten persons, to act as markers and clerks. If no lists are furnished the inspectors shall appoint clerks and markers from opposing political parties.

Approved February 18, 1895.

Fence the World in 20 Days.

In the sale of the "STAR" Machine, as shown below we have done more in recent years to enable the farmers of this country to get their fencing at the actual cost of the wire than all other fence manufacturers in the United States, because we figure and show how cheap the various styles of fence can be made, or what the actual cost of the wire is to make them, while those who make and sell the fence must add the cost of labor to manufacture and their profit to the actual cost of the wire. Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

[illegible]

HE WON HIS CASE.

The Lawyer's Witty Remark Had Its Effect on the Jury.

Some gray-haired lawyer politicians sat in the hotel talking over their early experiences. The conversation was opened by the man from up the State remarking:

"I see that old Dennis Keeny has just died up in my native town. He was one of the last of the old-style lawyers who relied for winning their cases, not on their knowledge of law, but on their acquaintance with human nature. He was one of the best specimens of the class, too. Stories of his retorts and witty sayings are told all over his own and the adjoining counties.

"The first time I ever heard him was in the case of a man who was on trial for shooting into a party that had come to 'horn' him, a form of country celebration that you have probably heard about. Keeny appeared for the defendant. It was shown that the gun with which the shooting was done was loaded with dried peas instead of lead. Finally a very dirty-looking witness was called, and testified that he had been shot in the right leg. On cross-examination the fellow appeared rather shifty, and finally Keeny asked him to show the jury the exact spot where the pea took effect. The fellow demurred, saying that the shooting had been done six weeks before, and the wound had healed. At last, with great reluctance, the witness drew up his right trousers leg, exposing a limb well covered with dirt. Pointing to a spot which, if possible, was blacker than the rest, the witness said:

"'There; that's where they went in.'

"Keeny turned to the jury, and in his most impressive manner said:

"'Gentlemen, I leave it to your knowledge of crops; if peas had been planted in that soil six weeks ago they would be in blossom now.'

"The witness retired in confusion and Keeny won his case."

Killed by a Dead Snake.

"I heard recently," said a snake fancier the other day, "of a curious incident which indicates the awful virulence of the poison of the cobra di capello. It occurred in India. It appears that one very warm Sunday, while the people were assembled at service, a large cobra glided in through the open door of the church. The preacher did not notice it himself, but several of the congregation did, and they were very much alarmed. The sexton was, fortunately, on the alert, and he managed to secure a tulwar, with which he cut off the creature's head before it had time to do any mischief.

"After the service a number of the congregation were looking at the headless reptile, when one man, more curious than the rest, placed his foot on the severed head and rolled it toward him. Presently he uttered a loud exclamation and drew his foot away. By some means he had contrived to set in action the poison fangs, which darted violently forward and struck him in the foot. Remedies were applied, but they proved in vain; half an hour later the poor fellow was a corpse."

Controlled by a Hair.

One solitary human hair seems a very small thing, but it is the most important part of an important machine in the Capitol at Washington. The machine warms and ventilates the House, the Senate, and the various committee rooms and runs several electric dynamos. Its most curious feature is the appliance for telling the proper temperature of the air in the building. A dial arranged like a clock marks different degrees from [illegible] 100. Zero means perfectly dry air. [illegible] saturated air; i. e., air carrying all the [illegible] it will hold. Human hair absorbs moisture like a rope, becoming shorter when it is wet. The hair here [illegible] six inches long. The difference in length between it when wet and when dry stands for the 100 degree of moisture on the dial, and as the moisture of the hair varies the pointer on the dial moves. According to the necessity more steam is thrown in or steam is allowed to escape, the atmosphere being in this way regulated and kept at a healthy point.

Only 16 and She "Chaws Terbacker!"

Miss Drake, aged 16 years, of Lynn, Ky., is a very naughty girl or a very unfortunate one, or both. She chews tobacco, and not only that, but the vile habit has obtained such a mastery over her that she is killing herself, with little hope of relief. She began using the weed in small quantities about a year ago, and so fast did the habit grow upon her that in three months she was consuming two pounds of leaf tobacco a week. Her parents became alarmed and forced her to discontinue its use, but so great was her suffering that she twice attempted suicide. For the past six months she has used four pounds every week, having a large chew in her mouth at all times when she is not eating, even sleeping with a quid under her tongue. She is emaciated to a mere skeleton, having lost forty-three pounds in weight since she began the use of the weed. The doctors have tried every known remedy to destroy the appetite, but without success.

Sarsaparilla Sense.

Any sarsaparilla is sarsaparilla True. So any tea is tea. So any flour is flour. But grades differ. You want the best. It's so with sarsaparilla. There are grades. You want the best. If you understood sarsaparilla as well as you do tea and flour it would be easy to determine. But you don't. How should you?

When you are going to buy a commodity whose value you don't know, you pick out an old established house to trade with, and trust their experience and reputation. Do so when buying sarsaparilla.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has been on the market fifty years. Your grandfather used Ayer's. It is a reputable medicine. There are many sarsaparillas. But only one Ayer's. IT. CURES.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

HOUSE.—No session.

SENATE.—After some routine business the house bond bill was laid before the senate, read twice and referred to the finance committee.... The resolution by Mr. Quay, calling on the secretary of the navy for information as to whether it would be advantageous to contract for six new battle ships instead of two, was taken up and agreed to....Mr. Lodge addressed the senate on the Monroe doctrine and its application to the Venezuelan boundary question, giving a history of that question from its beginning up to date....The correspondence relating to the vice-consulates at Erzeroom and Kharpoot was laid before the senate and referred to the committee on foreign relations....A resolution, by Mr. Mitchell, republican, of Oregon, relating to select committees of the senate, was agreed to....Mr. Mitchell then offered a resolution providing for the reorganization, by the republicans, of the standing and select committees of the senate from and after January 1st. A lengthy debate followed and, the yeas and nays being called, the resolution was adopted by 30 to 28. Five of the six populists not voting.... An executive session was held. A proposition for a recess from tomorrow until January 7th was objected to and withdrawn, and at 5:40 the senate adjourned until tomorrow.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

HOUSE.—The house met informally and adjourned until Thursday.

SENATE.—The resolution as to additional duty on raw wool was referred to the committee on finance.....Mr. Perkins, republican, of California, introduced a resolution instructing the finance committee to report an amendment to the house revenue bill providing for an additional duty on new sugar equal to the proposed increase on other articles, and asked immediate consideration. Objection was made and the resolution went over.

VENEZUELA'S INTERNAL AFFAIRS.

Revolutionary Correspondence Leads to Sensational Arrests.

A special from Caracas, Venezuela, says: A profound sensation has been caused by the arrest of Gen. Hermogene Lopez, once the president of Venezuela, in the time of Guzman Blanco. The arrest was made, it is said, because of the discovering of revolutionary correspondence involving the latter. English capitalists, it is rumored, have approached Guzman Blanco to stir up a rebellion here.

Among others arrested are Gen. Gonzalez Guana, chief of police under Guzman Blanco; Domingo Carbajal, a revolutionary chief in the time of President Palavio; the Paredes brothers and Valencia.

President Crespo is determined to suppress the movement at any cost.

The militia has been enrolled but not armed yet; probably will not be until everything is quiet.

Next Sunday President Crespo will issue a printed address to the people of Venezuela, giving the actual position of the government on the Guiana question, expressing the gratitude of the nation to President Cleveland for his attitude in upholding the Monroe doctrine, so necessary to the maintenance of the independence of the southern republics and urging the people to bury political discord and present a solid front to the English invader.

At the same time General Crespo counsels the people to be calm, to refrain from violence and await the action of the United States.

The address will be read in the plazas of the different cities.

To Make Munitions of War.

Two important charters were granted by the corporation court of Norfolk, Va., during the latter part of the December term and their purport made public Saturday. Two companies were chartered with the right to manufacture munitions of war, with general offices in Norfolk and branch offices in Alexandria, Va.

ANOTHER STAR IN THE GALAXY

The President Issues His Proclamation Declaring Utah a State.

The president, at 10 o'clock a. m., Saturday, signed the proclamation admitting Utah to statehood. The proclamation reads as follows:

By the President of the United States of America.

A Proclamation—Whereas, The congress of the United States passed an act which was approved on the 16th day of July, 1894, entitled "An act to enable the people of Utah to form a constitution and state government, and to be admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original states," which act provided for the election of delegates to a constitutional convention to meet at the seat of government of the territory of Utah on the first Monday in March, 1895, for the purpose of declaring the adoption of the constitution of the United States by the people of the proposed state and forming a constitution and state government for such state; and

Whereas, Delegates were accordingly selected, who met, organized and declared on behalf of the people of said proposed state their adoption of the constitution of the United States, all as provided in said act; and,

Whereas, Said convention, so organized, did, by ordinance, irrevocable without the consent of the United States and the people of said state as required by said act, provide that perfect toleration of religious sentiment shall be secured and that no inhabitant of said state shall ever be molested in person or property on account of his or her mode of religious worship, but that polygamous or plurate marriages are forever prohibited; and did also by said ordinance make the other various stipulations recited in Section 3 of said act; and,

Whereas, said convention thereupon formed a constitution and state government for said proposed state, which constitution, including said ordinance was duly submitted to the people thereof at an election held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, 1895, as directed by said act: and,

Whereas, The returns of said election have been made and canvassed and the result thereof certified to me, together with a statement of the votes cast and a copy of said constitution or ordinance, all as provided in said act, showing that a majority of the votes legally cast at such election was for the ratification and adoption of said constitution and ordinance; and,

Whereas, The constitution and government of said proposed state are republican in form, said constitution is not repugnant to the constitution of the United States and the declaration of independence; and all the provisions of said act have been complied with in the formation of said constitution and government.

Now, therefore, I, Grover Cleveland, president of the United States of America, in accordance with the act of congress aforesaid and by authority thereof, announce the result of said election to be as so certified and do hereby declare and proclaim that the terms and conditions prescribed by the congress of the United States to admission into the Union have been duly complied with, and that the creation of said state and its admission into the Union on an equal footing with the original states is now accomplished.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington, this 4th day of January, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-six, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and twentieth.

[Seal.] Grover Cleveland.

By the president:

Richard Olney, Secretary of State.

LEVI P. MORTON

Announced as a Candidate for the Republican Nomination for President.

Following the statement telegraphed the day before, upon the authority of ex-Senator Warner, that Governor Morton had authorized his friends to announce that he had consented to become a candidate for president of the United States, Thomas C. Platt on Thursday said: "Gov. Levi P. Morton is a candidate for president on the republican ticket. The governor will not make any formal statement himself, but he has told his friends he is a candidate. I regard Governor Morton as the strongest candidate in the race."

THE VENEZUELAN BOUNDARY.

President Cleveland Appoints Five Citizens as Commissioners.

Under the authority of the resolution providing for a commission to investigate and report the facts relating to the disputed line between British Guiana and the Republic of Venezuela, the president has appointed the following: D. J. Brewer, of Kansas; associate justice of the supreme court of the United Sates; Richard H. Alvey, of Maryland, chief justice of the court of appeals of the District of Columbia; Andrew D. White, Frederick R. Coudert, of New York, and Daniel G. Gillman, of Maryland, president of the Johns Hopkins university. In politics the commissioners are classed as follows: Republicans, Judge Brewer and Andrew D. White; Democrats, Judge Alvey and Mr. Coudert. Mr. Gillman is of no party affiliation, but inclined to republicanism. He is distinguished for his attainments in scientific and historic research. All the commissioners have evidently been chosen with a view to their eminent fitness for the task imposed.

THE VENEZUELAN COMMISSIONERS

Receive Their Commissions and Take the Oath of Office.

A commission has been issued to each member of the Venezuelan-Guiana commission, as follows:

To the Hon. David J. Brewer:

You are hereby appointed a member of the commission to investigate and report upon the true location of the divisional line between the territory of the republic of Venezuela and that of British Guinea.

It is expected that the commission will avail itself of all possible sources of information; will apply to the matter all pertinent rules of municipal and international law, and will make a report to the president of their conclusions, together with the evidence and documents submitted to and considered by them, with as little delay as is compatible with the thorough and impartial consideration of the subject to be dealt with.

In testimony whereof I have caused these letters to be patent and the seal of the United States to be hereunto affixed.

Given under my hand at the City of Washington, on the fourth day of January in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-six, and of the independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and twentieth.

Grover Cleveland.

By the President:

Richard Olney, Secretary of State.

After receiving their commissions on Saturday they proceeded to hold a preliminary meeting.

The session lasted about an hour, and at its conclusion a formal statement of the proceedings, so far as it was deemed proper to make public, was given out as follows:

Justice Brewer was unanimously elected president of the commission, and proceeded to administer to Messrs. Alvey, Coudert and Gilman the following oath:

"I — of — appointed — of the United States at — do solemnly swear that I will support and defend the constitution of the United States of America against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without mental reservation or purpose of evasion, and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office of member of the commission to investigate and report upon the location of the divisional line between the territory of the republic of Venezuela and that of British Guinea, etc."

Commissioner Alvey then in turn administered the same oath to President Brewer. It was moved and seconded that the president designate a clerk to act for the present session of the commission and Walter Blandford was appointed in that capacity.

Commissioner Coudert moved that the matter of the selection of quarters for the commission be left to President Brewer and Commissioner Alvey, which motion was agreed to.

Commissioner Gilman moved that an inquiry be made as to the best map, showing the physical characteristics of the country in question, and where it could be reproduced in a convenient form for the use of the commission. This motion was also agreed to. Commissioner Gilman was authorized to make the inquiry.

Adjourned until next Saturday.

Payments for the bonds must be made at the treasury of the United States at Washington, D. C., or at United States sub-treasuries at New York, Boston Philadelphia, Baltimore, Cincinnati Chicago, St. Louis or New Orleans, or they may be made at San Francisco with exchange on New York, and all bids must state what denominations of bonds are desired and whether coupon or registered and at what place they will be paid for.

Payments may be made by installments, as follows: Twenty per cent. upon receipt of notice of acceptance of bids, and 20 per cent. at the end of each ten days thereafter; but all accepted bidders may pay the whole amount at the date of the first installment, and those who have paid all installments previously maturing may pay the whole amount of their bids at any time, not later than the maturity of the last installment.

The bonds will be ready for delivery on or before the 15th day of February, 1896.

Notice is further hereby given that if the issue and sale of an additional or different form of bond for the maintenance of the gold reserve shall be authorized by law before the 15th day of February, 1896, sealed proposals for the purchase of such bonds will also be received at the same time and place, and up to the same date and upon the same terms and conditions herein set forth and such bids will be considered as well as the bids for the 4 per cent bonds herein mentioned.

DIDN'T NEED A DEED.

The Native Could Prove His Right to the Claim.

Within a few miles of the North Carolina State line I stopped at a poverty-stricken cabin to smoke a pipe and chat for a few minutes with the tallest and raggedest native I ever saw in the South, says a writer. It was evident from the looks of things that he was at hard-pan and below, and after some general talk I queried:

"Why don't you go at it and fix up your cabin so as to make it comfortable?"

"It does look shaklety, and that's a fact," he replied, "but I'm trying to sell out, yo' see."

"Is that the reason you have no crops?"

"Yes, that's the reason."

"And how much land do you own here?"

"Wall, sah, I can't 'zactly say how much, but a powerful lot, I reckon."

"But don't you know where your boundary lines begin and end?"

"They might begin down thar' by the creek and eand up thar' by that big tree," he replied in doubtful tones.

"Your deed ought to show," I said.

"Yes, but I hain't got any deed."

"Didn't you get a deed when you bought this property?"

"No, sah—no deed."

"Then how can you say you own it?"

"How kin I say, sah how kin I say?" he repeated. "Why, sah, I cum 'long yere arter the wah and liked the looks of the place and squatted on it. Since that time three different critters hev cum up from Maisonville to hist me off, and I hev killed two and wounded the t'other and held right on. If that hain't ownin' the property then I'd like to know! No, sah, I hain't got no deed, but I hev got a double-barreled shotgun, and I reckon thar' won't be any disputes about ownership when I find a critter who wants to buy!"

Bacilli in Hay.

One of the latest discoveries in the bacilli kingdom is the "hay bacillus," found guilty of what has hitherto been called the "spontaneous combustion" of improperly cured hay. A scientist—who knows all about it, of course—says that the hay bacillus is a minute, "sticklike" being, always and everywhere found on grass and hay. When hay is not sufficiently dry, the bacilli continue to live on the moisture still present. By their breathing, these mischievous atoms generate heat, and as there are billions on billions of them, the heat rises until it reaches 100 degrees C. and more. Then the poor things die. But the mischief goes on. The blades of grass are turned into threads of coal; the coal, condensing the gases developed, increases the heat. Finally, when this transformation has progressed to the surface, a slight draft fans the smoldering mass into flame. In like manner bacilli of the same genus cause the ignition of manure heaps.

Comes to stay

There is more than one food which will cause the body to increase in weight. A free supply of sugar will do this; so will the starchy foods; cream, and some other fats. But to become fleshy, and yet remain in poor health, is not what you want. Cod-liver oil increases the weight because it is a fat-producing food. But it does far more than this. It alters, or changes, the processes of nutrition, restoring the normal functions of the various organs and tissues.

VOL. IV. CLANTON ALA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 16, 1896 NO. 12.

AN ENORMOUS LOSS.

AN EXPERIENCED MINER OF MONTANA WRITES A LETTER.

Mr. Joseph K. Clark in a Letter to General Paul Van Dervoort Gives Some Valuable Reasons Why Silver Should Be Remonetized.

Butte, Mont., Dec. 18, 1895.

Hon. Paul Van Dervoort, Omaha, Neb.

Dear Sir: Agreeable to promise I send you a few of the material facts relative to the silver question, and which I trust may throw a little more light on the great problem of the day—a problem with which many of the eastern people are not familiar.

In 1893, when the price of silver dropped to 59 cents per ounce, the deep silver mines of Montana, and in fact all mining states and territories, had sufficient ore reserves opened up and exposed to last from one to two years.

The great drop in silver, with its attendant general financial crash in 1893, so discouraged the silver producers that development work on the large mines came to a standstill, and only the reserve bodies of ore were taken out and treated. These reserves have been completely exhausted up to date, and no profit accrued to the owners.

I will cite you to the Alice, Moulton and Lexington, which were numbered among the largest silver producing mines of the world, and fifty other mines in Butte alone, whose machinery is now lying idle. There are in this, the greatest mining camp on earth, a few leasers working some of the best properties, and making only a bare living.

In Philipsburg, Granite county, the Bimetallic and Granite Mountain, two mines which have paid several millions of dollars in dividends, are now closed down on account of the low price of silver.

The Elkhorn, in Jefferson county, which has been a divident paying bonanza for fifteen years, recently published to the world the fact that it must succumb to the inevitable—that their great ore bodies were exhausted.

Look carefully over the mining field, and see if you can find one rich producing silver mine. The bonanzas, which held such conspicuous places in the mining world, are things of the past. Today but one is left—the Ontario, of Utah, and that is being worked at a small profit only.

It is true that there are left a few silver mines from which the rich bodies of ore have not been all taken out. These, however, will soon become exhausted, if steadily worked. When and where have any large silver mines been found of late years? The Molly Gibson, located in Colorado, is the only one, and like the Alice, Moulton and Lexington, it is lying idle today.

I mention these facts as evidence that silver mines are not being sought after or prospected for, because they may not be found, and would not pay if discovered. When one is found, in the search for copper, the claim is recorded, represented, and left idle in hopes that some day in the near future silver will reach a paying basis.

There are, no doubt, very many small silver leads yet undiscovered, and had silver not been demonetized, there would be today at least three thousand of them, in [illegible] and territories, working [illegible] three thousand mines [illegible] employment to fifty thousan[illegible]

Look car[illegible] of the labor [illegible] fifty the [illegible] [illegible] 500,000 [illegible] 7,000 wor[illegible] [illegible]e east, simply because to open and develop three thousand mines, vast amounts of machinery would be required, and the army of men engaged in these mines would have to be fed and clothed. To produce the machinery, clothing and food, would require the services of a ten times greater number of men. Again, the product of the mines would increase the number of wage earners who manufacture works of art—every article for which silver is used.

Remonetize silver, and at least one-half million men in the east who are now idle will have employment, and I firmly believe the number would be twice one-half million. At the same time there would be an increase in wages, for when the west is prosperous high wages are always paid, and high wages mean a more generous distribution of money.

The gold bugs say we "are making an overproduction of silver;" that "it can be produced for 25 cents per ounce with profit." Let us look at this matter intelligently.

When we take into consideration the immense number of men who have been engaged in prospecting for silver mines; the hundreds of "mines" which do and never have produced; the millions of dollars expended in the erection of buildings, purchase and planting of machinery on properties which have never returned a penny of profit, or even returned the original investment, and with these expenditures m[illegible] an honest comparison, it will be plainly seen that the gold bug estimate of 25 cents per ounce for cost of production loses its honesty of statement, and appears only as a ridiculous assertion, made with deliberate intention to falsify.

I will illustrate with indisputable figures how rapidly the silver production is falling off, and more particularly with the price at or near 67 cents per ounce.

In 1891 the production was $75,416,500.

In 1882 the production amounted to $74,989,900.

In 1894 it dropped to 49,500,000 ounces.

For 1895 the actual production will not exceed 33,000,000 ounces.

At this rate of decrease the production in 1896 will be less that 25,000,000 ounces.

Every laborer, artisan, mechanic, farmer, merchant and professional man in these United States should give this subject his earnest thought that his mind may more easily grasp the monetary situation with a realizing sense of its importance.

With our mines idle this decrease will continue until, in a very few years, silver will only be known as a by-product with copper and gold, and will not exceed, all told, over 15,000,000 ounces.

The demand for silver to be used in art and manufacture may possibly act in a certain degree as a stimulus to silver mining industry. Without a demand of this nature it will require the entire amount of the by-product to supply the art trade only.

With low prices where is the world's supply to come from? America will have no silver to sell. This country and Mexico have produced over one-half the silver in the world at this time. Mexico is using the greater part of all the silver she produces, and we can readily see how that country makes herself prosperous by so doing. She pays all her help with silver at a ratio of 16 to 1, and sells her products, aside from silver, in gold countries, receiving payment in gold. Such manner of transacting business makes silver countries prosperous, while gold countries deteriorate commercially and financially.

Many of the politicians of today are [illegible] silver with tariff. While I am for tariff, I am for silver first [illegible] being a paramou[illegible] [illegible]apan [illegible] China are both si[illegible] [illegible] can as easily make or manufacture any needed article as can the United States. With monometallism, Japan and China are given 75 per cent advantage to start with. The difference between gold and silver at present gives them 50 per cent advantage, while the difference in price of labor in other countries and ours is over 25 per cent; hence 75 per cent is a small estimate. With their cheap labor to contend with, how are we to shut out their wares and products? Can we raise the tariff high enough to do so?

This is one of the gravest questions we have to contend with. Shall we allow the gold bugs of England and the United States to reduce our free-born laboring classes to a level with the Mongolian or enslaved coolies of Asiatic countries? Emphatically, No!

But how prevent it?

The simplest thing imaginable. Throw political affiliations aside; ignore all party ties on this important issue, and vote for the presidential candidate who is known to favor the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1.

Take John Sherman from 1873 to the present time for example, with Grover Cleveland and John G. Carlisle as auxiliaries, and see where they, with their monometallist proclivities and teachings, and administrative acts, have placed us. In the mining states and territories we see deserted towns, idle machinery, desolate houses, poverty, starvation, misery, misery, misery, and a terrible increase in the crime which follows and is the outcome of want and suffering.

Railroads, too, are mostly in the hands of receivers, and trains are running short-handed with crews working at pitifully low wages.

Farmers are in a still worse condition. For all they sell they receive less than the cost of production, and apparently do not know the cause. A few days since I met a farmer in Omaha, Neb. He told me corn in the country was worth but 12½ cents per bushel. That farmers were selling their hogs at so low a figure they had to do without meat at home. That they were compelled to do this to procure the necessaries more essential to life, and also to pay their taxes. I regret to learn that this state of affairs exists to a great extent in all the agricultural states.

In some of the states farmers are burning corn because they have no money to buy coal, or they find corn so much cheaper, as fuel.

I ask in all honesty, Are such things necessary in a land so naturally blessed as our own America? So rich in its millions of resouces?

Is there no remedy?

I answer, Yes! By the ballot. At the coming presidential election vote for a candidate who is a pronounced silverite, who favors the free coinage of silver and gold at a ratio of 16 to 1, and who will not betray your confidence after his election.

It will require several years to place us on the prosperous footing we enjoyed twenty years ago.

There are but few in the east who realize the great importance of this silver question or understand it in its entirety; who appreciate the fact that we have but just passed through the greatest silver producing era the world has known for four thousand years. It is the third of its kind, and covers a space of thirty-five years, or since the discovery of the famous Comstock in Nevada. With most of the silver m[illegible] ly worked out history is [illegible] repeat itself, and ma[illegible] us with another such pr[illegible]on for a thousand or even five thousand years.

Allowing silver is remonetized at 16 to 1, the production will increase but slowly. The reason is that the greater number of old mines are worked out, and there is but little hopes of finding new ones of their past magnitude.

People in the east, generally, have but little knowledge of the silver mines in the Rocky mountains; know nothing whatever of their workings; are ignorant of how silver is produced, where it comes from, how it got there, or why it should become exhausted.

I have personally examined very many mines on the Pacific slope, and in the interior, and have reliable information from other mines as to their present condition and wealth. I can say truthfully that the number of silver mines showing good ore below the 1,000 foot level will not equal the number of fingers on one's hands; and further, I may say that I am familiar with many mines throughout Montana, Idaho, Utah, Nevada and Colorado, which do not show good paying ore below the 600 or 700 foot levels.

Copper mines are not referred to. They are different. The copper mines of Butte, for instance, improve with depth, and some of them are nearly or quite 1,700 feet deep. They produce, however, but little silver. Seven million ounces per annum will cover all the by-product from copper and lead in Montana at the present time. Silver produced in this way is very expensive, as it must necessarily go through several treatments before it gets into fine bars. With silver at a low figure it does not more than pay for treatment when it is produced with copper.

I could give a thousand more reasons why this country should have free silver coinage at a ratio of 16 to 1, but my letter has grown longer than I at first intended it should be.

The things mentioned are matters of history, some of them unwritten, it is true, but nevertheless truths that will remain with us forever.

With every wish for your success in the great cause you have so nobly espoused, I have the honor to be, very truly yours,

JOSEPH K. CLARK.

Political Freedom.

In the United States senate, March 4, 1881, in reply to the attack made by Senator Hill, of Georgia, on Senator Mahone, of Virginia, because Mahone had "left the Democratic party," United States Senator John A. Logan said:

"I was a Democrat once, too, and I had a right to change my opinions, and I did change them. The man who will not change his opinions when he is honestly convinced that he was in error is a man who is not entitled to the respect of men;" and then, turning to Senator Hill, he added: "If a man happens to differ with you, tyranny of political opinion in your section of the country is such that you undertake to lash him upon the world and try to expose him to the gaze of the public as a man unfaithful to his trust. We have no such tyranny of opinion in the country where I live; and it will be better for your section when such notions are driven to the shades and retired from the action of your people."

Yet, in the face of these brave words, a Kansas Republican legislature changed the name of St. John county to Logan, for the sole reason that ex-Governor St. John had "left the party."—Agitator.

War Proclaimed.

War was proclaimed in August, 1894, against protection and governmental favoritism in the tariff; a fight to the bitter end.

Mr. Cleveland proclaimed it.

He also announced his own enlistment as a private in the army of attack. We quote his energetic words of August 28, 1894:

"I take my place with the rank and file of the democratic party who believe in tariff reform and know what it is and refuse to accept the result embodied in this bill as the close of the war."

This volunteer took his place in the ranks, but where is he now? He has run away!

Has he sent a substitute? If so, who is that substitute? Has he fled also?—New York Sun.

If the voters of this generation had the spirit of the men of 1776 there would be a shaking up of old dry bones among the politicians of today.

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

Escaped From Jail.

Two prisoners knocked down the jailor at Gadsden Tuesday evening and escaped.

School Funds Disbursed.

There has been disbursed to the schools since the beginning of the fiscal year, October 1st, 1895, over $200,000.

Cadet Appointment.

The war department announces the appointment of Marshall H. Hurt, of Tuskegee, to the Military Academy at West Point.

Piedmont Calaboose.

Piedmont's old log calaboose was partially torn down by unknown hands Friday night, leaving that city without a prison.

Postoffice Robbery.

The postoffice at Friuthurst was broken open Thursday night and robbed of a considerable amount of stamps, cash and valuable mail matter.

Hand Mutilated in a Gin.

Mr. George W. Zorn, of Lodi, while at work in his steam gin Saturday, got his hand caught in the machinery and so crushed and mangled that amputation was necessary.

Very Remarkable.

A dispatch from Tuskegee states that a boy "aged 11 years," while playing on the floor, picked up and swallowed a tablet, containing morphine and some other drug, and died in a few minutes.

Abercrombie Bound Over.

McGruder Abercrombie, who is charged with the murder of Belville Temple, in Macon county, has had a preliminary trial. The trial magistrate held him to answer at the court, fixing his bond at $2,500.

Growth of Foreign Trade.

The records of the custom house show that the foreign trade of Mobile for the past twelve months has been over $7,000,000 in value, showing an increase over last year of 63 per cent., and over the year previous of 93 per cent.

People Pay Taxes Promptly.

Since the beginning of the fiscal year, October 1st, 1895, there has been paid into the state treasury $125,000 more than up to the same date last year and the payments for December collections promise to be unprecedented in amount.

Barn Burners at Work.

The barn of T. G. Gilliland a prosperous farmer of Chambers county, was burned Friday night, together with two mules, fodder and 200 bushels of corn. It is supposed to have been set on fire by negroes.

Lost His House and Contents.

Mr. Archie Jennings, of Eagle Creek beat, Tallapoosa county, lost his house and contents by fire Monday night. He also lost his smoke-house and all of his meat, lard, etc. The loss is very heavy on Mr. Jennings, as he had no insurance at all.

Child Burned Fatally.

At Powderly Sunday [illegible] dress of a littl[illegible] [illegible] age, the daugh[illegible] [illegible] Foly, caught [illegible] alone in the house. She ran out and her screams brought willing hands to extinguish the flames, but the poor child was so badly burned that she died in a few hours.

Held on a Grave Charge.

William McMillan, whose arrest at Mobile was chronicled Thursday night on the charge of setting fire to his store to defraud the insurance companies, had a preliminary hearing in the mayor's court, and was held in $250 bond, which he failed to give, and he is still in the guard house.

Negro Woman Assassinated.

Victor White, an aged negro woman living a mile south of Selma, while sitting at her fireside Friday night was shot from outside, one buckshot entering her eye and several striking her neck. Her wounds were supposed to be mortal. A motive for the devilish deed may exist in the fact that she has a life estate in a large body of land.

For the Heroes and Widows.

Since the beginning of the fiscal year October 1, 1895, 6,837 warrants at $17.05 for soldiers and widows, and 56 warrants at $21.48 for blind Confederate soldiers, aggregate, $117,770.93, have been drawn in favor of Confederate soldiers applicants and about the 1st of November were sent to the respective Judges of Probate in the state.

Sale of Fertilizer Tags.

Chief Clerk Leslie A. Smith, of the Agricultural department, speaking of fertilizer tags, says: "The sales for the last quarter far exceed those of any corresponding quarter since the organization of the department. Just see the figures: In October we sold $607 worth, in November $1,635, and in December $5,740, making an aggregate of $7,982."

Murder Most Foul.

A. P. Collins, foreman of the Tecumseh Iron company's smith and machinery repairing shops, was shot from ambush at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, and died from his wound in half an hour. Mr. Collins, with his two little boys, was out squirrel hunting in the settlement where moonshiners are supposed to be running a blockade still. It is probable that one of those engaged in the illicit business fired the fatal shot in order to prevent the discovery of their hidden still. The weapon was a rifle of large caliber. The ball entered his left leg just below the hip, breaking the bones and severing the main artery.

Mr. Collins was 45 years old, a deacon of the Baptist church and a man without an enemy so far as known. He leaves a wife and eight children.

The ratio of gold to silver this year was 1 to 32.50. At this rate a dollar would buy 754.6 grains net of silver.

Bold Leap for Liberty.

When the L & N. which leaves Montgomery at 9 o'clock was going down the steep grade south of Clanton, Edward Hall, a negro convict, asked the guard for a drink of water. He was told to get one, and being handcuffed, and the train running at the rate of forty miles an hour or more, the guard did not follow him to the tank in the rear of the car. Instead of stopping at the water tank, Hall quickly opened the car door, stepped out on the platform and jumped off. He probably escaped alive, because the finding of a corpse has not been heard from.

Forging Signatures.

Postoffice Inspector Whiteside, has been notified that William A. L. Martin, a resident of Talcot, Ala., has been arrested there and bound over to the United States court by United States Commissioner W. D. Kindstrey on the charge of using the mails for fraudulent purposes. For some time he has been writing the Tradesman Publishing company, of Chattanooga, Tenn., requesting sample copies of the journal. He has forged the signatures of persons residing in his town, and also signed fictitious names to several communications. He is held in a bond of $250.

Tennessee River Trade.

Navigation was resumed on this portion of the Tennessee river this week, and business with the steamboats is booming. There will be more boats in the Tennessee river trade this season than for years. The Clyde, the Fisk, the Gunter, the Spring Hill and the Bill Nye were all at Florence this week. The City of Chattanooga is due up from Riverton today, on her way to Chattanooga. The Clyde was here this week for the first time in five month. Reports from river points indicate that large shipments will be handled this season. At many points large quantities of merchandise have been stored for months awaiting the arrival of a boat.

Belligerent Cuba.

Campos has telegraphed to his government that the mayor of Cuba buried over 150 bodies found on the field where the Spaniards under Navarro fought the insurgents under Gomez a few days ago. He also reports another victory, on the 10th, over the insurgents under Maceo at Bigana on the border of the province of Pinar de Rio.

STATE AUDITOR'S REPORT.

Excerpts Showing Some Interesting Facts Relating to State Funds.

The total receipts into the treasury, from all sources, including a temporary loan of $100,000 procured by Governor Jones and also a temporary loan of $100,000 negotiated by in the city of New York, on the 1st of August, 1895, amounts to $2,038,648.95. The total disbursements for all purposes, for the same period, including the payment of $100,000, temporary loan paid in February last, amounts to $2,047,966.41, showing an increase in disbursements over receipts, of a fraction over $9,000. These figures, however, include the receipts and disbursements of three special funds, viz, the convict fund, the agricultural fund and the fund for the relief of disabled needy Confederate soldiers, the receipts and disbursements of which can in no way affect the receipts and disbursements of the general fund. To arrive at a true condition of the general fund, it will be necessary to deduct the receipts and disbursements of the special funds from the totals noted above. The receipts into these funds, for the fiscal year, are as follows:

Convict fund....$163,235.76
Agricultural fund 11,384.77
Confederate soldiers fund......117,813.43 $292,433.96

Disbursements for the same period,

Convict fund....$357,229.59
Agricultural fund 28,303.21
Confederate soldiers fund...... 1[illegible]3 155.51 $308,688.31

It will be seen that there is a difference of $16,254.35 of disbursements of these funds, over receipts, which more than covers the apparent discrepancy in the general statement referred to above.

* * * * * * *

The receipts into the convict fund for the past fiscal year have been sufficient to meet current expenses and liquidate warrants previously issued, aggregating $15,663.15, and leave a balance of $9,340.04 to the credit of that fund.

* * * * * * *

The remarkably small amount of receipts into the agricultural fund for the year amounting to $11,384.77, is due to the fact that an unusually small number of fertilizer tags were sold by the agricultural department during the year, and the price at which such tags were sold was but about half the sum formerly charged except for the preceding fiscal year.

THE national executive committee of the People's Party is now in session at St. Louis and will fix the time and place for holding the national convention.

THE bond syndicate has dissolved and gone out business. It is to be regretted that Cleveland and his bond are not also out of business—but, fortunately, that time is drawing nigh.

POPULISTS are girding up their loins in readiness for the fray. The organized democracy may as well understand right now that for once Alabama intends to have honest elections.

THE annual meeting of the Supreme Council of the National F[illegible] Alliance and Industrial Union w[illegible] at the National Hotel, Pennsylvania ave., Washington, D. C., February 4, at 10 o'clock a.m. A full representation from all the States is urged to be present.

A POST OFFICE savings bank bill has been introduced in the Senate, which empowers money order offices to receive small savings of ten cents or decimal fractions of a dollar, bearing interest at two per centum on yearly deposits. On making deposits the depositor will receive a card with stamps denoting the amount and these cards can be cashed at any money order office in the United States. We hope to see this measure become a law.

On last Friday the matter in the case of W. F. Aldrich vs. G. A. Robbins, from the Fourth Alabama district, was taken up. Mr. Aldrich was represented by P. G. Bowman, while Mr. Robbins was represented by Genreal Shelley and Mr. Fay, the latter of New York. Mr. Bowman consumed nearly two hours on Friday in his argument for the contestant. On Saturday Mr. Fay made his argument for the contestee. Twelve o'clock came before he had finished, and on Monday he concluded, after which Mr. Bowman closed in a half hour's argument, devoted mainly to the old occusation of ballot box stuffing. The case was then submitted to the committee. It is reported that on Friday neat a subcommittee of three will be appointed to examine into the testimony and report their finding to the full committee, after which a report will be made to the.

On Friday next the case of Robinson vs. Harrison, from the Third Alabama district, will be up before the committee, and on the Tuesday following the case of Goodwyn vs. Cebb, from the Fifth Alabama tistrict, will be heard.

The case of Aldrich vs. Underwood, from the North Alabama district, has not been set yet, but the prospect is that it will be in a few days.

HON. S. M. ADAMS has issued the following call for the meeting of the State Executive Committee in Birmingham next Thursday:

RANDOLPH, Ala., Jan. 14, 1896.

The political situation in Alabama has assumed such a shape that I feel it my duty to call a meeting of the Executive Committee, for the purpose of presenting certain questions for consideration.

The members of the Executive Committee are requested to meet me in the city of Birmingham on the 23rd day of January, 1896, at 11 o'clock a.m.

Each member is earnestly requested to be present, as business of vital importance to our party will be considered.

S. M. ADAMS,
Chairman Populist State Executive Committee.

Progress in Civil Service Reform.

The annual meeting of the Civil Service Reform Association was held at Washington, and the Hon. Carl Shurz, as president made a very note-worthy address. The movement has made satisfactory gains, and Mr. Shurz summed them up in a most impressive manner. Our consular service, although sadly demoralized in the opening months of the present Administration, is now, by Secretary Olney's advice, to be brought—so far as most of its places are concerned—under strict and sensible regulations which will in time give us a service based upon actual merit, and one which can be of some use to American commerce. Furthermore, it is proposed to introduce the principles of merit and of permanent tenure into the ranks of the great army of fourth-class postmasters. Gradually we are getting rid of the abominable spoils system and that is a profound reason for thankfulness. It is worth our while to note the fact that a woman's auxiliary of the Civil Service Reform Association has been instituted in New York and that women's branches are to be formed in different perts of the country. There is no political sphere in which intelligent women can render more valuable service to their country than in this hopeful, but necessarily long continued fight against spoils and corruption as the objects and motive of political life. Mrs. Josephine Shaw Lowell is one of the women most actively enlisted in the new movement.—From "The Progress of the World," in the January Review of Reviews.

Turn-Round Topics.

Mr. Charlie Mercer, of Elmore, visited Mr. H. Kendrick last Friday and Saturday. Miss Daisy Kendrick has gone on a two weeks visit to relatives and friends at Elmore.

Mr. H. Kendrick is one of the most prosperous farmers in this community. He is preparing his land in a home like manner. He [illegible] a swamp that will make 10[illegible] per acre. Mr. E. T. Conn[illegible] the swim, he has bottoms as rich [illegible] try can afford. He is cutti[illegible] that will be very profitable to him. It is to be heped that others will emulate their examble. One of our newly married young men has started out in life, but I much fear the way he has begun, he will neither have succes nor friends. There was singing at E. T. Connell's Saturday night and there will be another one at I. N. Connell's next Saturday night at 6 o'clock. J. P. and G. W. were togetherer last Sunday night when they called to see their best girl, but the old man gave them the "G B." Two heart-broken boys were they. Objects of pity are they not? The Misses Pyrons have returned from a visit to Deatsville.

I think Mr. Ed Gulledge, of Salem, has made a mash on one of our pretty girls down here from the way he rides that ideal Hamiltonian of his down this way about every Sunday. Mr. Walter Kindrick goes up towards the cross roads right often I think he's gone crazy over some girls up there. Some of the pipes at Patillo's gin bursted last week and haven't got them fixed yet, several of their customers had to go to another mill to get their corn ground.

Mr. John W. Patillo is still attending the Verbena High School.

I will close, and if this escapes the waste basket I will write again. Wishing THE BANNER and its readers prosperity and success I remain

Yours as ever, TIM.

Last Thursday night Edmund Hall, colored, convicted of gaming in the courts of Montgomery and sentenced to the coal mines for three months, escaped from the officer, Mr. Thurber, of the Sloss company, when near Clanton, by jumping from the train. The negro asked the officer to let him get a drink of water, and when he reached the water tank near the rear door he made a dash for liberty and leaped from the train. The train was running at the rate of about thirty-five miles an hour and the road where the leap was made was very rough. He was handcuffed, but seems to have got clear away.

West Chilton Warblings.

Well, the year 1895 has sweetly passed away and that brings us all another year nearer the grave; the great wheels of time are fast turning and rolling us all into eternity. Time cuts down all; both great and small. Many of our friends and relatives have passed away during 1895 and many more will cross over during the year 1896. According to the ruling days we will have another good crop year. March will be very cold and windy, April will come in a little cold but will not last long, May will be a fine month, it will be extremely warm and dry and pleasant, June will be very wet and July will have rain a plenty and August will be dry and September wet. Note this but don't plant too much cotton.

Last week was general hog killing week in these diggings and there has been a host it killed in West Chilton, you bet. By cotton selling for 5 cents a year ago has caused and been the means of having more corn in the crib and more meat in the smoke house at this time in West Chilton than ever was here before. If the farmers don't go wild over the thoughts of eight cent cotton there is still glad tidings ahead.

Mr. J. Y. Friday, of East Perry, happened to some bad luck a few days ago; he drove his wagon over to Bob Seymours and got out, went into the house leaving his two mules hitched to the wagon and they became very badly frightened at a dog and ran away with the wagon and they struck a tree with the end of the tongue with such power the tongue broke into three pieces and one piece flew round and staved through one of the mules killing him instantly. It has not been but a few years since Mr. Friday had a horse run away with the plow and run against a tree and broke his neck.

Mr. W. M. O'Neal is building him a fine residence near old Bulls bure.

Joel Friday is moving back on his old place in West Chilton.

CLANTON, Ala., Jan. 16, 1896.

EDITOR BANNER: You will please give me a few lines in your paper in regard to my views about how to select our officers to fill the various offices in our county. I have talked with a good many about it, some few favor a convention a goodly number curses convention as soon as it is named and refers back to the old party about some trick which had been done; I can see old nick rise in them at once. So, feeling as I do about the matter, while I would not have the community to think that I was dictating for them at all, but generally speaking, knowing the feelings of the people I wish to say that I would recommend that we hold a primary election, and as it is a free county and we are free men let every man run who wants to, and let the highest vote take it. Trusting we have got right I would recommend that we let every man vote who will support the ticket on the first Monday in August and then whoever is is nominated let every man put his shoulder to the wheel and push with all his might until the election is over. Let us be like Gen. George Washington was in defending the liberties of America; on one occasion he saw his men were about to flinch he jumped upon the b eastworks, waved his flag and cried out, "rally to it, my brave boys, and the day shall be our own." so let every man do likewise for I feel like our wives and children are at stake, it seems to me it is enough to touch the nerve of every thinking man in America and put them to work.

Now I wish to say that I have been asked the question by many of my friends if I was still a candidate for sheriff, I want every man to know that I agreed to run through the primary election, so I propose to be a man of my word, I am a candidate for sheriff for the next term, subject to the primary election. I hope that every man will turn out and have a voice in it trusting everbody will be satisfied. Success to the People's Party and to THE BANNER. Yours,

M. A. KILGORE.

Late Literary Note.

It is difficult to predict the future work in the magazine field. No one would have conceived, ten years ago, that a thirty-five-cent magazine would ever contemplate the use of the expensive lithographic processes in printing. But a ten cent magazine has put in a large and complete lithographic plant with the avowed purpose of furnishing a certain amount of color-work every month. The first is the reproduction of a water color, drawn by Rossi for The Cosmopolitan magazine and redrawn upon stone by their own lithographic artists, and printed upon their own lithographic presses.

Early Sunday morning burglars broke into the stores of Mr. W. L. Sampey and Mr. Will Wright, blowing open the iron safes in both stores with gunpowder. It would appear the burglar had some knowledge of their surroundings, as they got an axe from Dr. Johnson's wood pile to break open the store doors, and fastened the door of the rooms above Mr. Wright's store to prevent Mr. Martin, who rooms there, from coming down and interrupting their nefarious occupation. Fortunately Mr. Wright had left no money in his safe but Mr. Sampey lost about $30. There is no clue to the burglars.

What might have been a fatal accident happened at Mr. John Motes place near Jemison on Monday. Young Duren, a boy about six years old, got possession of a loaded pistol and while playing with it it went off shooting him through the left hand and ploughing up his left breast.

Weak, Irritable, Tired

"I Was No Good on Earth."

Dr. Miles' Nervine strengthens the weak, builds up the broken down constitution, and permanently cures every kind of nervous disease.

"About one year ago I was afflicted with nervousness, sleeplessness, Creeping sensation in my legs, Slight palpitation of my heart, Distracting confusion of the mind, Serious loss or lapse of memory. Weighted down with care and worry. I completely lost appetite And felt my vitality wearing out, I was weak, irritable and tired, My weight was reduced to 160 lbs., In fact I was no good, on earth.

A friend brought me Dr. Miles' book, "New and Startling Facts," and I finally decidde to try a bottle of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. Before I had taken one bottle I could sleep as well as a 10-yr.-old boy. My appetite returned greatly increased.

When I had taken the sixth bottle My weight increased to 170 lbs., The sensation in my legs was gone; My nerves steadied completely; My memory was fully restored. My brain seemed clearer than ever. I felt as good as any man on earth. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is A great medicine, I assure you."

Augusta, Me. WALTER R. BURBANK.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

THE NEW ELECTION LAW.

No. 357. AN ACT S. 459.

To amend Section 5, to repeal Section 35 and Section 36, and to add Section 49 to an act entitled An Act to Further Regulate Elections in the State of Alabama, approved February 21, 1893.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Alabama, That Section 5 of an act entiled An Act to Further Regulate Elections in the State of Alabama be amended so as to read as follows: Section 5. Be it further enacted, That it shall not be lawful to register any elector in any precinct or ward in this State after the time herein prescribed for such registration, but the registrars shall be present at the polling places in the precincts or wards for which they are respectively appointed on the day of any general or special election to register such persons as may have reached the age of 21 years since the last registration; such other persons as may make oath that they became bona fide residents of the precinct in which they propose to register not less than thirty days before the day of election and since the last registration; but electors having the Constitutional qualifications who may have resided in any incorporate city in this State having a population of more than 5,000 inhabitants, as determined by the last federal census, for thirty days immediately preceding any election and have within such thirty days removed their residence from one precinct to another in the same city shall, after a residence of one day, be entitled to vote in the precinct in which they reside at the time of the election, but each of such electors herein last provided for must first deposit with the inspectors of election in said precinct the certificate of the Judge of Probate that said electer is duly registered in the precinct from which he has removed, and no other person than those provided for in this section shall be permitted to register on the the day of the election. The present resistrar shall furnish to each elector who may register on the day of election a certificate of registration, which shall be substantially in this form: State of Alabama, County of ———, Precinct No ———, I ———, precinct registrar, hereby certify that ——— has this day registered before me as an elector. ——— Registrar, Precinct No. ———, and if precinct registrar fails to attend or there is a vacancy in the office, the county registrar shall appoint some competent person as precinct registrar for that day, and if no appointment is made by 10 o'clock of that day, then the inspectors of election, or any two if them, may appoint a precinct registrar, who may qualify and act as such for that day; provided nothing in this act shall be construed as repealing, altering or amending the ordinances now or hereafter ordained by any municipal corporation chartered by the General Assembly providing for the separate registration of electors for municipal elections

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That Section 35 and Section 36 of said act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, That said act be amended by adding thereto Section 49, in words as follows: Sec. 49. Be it further enacted, That upon opening the polls the inspectors must appoint two markers or assistants, one for each of the opposing political parties who may have candidates to be voted for at the election; and each [illegible] whom must be a dis[illegible]on, able to read and w[illegible] practicable, and the inspectors, or any two of them shall, in like manner, from time to time, and as often as may be necessary to give every illiterate elector and every physically disabled elector an opportunity to vote, appoint a marker, who must be selected as provided for the selection of the first two. Every marker before entering upon his duties must take an oath, which may be administered by any person authorized by law to administer oaths, or by any one of the inspectors, to perform the duties of marker at the election according to law. No inspector, clerk or marker shall be appointed nor shall act as such except in the beat of his residence at the time of the election. Clerks and markers must be appointed from a list of persons not less than six nor more than ten in any beat, who may be suggested for that purpose by the duly constituted authorities respectively of the opposing political parties having candidates to be voted for at the election. Every illiterate or physically disabled elector shall be permited to have the assistance of a marker, who has been appointed by the inspectors, and who may be selected by him from the number of markers. Any inspector who may refuse to appoint markers from the opposing parties, so as to give every illiterate or physically disabled elector the opportunity to select a marker of his own political party, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and must, on conviction, be fined not less than $100 nor more than $500. It is the sense of this section that the opposing party shall each have the right to suggest a list of names, not less than six nor more than ten persons, to act as markers and clerks. If no lists are furnished the inspectors shall appoint clerks and markers from opposing political parties.

Approved February 18, 1895.

Fence the World in 20 Days.

In the sale of the "STAR" Machine, as shown below, we have done more in recent years to enable the farmers of this country to get their fencing at the actual cost of the wire than all other fence manufacturers in the United States, because we figure and show how cheap the various styles of fence can be made, or what the actual cost of the wire is to make them, while those who make and sell the fence must add the cost of labor to manufacture and their profit to the actual cost of the wire. We can sell you a Machine and enough wire to make 100 rods of the best Woven Wire Fence on earth, horse high, bull strong, pig and chicken tight for the same money that will buy 100 rods of any good woven wire fence on the market. In one case you have the fence alone. In the other you have not only the fence but a machine which enables you to build your own fence manufacturer a[illegible] with which you can make over 50 styles, including several styles of Ornamental yard or lawn fences. To show how the farmers of this country appreciate the machine it is only necessary to say that if all the machines sold by us were run for twenty days, each machine making 40 rods per day, they would make enough fence to go around the world, being an average of 400,000 rods or 1,250 miles per day. If all of the machines were run only 60 days during the year, making 40 rods per day each, they would make a grand total of 24,000,000 rods, which would make an average of 76,9[illegible] rods or 240 miles for every working day in the year. The combined product of all the Loom Fence Factories of the United States would not equal this. One cent isn't much. Invest it in a postal card and send for one Large Illustrated Catalogue, telling all about fencing. may save you many dollars. Sent Free for the asking. Address, Kitselman Bros., Box 107, Ridgeville, [illegible]

$1,00 FOR YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.

Write us a letter covering these three points:

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, not, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

$150.00 every month given away to any one who applies through us for the most meritorious patent during the month preceding.

We secure the best patents for our clients, and the object of this offer is to encourage inventors to keep track of their bright ideas. At the same time we wish to impress upon the public the fact that such as the "car-window" which can be easily slid up and down without breaking the passenger's back, "sauce-pan," "collar-button," "nut-lock," "bottle-stopper," and a thousand other little things that most any one can find a way of improving, and these simple inventions are the ones that bring largest returns to the author. Try to think of something to invent.

IT'S THE SIMPLE, TRIVIAL INVENTIONS THAT YIELD FORTUNES,

IT IS NOT SO HARD AS IT SEEMS.

Patents taken out through us receive special notice in the "National Recorder," published at Washington, D. C., which is the best newspaper published in America in the interests of inventors. We furnish a year's subscription to this journal, free of cost, to all our clients. We also advertise, free of cost, the invention each month which wins our $150 prize, and hundreds of thousands of copies of the "National Recorder," containing a sketch of the winner, and a description of his invention, will be scattered throughout the United States among capitalists and manufacturers, thus bringing to their attention the merits of the invention.

They do things up quick in Chicago. So pleased was Nathan Ladon, a wealthy merchant of Menominee, Wis., with the way pretty Mary Frank, at the head of the handkerchief department in a Chicago store, tucked the handkerchief he had just purchased into his pocket the other day that he asked her then and there to marry him. So it came about that Mary pulled off her apron and went up stairs to tell her employers all about it. Within an hour they were married by the county clerk.

Supreme Court Decisions.

Since Chas. O. Tyner began the manufacture of Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy, many people have inquired as to its efficacy. Chief Justice Bleckley, of Georgia, has tried it for indigestion and dyspepsia, and gives this as his decision:

"Atlanta, Ga., March 14, 1894—Chas. O. Tyner, Atlanta, Ga.: I have used, and am now using, Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy. It is a mental as well as a physical elixir. With its aid and a pair of spectacles I can frequently see the law in spite of unsuitable or too much diet. "LOGAN E. BLECKLEY."

This is a splendid decision and people are profiting by it.

On Saturday morning, three miles north of Middleborough, Ky., a freight train on the L. and N. ran into a rock slide, killing the engineer and breaking the fireman's ankle.

Reuben McNary, an employe of the Knoxville (Tenn.) Street Railway company, fell from a forty-foot pole Thursday forenoon and was seriously if not fatally injured.

S. P. Satterfield, principal clerk of the North Carolina house of representatives, was indicted Saturday evening for "willfully and negligently permitting the enrollment of the assignment act."

About the first act of the Mississippi senate, after organization, was the adoption of a joint resolution providing for a committee, and appropriating $500, for the examination of the capitol building, which is said to be unsafe.

Carroll Smith, of Canton, Miss., has about completed a plant for the manufacture of cob pipes. He has five car loads of cobs en route, and expects to begin work by the 15th. This is the first plant of the kind in the south.

The International Migration society, of Birmingham, Ala., Saturday chartered of J. B. Harte & Co., the steamer Lauranda, with which to carry 400 negroes from Savannah to Monrovia, Liberia. The steamer will sail in two or three weeks.

The father of Alva H. Mallory, the building and loan association agent who recently absconded from Memphis, Tenn., says he will make good his son's shortage and repay also the $600 which his son obtained on a forged check from Worthen's bank. The son was a high society swell, the father a plain, honest gentleman.

An L. and N. freight train of twenty-eight loaded cars plunged through an open draw of the bridge spanning an arm of the lake, thirty-one miles east of New Orleans, last Tuesday morning. The engine and twenty-two cars went down. The engineer and the fireman jumped and swam ashore. Three tramps were killed.

The Chattanooga pulp and pulp board mill resumed operations Saturday, having been shut down for several weeks on account of the building of an addition to the plant, and the putting in of new machinery. The plant will run day and night and will employ about twenty men. A member of the company stated that they had orders sufficient to keep them running for six months.

The notorious Henry Williams, colored, who is charged with the murder of Elizabeth King, and who made his escape on December 26, was captured near Shaw's Station yesterday by Mr. Ike Muckle, a planter, and was safely lodged in jail at Greenville, Miss., Saturday night. The schooner J. H. Carey, Capt. H. W. Christensen, and crew of seven men, mostly Norwegians, which left Gloucester, Mass., August 20, for the Grand Banks, has not been seen since and is given up as lost.

At Baltimore, Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Mattie V. Anglier, wife of Frank Anglier, a cigar dealer and pool room proprietor, shot and killed Chas. H Parker, agent for the Leavitt Machine company, of Athol, Mass., at her husband's store because, she claims, he attempted to take liberties with her.

At Hoboken, N. J., Saturday night, fire destroyed the extensive blind, sash and moulding mill of Riugger & Freidberger and several adjoining houses. Loss, $70,000; insurance, $25,000. Two firemen were injured by falling timbers.

The joint committee of coal operators and miners of the Pittsburg district held an all day session at Pittsburg, Pa., Saturday. At the conclusion of the conference 30,000 miners in that district alone were made happy by the announcement that a uniform rate for mining has been established. This decision will also have the effect of bettering the wages for miners in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and West Virginia.

Reports received at Pittsburg, Pa., indicate that the window glass houses controlled by the Pittsburg and Indiana combination, have closed down for a month. Several thousand workmen are thrown out of work, and all employed in this industry will lose about $400,000 in wages. The reason for the shut-down, assigned by the manufacturers, is that prices cannot be maintained, if big stocks are accumulated before the spring trade opens.

There is a strong feeling of resentment among the Dutch as well as the British at Cape Town, Africa, at the so-called meddling of Germany in South African affairs. Intense excitement prevails and there is a renewal of wild rumors, including one that Great Britain has sent an ultimatum to the government of the Transvaal.

A special from San Jose, Costa Rica, says: The latest news from Cuba has so excited the Cubans and their sympathizers here that there is danger of an outbreak. The stores of the Spanish merchants are guarded by the police. The government has issued a stringent decree against disturbers of public order.

A dispatch to the Central News from Johannesburg says that fifty-four arrests of members of the reform committee have already been made and that further warrants have been issued. The dispatch adds that the curiosity concerning the losses sustained by the Boers in fighting with Dr. Jameson's party is unappeased. There is reason to believe that they lost 150 men at Doornkop alone.

LONDON GATHERS GOLD

And Hoards It, But Sends Silver to Foreign Countries.

London authorities on the movement of bullion estimates that shipmen's of silver to Asia in 1895 amounted to about £6,000,000 sterling, a falling off as compared with recent years. On the other hand, exports to the continent of Europe increased £2,500,000 sterling over the previous year. Mexican dollars have been in good demand all the year at the east, and the price has closely followed that of bar silver, with a premium of about 1 1-3 per cent in favor of the coin. The imports of gold at London were very large, amounting to about £36,000,000 sterling, including £11,450 sterling from the United States (to which, however, £3,275,000 sterling was shipped), £8,200,000 sterling from South America and £6,250,000 from Australia, while India and China shipped £3,800,000 sterling to London.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

SENATE.—After some preliminary routine business, unanimous consent was asked by Mr. Broderick of Kansas, to have Mr. Clarence E. Allen sworn in as representative from Utah, That state, he said, had been admitted into the Union last Saturday, and Mr. Allen had credentials signed by the Governor and secretary of state, though not in their official capacity, as they were only to be sworn in. Objection was made by Mr. Crisp, and the matter was referred to the judiciary committee, with leave to report at any time.... Mr. Hitt offered a joint resolution appointing William L. Wilson, of West Virginia, a member of the board of regents of the Smithsonian institution in place of Henry Coppe, deceased, and it was adopted. .... The house, on motion of Mr. Dingley, at 1:20 adjourned until tomorrow.

SENATE.—Not in session.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

HOUSE.—Nothing of material interest to the general public transpired in the house. Clerks were assigned to committees by the adoption of the report of the committee to which that duty had been referred.... An additional clerk was also authorized for each of the committees on military affairs, naval affairs and interstate and foreign commerce..... Upon the unanimous report of the committee on judiciary there was no debate on the right of Mr. Allen representing the state of Utah.... Several resolutions of inquiry were agred to, one asking the attorney-general what had been done by him towards enforcing the anti-trust law of 1890 and what additional legislation, if any, desirable and necessary to protect the people from the operations of trade-trusts and conspiracy..... At 1:25 the house adjourned, after a statement by Mr. Henderson, republican, of Iowa, that the committee on rules would be ready to report tomorrow.

SENATE.—Mr. Jones, democrat, of Arkansas, reported from the finance committee the house bond bill, with a substitute, as follows: That from and after the passage of this act the mints of the United States shall be open to the coinage of silver, and there shall be coined dollars of the weight of 412½ grains, troy, of standard silver, nine-tenths fine, as provided by the act of January 18, 1837, and upon the same terms and subject to the limitations and provisions of the law regulating the coinage and legal tender quality of gold, and whenever the said coin herein provided for shall be received into the treasury certificates may be issued thereon in the manner now provided by law.

Section 2. That the secretary of the treasury shall coin into standard silver dollars as soon as practicable, according to the provisions of section 1 of this act, from the silver bullion purchased under authority of the act of July 14, 1890, entitled "An act directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of treasury notes thereon, and for other purposes," that portion of the silver bullion which represents the seigniorage or profit to the government, to-wit: The difference between the cost of the silver purchased under said act and its coinage value, and said silver dollars so coined shall be used in payment of the current expenses of the government; and for the purpose of making the said seigniorage immediately available for use as money the secretary of the treasury is hereby authorized and directed to issue silver certificates against it, as if it were already coined and in the treasury.

Section 3. That no national bank note shall be hereafter issued for a denomination less than $10, and all notes of such banks now outstanding of denominations less than that sum shall be, as rapidly as practicable, taken up, redeemed and canceled, and [illegible] $10 and larger denominations shall [illegible] their stead under the direction of the [illegible] of the currency.

Section 4. That the secreta[illegible] treasury shall redeem the United States notes, commonly called greenbacks, and also the treasury notes issued under the provisions of the act of July 14, 1890, when presented for redemption, in standard silver dollars or in gold coin, using for redemption of said notes either gold or silver coins, or both, not at the option of the holder, but exclusively at the option of the government, and said notes, commonly called greenbacks, when so redeemed, shall be reissued as provided by the act of May 31, 1878.

Mr. Morrill, republican, of Vermont, chairman of the committee on finance, stated that the substitute was approved by a majority of the committee, but not by the republican members. The bill was read in full and was placed on the calendar.

Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, offered a resolution for the appointment of a committee of five senators to inquire whether there is and has been for the last two and a half years any republican form of government in the state of Alabama, whether there was fraud, force, intimidation or other unfairness in the election of members of congress. The resolution was referred to the committee on contingent expenses.

After an executive session the senate, at 4:30 adjourned until tomorrow.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

HOUSE.—The annexation of the Hawaiian islands was broached in the house today by Mr. Spalding (rep., Mich.) in the form of a resolution. The resolution provided that the Sandwich islands be erected into a new state to be called the state of Hawaii, with a republican form of government, to be adopted by the people through deputies in convention, with the consent of the existing government. Conditions were imposed that questions of boundary or complications with other governments be transmitted to the president to be laid before congress for its final action before January 1, 1898; that all property pertaining to the public defense be ceded to the United States, but the state retain all other property and the United States to be liable for none of its debts. The resolution proposes as an alternative, that Hawaii may be admitted as a state by treaties between the two governments, with one representative in congress and proposes an appropriation of $100,000 for making the treaties. The resolution was read by unanimous consent and referred to the committee on foreign affairs.... Upon his request, Mr. Harrison (dem., Ala.) was relieved from service on the election committee No. 3, because his seat is contested, and Mr. Bailey (dem., Tex.) was appointed in his stead.... Mr. Henderson (rep., Ia.) stated that the committee on rules would not be able to report until tomorrow, and at 12:45 the house adjourned.

SENATE.—Mr. Hale from the committee on naval affairs, reported back favorably a bill authorizing the secretary of the navy to increase the number of enlisted men in the navy. He directed attention to the importance of the bill, and gave notice that he would call it up at an early date.... Mr. Butler (pop., N. C.) offered two amendments to the free coinage substitute for the house bond bill. The first prohibited the sale of interest-bearing bonds without the express consent of congress, and the second made it mandatory on the secretary of the treasury to redeem greenbacks in treasury notes in silver as long as the market price of 412½ grains of silver was lower than that of 29¾ grains of gold..... Adjourned until tomorrow.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

HOUSE.—The house was in session only twenty-five minutes. Mr. Livingston offered a resolution relating to British encroachments on Venezuelan territory, which was referred to the foreign relations committee, and the house then adjourned until tomorrow.

SENATE.—In the senate the day was devoted to speeches and the presentation of petitions, and, after an executive session, the senate at 4:10 adjourned until tomorrow.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

HOUSE.—Mr. Henderson, republican, of Ohio, reported the rules agreed upon in committee. The entire session of the day was taken up in proposing and discussing amendments, and at 4:55 the house adjourned.

SENATE.—Mr. Pritchard, republican, of North Carolina, proposed an amendment to the emergency tariff bill, increasing duties on certain articles, and discussed it at some length.... The house bond bill, with its free silver substitute, was taken up and Mr. Jones, democrat, of Arkansas, spoke in support of the substitute.... Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, offered a concurrent resolution tendering congratulations to the president and people of the republic of Transvaal. Referred to committee on foreign relations.... At 3:50 the senate adjourned until Monday.

THIRTIETH DAY.

HOUSE.—The day was devoted entirely to the consideration of the report of the committee on rules and at 3:45 the house adjourned until Monday.

SENATE.—No session.

GOVERNOR BUSHNELL, OF OHIO

Inaugurated With Grand Military and Civic Display.

Columbus, O., is gay with flags and bunting, marching troops and political clubs with their bands of music, celebrating the inauguration of Governor Bushnell. The inauguration exercises proper took place in the rotunda of the capitol at noon Monday.

At 11:45 the legislative committee arrived at the capitol, as did also carriages with Governor McKinley and Governor-elect Bushnell. The exercises were simple and very brief.

Prayer was offered by Rev. J. W. Russell, of the Central Christian church.

The oath of office was then administered by Judge T. E. Minishall, of the supreme court. Governor McKinley then presented Governor Bushnell with his commission and Bushnell delivered his inaugural address.

There was a magnificent parade of thirty-nine civil and political organizations and sixty military organizations, which was reviewed by the gubernatorial party from the stand on the north side of the capitol.

Terrible Suffering of Seamen.

A boat from the steamer Ealing, which recently went ashore on Green Island, Issacs Harbor, N. S., reached [illegible] o'clock Friday. There were nine [illegible] the boat, which was in charge of Second officer Thomas, and all were thoroughly exhausted and badly frost bitten. They had a [illegible]ble experience, and nine of their mates, including the captain, died of cold and exposure, and were thrown overboard. The survivors are in such an exhausted condition that they cannot tell exactly when their mates died, saying it was either today or yesterday. They say two boats left the steamer at 6 p. m., on the 6th instant. One contained the first officer and eight men, and as nothing has been heard from them, all hands have probably perished. The other boat which arrived at Canso today, was in charge of the captain, and originally contained eighteen men. Nine died, as related above.

KNOCKED AT WRONG DOOR.

Cranstoun, the Hawaiian Exile, Referred to President Dole.

A non-suit was granted to the defense Saturday in the case of J. Cranstoun, one of the Hawaiian exiles who sued the Canadian-Australian Steamship Company for $50,000 damages in connection with his deportation from Honolulu. Cranstoun is an American citizen who was charged by the Dole government with complicity in the late Hawaiian rebellion, and deported, with others, on the Canadian-Australian steamship Warrimoo, by order of the chief executive. The judge held that the steamship merely acted as an agent of the Hawaiian government, whose deportation of Cranstoun was an act of state, and therefore the steamship officials could not be held liable for damage suits.

Jameson Lost His Job.

Sir Hercules Robinson, governor of Cape Colony, has issued a proclamation removing Dr. Jameson from the office of administrator of the Mashonaland and appointing F. J. Newton, secretary and receiver general of British Bechuanaland, in his place. Mr. Newton is an imperial officer. The twenty-two members of the reform club arrested in Johannesburg on Friday on charges of high treason are now in the Pretoria jail, where Dr. Jameson and his comrades are also confined pending the complete disarming of the Johannesburg Uitlanders.

RIPANS TABULES

A gentleman of a methodical habit, who had adopted the practice of retaining a copy of every prescription issued by his family physician, became interested as time went on to note that the same ingredients were pretty certain to be prescribed at some point of the treatment of every case. For a poor appetite, or a sore throat, for restlessness which disturbed the baby's sleep, and for troubles which beset the aged grandparents, the favorite remedy was always turning up, although slightly modified from time to time and used often in conjunction with others. One day our friend happened to observe that the formula of a certain advertised remedy was identical with the latest prescription he had received from his own physician, and in some surprise he stated the case to him. The family doctor, after listening to what he had to say, replied: "The case is about this way: Whenever there is a disturbance of the functions of the body, no matter of what nature, it is pretty certain to be accompanied by a derangement of the digestive organs. When they are all right the patient gets well. That particular formula that you have observed me to write more and more frequently is the result of an age of careful experiment, and is pretty generally agreed upon now by all educated physicians who keep up with the times. The discovery of the past few years of the means reducing every drug to a powder and compressing the powders into little lozenges or tablets, or tabules if you prefer, which will not break or spoil, or lose their good qualities from age, if protected from air and light, is the explanation of how it has come about that this prescription is now for sale as an advertised remedy. It is the medicine that nine people out of ten need every time they need any, and I have no doubt that making it so easy to obtain, so carefully prepared, and withal so cheap, will tend to actually prolong the average of human life during the present generation."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce St., New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

SHYLOCK'S HATRED.

SHAKESPEARE ON THE SUBJECT OF INTEREST.

Frank T. Reid in the Tacoma Sun Shows How Mammon Is Rapidly Changing This Fair Earth Into a Hell of Woe

It is interesting to consider the ground on which Shakespeare bases Shylock's hatred of Antonio. It grew out of the natural antipathy which the false merchant, whose motto is "business is business," and "every man for himself," entertains for the true merchant, whose controlling passion is not greed but service. It also reveals the fact that Shakespeare clearly saw the iniquity of taking interest. No custom, however venerable, could blind that royal mind. If founded on a false principle he intuitively felt that it was a "goodly apple rotten at the core."

When Bassanio approaches Shylock for a loan and offers Antonio as his surety, Shylock says (aside):

"I hate him, for he is a Christian;
But more, for that, in low simplicity,
He lends out money gratis, and brings down
The rate of usance here with us in Venice
* * * * * and he rails,
Even there where merchants most do congregate,
On me, my bargains, and my well-won thrift,
Which he calls interest; cursed be my tribe,
If I forgive him."

At this day, in the estimation of our "business men," our "practical" men, what "low simplicity" it is, what an addle-pated crank he is, what a fool, who "lends out money gratis." If one of our merchants were now to rail at one of his fellows at the exchange, "where merchants most do congregate," for taking interest, what a universal cackling, as of geese, would be heard! Verily, the world does move. But still the query remains—in what direction, hellward or heavenward?

Shylock sought to justify his practice of taking interest by citing the example of Jacob cheating Laban out of the best of his flocks in the unique way described in the book of Genesis. To which Antonio replies:

"Was this inserted (in the Bible) to make interest good?
Or is your gold and silver ewes and rams?

Shylock—I cannot tell; I make it breed as fast.

Antonio—The devil can cite scripture for his purpose.
An evil soul, producing holy witness,
Is like a villain with a smiling cheek.
O, what a goodly outside falsehood hath!"

And when Antonio was arrested for the debt, and in the custody of the jailer, Shylock exclaims, "Talk not to me of mercy; this is the fool that lent out money gratis."

Antonio says, "Let him alone;
I'll follow him no more with bootless prayers.
He seeks my life; his reason well I know;
I oft delivered from his forfeitures
Many, that have at times made moan to me;
Therefore he hates me."

Is there a single Antonio among the "business" me[illegible]endom today?

I believe it [illegible] where in the '70s that Mr. [illegible] Hewitt of New York delivere[illegible]fore the American in[illegible] engineers. I wish [illegible] to quote only the [illegible] paragraph in which he sket[illegible] picture [illegible] of Br[illegible] next cent[illegible] our mining interests will b[illegible]ed on a scale somewhat commensurate with the area of the country and the extent of its resources."

"As New York will be the center of capital, so it will be the initial point of our iron and steel industry. On the shores of the Hudson river, the ores of Lake Champlain of the valleys of Connecticut, and of the highland ranges of New York and New Jersey, will meet the anthracite coals of Pennsylvania upon conditions so favorable that New York and its vicinity must become a great metalurgical center. Thence the chain of fire, extending across New Jersey and following the banks of the Lehigh and Schuylkill to the Susquehana, will lead us by the margin of the coal fields, along the outcrop of the magnetic hematite and fossiliferous ores which extend through Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama, nearly to the Gulf, so that the light of furnace answering to furnace will never be lost sight of in the long line of over 1,000 miles! Hence, turning to the west, Missouri, Kentucky, Western Tennessee, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, will be all aglow with furnaces, forges and mills, fed by the admirable fuel of the inexhaustible coal-fields of the west, and the superb ores of Missouri and Lake Superior. The waters of the great lakes will reflect the flames which will light up their margin, while to the west, along the lines of the various Pacific railways, the newly found coal and iron of that hither[illegible]rackless region will form an enduring basis for the growth of industrious communities, busy cities and teeming farms. The west coast will not be behind in the race, but an iron industry, more valuable than its mines of gold and silver, will yet supply its growing millions with the fundamental basis upon which modern civilization rests. The growth of this vast industry will be accompanied by the schoolmaster, the preacher and the physician. Homes of which human nature may be proud will be established in its wake; labor and christianity will march hand in hand, binding all interests and all classes so harmoniously and so indissolubly together, that peace and good will between capital and labor shall prevail throughout the land forever."

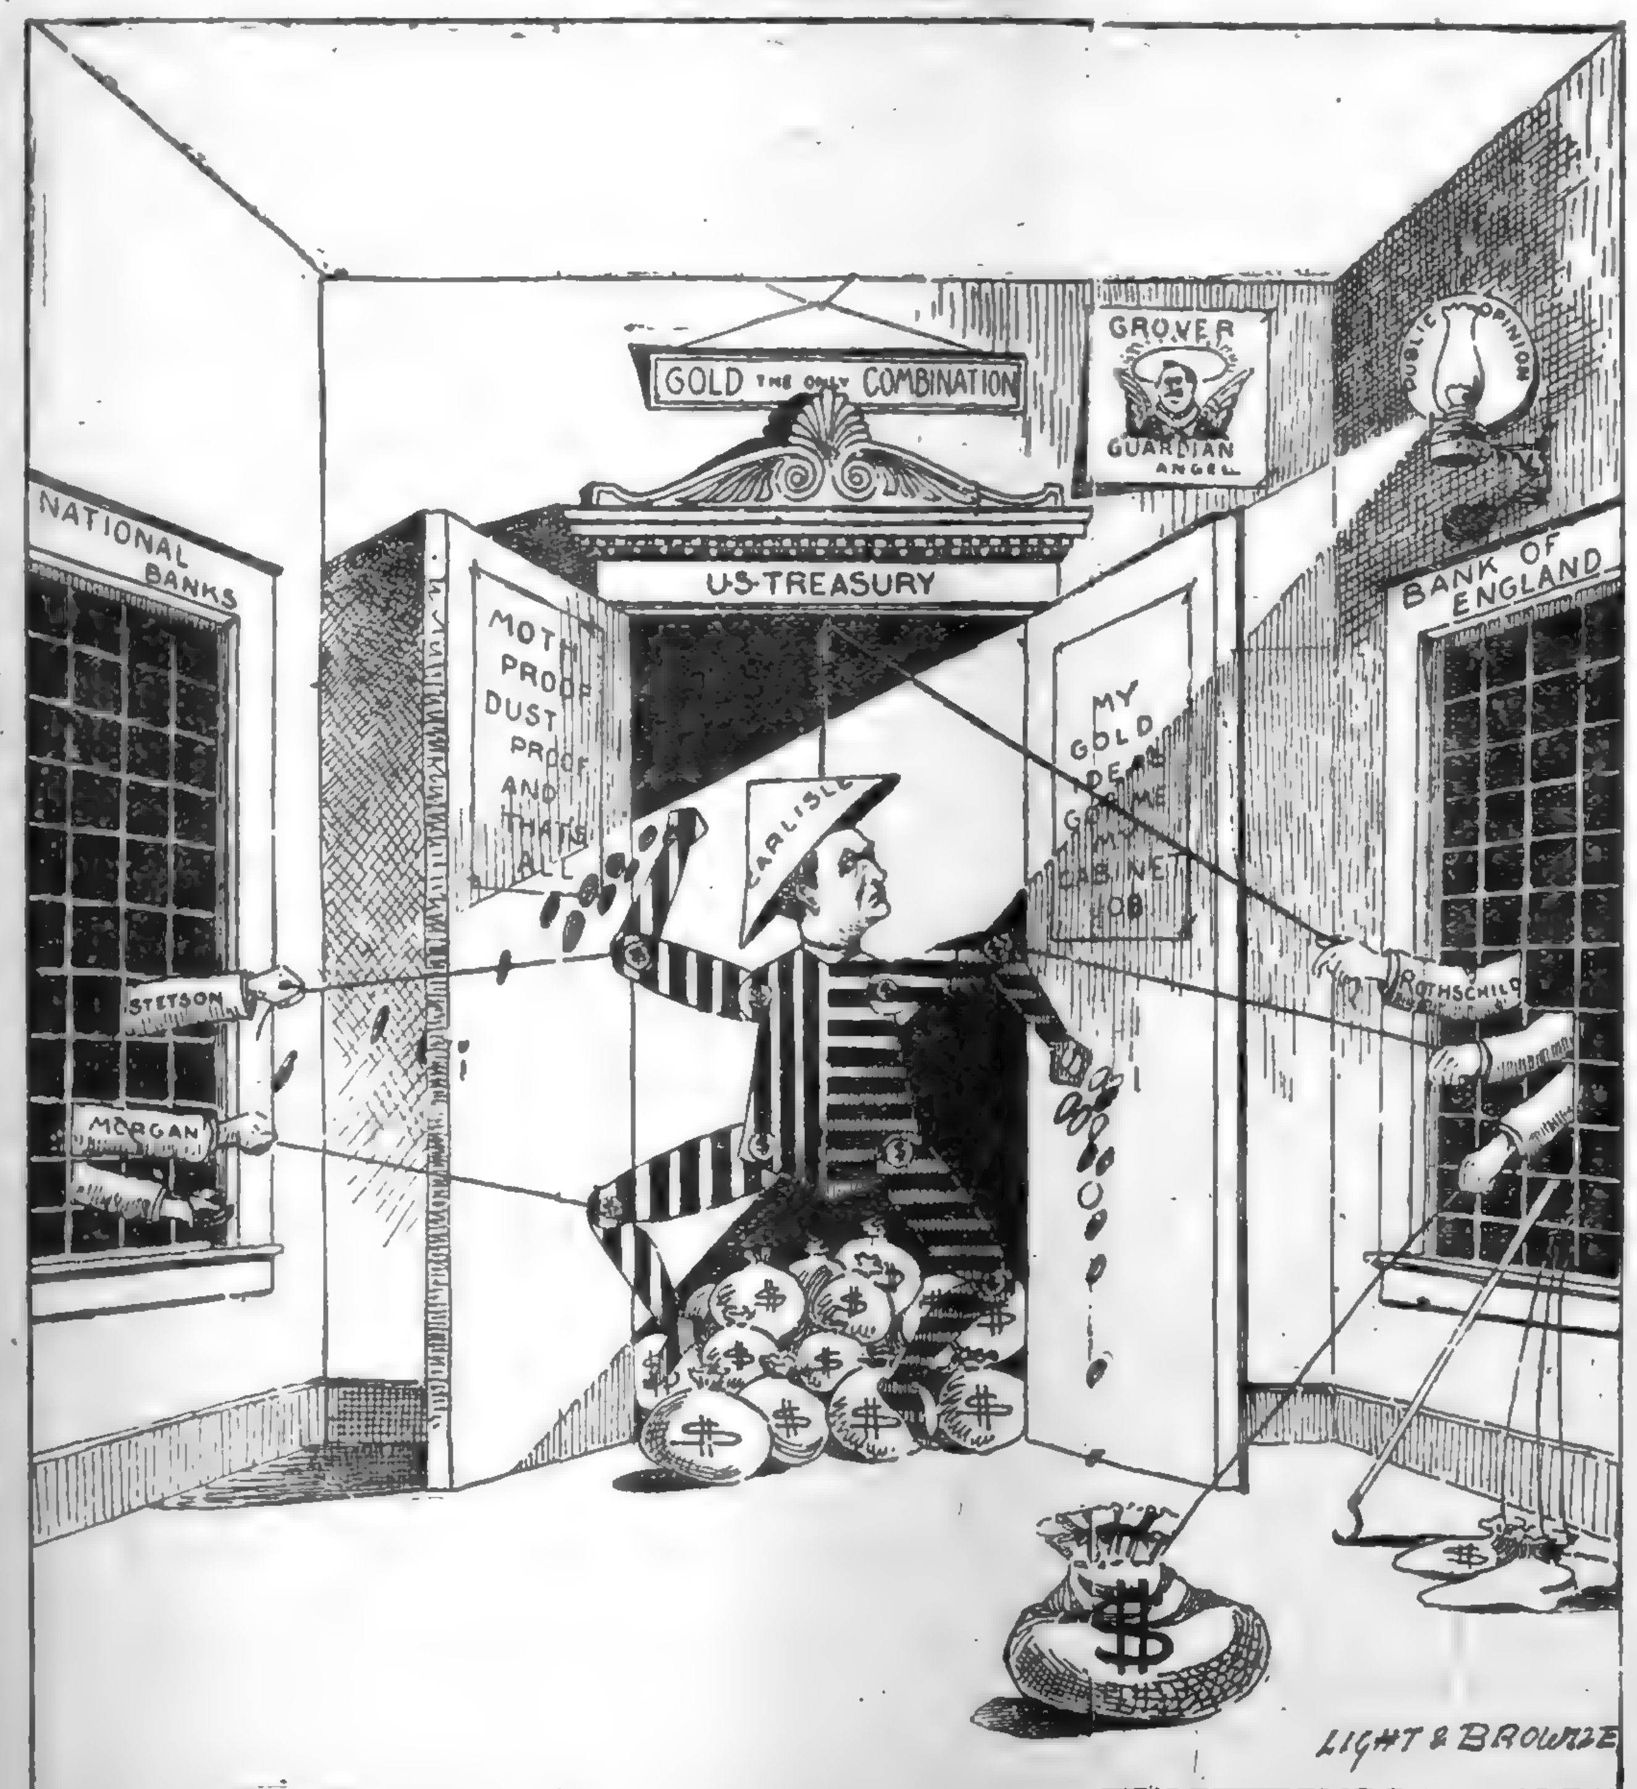
O, ye wandering tribes of Israel! the Garden of Eden behind you, and this Promised Land ahead; a land not flowing with milk and honey, but flowing with molten lava; the mountains of which are mountains of cinders and ashes, on which rest pillars of cloud by day and by night, hiding the light of sun and stars, and intensifying the lurid glare of the fires of Hell that belch flame from every furnace mouth. And this is to be the outcome of 19th century civilization; this the City of the New Jerusalem!

Iron, "the fundamental basis upon which modern civilization rests!" True Mr. Hewitt, undoubtedly true. Baal is your God; and in his service you are rapidly changing this fair world into an unspeakable hell; a valley of Jehosaphat "strewn with the wreck of dead men's bones," and murdered souls. But what do "the false priests who preach for hire" have to say to your candid assertion that iron, and not the Sermon on the Mount, is the fundamental basis on which their ecclesiastical systems rest? Labor (in chains?) and christianity (dressed in broadcloth) marching hand in hand, from ocean to ocean, from the gulf to the lakes, and guided by "the light of furnace answering to furnace"—what a sublime spectacle! It were easy to imagine Zeus, the Father of Gods and men, looking down, well-pleased, on the beatif[illegible]vision; [illegible] fruit of the "wonderful [illegible] most "enlightened age of which history bears record." The only reason, however, it seems, why christianity (in broadcloth) is expected to go marching hand in hand with Labor (in rags) is that it may play the part of a policeman, and preserve the peace between Capital and Hunger. "Homes, of which human nature may be proud," will cluster about the mouths of these "fiery furnaces" in which are manufactured the fundamental basis of modern civilization, warships, cannon, etc. The schoolmaster, the preacher and the physician, the three chief ornaments of our present social life, will continue their stay among us, presumedly as their services will be more than ever in demand in the healing, or attempted healing, of the diseased bodies, minds and souls of men.

And this man Hewitt, and his class, are looked upon as sane men, as the only sane men; while those who realize the godlessness and horror of the state of things which he presents as a picture of heaven, are styled cranks. Verily, the Bible is right—the Devil is the Prince of this World, and he is the great Deceiver!

Were we to awaken an Athenian of the time of Phideas from his mausoleum, and take him with eyes to see and ears to hear and nostrils to smell into Pittsburg or Birmingham, or any other manufacturing center, would he not ask us, in stupefaction, under what curse of the gods had the earth fallen that mankind should dwell in such hideous clamor, such sooty darkness, such foul stenches, such defiled and imprisoned air? He would survey the begrimed toilers of the mills and looms, the pallid women, the stunted offspring, the long lines of hideous houses, the soil ankle deep with cinder dust, the skies a pall of lurid smoke, the country scorched and blackened and accursed; he would survey all this, I say, asking by what malediction of heaven and what madness of mankind the sweetest and chief joys of nature had been ruined and forgotten thus? He would behold the dwarfed trees dying under the fume of poisonous gases; the clear river changed to a slimy, crawling, stinking putrid flood of filth; the buoyant air, once sweet as the scent of cowslips or clover grass, made by the greed of man into a sickly, noxious, loathsome thing, loaded with the stench of chemicals and the vapors of engine-belched steam. He would stand amidst this hell of discordant sounds, between these walls of blackened brick, under this sky of heavy-hang[illegible] soot; and he would remember the world as it was; and if any at his ear prated of science, he would smile in their faces, and say, "If these be the fruits of science let me rather dwell with the forest [illegible]east and the untaught barbarian."

THE TREASURY JUMPING-JACK.
(From the National Bimetallist.)



Carlisle: Heavens! How tired I am. This acrobatic business looks easy enough, but if anyone thinks it is, let him take my place for a while. When I became secretary of the treasury, I thought these bankers were my friends, and that all they wanted was to keep our monetary system on a "sound basis." But every one of them has a string tied to me. Each is pulling with all his might, and I am so tired. I cannot even get time to prepare my report.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTION[illegible]

To Legion Scouts in All Parts of the Country.

1. A Legion Scout is simply a recruiting officer of the Industrial Legion, detailed on special duty, with a roving commission which will permit the holder to organize wherever there is no one engaged in active work. If they reach a locality where there is no Legion they will at once plant one. If they find one stir it up and fire them with a new devotion for the cause.

2. A Legion Scout ought to be ab[illegible] to hold a meeting at a mo[illegible]ce on a street corner, [illegible]st field, around a threshi[illegible]chine, wherever you can gain the attention of even a handful of people.

3. They should be provided with books to sell, should distrib[illegible]e and take subscriptions for [illegible]wspapers, sell Legion buttons, and the beautiful certificate of membership in the Legion and People's Party.

4. If a Legion Scout has no money to procure an outfit, he should at once demonstrate his fitness for the work by going out and collecting in small sums from patriotic people who cannot travel in this cause enough money to purchase one which will cost about $5. A worker who has not got the snap to do this would fail as a Legion Scout.

5. A Legion Scout should try to sell books at first, should go quietly about, avoiding noisy discussion, and endeavor to get the people to take some book. Use those that the people most desire. For instance, Coin's Financial school is now in demand, and you should go into the ranks of the old parties first and make the effort, and whenever you sell a book you should get the buyer to recommend it to his neighbors and urge them to get one. It would be well to avoid too much partisanship at first. Just show the people that you only want them to inform themselves as to the [illegible]ses of the condition of the people, and quietly remind them that you left one or the other of the old parties because they utterly failed to furnish a remedy and always betrayed the people when they promised one. Use all the effort you can to get them to take some true People's Party paper. Get just as many sample copies as you can of the best papers to distribute on the way. Try and get one man to take one paper and his neighbor another, so that there may be a variety of our papers from all sections in each locality. Also get hold of all the names of old party voters on the way and send to our papers, who will gladly send sample copies to them.

6. Urge every Legion to start a library. Each member can bring one book or more, then raise a fund and add to it, and keep a regular crusading committee in the field to induce the people to read them and promptly return them.

7. Our people are nearly all poor and no man need be debarred from the work by poverty. Each Legion Scout must be able to make a short speech or sing a good song. Model after the Salvation Army to some extent. You, if live and earnest, can start from Portland, Oregon, and make your way to Pensacola, Florida, in this way. If you can get a horse and buggy it will be a good way. Two could go together. If you had a bicycle, which it only takes four horses to buy under present conditions, it would be a good way. But if you have neither, walk, and you can do it without purse or scrip, as they did in the olden time, and I know all our true friends will entertain you free on the long journey.

8. We want Legion Scouts in cities where there are so many thousands unemployed. The committees of the People's Party should have a trained corps of them to distribute papers, sell books, advertise meetings, secure names to petitions, and all the thousand things so necessary to the work of building up our party in the city. The Legion should have open headquarters in [illegible] city, should organize in eve[illegible]ct, should always [illegible] of books on hand [illegible] workers who are unem[illegible] can take them out and try [illegible]ell them and return all unsold. A city Legion Scout should always have a full supply of leaflets, the "Bankers' Circulars," the "People's Party Platform," and the best papers, and it should be the duty of a city Legion Scout to canvass the wards and precincts to find out the standing of each party, and make proper return on the blanks furnished by the committee.

9. It will take self-sacrifice and zeal. You will bear heavy burdens on the way. You will be out in the storm, sleep without shelter, and often be hungry, but you will be one of the great army helping to liberate the people and striving to avert the horrors of a bloody revolution by an appeal to the ballot box, and if some noble patriot among you will blaze a pathway and organize a Legion in every town from ocean to ocean before 1896, he will be enshrined in history as a hero.

Hay and Gold.

According to the Indianapolis Journal the hay crop of Indiana in 1893 was worth $26,340,240. According to the director of the mint the gold crop of the entire Unit[illegible] States is only $39,000,000, much less than the hay crop in two average states. Why can't we have a hay basis instead of a gold basis? According to Professor McLaughlin and other gold-bugs we need not have the actual gold in circulation, only a few pieces to determine the "value." As our hay product is much more valuable than our gold product, why not store up a dollar's worth of hay in the treasury department at Washington and call that a basis?—Bob Schilling.

The people are learning that liberty means more than living under the mere form of a republican government. It means that all natural opportunities shall not only be free, but that they shall be guaranteed by the government, and not absorbed by the few.

Those fellows who got excited at Grover's war message and wanted to fight, are now putting on their coats, after seeing what big fools the president made of them.

It requires a great deal of gall for a speaker to undertake to defend the record of the Democratic party, yet there are those who for the sake of an office will do it.

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

Inspecting the Mines.

Governor Oates went around last week with the state board of convict inspectors, visiting the mines on a tour of inspection.

Industrial Progress.

Mr. W. W. Cobia has purchased the Piedmont Foundry and Machine Company property, and is putting the plant in repair for operation at an early day.

Paying Taxes Promptly.

Captain John H. Turpin, Hale county's tax collector, states that the taxes paid to date exceed those of last year to same date $10,000 to $12,000.

Residence Burned.

The residence of T. W. Coleman, Jr., of Anniston, was burned Friday morning, with all his furniture, library and household goods. Loss about $1,900; insurance on dwelling, $1,200.

Stave Mill Burned.

The F. G. Oxley stave mill at Valley Head was burned about 2 o'clock Thursday morning. Loss about $1,000. The plant employed thirteen men besides those who supplied the timber for staves.

Murderous Assault.

Herman Hildebrand, of Mobile, on Wednesday night visited his wife, who is living separately, and assaulted her with a chair, breaking her skull. After hunting him all night the officers found him bidden under three mattresses and took him.

Canning Factory Burned.

The canning factory at Bridgeport, the largest and most important industry of the kind in the state, was entirely destroyed by fire. The loss is $13,000, with insurance of $6,000. An effort will be made to have the factory rebuilt in time for the next fruit season.

Big Sale of Fertilizers.

The sale of fertilizer tags at the department of agriculture continues to exceed the corresponding sales last year. Saturday $1,900 worth of tags were sold and on an average the sales have been something over a thousand dollars a day of late.

Stabbed by a Sneak.

While a quarrel was going on at Roach's saloon in Birmingham last Saturday George Swanton, a white man, who was taking no part in the quarrel, received a deep and dangerous knife stab near the lung. Who struck the dastardly blow has not been ascertained.

The Steamship Mobile.

The arrival of the new steamship Mobile, of the Mobile and Liverpool trans-Atlantic line, at Mobile on Thursday morning was celebrated by addresses of welcome by the mayor and others and responses by officers of the line. The Mobile is of 3,700 tons burden, the largest vessel that ever came over the bar. She was built especially for the Mobile trade.

Convicts Escape.

On Saturday morning two negro convicts working with the street gang in Birmingham pretended to be [illegible] and were allowed to go an[illegible] gang to rest. Wh[illegible] on a little dist[illegible] jumped on the [illegible] them and disarmed [illegible]m. They then left for parts unknown, still chained together, and carrying the guard's gun.

Immigrants Arrived From Kansas.

Eight weeks ago seven farmers with their families left Kansas for Dallas county and reached Hazen last Wednesday, where they have located. Most of them have purchased land and the others have rented and begun active farming operations. They were received cordially by the good people of Hazen and vicinity and will be an acquisition to that section of the country.

Boze Bound Over.

The sensational preliminary trial of Boze [illegible]rrington, charged with the assassination, from ambush, over a week ago, of Andy Collins, a prominent and popular citizen of Tecumseh, Ala., has been finished and Arrington bound over in a large sum. It was the most sensational trial that was ever held in Alabama, Collins being greatly beloved and the murder a most horrible one. The killing occurred in a few miles of the Polk county, Ga., line.

Prosperous Avondale.

Avondale is forging right to the front. There is not now a desirable store house or residence vacant in this suburban town. All of her industries are working on full time, and the music of the saw and hammer reminds one of the din of building boom days. Several new stores and residences have been built during the past few months, and there are others in course of erection, among which is a handsome two-story hotel, the property of Mrs. Montgomery.

North Alabama Agricultural College.

Colonel M. K. Clements was elected to the presidency of the North Alabama Agricultural School in 1893 and under his management it has steadily increased in patronage. The sessions of 1893 and 1894 there were enrolled 176 pupils, the next session 232 and this session at the beginning of the sixth month 292 pupils, from ten counties, have matriculated. Of this number 131 are girls and young women and 161 are boys and young men. Besides the regular college course the school offers superior advantages in music, elocution and art. The agricultural experiment station is being put in first-class shape and more attention than ever before will be given to experiments this year. The exhibit made by the station took a medal at the Atlanta exposition, of which all the friends of the station feel justly proud.

THE SPA[illegible]

[illegible] Commanders—Politicians Condemn Campos.

An important conference was held Thursday afternoon between Gen. Martinez Campos and a committee composed of three political leaders, each representing one of the three existing political parties. The conference was held for the purpose of freely and frankly discussing the conduct of the Spanish campaign against the Cuban insurgents. General Campos asked each of the leaders his opinion in regard to the subject of discussion and invited candid expressions of opinion. The leader representing the autonomist party expressed complete satisfaction with the conduct of the campaign, but the leaders of the reformists and conservatives expressed exactly contrary opinions.

Gen. Martinez Campos, at the conclusion of the conference, informed the committee of his decision to consult the government at Madrid in regard to the various expressions of opinion on the part of the committee concerning the campaign against the insurgents.

General Campos has summoned Lieut.-Gen. Sabas Marin, commander of the second army corps, to come to Havana.

By reference to our Washington news it will be seen that the Spanish government has accepted the resignation of Campos, and Marin succeeds to the command.

FATAL FAMILY FIGHT.

Brother Against Brother, Father Against Son in Deadly Combat.

Joseph P. Dove and his wife, of the vicinity of Jonesboro, Tenn., had dwelled together thirty years, and seven children had grown up in their household, when the wife sued for and obtained a decree of divorce. The decree provided for an equal division of the property. On Wednesday commissioners met on the premises to make the partition. All the family were present, when suddenly, without warning, Will, a younger son and a partizan of the father, struck John, who had stood with his mother in the controversy, with a club, knocking him down. As John arose he drew his pistol and fired twice at Will, wounding him severely. Isaac, rushing to the aid of Will, received John's third shot. Mr. Dove now came up, and as John started to run fired at him. The bullet went wide of the mark and struck Etta, a young daughter. During the fray Dove himself received two shots. No one seems to know who fired them. Isaac and Etta were reported dying. John and Will were committed to jail without bail and the father is kept under guard, the nature of his wounds forbidding his incarceration.

PLAYED THEY WERE BURGLARS

And Lost the Swag by a Premature Explosion.

Three boys were so badly burned by an explosion at their home in Philadelphia that they cannot live. The boys were David, aged 19, William, aged 17, and George McKisson, aged 7, brothers. They were in the house alone at the time the explosion took place, and they refuse to give any details of the accident. The explosion completely shattered the house and badly damaged the two adjoining dwellings. It was undoubtedly caused by gunpowder. A fuse was found and among the debris was a toy bank with the door blown off. The police think these boys blew open the poor box of a church a few weeks ago, as the explosion on that occasion was similar to this one. Mrs. McKisson in endeavoring to save her youngest child from burning to death was herself badly burned.

FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR

Monthly—General Robert E. Lee and His Ancestors, by Mrs. Pryor.

Among the indications that sectional prejudices and animosities are fast dying out in this country not the least significant is a growing demand in each of the two sections, that in the sixties grappled each other by the throat, for a more intimate acquaintance with the lives and character of the great leaders who marshaled the opposing armies. Northern and southern journals vie with each other in the production of literature in the strong light of which the fame of northern and southern heroes is more and more coming to be regarded as a national heritage. Among the productions of this character not one has met a heartier welcome than will greet the series of articles on General Robert E. Lee and his ancestors, by Mrs. Roger A. Pryor, of New York (formerly of Virginia), the publication of which will begin in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for February. In announcing this valuable contribution to American literature the publishers say:

"The south—the north, welded together in national pride, do as a whole people center their affection in the memory of the south's beloved chief."

Dangerous Way to Escape.

Recently at Morristown, Tenn., a gang of prisoners set fire to the calaboose in an effort to effect their escape, and their lives were saved only after great exertions. "Bob" and "Alf" Taylor were delivering their lecture in the opera house and by their coolness and presence of mind checked a stampede that was threatened when the cry of fire was raised.

THE State executive committee of the People's Party of Alabama is in session to-day at Birmingham. Full report next week.

NEXT Thursday the County Alliance meets at Providence. We hope to see a good attendance.

UTAH this week elected two Republican senators to the United States Senate: Frank J. Cannon and Arthur Brown. Iowa also re-elected its Republican Senator Allison; and Maryland elected a Republican senator Geo. Wellington.

THE Republican State executive committee is called to meet at Birmingham to-day. It is probable the two committees will hold communication with each other and arrive at some understanding in regard to the campaign.

WHERE, oh where is the Chilton View at? It failed to come out last dozen subscr to the relief of its half erable apology for a newspa this mis- its futile attempt to follow the lead of the Montgomery Advertiser in upholding the cause of the gold standard and organized democracy, has a terribly hard time.

Now is the time to subcribe for THE BANNER—52 issues for $1. You want to know how your county and State politics are going this year and you can only get the news from THE BANNER, which never misses an issue. In addition to THE BANNER we will give you FREE a year's subscription to the Ladies' Home Ideal, a 24 page monthly journal for the family—all for One Dollar.

THE national convention of the People's Party will be held at St. Louis on July 22. The Executive Committee passed resolutions inviting the co-operation of all opposed to the two old parties. It was decided that the basis of representation shall be one delegate from each congressional district, two from the State at large and one for each 1000 votes or fraction thereof cast by the Populists at the last election.

THE campaign is now well under weigh. The Democratic State executive committee met at Montgomery Tuesday and decided that the Democratic convention shall be held at Montgomery on April 21. Beat meetings are to be held April 11, and the county convention April 21, The committee passed resolutions inviting all persons who will agree to support organized Democratic principles (?) and nominees to participate in their primaries. Col. Tompkins resigned the chairmanship of the committee and John B. Knox, of Calhoun, was unanimously elected. Knox is a silver man and a supporter of Capt. Joe Johnston. The Advertiser and their puppet Dick Clarke got badly left throughout the proceedings.

WHAT do the Democrats expect to gain by throwing open their primaries to all who will support their nominees? They surely cannot anticipate any accessions from the Republicans, and if they hope to see any Populists going in that direction they never made a bigger mistake in their lives. For an organize Democrat Capt. Johnston we believe to be a good man, but he will not get any Populists votes. But it is possible the organized intend to pile up fictitious majorities in the white counties (Mr. Caffey, of Lowndes, and others of his kind have already promised to look after the black belt) and then claim the increase is caused by the return of "those who have strayed away" from the Democratic fold? It will be well to keep our eyes wide open at any rate.

A LARGE gathering of free silver men met in Washington yesterday for the purpose of arranging a national convention to nominate a presidential candidate pledged to the remonetization of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. General Weaver was chairman. It was decided a convention should be held at St. Louis at the same time as our Populist convention. Now, all that remains to be done is to merge the silver convention into the People's Party convention and we will sweep the country easily.

UP to the present the election committee have not reported the result of their investigation in the Aldrich-Robbins contest case. Mr. T. A. Aldrich remarked in Birmingham the other day his brother was certain to be seated.

MONTGMERY county is about to spend $100,000 in making thirty miles of new gravel roads. Work will be commenced at once.

THE American Cotton Growers' Association met at Memphis on Tuesday. There were about 500 delegates present and all the cotton states were represented.

The committee on resolutions reported as follows: "That we call the attention of southern cotton growers to the fact that they are masters of the situation. The crop of 1895 being less than 7,000,000 bales, renders it entirely feasible, by a further reasonable reduction of acreage during the present year, to materially advance the value of cotton and thus insure a safe and substantial profit that cannot fail to bring increased prosperity to the south, not only as the immediate result of such profit, but by enhancing the value of our lands and tion m the tide of immigrament of the grea the development of this favored section. ces

"We earnestly urge all produ of cotton to take advantage of this golden opportunity and to continue the wise policy adopted during the past season of making the south self-stpporting by first producing an abundant supply of corn, hay, meat and other like commodities, for home consuption—decreasing the cotton acreage still further for the matter of prime importance, thus guarding against the dangers of over-production and leaving the cotton as a surplus crop."

Other resolutions were reported and adopted, making the American Cotton Growers' association permanent, instructing the president and the execution committee to move energetically against every disposition to increase the acreage, and providing for permanent officers for each cotton growing state.

A committee to formulate an address to the agriculturist was also appointed to prepare and promulgate it, after which the convention adjourned sine die.

The state of Alabama requires a tag costing fifty cents, payable to the state department of agriculture on each ton of fertilizer sold in the state, and if the sale of fertilizer tags can be taken as an index of farming operations, the farmers of Alabama are going to work on an extensive scale. For the past four days the receipts at the department of agriculture for the sale of fertilizer tags amount to more than $1,000 per day, representing the sale of tags for more than two thousand tons daily. Such sale is phenomenal, and by many it is believed that it means a largely increased acreage, though Commissioner Lane is of the opinion that it means the use extensively of fertilizers under crops other than cotton.

Miss Daisy Kendrick returned home sooner th n expected, as her mother was compelled to be absent from home a few days.

Messrs. Phillip and Wilber Connell are going back and fourth visiting their sister, Mrs. Eliza Kendrick, who is very low.

Things are somewhat dull since the holidays. Our merchant, Mr. Bice, has moved his stock of goods back and the farmers are laying their plans for another year. There has been very little money in circulation, but this fact is evidence, not only of a short crop, but of growing economy with those who make the money—the farmers. This class is in a better condition probably than they have been since the war, Last year they planted and planned for 4 and 5 cent cotton, paid increased attention to the raising of food products, and inaugurated more rigid enconmies. The result they are not so overloaded with debt, and their smokeh uses and cribs are near to their own door yard, instead of a thousand miles away in Illinois and Kansas.

If a full crop of cotton had been made the farmers would, at present prices, have been in quite comfortable circumstaaces; even as it is, with only half a crop, they are in a condition to look hopefully into the future, whether the government be run by "gold-bugs" or "silver-loons."

WE extract the following from a letter to the Tribune from Judge Gaston of Greenville.

In conclusion, let me urge on our people moderation and impress them with the fact that a conservative course will give us success. Around us we see the unmistakable evidences of the disintegration of the old parties. We see two rivals for the nomination for the office of Governor in one party, each claiming that certain principles, as antagonistic as darkness and light, constitute the settled principles of that party. Candidates of this party declare their willingness to support a doctrine they believe to be ruinous to their country, in case a convention so decrees. But, in my opin, they can never bring their honest followers to embrace such madness. On the other hand, we see a large number of citizens who have, for a number of years, been practically disfranchised. Will they kiss the hand that smote them? Not while the fires of human nature remain kindled in their breasts. Then, where will these elements go? If we show ourselves to be true to our own principles and stand to what we know to be right, I firmly believe that before the sun sets on the first Monday in August so many of the honest people of Alabama will rally around the flag that floats for principles of eternal truth, for principles that guarantee all citizens equal and exact justice under the laws, that oppression, corruption and ballot box stffing in Alabama will be forever buried!

Lastly, my friends, let it be said that no man let his personal ambition stand in the way of success.

There has been a heap of rain for some days.

South Calera church has appointed Prof. J. E. Creel, Richard P. Busby and Thos. R. Busby a committee to get up subscriptions to ceil the church.

South Calera has a fine Sabbath-school with the following officers:

Prof. J. E. Creel superintendent and leader of the choir; Frederick Endress, assistant superintendent; K. M. Jones, secretary and treasurer; Richard P. Busby, teacher of class No. 1; Miss Mary Creel, teacher of class No. 2.

Preaching at this church each month, by Rev. Charles Milstead on first Sunday, 11 a.m; by Rev. Wm. Crowson on second Sunday, 11 a.m.; by Rev. J. L. Busby, pastor, on fourth Sunday, 11 a.m. and on Saturday before.

Capt. H. Harsh, supt. of the works at this place has given our church a new stove.

Bro F. W. Lenty, of Clanton, has been among friends here since Saturday eve. He seemed to enjoy a singing given for his benefit on Sunday evening at the residence of Mr. Wm. L. Shaw also another one on Sunday night at the residence of Mr. W. H. Padgett; both singings were conducted by Rev. J. L. Busby and Prof. J. E. Creel.

Mr. Mont Dean, of Eastpoint, Ga., is again with us, we are always glad to have such a genial friend as Mr. Dean with us.

The Living Topics Magazine.

The Living Topics Magazine is a unique publication which will greatly interest all who wish to keep informed concerning the progress of the world, and especially all owners of of cyclopedias.

It records such items concerning current events and the progress of knowledge as one would naturally look for in a first-class cyclopedia were in up to date—which no cyclopedia is or possibly can be. gener the latest cyclopedias are date of consu five years behind average reader inquires and yet the concerning things of the past years than concerning things of the preceding three centuries.

Topics are treated in strict alphabetical order, and as often as the alphabet is covered a new volume begins and the same course is resumed. Subscriptions only 50 cents for each 500 pages. Specimen sent free on request. JOHN B. ALDEN, Publisher, 10 and 12 Vandewater Street, New York.

Popular Monthly's Great Lee Articles.

There is no American, living or dead, North or South, who stood nearer the hearts of the people, or whose memory is held with more sacred affection, than General Robert E. Lee. All on this side of the wiped-out but never-to-be-forgotten "line" feel that they know him; but there is still much of his history and that of his family and his ancestors that has never yet been told. On this account the BANNER is pleased to note the announcement of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly regarding the series of notable Lee papers that begin in the February issue. The first is "The Ancestors of General Robert E. Lee and the Times in which They Lived," by Mrs. Judge Roger A. Pryor, of New York. The whole series, beginning with the earliest colonial times down to the present date, will be enriched with numerous portraits and illustrations of special interest, heretofore unprinted, and a large speaking likeness in water colors of General Lee. Altogether these articles will form a valuable addition to the history of the great men of the nation.

THE NEW YORK WORLD THREE TIMES A WEEK AND THE BANNER FOR $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE TWICE-A-WEEK edition of the New York World has been converted into the THRICE-A-WEEK. It furnishes 3 papers of 6 pages apiece, or eighteen pages every week, at the old price of one dollar a year. This gives 156 papers a year for one dollar and every paper has six pages eight columns wide or 48 columns in all. The THRICE-A-WEEK World is not only much larger than any weekly or semi-weekly newspaper, but it furnishes the news with much greater frequency and promptness. In fact it combines all the crisp, fresh qualities of a daily with the attractive special features of a weekly.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Edited by ALBERT SHAW.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

CHILTON COUNTY ALLIANCE

Chilton County Alliance will meet with Prividence Alliance (2 miles from Clear Creek) on Thursday, January 30, 1896.

L. MOORE, Pres.
H. I. HONEYCUTT, Sec.

All members of the Congregational church are particularly requested to meet in conference on the first Sunday in February as there is business of importance to be attended to.

Mr. Hammond, of Mulberry, is in town to-day

Sheriff Moore made a trip to the Capital City Tuesday.

Mr. Russell McDaniel spent Sunday with his parents here.

Photographers have pitched their tent in the yard at Mr. G. O Logan's place.

When the building of a new court house commences Clanton will be alive with the large number of workmen employed.

Col. Knox went to Birmingham yesterday to attend the Republican convention to-day.

The Misses Helen and Alvis Ehrmen came home from school last Sunday on account of the sickness of their brother Leon.

Mrs. Rasberry and Miss Eulah, of Mulberry, were in town Monday.

Mr. Sam Gullahorn was shaking hands with old friends here this week.

Miss Xyr Hunt is home again after a pleasant visit to friends in Birmingham.

Mr. Debardelaban is visiting his daughter, Mrs. E. M. Pinckard, of this place.

Mr. W. I. Mullins is very sick with measles.

A full line of Fertilizers on hand. W. L. SAMPEY, Clanton, Ala

Plenty of rain this week and yesterday we had lightning and thunder. Hail was reported from some parts of the county.

Mr. Ehrman's little son, Leon has been down with a sharp attach of pneumonia, but we are glad to say he is now somewhat better.

Mr. W. H. Foshee attended the state executive committee at Montgomery Tuesday.

It pays to plant good seeds, and we advise our friends who are thinking of doing anything in this line to send 10 cents for Vick's Floral Guide for 1895. This amont may be deducted from the first order. James Vick's Sons. Rochester, N. Y., are the pioneers in this line.

Marriage licenses have been granted this week [illegible] Probate Judge to the fol[illegible] persons:

Colored: Charles [illegible] and Laura Rush.

Mr. W. A. Mi[illegible] of Jemison, is in town to-day.

Mrs. [illegible] Watts, of Brewton, is vi[illegible] father-in-law, Mr. Natt[illegible]

Mr. E. L. Manning, of Bozeman, who is organizing the Farmers' Mutual Insurance Society in this county was in town to day.

Mr. Joe Allen living near Verbena was arrested this morning on a charge of wife beating. While the sheriff stepped into the post office at Clanton, Joe got on his mule and scaped into the swamp, leaving his mule and pistol on the road which Mr. Jonathan Headly took charge of. Sheriff Moore is just off after the escapee and expects to have him before night.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhoea of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Edward Shumpik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the remedy in this city for over seven years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50-cent bottles of this remedy for sale by J. S. Johnson, Jr., M. D., Druggist.

The BANNER office is the only Job Printing establishment in Chilton and Coosa counties. We give you best work at lower prices than you can get elsewhere. Give us a trial.

Carlton Cornwell, foreman of the Gazette, Middletown, N. J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home. He used it for a cold and it effected a speedy cure. He says: "It is indeed a grand remedy, I can recommend to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough, with the best results." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by J. S. Johnson, Jr., M. D., Druggist.

HEART DISEASE,

like many other ailments when they have taken hold of the system, never gets better of its own accord, but Constantly grows worse. There are thousands who know they have a defective heart, but will not admit the fact. They don't want their friends to worry, and Don't know what to take for it, as they have been told time and again that heart disease was incurable. Such was the case of Mr. Silas Farley of Dyesville, Ohio who writes June 19, 1894, as follows:

"I had heart disease for 23 years, my heart hurting me almost continually. The first 15 years I doctored all the time, trying several physicians and remedies, until my last doctor told me it was only a question of time as I could not be cured. I gradually grew worse, very weak, and completely discouraged, until I lived, propped half up in bed, because I couldn't lie down nor sit up. Thinking my time had come I told my family what I wanted done when I was gone. But on the first day of March on the recommendation of Mrs. Fannie Jones, of Anderson, Ind., I commenced taking Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart and wonderful to tell, in ten days I was working at light work and on March 19 commenced framing a barn, which is heavy work, and I hav'nt lost a day since. I am 56 years old, 6 ft. 4½ inches and weigh 250lbs. I believe I am fully cured, and I am now only anxious that everyone shall know of your wonderful remedies."

Dyesville, Ohio. SILAS FARLEY.

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1. 6 bottles for $5 or it will be sent, prepaid on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

THE NEW ELECTION LAW.

No. 357 AN ACT S. 459.

To amend Section 5, to repeal Section 35 and Section 36, and to add Section 49 to an act entitled An Act to Further Regulate Elections in the State of Alabama, approved February 21, 1893.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Alabama, That Section 5 of an act entiled An Act to Further Regulate Elections in the State of Alabama be amended so as to read as follows: Section 5. Be it further enacted, That it shall not be lawful to register any elector in any precinct or ward in this State after the time herein prescribed for such registration, but the registrars shall be present at the polling places in the precincts or wards for which they are respectively appointed on the day of any general or special election to register such persons as may have reached the age of 21 years since the last registration; such other persons as may make oath that they became bona fide residents of the precinct in which they propose to register not less than thirty days before the day of election and since the last registration; but electors having the Constitutional qualifications who may have resided in any incorporate city in this State having a population of more than 5,000 inhabitants, as determined by the last federal census, for thirty days immediately preceding any election and have within such thirty days removed their residence from one precinct to another in the same city shall, after a residence of one day, be entitled to vote in the precinct in which they reside at the time of the election, but each of such electors herein last provided for must first deposit with the inspectors of election in said precinct the certificate of the Judge of Probate that said elector is duly registered in the precinct from which he has removed, and no other person than those provided for in this section shall be permitted to register on the day of the election. The present resistrar shall furnish to each elector who may register on the day of election a certificate of registration, which shall be substantially in this form: State of Alabama, County of ——, Precinct No. ——, I, ——, precinct registrar, hereby certify that—— has this day registered before me as an elector, —— Registrar, Precinct No, ——, and if precinct registrar fails to attend or there is a vacancy in the office, the county registrar shall appoint some competent person as precinct registrar for that day, and if no appointment is made by 10 o'clock of that day, then the inspectors of election, or any two of them, may appoint a precinct registrar, who may qualify and act as such for that day; provided nothing in this act shall be construed as repealing, altering or amending the ordinances now or hereafter ordained by any municipal corporation chartered by the General Assembly providing for the separate registration of electors for municipal elections

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That Section 35 and Section 36 of said act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, That said act be amended by adding thereto Section 49, in words as follows: Sec. 49. Be it further enacted, That upon opening the polls the inspectors must appoint two markers or assistants, one for each of the opposing political parties who may have candidates to be voted for at the election; and each [illegible] whom must be a disc[illegible] able to read and wri[illegible] practicable, and the inspectors, or any two of them shall, in like manner, from time to time, and as often as may be necessary to give every illiterate elector and every physically disabled elector an opportunity to vote, appoint a marker, who must be selected as provided for the selection of the first two. Every marker before entering upon his duties must take an oath, which may be administered by any person authorized by law to administer oaths, or by any one of the inspectors, to perform the duties of marker at the election according to law. No inspector, clerk or marker shall be appointed nor shall act as such except in the beat of his residence at the time of the election. Clerks and markers must be appointed from a list of persons not less than six nor more than ten in any beat, who may be suggested for that purpose by the duly constituted authorities respectively of the opposing political parties having candidates to be voted for at the election. Every illiterate or physically disabled elector shall be permitted to have the assistance of a marker, who has been appointed by the inspectors, and who may be selected by him from the number of markers. Any inspector who may refuse to appoint markers from the opposing parties, so as to give every illiterate or physically disabled elector the opportunity to select a marker of his own political party, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and must, on conviction, be fined not less than $100 nor more than $500. It is the sense of this section that the opposing party shall each have the right to suggest a list of names, not less than six nor more than ten persons, to act as markers and clerks. If no lists are furnished the inspectors shall appoint clerks and markers from opposing political parties.

Approved February 18, 1895.

Fence the World in 20 Days.

In the sale of the "STAR" Machine, as shown below we have done more in recent years to enable the farmers of this country to get their fencing at the actual cost of the wire than all other fence manufacturers in the United States, because we figure and show how cheap the various styles of fence can be made, or what the actual cost of the wire is to make them, while those who make and sell the fence must add the cost of labor to manufacture and their profit to the actual cost of the wire. We can sell you a Machine and enough wire to make 100 rods of the best Woven Wire Fence on earth, horse high, bull strong, pig and chicken tight for the same money that will buy 100 rods of any good woven wire fence now on the market. In one case you have the fence alone. In the other you have not only the fence but a machine which enables you to make your own fence manufacturer a[illegible] with which you can make over 50 styles, including several styles of Ornamental yard or lawn fences. To show how the farmers of this country appreciate this machine it is only necessary to say that if all the machines sold by us were run for twenty days, each machine making 40 rods per day, they would make enough fence to go around the world, being an average of 600,000 rods or 1,250 miles per day. If all of the machines were run only 60 days during the year, making 40 rods per day each, they would make a grand total of 24,000,000 rods, which would make an average of 75 rods or 240 miles for every working day in the year. The combined product of all the Loom Fence Factories of the United States would not equal this. One cent much. Invest it in a postal card and send for our Illustrated Catalogue, telling all about fencing may save you many dollars. Sent Free for the address, Kitselman Bros., [illegible]

Write us a letter covering these three points:

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 13 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 200 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

See the ailments, caused by indispositions of the Kidneys, Liver, Stomach, and Bowels, which Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine has invariably cured since 1840.

$1800.00
GIVEN AWAY TO INVENTORS.

$150.00 every month given away to any one who applies through us for the most meritorious patent during the month preceding.

We secure the best patents for our clients, and the object of this offer is to encourage inventors to keep track of their bright ideas. At the same time we wish to impress upon the public the fact that such as the "car-window" which can be easily slid up and down without breaking the passenger's back, "sauce-pan," "collar-button," "nut-lock," "bottle-stopper," and a thousand other little things that most any one can find a way of improving; and these simple inventions are the ones that bring largest returns to the author. Try to think of something to invent.

IT'S THE SIMPLE, TRIVIAL INVENTIONS THAT YIELD FORTUNES,

IT IS NOT SO HARD AS IT SEEMS.

Patents taken out through us receive special notice in the "National Recorder," published at Washington, D. C., which is the best newspaper published in America in the interests of inventors. We furnish a year's subscription to this journal, free of cost, to all our clients. We also advertise, free of cost, the invention each month which wins our $150 prize, and hundreds of thousands of copies of the "National Recorder," containing a sketch of the winner, and a description of his invention, will be scattered throughout the United States among capitalists and manufacturers, thus bringing to their attention the merits of the invention.

All communications regarded strictly confidential.

The Most Pleasant Way

Of preventing the grippe, colds, headaches, and fevers is to use the liquid laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, whenever the system needs a gentle, yet effective cleansing. To be benefited one must get the true remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only. For sale by all druggists in 50c. and $1 bottles.

The earthworm is merely a stomach or digestive organ without any modern appliances and improvements to it.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

With local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surface. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

A Prominent Doctor Speaks.

He is not talking about medical ethics, quite the contrary. The scientist is eager to grasp truth in whatever field it may be found, and the fact that Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy is so meritorious calls forth from him a testimonial:

"Chipley, Ga., August 4, 1894.—Dr. C. O. Tyner, Atlanta, Ga.: I think it is due you that I should say that Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy has done more for me than all other preparations that I have tried. I think it is a valuable remedy for chronic dyspepsia and indigestion. It has cured me. I hope you may be able to cure all dyspeptics. They are legion.

Bottlebinding.

You can't judge of the quality of a book by the binding, nor tell the contents by the title. You look for the name of the author before you buy the book. The name of Robert Louis Stevenson (for instance) on the back guarantees the inside of the book, whatever the outside may be. There's a parallel between books and bottles. The binding, or wrapper, of a bottle is no guide to the quality of the medicine the bottle contains. The title on the bottle is no warrant for confidence in the contents. It all depends on the author's name. Never mind who made the bottle. Who made the medicine? That's the question. Think of this when buying Sarsaparilla. It isn't the binding of the bottle or the name of the medicine that you're to go by. That's only printer's ink and paper! The question is, who made the medicine? What's the author's name? If you see Ayer's name on a Sarsaparilla bottle, that's enough. The name Ayer guarantees the best, and has done so for 50 years.

PIRATES IN EASTERN WATERS.

Malays Are Still the Terror of the Seas Toward the South of Asia.

The Malay and Eastern waters swarm with seemingly commercial junks and proas, which wear all the air of respectability, but are none the less on a constant watch for becalmed traders and cargo ships undermanned. In the Formosa channel the outward and homeward passengers will see apparently innocent vessels leisurely drifting in pairs before the wind. They drag between them a huge cable to which is fastened a sweep net; and, if nothing better turn up, they have to be content with what tunnies and turtle they may thus catch off the Pescadores, or the Baracels, or in those waters, the home of the cyclone, where rises the lonely Piedra Blanca. If, however, a Tonkinese or Chinese rice or opium boat drifts near by, and no embarrassing European boat is near, the nets are drawn in, the swarthy fishermen get out their spears and muskets, and combine to board and ravage the unlucky trader, cutting the throats of all on board, and sinking the junk when she has been thoroughly cleaned out. Instances have been known in which Canton or Foo Choo pirates have shipped as seemingly harmless and respectable voyagers on board even European steamers sailing out of Chinese ports, and have risen, when the vessel was well out at sea, and massacred her captain and crew. In such a case one hears of it, for European blood is an expensive liquid to spill in the East; but no mention ever comes to public ears of the hundreds of craft sailed and owned by natives which, year by year, in the seas east of Singapore, fall victims to the treacherous pirate of the Malay peninsula or Celebes or Javan archipelago.

A well-manned merchant ship with a Maxim gun on board would be fairly safe, for they can only attack in their boats, and any quick-firing cannon of the modern type would be more than they could comfortably face. A steamer, too, as long as her engines keep going, is perfectly secure, for their best chance is in those dead calms which come upon the Eastern seas, when the trader is helplessly fixed, while the "water rats" can bring their dhow or proa close up with long sweeps, and finish off the rest in their boats. Yet, if this kind of ancient villainy is to go on in those distant waters, at least until the Japanese have gained firm hold of Formosa, it is outrageous that examples of its revival should be furnished so close to civilization as the Straits of Gibraltar.

We sincerely hope that vigorous measures will be adopted by the military authorities of Great Britain in the Mediterranean to identify and clear out this nest of pirates so near "the rock." Diplomacy and diplomatic scruples should all be put on one side until the Albucemas scoundrels have been condignly punished, and a becoming number of them strung up in sight of their pensive countrymen along the Riff coast. We shall otherwise have an English mail or passenger seamer run ashore there some day with the result of being plundered and her company murdered. The maritime Arabs along the coast are just the same now, in point of morality, as when they roved the middle sea, a terror to all its shores and when the Algerine galleys drove a roaring trade in Christian captives. A felucca is not much from the point of view of Lloyd's Shipping Register, but it is an eminently serious thing that any vesel flying the British colors should be boarded and plundered within the hearing of the guns upon the rock.—London Telegraph.

The eldest intelligence respecting the use of the diving bell in Europe is the relation of an exhibit at Toledo, before the Emperor Charles V., in the middle of the sixteenth century, when two Greeks, in the presence of several thousand persons, let themselves down in the water in a large inverted kettle with a burning light, and came up again without being wetted.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

HOUSE.—A resolution by Mr. Morse, republican, of Massachusetts, looking to an expression of our government in regard to Armenian outrages, was referred to the foreign affairs committee.....Two bills relating to the District of Columbia were passed.....The pension bill was taken up in committee of the whole.....Mr. W. A. Stone, republican, of Pennsylvania, explained the bill and the two changes made by it in the existing law, which were to make a pension granted date from the time of the first application without regard to intervening rejections and limiting to $500 the income which dependent widows may receive and yet be eligible to a pension. Without any action on the bill the house at 4:30 adjourned until tomorrow.

SENATE.—Numerous petitions in favor of awarding belligerent rights to the Cubans were presented by Mr. Call, of Florida.....Mr. Kyle, populist, of South Dakota, introduced a concurrent resolution empowering and directing the president to receive properly accredited representatives of the Cuban patriots, and, upon certain contingencies, to extend to them belligerent rights. Referred to foreign affairs committee.....The unfinished business, being the house bond bill and the free silver substitute, was taken up and Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, spoke two hours, advocating the substitute. At the conclusion of Mr. Morgan's remarks, Mr. Butler, populist, of North Carolina, having the floor, the senate at 4:10 adjourned until tomorrow.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

HOUSE.—The day was spent in discussion of the pension bill and at 4:15 the house adjourned.

SENATE.—A bill granting a pension of $75 per month to the widow of Brigadier-General Cosswell was passed..... The bond bill and silver substitute was taken up. Mr. Butler, populist, of North Carolina, offered an amendment prohibiting the issue of bonds without the action of congress and requiring the payment of either gold or silver in redemption of greenbacks and treasury notes and for interest on coin bonds, and advocated his amendment in a two hours' speech.....Mr. Mills offered resolutions requiring the legal tender notes to be kept in circulation, the silver bullion now in the treasury to be coined as rapidly as possible, the seniorage to be applied to current expenses and the balance to the redemption of the treasury notes issued for its purchase; authorizing the issue of legal tender notes in any case of deficiency, to be cancelled when returned to the treasury; that all laws authorizing the issue of interest bearing bonds shall be repealed, and that the government shall have, and it shall be the duty of the secretary of the treasury to exercise the option of paying all obligations in silver or gold. He asked that the resolutions be on the table and gave notice that he would speak on them tomorrow. At 4:25 the senate went into executive session and soon thereafter adjourned until tomorrow.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

HOUSE.—The report of elections committee No. 2 on the contest of Cheesebrough vs. Geo. B. McLellan, from the Third district of New York, was presented in the form of a resolution declaring McLellan duly elected, Cheesebrough having abandoned the contest. The report was agreed to and the resolution passed....The house then went into committee of the whole on the pension bill, which was considered until 4:10 p. m., when the committee rose and the house adjourned.

[illegible]—Messrs. Mills and Peffer [illegible] on their respective [illegible] offered.... Mr. Pugh, of Ala[illegible] resolution of the same general [illegible] of the two under consideration, declaring all government bonds payable, principal and interest, in standard silver dollars....A joint resolution was passed appropriating $75,000 to defray expense of locating the line between Alaska and British America....A short executive session was held and the senate adjourned until tomorrow.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

HOUSE.—The debate on the pension bill was concluded in committee of the whole, and the committee rose....A bill extending to January 22, 1899, the period allowed the Aransas Pass Harbor company for securing a depth of 20 feet over the bar, was reported from the committee on rivers and harbors and went to the calendar....Mr. Moody, of Massachusetts, announced the death, on the 22d of May last, of his predecessor, Gen. Wm. Cogswell. The usual resolutions were adopted and the house, as a further mark of respect, adjourned until tomorrow.

SENATE.—The bill, by Mr. Allen, populist, of Nebraska, prohibiting the acceptance by any American of any title or degree of honor from any foreign government, which was adversely reported from the committee on foreign relations yesterday, was at his request put upon the calendar.... Mr. Hamsbrough, republican, of North Carolina, from the committee on agriculture, reported a joint resolution directing the secretary of agriculture to carry into effect the law in relation to the distribution of seeds and of farm bulletins. Calendar....Mr. Cullom offered a resolution of inquiry relative to the rights in Turkey of naturalized Armenian citizens of the United States....Mr. Sewell, republican, of New Jersey, offered resolutions defining the Monroe doctrine and asked that they lie on the table for the present....The bill, by Mr. Hale, of Maine, relating to the construction of telegraphic cables in the Pacific, was laid before the senate and Mr. Hale spoke in its advocacy. Referred to foreign relations....The bond bill, being the unfinished business, was taken up and Mr. Peffer concluded his remarks thereon....The death of the late Representative Cogswell, of Massachusetts, was announced, the usual resolutions passed, and the senate, as a further mark of respect, adjourned until Monday.

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY.

HOUSE.—The general pension appropriation bill for the year ending June 30, 1897, after more than five days' debate, was read by paragraphs and passed without material amendment....A message was received from the president asking prompt legislation to enable the attorney-general to prosecute litigation in reference to lands in forfeited railroad grants....Some miscellaneous business was transacted and the house adjourned until Monday.

SENATE.—No session.

FOUR ARRESTED, ONE KILLED.

Western Train Robbers Raid a Train and Come to Grief.

Four bandits arrested at Cedar City, Mo., Friday are the train robbers who held up the Missouri Pacific train and robbed the crew of $500 and five gold watches on Thursday. Next day, the robbers, six in number, appeared at Cedar City and undertook to run the town. Their leader was shot and [illegible] by Charles Gilbert, of Fulton, [illegible] were arrested. They were conveye[illegible]lloway county jail at Fulton. Fro[illegible] it is ascertained that they were [illegible]tedly the Nevada train robbers. On [illegible] the men $1,600 was found. There [illegible] great excitement over the affair. It is known that there were eight men in the gang, two escaped, one is dead and five are in jail. The fifth man was arrested Thursday morning when he called at the jail to see the others. He is a brother to the man who was killed.

A Hero of the Revolution.

Memorial exercises were held at noon Saturday at General Nathaniel Greene's monument in Savannah, by a delegation of Rhode Island editors, in commemoration of the heroic services to his country of the revolutionary patriot. The monument in Savannah is the only memorial to General Greene except in the hall of representatives at Washington. Addresses were made by the members, and participated in by the city authorities; Sons of the Revolution, Daughters of the Revolution and other historical societies. The Cheatham artillery, which fired the salute at the burial of General Greene in 1786, was represented by a detachment.

Jealousy Incites Murder.

George Smith and James Frazier, Jr., were in love with the same girl, and both were jealous. They met in a saloon near the mouth of Quicksand, Ky., Friday, and while under the influence of liquor engaged in a quarrel. Frazier knocked Smith down. Bystanders interfered and Smith left the saloon. He met on the outside the elder Frazier and William Smith, also a relative of his rival. Without any warning he leveled his pistol, which he carried in his hand, and after shooting both men at close range, continued his flight. The two victims had nothing to do with the fight, nor had they any knowledge of it.

Street Robbery in Chattanooga.

Mrs. T. McLellan and daughter were walking on Cedar street, Chattanooga about 6 o'clock Saturday evening, when a negro seized her around the waist and attempted to wrench her purse from her hand. She held to it, screaming, and her daughter tried to make the scoundrel release her. Several men on West Ninth street, attracted by the cries of the ladies, ran to their aid. As they approached the villain fled and had not, at last accounts been captured. The brave woman saved her purse.

COULD ONLY EAT PEPTONOIDS

BUT PINK PILLS MADE IT POSSIBLE TO EAT ANYTHING.

Get Your Digestion Right and Your Health Will Take Care of Itself.

From the Star, Washington, D. C.

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills miraculously cured me of two diseases and have otherwise done me a vast amount of good," said Mrs. E. A. Meeker, of No. 207 Third street, Southeast Washington, D. C., to a Star reporter to-day.

"For many years I was a sufferer from muscular rheumatism in its worst form, and in addition had stomach trouble to such an extent that for a long time I could eat nothing stronger than beef peptonoids. The rheumatism commenced in my back and not only extended into my left arm, almost paralyzing it from the shoulder to the elbow, but attacked my hips and limbs with such vehemence that it was impossible for me to go out on the street without being supported by an attendant.

"I was attended by four different physicians—not all at one time—of both the allopathic and homeopathic schools, and there were times when I was covered from my neck to my feet with porous or some other kind of plasters, for I tried everything of the sort that was recommended by my friends.

"During the greater part of this time my husband and son were urging me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but I steadily refused to do so.

"About two years or two and a half years ago the physician who was then attending me, and I have had none since, said to me, 'Mrs. Meeker, there is no use for me to come and see you any more; you have muscular rheumatism, a disease incident to old age, and you cannot be cured. I will give you some iron for your blood, and when this prescription runs out you can get it renewed. If you get much worse you can send for me, but I will not again call until I am summoned.'

"Of course I was much discouraged, but still I tried a noted massage treatment thoroughly, but without the slightest effect. At last my husband persuaded me to try the Pink Pills.

"I want to say that when I began taking the Pink Pills it was without the least faith in their efficacy for good or belief that they would benefit me, but simply to please my husband and son by taking something. However, I took them as directed by the makers, and about the end of the month I found to my great surprise that my stomach was so much better that I had no longer to subsist on beef peptonoids, but could begin to indulge in more solid food.

"So I told my husband that as the Pink Pills were evidently doing me good, I would try them for another month.

"I continued to use them as directed and during the second month my eyesight, which had been very bad for a long time, began to improve, and it was much more pleasant for me to go on the street, though I still had to be attended on account of my weak limbs.

"How many boxes of the Pink Pills I took in all I could not begin to tell, as there were periods when I would stop using them for a week at a time. But from the time I commenced until I felt I could safely cease taking them was about fifteen months.

"Sometime after my eyesight began to grow better, my memory, which had been defective and caused me much trouble for a long time, returned and became as good as when as I was many years younger. During the period to which I refer I had great difficulty in remembering where I had put anything, but as I said before, this trouble entirely disappeared and has never returned, while my eyesight also continues excellent.

"My long continued illness had reduced my weight from between 130 and 140 pounds to 112 pounds, but while I was taking the Pink Pills I gained thirty pounds, and I now weigh 138 pounds.

"Some of my friends freely asserted that my flesh, as they noticed my increasing weight, was not solid and predicted that I would speedily lose it. Such, however, has not been the case, although I have not taken any of the pills since last December. All my rheumatism having by that time disappeared, since which time I have had no return of the dread complaint. I have been told that the disease will visit me again, but if it does, I shall again resort to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"With my experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I have not hesitated to recommend them to others who were afflicted. My niece, who lives near Hillsboro, Loudoun County, Va., suffered for a long time with a peculiar disease of the hips and limbs. I believed the medicine which did me so much good would cure her also, and I bought three boxes of them and sent to her. She took them and was cured completely of her complaint."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are sold in boxes (never in loose form, by the dozen or hundred) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or directly by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

A CENTURY BEHIND.

Spain Is Far in the Rear in the March of Progress.

In Spain, a century behind the rest of the world, machinery has not been introduced; everything is done by man[illegible]. The tillers of the soil often have [illegible] distances to their work. Cottages are [illegible] far between; the plains are far-reaching. They start before daybreak and return after nightfall. Tired with their long day they make a frugal meal and then go to bed. Of home they really see nothing except on Sunday, their only day of rest and leisure. Very picturesque they look standing in groups about the villages, dressed in the long cloak that often sits upon them as gracefully as upon the noble.

Most of the people work in the fields, men, women and children; and not infrequently overwork themselves into ill-health and shortened lives. All are simple and primitive, happy as people living under a warm sun and generous climate generally are. Wisdom has taught them not to expect the impossible, and they are easily contented. Fun and laughter, a light heart and gay temperament are the characteristics of the dwellers in the plains; healthy lives and influences which bear good fruit.

As a result of their toil many an acre, many a mile of the plain country will be seen at certain seasons gorgeous with the yellow flower of the saffron. This is in great demand in Spain; no kitchen is without a large supply, and it is said to cause the ugly yellow tinge that often distinguishes the Spanish features. Other crops grown on the plains are Indian maize in great abundance, and garbanzos, or chick peas. The latter forms almost the staple food of the peasantry, and is supposed to have been brought into the country by the Carthagenians. This also will be found in most of the Spanish kitchens, laying the foundation to many of their dishes.

Vermont is being systematically stocked with various species of game birds from other States and lands, under the direction of a department of the State Game Commission. A few days ago a number of Mongolian pheasants, which have been introduced in several Pacific States with much success, were received at the headquarters of the commission. The birds are to be kept in confinement and the eggs distributed in various parts of the State. The eggs will be set under domestic hens, and the young pheasants will, at the proper time, be set free in the forests. A consignment of Virginia quails and sharp-tail grouse is now on its way to Vermont to be used for the same purpose.

A careless London bicyclist has been indicted for manslaughter, convicted and sentenced to four months' imprisonment. He was riding down a hill on a dark night without a lantern, and ran into and killed a pedestrian. The four months' imprisonment carries hard labor with it. It is to be hoped, observes the New Orleans Picayune, that this incident will be borne in mind by wheelmen and police justices of this country, even though it cannot be regarded as establishing a precedent for the latter to follow. A lesson of severe character is needed by numerous riders here, who are disposed to go at breakneck speed without regard to the rights of anybody else. If serious results should follow their recklessness, it is certain that they should be dealt with harshly, both by judges and juries.

The general belief among doctors is that consumption itself is very rarely inherited. But the belief is becoming stronger that the tendency to consumption is very generally transmitted from parent to child. If there has been consumption in the family, each member should take special care to prepare the system against it. Live out doors; keep the body well nourished; and treat the first indication of failing health.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. Charles S. Patterson, the publisher of Newspaperdom, says that it is not often that he gets so enthusiastic as he does over Ripans Tabules. Almost with the regularity of clockwork he used to feel, at about eleven o'clock, that something had gone wrong with his breakfast; especially was this true if he had had a nervous night, as is no uncommon thing with head-workers. "My stomach," said Mr. Patterson, "is under the standard as to strength, and it seems at these times [illegible] efficiently, and finally to stop. Clouds come before my vision and a slight nausea is felt. Then I reach out for my Ripans. (Years of the sort of thing related have made me know the symptoms as well as my name.) VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 30, 1896. NO. 14.

PACIFIC RAILROADS.

NOW BELONG TO THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT.

Possession Should Be Taken at Once—Over $140,000,000 Owing by These Railroads to the United States—Why Not Proceed to Foreclose?

[illegible] issued by the United States to the Pacific railroads are falling due.

In 1862 congress voted bonds in aid of the Union Pacific, Central Pacific, Kansas Pacific, Western Pacific, and Sioux City & Pacific railroads to the extent of sixteen thousand dollars per mile in the level districts, and forty-eight thousand dollars per mile in the mountainous districts, the government to have a first lien on the roads and rolling stock and other appurtenances to secure the repayment of the bonds and interest. The bonds were made payable thirty years after date and were issued as the roads were constructed.

Two years later congress passed an act authorizing the companies to give a first mortgage to private parties for an amount equal to the government aid and making the government's claim a second lien.

The act provided that in case of default in payment of the bonds when due the secretary of the treasury might take possession of the roads for the use and benefit of the United States.

The peculiar wording of the act declared that the payment of interest did not work a forfeiture.

Bonds to the amount of $64,623,512 were issued by the government and delivered to the companies.

The government has paid interest on these bonds to the amount of $105,698,926. The companies have paid none of the principal; they have paid only about one-hundredth of the interest in cash. They have received a credit on account of transportation service for the government of $27,954,714.

So the account stands as follows:

PACIFIC RAILROADS—DR.

To bonds ....$ 64,623,512.00
To interest paid by U. S...105,698,926.00

$170,322,438.00

CR.

By cash ...$ 1,103,618.00
By transportation .27,954,714.00

$ 29,058,333.00

$141,264,105.00

Over one hundred and forty million dollars owing by these roads to the United States.

The first installment of interest on these bonds was paid by the government twenty-nine years ago. This should have been repaid by the railroads at that time, but they did not repay it, and in the government's account with the roads no interest upon interest is charged to the roads.

Were they charged with interest upon interest, that is, if the interest were compounded, the amount due the government would figure up 340 million dollars. Governor Pattison, of Pennsylvania, who was on the Pacific railroads investigation committee, reported that the fact the law did not specify defaulted interest should bear interest was worth to the roads one hundred and ninety-nine mi[illegible]rs.

The schemers who engineered the Pacific railroad project got from the government in bonds and lands more than enough to construct the roads.

The actual cost is fixed by Gov. Pattison at $9[illegible],000. The value of the land grante[illegible] estimated by Gov. Pattison wa[illegible]. This added to the bon[illegible] $129,000,000, or $34,000,000 more than the roads actually cost.

The actual net earnings of the roads that is, receipts from freight and passenger fares, over and above expenses—amounted to the stupendous sum of $27[illegible],000,000 at the time Gov. Pattison made his report, some eight years ago.

These roads have robbed the people without mercy by excessive freight charges, notwithstanding the people's money built and paid for every particle of the roads. Wayfarers with little or no money have become worth tens of millions after living in kingly splendor for thirty years, all out of these roads.

The bonds are now falling due and the roads are not paying them. The roads go to the government under the law, and the secretary of the treasury has the right without suit or delay to take possession.

Let it be done, and let it be shown that Uncle Sam can run a railroad and make it a great public blessing as well as he can a postal system.—Missouri World

Jingoism.

Ex-Gov. St. John, of Kansas, utters the following view of the Venezuelan trouble:

It is shallow jingoism, pure and simple. Mr Cleveland's Venezuela message was merely to touch American patriotism to draw their attention from financial plundering going on. And the gold-bug republicans and wall street democrats are cheek-by-jowl with him. The idea of all this furore over a boundary dispute between Venezuela and England is the veriest bosh.

"The idea of sounding tom-toms over British boundary dispute between Venezuela and English comes with bad grace from those who encouraged acquisitions right in our own country, by English syndicates, realities aggregating more in acreage than six of the New England states.

"Why, even within the past few weeks," said the governor, "British lords have acquired whole counties in area in Indiana and Illinois and the west. They own our bonds, they own our railroads, our principal industries, and dictate our financial policies. And the very men who are crying "fire" are the ones who knuckle and truckle most to British demands in our monetary system. They don't want war, they have no intention of precipitating war. It's jingoism."

INTEREST A THIEF.

Its Power to Concentrate the Country's Wealth Nearly Unlimited.

The power of interest to accumulate is not appreciated as it should be. When it is, there can be no question but that an intelligent people will refuse to continue a system fraught with such a terrible danger to the progress of civilization and the welfare of humanity. The following table will demonstrate the terrible rapidity with which compound interest accumulates as the rate per cent increases:

$1	100 yrs.	at	1	per cent,	$2.75
"	"	"	" 2	"	7.25
"	"	"	" 2½	"	11.75
"	"	"	" 3	"	19.25
"	"	"	" 3½	"	31.25
"	"	"	" 4	"	50.50
"	"	"	" 4½	"	81.50
"	"	"	" 5	"	131.50
"	"	"	" 6	"	340.00
"	"	"	" 7	"	868.00
"	"	"	" 8	"	2,203.00
"	"	"	" 9	"	5 543.00
"	"	"	" 10	"	13,809.00
"	"	"	" 12	"	84,675.00
"	"	"	" 15	"	1,174,405.00
"	"	"	" 18	"	12,145,007.00
"	"	"	" 24	"	2,551,779,404.00

Another practical illustration is to compare the man at work with the dollar at interest. At first thought it would seem ridiculous to make the comparison with even one man but we shall make it with all the producers of the world pitted against one dollar.

In 1890, after almost 400 years of labor of many millions of people, the total accumulation of wealth of the nation was about $62,500,000,000. This included a large amount of wealth brought to this country by immigrants; it also included the vast value of lands, forests, mines, etc., which we did not produce, but found ready for our use.

With the great shrinkage in values that has since occurred the total accumulation would probably be less than $50,000,000,000.

Now suppose that Christopher Columbus when he landed in America had started a bank on a capital of one dollar, loaning the money at the rate of ten per cent, compounding at the end of every three months, as is the usual custom with banks where they do not charge the interest in advance.

The capital would double every seven years, and by 1890 would have accumulated $143,603,198,813,228,032.

As a wealth accumulator the dollar proves far superior to the most ingenious and industrious people; occupying the most fertile country on earth. Great are the United States of America, Great are the American people.

But 2,872,064 times greater is the Shylock dollar at ten per cent. interest.

Another comparison which will come closer home will be to anticipate the result for the future by comparing the power of the banks to accumulate through production.

How long can the people keep ahead of the banks?

How long until the banks own the people and the nation?

We will take as the basis of our circulation the average increase of the wealth of the nation during the period from 1880 to 1890 as per census reports, and will ignore the great shrinkage of values already a fact.

Assume (an assumption not warranted by the facts or prospects) that the nation will enjoy the same degree of prosperity as in the past decade, with an annual increase of three per cent per annum and no financial depressions, panics or set-backs; the producers with a full head of steam on and sails set to a favorable breeze; the drones quietly and placidly clipping ten per cent. interest coupons.

From the report of the comptroller of the currency for 1892, page 45, we find that the national banks had loaned out at interest (including stocks and bonds) $2,509,000,000; (page 85), state banks, loan and trust companies, savings banks and private banks (6 per cent not reporting) the amount was $3,145,000,000, or a total for the banks of $5,654,000,000. The result by seven year periods would be as follows:

	Nation's Wealth.	Bankers' Wealth.
1892	$ 66,306,250,000	$ 5,654,000,000
1899	82,188,953,986	11,308,000,000
1906	101,082,036,427	22,616,000,000
1913	124,318,167,160	45,232,000,000
1920	152,895,675,383	90,464,000,000
1927	188,042,405,297	180,928,000,000
1934	251,256,847,012	361,856,000,000

When we take into consideration the fact that all values have decreased fully 25 per cent during the past three years instead of increasing at the rate of three per cent per annum, and the further fact of the vast amount of interest collected by insurance companies, land loaning syndicates, dividends of railroads and other corporations, it is evident that the nation cannot stand the strain for another twenty years.

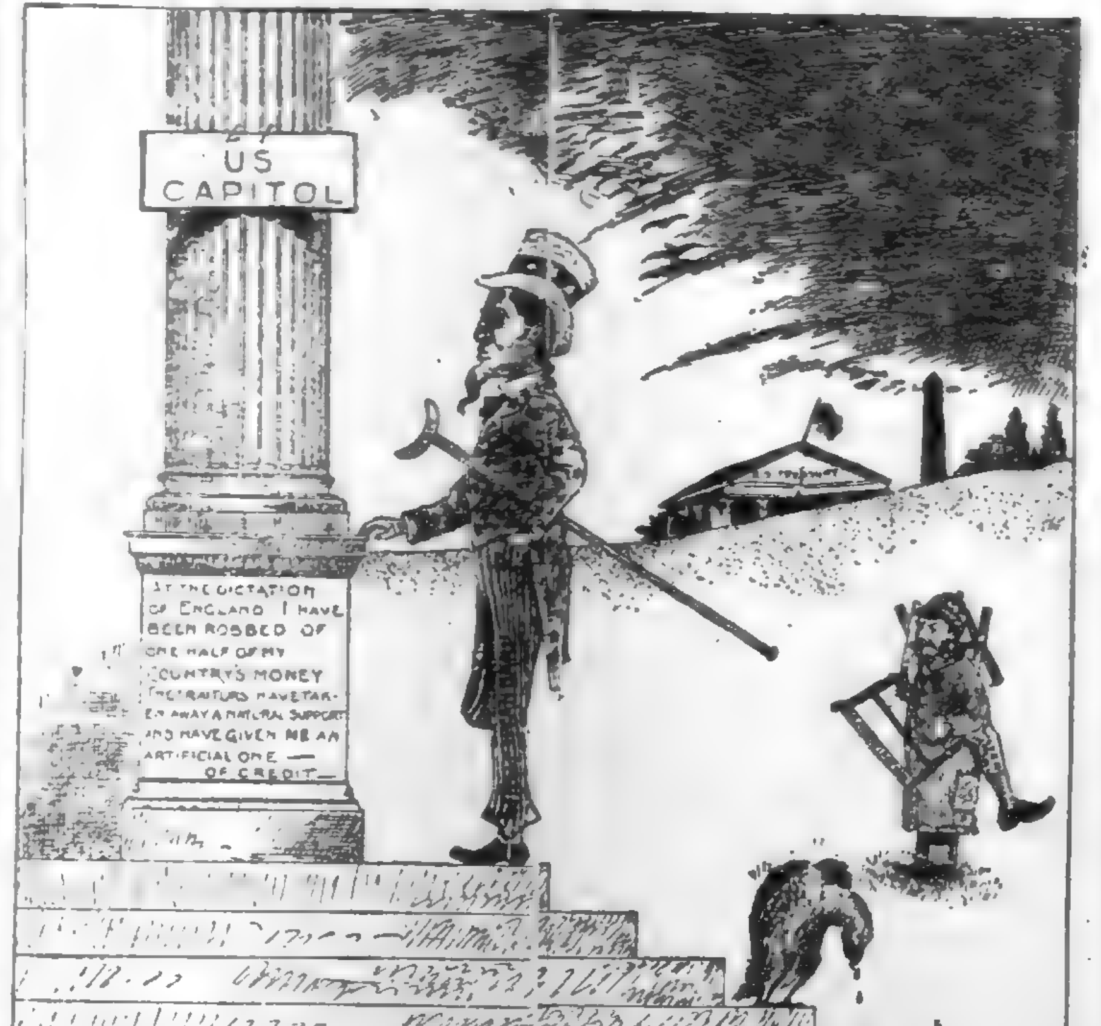
Interest must be abolished or we perish as a nation.—Dakota Ruralist.

Increasing the Dose.

The dose is growing larger. Two years ago the legal thieves were almost afraid to issue even a small batch of bonds. They feared the people would not stand it. They knew it was an imposition, an uncalled for, unnecessary, fraudulent proceeding and expected a great roar, but they ventured a $50,000,000 issue. The people roared. When that wore off a little they tried another 50 million batch and the roar was weaker. Then we had to swallow the 62 million steal, and now they venture a $100,000,000 purse. The people are getting used to it, and in a short time will be expected to submit to a $200,000,000 yoke and then $500,000,000 and so on, until the $1,000,000,000 program is completed. Well, who blames the money power? The people are oysters and go on voting for it.—Iowa Tribune.

If the war was as sure as the bonds and taxes somebody would get whipped.

UNCLE SAM WILL SOON BE ALL RIGHT.



US CAPITOL

Uncle Sam is very foolish to bewail so small a matter as the loss of his silver leg. He does not seem to be posted in "sound" finance. He is actually so ignorant as to think that it would be better for him to use his own silver than to borrow gold.—National Bimetallist.

NATIONAL LEGION.

An Appeal for a More Perfect Organization.

With the dawn of the New Year I again remind those who desire reform; who want the restoration of silver coinage; who want to preserve the sacred greenbacks; who want to free the nation from British dictation and deliver the people from all similar entangling alliances with foreign governments and potentates; who want to curb the usurped powers of the courts; who want to prevent the president from combining all authority of a mikado, czar, or emperor in his person; who desire to overthrow the dominion of the banks and corporations over our land; who want to save their homes, see labor employed and happiness and content reign in place of gaunt, hollow-eyed despair and desperation, and who hope to bring about this glad result, and all who are earnestly seeking the enthroning of an era of prosperity, that they must organize at once. Not another moment must be lost. We cannot wait any longer. We must at the beginning of 1896 commence to do our duty. If every one of over two million voters should give a day and a dime to the cause, victory would be ours in 1896. It is useless to seek a wiser and better plan. The Legion combines all of the machinery that is needed for the work of the campaign. It enlists the recruits, it drills the voters, it allies the women and young people, it guards the ballot box; it for[illegible] a fair count; its members stand by each other and uphold the honor and glory of the party. All of the hundred ways of organizing simply divide and enable the enemy to conquer.

I think our people are thoroughly convinced that the Legion furnishes the method of work absolutely needed. The little book of J. D. Botkin I have commended shows exactly how to do the work.

We want an organized band of zealous missionaries seeking converts far and wide on a definite an[illegible] certed plan. It is too [illegible] devise another plan. [illegible] recruiting officer already appointed and furnished with supplies would go to work, the [illegible]est would be great. It is folly to wait and look for another way or to try to revive the dead. If the people will not at once, without the loss of an hour, go to work with energy, victory will be postponed until 1900. It will be criminal to dally longer. We must encourage a spirit of self-sacrifice. If we win we must have our best workers give time and energy to the work. Any live man or woman can organize anywhere.

The people are ready; but they wait for the sluggish leaders. With a perfect organization in all the states, we need never fear the wiles of the enemy. We can resist every assault if we are ready for the fray. We have a vast majority in our favor. The ranks of labor alone could win. Farmers could slay the hostile band at the polls. The stay-at-home vote, discontented and disgusted, could overthrow Wall street. Our divisions in a multitude of discordant bands render it easy to whip us in detail. I firmly believe all the elements desiring reform will unite, but they will not if we offer to surrender our organization and betray our platform in advance. We can overcome the world and annihilate the flesh, and destroy the devil if we have sense enough to organize the Legion. It is hard to wake the dead. In this work it would need 10,000 Gabriels with trumpets that could be heard round the world to arouse the sleeping people. They act like Sampson after Delilah took away his strength. They do not know their power. We fear when they do awake it will be too late and they will only destroy the temple.

We invoke the aid of every patriotic, of each high-souled man and woman, who wants to bring back the spirit of the fathers, who wants to give liberty and work to all, who wants to turn back the tide of ignorance drifted on our shores by the enemies of free government, who wants to overthrow forever the foreign vandal hands that seek to destroy the land our heroic ancestors gave us, who would rather die than be enslaved, and is willing to give all his or her time, if need be, to bring back honor, love, prosperity and patriotism.

I also desire to give notice that I have accepted the position of editor-in-chief of the Nation, a monthly magazine, published at Omaha, Neb., by the Union Publishing company, which will publish for the information of the Legion all orders and circulars. Its "silver article" alone for January will be worth the cost of the magazine. It will have articles on all phases of reform and will teach true patriotism and love of country. It will be the organ of no organization, but will have something good for all. It will be sent for one ($1.00) dollar per annum. Liberal commission to agents. It will be invaluable for all members of the Legion, as I have already arranged for articles from all our leading writers. Address me at Omaha, Neb.

PAUL VAN DERVOORT.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Well, Grover wants to sell some more bonds. The farmers and workingmen will, of course, hail this news with joy. This affords another opportunity for them to make a profitable investment of the money they have saved from raising 40 cent wheat, 15 cent corn and 5 cent cotton. The farmer who has been losing sleep on account of being compelled to deposit his savings in a bank that might break or suspend at any time, now has the opportunity to invest them safely. Of course the loan is only for $100,000,000 and will be quickly taken up by the farmers, so if you want to get part of it you must be in a hurry. As the denomination of bonds are as low as $50 any farmer or workingman can afford to own several of them. If you haven't got the money right handy to take a $50 bond you might sell two or three horses, or three or four hundred bushels of corn.

The United States is ri[illegible] ural resources tha[illegible] nation in the world, [illegible] m the market borrow[illegible] money to sustain itself. If th[illegible] no other evidence against the two old parties who have had the administration of affairs for thirty years than this alone it would be sufficient to convict them of incapacity, if not dishonesty. Any man who has the management of a fertile farm or well stocked store, with all the advantages of seasons and trade in his favor, and who has to be constantly increasing his indebtedness to keep the farm or store running, would be called a bad manager.

But there is a sentimentality or prejudice in politics that seems to cover up all these deficiencies. The United States is the only government in the world that uses gold as money, that will furnish it for export. To make gold the standard of payment and then to throw the treasury open to the sharks who export it from the country is a piece of folly so palpable that a blind man ought to see it, and every honest man ought to repudiate it.

The congress of the United States is in a pretty mess. It might appropriately be divided up into several classes. There are those who can do and won't do; those who would do but can't do; those who could do but are afraid to do; those who never try to do, and those who don't care a straw whether they do or not. The house is Republican by 135 majority over all. The senate has 41 Republicans, 38 Democrats and six Populists, with the organization in the hands of the Republicans. The white house is tory, of course—anything for the bankers and his friends. The house has not been charged with any intentions to pass any good measure of relief for the people. The senate has made a feint or two in the right direction, but if some good measure should run the gauntlet it would be killed in the house. If, by any chance of good fortune it should pass both houses the president would veto it. Summing up the situation, it looks now like the present congress would do nothing but talk and draw its salary.

It is well for the public to remember that the Democratic administration is issuing bonds under a Republican made law.

The cuckoos and goldbugs, like the money they advocate, are so "good in Europe" that America would be better off without them.

The log train at Mobley's mill ran off the track Thursday and several casualties were the result. The engineer had his arm broken and was badly hurt, one negro was killed outright and a white man was fatally hurt. It was a deplorable accident.

Heavy Rains in Marengo.

It has rained for several days and the Chickasabogue creek is higher than it has been in ten years. The mails south and west failed to get more than a mile from town, and the mails to Demopolis failed this morning, the first time since the present contractor took the route, nearly four years ago.

Athens Female College.

Dr. Z. A. Parker took charge of the Athens Female College about November 1st, 1895, with thirteen day pupils in attendance and not a boarder in the college. Now he has ninety-five pupils in attendance and enough have made arrangements to come to run the membership up to one hundred.

Cyclone, Rain and Hail.

Quite a cyclone passed over Dixons Mill neighborhood last Wedne[illegible] blowing trees and fences [illegible] lives were lost. [illegible] were hail [illegible] the storm. [illegible] stones that fell in Linden were as large as a partridge egg. Many fell about Octagon, as large as a guinea egg.

Question of Location Settled.

The location of the State Industrial School for White Girls is at last settled. Montevallo, through her executive committee—H. C. Reynolds, W. S. Cary and E. S. Lyman—has paid over to the state board of trustees the sum of $9,000 and delivered the deeds to the magnificent property which was donated by the citizens to the school.

Uxorcide and Suicide.

On Friday night last, about 9 o'clock, John H. Goodwin, a farmer, of Shelby county, in a fit of mental derangement, shot his wife. She fell and instantly expired. He then put the muzzle of the gun against his own abdomen and, pushing the trigger with a stick, shot himself, and, falling across his wife's body, expired. Two children, aged 5 and 8, witnessed the terrible tragedy.

Big Grain Elevator.

Mobile is to have a 250,000 bushel elevator within the next 100 days, the contract for which was awarded Saturday evening. The bonus of $15,000 was raised Friday night and is now in bank on deposit to be paid over upon the completion of the elevator. It will be located opposite the new slip of the Mobile and Ohio road, and will be accessible to all railroads entering Mobile.

Long Distance Telephone.

The long distance telephone line between Oakman, Jasper, Corona, Patton, Coal Valley, Blossburg, Horse Creek and Birmingham, has been completed and is now ready for use. The line belongs to the Oakman Long Distance Telephone company, and they have made arrangements with the Bell Telephone company in Birmingham so that subscribers of the latter can get connection with the places named above at any time.

A Question of Veracity.

Judge Robinson, of Lee county, contesting the seat of Congressman Harrison from the Third Alabama district, in an affidavit, states that Governor Oates made a proposition to him that if he would abandon the contest against Harrison the impeachment proceedings against him (Robinson) as probate judge of Lee county would be withdrawn. Governor Oates pronounces this statement as absolutely untrue, and today forwarded an affidavit to that effect, for use before the committee on elections of the house of representatives.

Immigrants Occupying the Land.

The western portion of Escambia county is on a small boom. The lands in that section are being divided off into lots suitable for truck farming and many northern people are buying and settling there, a great many nice cottages having been built for them.

Industrial Progress of Eufaula.

If natural adaptation is any index of destiny then Eufaula will ultimately become the workshop of southeastern Alabama. The material is now on the ground preparatory to damming the waters of the Chewalla creek, and they will be utilized in operating the large bagging factory plant which has been closed down for several years, but is to soon start up for permanent work in the future. In addition to this the proprietors propose to erect a large grist mill and ginnery to be run by the same power and other small manufacturing industries are spoken of in connection with it.

White-cappers Convicted.

Attorney-General Fitts was in Wetumpka last week assisting Solicitor Brewer in prosecuting the white-cappers, Josephus Jowers, John Edwards and John Morgan, who were charged with murdering Rufus Swindal, colored, in Elmore county, in March, 1895. After a long and hard fight by the attorneys on both sides, the case was submitted to the jury Wednesday night about 7 o'clock. Thursday about 11 o'clock the jury brought in their verdict. They found Josephus Jowers and John Edwards guilty of murder in the second degree, and fixed their punishment at ten years in the penitentiary. John Morgan was acquitted.

Industrial progress in Florence.

The Florence Pump and Lumber company will increase its fore of hands on February 1 to 100 men. The company is doing a larger business this year than ever before. All of the manufacturing establishments in Florence appear to be prospering. The Cherry Cotton mills are running night and day in order to keep up with their increasing business. The Florence Wagon works are doing remarkably well and are working a large force of hands. The plaining mills and lumber dealers say the demand for building matersal has been greater during the past four months than for several years and a still greater demand is expected in the spring.

Industrial School for Negro Girls.

Work has begun in earnest on the Industrial School for Negro Girls on the mountain just east of Oxanna, which is to be built and endowed by a wealthy widow lady of Philadelphia, who is represented by her brother, Rev. George A. Marr. The contract for the main building has been let. This building will be four stories in height, 67x175 feet, which includes a wing at each end. The first two stories will be of stone and the other two of brick, the stone being secured from a quarry within 1,000 yards of the site of the building. The cost of this building will be some $40,000. Grading for the foundations has already begun. It is hoped to have the structure completed by the 1st of September.

Industrial—Fort Payne.

The Standard Lime company is pushing its business along quite nicely, and in a few months expect to have all three kilns in operation.

The Standard Stone works is doing a big business, considering the length of time it has been in existence and the general depression in finance all over the country. However, it is now behind with orders and in a short time the foundry will be put to its fullest capacity, thereby giving employment to a much larger number of hands.

The work at the steel mills is progressing rather rapidly, considering the inclemency of the weather, and it is only a question of a few days when everything will be in readiness for operation.

The Valley's Flooded.

A steady rain has been falling in lower Mississippi for over a week, and as a result the creeks and rivers have been converted into inland seas. The reports from various points state that farms and plantations have been inundated, fences destroyed, bridges swept away. The damage to property will reach a considerable sum. The railroads are also great sufferers and the delay in traffic on some of them is serious. The Iron Mountain, which runs through a swampy country, in eastern Arkansas, is under water in several places.

Disasters by Fire.

On Saturday morning a fire broke out in the top story of a tall building, in Cleveland, O., occupied by several firms, resulting in damages to the amount of between $30,000 and $40,000.

On Saturday night the plant of the Champion Blower and Forge company at Lancaster, Pa., was burned. Loss $80,000; insurance $60,000.

Cotton Mill Burned.

The Stevens Cotton mill, belonging to the assigned estate of H. S. Shirk & Sons, of Lancaster, Pa., was completely destroyed by fire Saturday morning. Loss $60,000; insurance $37,000.

THE People's Party State Executive Committee met at Birmingham last Thursday and Capt. R. F. Kolb was asked to preside temporarily. J. C. King acted as secretary pro tem. Chairman S. M. Adams' resignation was accepted and G. B. Deans, of Shelby, was elected in his place. Twenty-five members of the committee were present and vacancies were filled as follows: Fourth District—C. F. Dodson, of Cleburne. Eighth District—J. J. Turrentine, of Limestone, and C. W. Hunt, of Jackson. On motion of Mr. Baltzell a committee was appointed to confer with the Republican committee in reference to the time and place of calling the State Conventions of the respective parties. The chair appointed Frank Baltzell, R. F. Kolb, J. M. Whitehead, I. L[illegible] and E. C. Jackson to be of the committee. [illegible] was agreed by the conference committee that a convention of each party should meet at 12 m., in seperate halls, in the city of Montgomery, on April 28 proximo. It was further recommended that beat meetings, primary elections and county conventions to select delegates to the State Convention be held prior to April 11, 1896.

It was voted thas all lawful voters who favor the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, the abolition of national banks and the increase of the volume of money by the national government, who favor a free ballot and a fair count, and who are opposed to an increase of the national debt by the sale of interest bearing bonds to keep up a reserve, and who will pledge themselves to support the candidates nominated by the Populists for State and county offices, are invited to come into these primaries and assist us in nominations and selecting delegates

THAT gold bug cyclone last week played the very mischief. It started in the gulf, and as it came through Mobile unceremoniously brushed Dick Clarke aside as if he was nobody and never had had gubernatorial aspirations. It gathered force as it came north and reaching the capital city it struck the Montgomery Advertiser such a mighty blow that it is doubtful if the old girl will ever get over it. But its culminating point was Clanton. It rattled the windows of the post office, and meeting our much esteemed friend Dr. Stewart, who was intently figuring how his vote and that of Postmaster Garner could be made to count more than two from Chilton county for the honorable Dick it fairly doubled him up and knocked all the breath out of him. He is better now, thank you. Then it struck the Chilton View and knocked it clean out of sight, so that it has not been seen or heard of since. And that is the last of the View.

Chairman Deans' Address.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., }
Jan. 24, '96. }

To the Populists of Alabama:

The State Executive Committee of the People's Party of Alabama, in session January 23, was requested by Hon. S. M. Adams to accept his resignation as chairman. The committee recognizing the ability, integrity and fitness of Mr. Adams in the performance of the duties involved in the position he had seen fit to decline to further honor and hold, accepted his resignation with regret and with high appreciation for his services in behalf of the reform movement.

The committee then placed me in the position of trust, honor and responsibility, formerly occupied by Mr. Adams, and, in its acceptance, I ask the the Populites of Alabama to co-operate and advise with me in the discharge of the important work we have undertaken.

At the suggestion and by the request of the State Executive Committee, this address is made that the Populist voters of Alabama may be acquainted with and awakened to the political situation that now confronts the reform movement.

The State campaign is practically at hand and the lines of contest are fast being formed by the political parties in Alabama. The State Executive Committee of the organized Democratic party met January 21, 1896, and formulated its plan of action.

It may be wrong at this time to refer to the resolutions adopted by this committee to inveigle voters who have officiated with the reform movement in Alabama into the snare of ballot box stuffers. The resolutions adopted by the State Committee of the "organized" Democracy and to divert the minds of the defrauded people of Alabama from the ballot box stuffers within that organization and from the fact that this party is controlled by these enemies to honest government.

The record of fraud and usurpation made by the "organized" Democracy speaks in thunder tones to the liberty-loving people of Alabama, a warning that cannot fail to cause them to beware of political associations with a party that has both wronged and robbed them.

This recent action of the "organized" Democratic Executive Committee is no doubt the consummation of a deeply plotted scheme of Captain Johnston, who, let it never be forgotton by the patriotic people of Alabama, was the chief conspirator in the mid-night conclave of the unscrupulous political tricksters, who put into execution a plan, conceived in iniquity, to defraud the people of their choice for Governor in 1890, when an overwhelming majority had expressed themselves for Reuben F. Kolb.

Let it now be remembered that Captain Johnston has publicly declared, although he claims to be in favor of fair and honest elections, that he would support if nominated by the "organized" Democracy, Judge Caffee, of Lowndes county, [illegible]tically declared, over his [illegible] that he had counted 4,999 [illegible] for the "organized" Democ[illegible] and that he would do it again.

Captain Johnston has also declared in public speeches in the State that he favors the free and unlimited coinage of silver and that a gold standard would entail more miseries to the people of this country than all the wars, pestilences and famines, and, in the next breath avows that he would support a gold standard nominee for any office named by his party!

The position held by Richard H. Clarke on the currency question and his advocacy of a single gold standard, with its attending ruin, is plainly known to the Populists of Alabama, who need not be counselled to refuse their support to either him or his policies.

The "organized" committee, at present controlled by the Johnston faction, in its resolutions adopted January 21, invites all voters in Alabama to participate in the primaries of the "organized" Democracy, who will pledge to support the nominees and "principles" of the party. As Johnston advocates the free coinage of silver, as Clarke is a radical goldbug, and, as Knox, the chairman of the "organized" Democratic Committee, is an advocate of the gold standard, and Johnston, a free silver man, claims to control this committee, the voters cannot possibly conceive what the principles of the "organized" Democracy may be when formulated by a hybrid and a mongrel State Convention. The Populists of Alabama, judging the "organized" Democracy by its past record, cannot see in this party but one fixed and agreed policy and principle, but no one can deny the unity of the "organized" Democracy on the question of ballot box stuffing. By record, precedent and practice, the "organized" Demecracy is a ballot box stuffing party.

The reform movement in 1893, seeking to restore peace and liberty to the State, submitted to the Executive Committee of the "organized" Democracy, through its State Executive Committee, a fair, just and equitable proposition to hold a white primary election, in which each party or faction should have representations of its own choice to protect the interests at the polls. The "organized" committee refused to concede or submit to such an honest settlement of the political differences of the people and only make the proposition they have so lately promulgated, because they have the party machinery to again defraud the people.

The "organized" Democracy opens its front doors to admit voters of all parties and the Caffees come in the back doors to fix the election returns.

The Populists of Alabama can not hope for honest elections except by sustaining the reform movement.

The People's party is the only party that is a unit in favor of the free coinage of silver.

All fair-minded, honest and liberty-seeking people of Alabama, who desire to reclaim the State from the corrupt party now dominating it, are appealed to, that the reform movement should have their hearty support.

The prospects for the success of the reform movement in this State were never brighter than now.

By concerted action on the part of all opposition to "organized" Democracy, it is in the power of the people to drive from power this corrupt oligarchy in Alabama and establish a republican form of government in the State.

G. B. DEANS,
Chairman State Executive Committee, People's Party of Alabama.

Jemison Gems.

On the night of the 23 inst. near Rocky Mount, one more home was made sorrowful by the death of Mrs. J. J. Green, after months of suffering from cancer of the tongue.

While we sympathise with the kind husband and children in their great loss, we think they should be reconciled and consoled with the thought of her suffering being ended. She was a faithful member of the methodist church, and a life time member of the Sabbath-school. Yes, her vacant seat will be prominent, for the reason it was never vacant in time of health. Farewell, dear friend, we will soon follow on, one by one as our work is finished here.

May your mantle fall on the shoulders of those whom you have so kindly led through dangers. We expect to meet you across the river. "We have but the one more river to cross."

On 9th inst. Leroy Campbell and wife took charge of a new female boarder. Their intention is to board her at least 18 years. As it is their honest belief there is not another so interesting a personage now living. May be they are entitled to their extravagant notions, we too admire love to strangers, or new comers.

We are sorry to learn that the farmers are laying in so much fertilizers to raise cotton to buy corn with next fall. We believe in home made composte, then put it under corn, potatoes and other roots. Roots and tubers are too much ignore for the prosperity and safety of the farmer. The BANNER should not be neglected.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS CHILTON COUNTY.
Clanton, Ala., Jan. 16th. 1896.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR]

RANDOLPH, Ala., Jan. 25, '96.

Editor BANNER: As I have seen nothing from this part of the county I will write and speak for some of us. Some one has had all to say about the men to fill the offices. I don't mean to fall out with any one for giving their views, but I think a little different from some one on different men. Now, there is S. D. Posey, who is a good man and is crippled so as to disable him from work; he is fully qualified to assess the taxes of Chilton and why not help those who need help. L. B. Pounds is my friend and is fully competent to fill the place and I had as lieve vote for him as any man in our county, but Posey needs help from some source. He only has one leg to walk or work with.

Then there is J. A. Logan, near Clanton, who I believe would make us a good representative in the general assembly. Why not send him to legislate for us? I don't say that these men are the best men in Chilton county, like the man said about his man, but I think they are good men. I have nothing to say about others who have had their names before the people. Another word, you, who write whooping up your friends to the people, let your names come before the world. Why do you want to play snake in the grass. We are strictly People's Party men and want officers who are interested in the good of the people and not so much for the pocket. Some people seem to laud some men for their past business experience, saying they have been tried so put them in again now. Do these fellows think because those parties discharged their duties that others would do the same, or are they the only ones that we can place confidence in? If so, pity Chilton county. I don't think because they have been in office that they should be excluded now, but it should not be, in advantage to those who have had no chance. What has become of Frate, Tom Hide and The Hustler and others? I see some one has broke out from Maplesville for T. J. Hubbard; he is my neighbor. He is all right.

CHILTON COUNTY ALLIANCE

Chilton County Alliance will meet with Providence Alliance (2 miles from Clear Creek) on Thursday, January 30, 1896.

L. Moore, Pres.

H. T. Honeycutt, Sec.

Remember The Banner is the ONLY newspaper in Chilton county.

A full line of Fertilizers on hand
W. L. SAMPEY, Clanton, Ala.

Mrs. Jno. W. Bailey, of Montgomery, is spending awhile with Mr. B. W. McDaniel's family.

Mr. W. T. Cahen has had his residence painted and papered. Messrs. Bailey and Williamson did the work.

The quarterly meeting of the Methodist church took place last Saturday.

Mr. J. J. Hill, of Lomax, was in town Sunday.

Major Bass, of Birmingham, was in town Tuesday.

Mr. Newt Wilson is down with an attack of measles.

Dr. G. W. Dawson, of Mulberry was in town Tuesday.

The people in the Baker and Foshee settlement, 7 miles west of Clanton have built a fine new school house. Prof. A. B. Harwood opened a three months school there last Monday.

Rev. Will M. Waller and wife, evangelists, commenced a series of revival meetings at the court house on Tuesday night. Bro. Waller preaches with great power and those who fail to hear him will miss a treat. Mrs. Waller is leading the choir, composed of our best singers, which adds much to the beauty of the service.

Rev. T. B. Haynie, of Gate City is assisting at the revival meeting to day.

It pays to plant good seeds, and we advise our friends who are thinking of doing anything in this line to send 10 cents for Vick's Floral Guide for 1896. This amount may be deducted from the first order. James Vick's Sons, Rochester, N. Y., are the pioneers in this line.

Marriage licenses have been granted this week by the Probate Judge to the following persons:

Mr. J. A. Motes and Miss Catherine Baker; Mr. A. L. L. Turner and Miss Lallie Strickland.

All members of the Clanton Congregational church are particularly requested to meet in conference on the first Sunday in February, as there is business of importance to be attended to.

Tuesday last some thief walked into the dining room at Mrs. Smith's restaurant and stole about $12. Essex McDaniel (colored) who was working in the place was arrested on suspicion.

Mr. W. I. Mullins is, we are glad to say, somewhat better.

Mr. Oscar Mullins continues to slowly [illegible]

Mr. [illegible] McMorries is well enough to be out again.

Mr. P. Sid Jones, of Birmingham, was in town Tuesday.

Mr. Keith, of Illinois, is staying in town looking at the surrounding country with the intention of purchasing land.

Mr. J. J. Hill, of Lomax, is the possessor of a pair of well trained English red bone blood-hounds.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhoea of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Edward Shumpik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the remedy in this city for over seven years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by J. S. Johnson, Jr., M.D., Druggist.

There is an epidemic of hog cholera in and around Clanton. We have been told that epsom salts is a preventative for the disease.

The Banner office is the only Job Printing establishment in Chilton and Coosa counties. We give you best work at lower prices than you can get elsewhere. Give us a trial.

Carlton Cornwell, foreman of the Gazette, Middletown, N. J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home. He used it for a cold and it effected a speedy cure. He says: "It is indeed a grand remedy, I can recommend to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough with the best results." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by J. S. Johnson, Jr. M.D., Druggist.

From LaGrippe.

How Dr. Miles' Nervine Restored One of Kentucky's Business Men to Health.

No DISEASE has ever presented so many peculiarities as LaGrippe. No disease leaves its victims so debilitated, useless, sleepless, nerveless as LaGrippe.

Mr. D. W. Hilton, state agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Kentucky, says: "In 1890 and '92 I had two severe attacks of LaGrippe, the last one attacking my nervous system with such severity that my life was despaired of. I had not slept for more than two months except by the use of narcotics that stupefied me, but gave me no rest. I was only conscious of intense mental weakness, agonizing bodily pain and the fact that I was hourly growing weaker.

When in this condition, I commenced using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. In two days I began to improve and in one month's time I was cured, much to the surprise of all who knew of my condition. I have been in excellent health since and have recommended your remedies to many of my friends."

Notice to Non-Resident.

The State of Alabama, } Probate
Chilton County. } Court.

To J. M. Davenport, Annie Bell Birtie, Emmit, Catherine and Pearl Shoults

Whereas Mary E. Gibbons, Administratrix of the estate of D. H. Davenport deceased, has filed her application in said court for a sale of the lands described therein belonging to the estate of said decedent, for the purpose of division upon the grounds that said land cannot be equitably divided, and the 21st day of April, 1896, has been appointed for the hearing of said application. You are therefore hereby notified to appear before said court on said 21st day of April, 1896, to contest said application if you think proper.

Witness this 28th day of January 1896

R. M. Honeycutt,
1-30-3t Judge of Probate.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of circuit court of Chilton county, and state of Alabama, and to me directed, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain judgment recently obtained against Chilton County Alliance out of the goods, chattels and tenements of the said Chilton County Alliance I have levied on the following property, to-wit: One store house situated in the town of Stanton in said State and county known as the Chilton County Alliance Store.

Therefore, according to said command, I will expose for sale at public auction, all the right, title and interest of the above named Chilton County Alliance in and to the above described property, on Monday the 24th day of February, 1896, during the legal hours of sale, at the court house door in Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Dated at Clanton this 21st day of January, 1896. P. M. Moore, Sheriff Chilton county, Alabama.

Mortgage Sale.

Under and by virtue of the power contained in a mortgage executed on the 5th day of January, 1895, by the Stanton Co-operative Association to the undersigned, on record in book 35, on pages 359 and 360 Probate Court of Chilton county, Alabama, to secure the payment of a certain promissory note described therein, the undersigned will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash in Stanton, Chilton county, Alabama, within the legal hours of sale on Wednesday, February the 5th, 1896, the following described property, to-wit:

One store house and lot in Stanton, Ala., better known as the Alliance store including fixtures, safe, etc., and the n½ of ne¼ of section 16, township 20 north range 11 east, containing 80 acres more or less all in Chilton county, Alabama, default having been made in the payment of said note, said sale to be made for the payment of said note.

THE NEW ELECTION LAW.

No. 357 AN ACT S. 459.

To amend Section 5, to repeal Section 35 and Section 36, and to add Section 49 to an act entitled An Act to Further Regulate Elections in the State of Alabama, approved February 21, 1893.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Alabama, That Section 5 of an act entitled An Act to Further Regulate Elections in the State of Alabama be amended so as to read as follows: Section 5. Be it further enacted, That it shall not be lawful to register any elector in any precinct or ward in this State after the time herein prescribed for such registration, but the registrars shall be present at the polling places in the precincts or wards for which they are respectively appointed on the day of any general or special election to register such persons as may have reached the age of 21 years since the last registration; such other persons as may make oath that they became bona fide residents of the precinct in which they propose to register not less than thirty days before the day of election and since the last registration; but electors having the Constitutional qualifications who may have resided in any incorporate city in this State having a population of more than 5,000 inhabitants, as determined by the last federal census, for thirty days immediately preceding any election and have within such thirty days removed their residence from one precinct to another in the same city shall, after a residence of one day, be entitled to vote in the precinct in which they reside at the time of the election, but each of such electors herein last provided for must first deposit with the inspectors of election in said precinct the certificate of the Judge of Probate that said elector is duly registered in the precinct from which he has removed, and no other person than those provided for in this section shall be permitted to register on the the day of the election. The present resistrar shall furnish to each elector who may register on the day of election a certificate of registration, which shall be substantially in this form: State of Alabama, County of ——. Precinct No. ——, I, ——, precinct registrar, hereby certify that—— has this day registered before me as an elector. —— Registrar, Precinct No. ——, and if precinct registrar fails to attend or there is a vacancy in the office, the county registrar shall appoint some competent person as precinct registrar for that day, and if no appointment is made by 10 o'clock of that day, then the inspectors of election, or any two if them, may appoint a precinct registrar, who may qualify and act as such for that day; provided nothing in this act shall be construed as repealing, altering or amending the ordinances now or hereafter ordained by any municipal corporation chartered by the General Assembly providing for the separate registration of electors for municipal elections.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That Section 35 and Section 36 of said act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, That said act be amended by adding thereto Section 49, in words as follows: Sec. 49. Be it further enacted, That upon opening the polls the inspectors must appoint two markers or assistants, one for each of the opposing political parties who may have candidates to be voted for at the election; and each of whom must be a discreet [illegible] able to read and write [illegible], and the inspectors, or any two of them shall, in like manner, from time to time, and as often as may be necessary to give every illiterate elector and every physically disabled elector an opportunity to vote, appoint a marker, who must be selected as provided for the selection of the first two. Every marker before entering upon his duties must take an oath, which may be administered by any person authorized by law to administer oaths, or by any one of the inspectors, to perform the duties of marker at the election according to law. No inspector, clerk or marker shall be appointed nor shall act as such except in the beat of his residence at the time of the election. Clerks and markers must be appointed from a list of persons not less than six nor more than ten in any beat, who may be suggested for that purpose by the duly constituted authorities respectively of the opposing political parties having candidates to be voted for at the election. Every illiterate or physically disabled elector shall be permitted to have the assistance of a marker, who has been appointed by the inspectors, and who may be selected by him from the number of markers. Any inspector who may refuse to appoint markers from the opposing parties, so as to give every illiterate or physically disabled elector the opportunity to select a marker of his own political party, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and must, on conviction, be fined not less than $100 nor more than $500. It is the sense of this section that the opposing party shall each have the right to suggest a list of names, not less than six nor more than ten persons, to act as markers and clerks. If no lists are furnished the inspectors shall appoint clerks and markers from opposing political parties.

Approved February 18, 1895.

$1.00 FOR YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.

Write us a letter covering these three points:

First.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

Second.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

Third.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

Fence the World in 20 Days.

In the sale of the "STAR" Machine, as shown below, we have done more in recent years to enable the farmers of this country to get their fencing at the actual cost of the wire than all other fence manufacturers in the United States, because we figure and show how cheap the various styles of fence can be made, or what the actual cost of the wire is to make them, while those who make and sell the fence must add the cost of labor to manufacture and their profit to the actual cost of the wire. We can sell you a Machine and enough wire to make 100 rods of the best Woven Wire Fence on earth, horse high, bull strong, pig and chicken tight for the same money that will buy 100 rods of any good woven wire fence now on the market. In one case you have the fence alone. In the other you have not only the fence but a machine which enables you to be your own fence manufacturer and with which you can make over 50 styles, including several styles of Ornamental yard or lawn fences. To show how the farmers of this country appreciate this machine it is only necessary to say that if all the machines sold by us were run for twenty days, each machine making 40 rods per day, they would make enough fence to go around the world, being an average of 400,000 rods or 1,250 miles per day. If all of the machines were run only 60 days during the year, making 40 rods per day each, they would make a grand total of [illegible] rods, which would make an average of 76,800 rods or 240 miles for every working day in the year. The combined product of all the Loom Fence Factories of the United States would not equal this. One cent isn't much. Invest it in a postal card and send for our Large Illustrated Catalogue, telling all about fencing. It may save you many dollars. Sent Free for the asking. $1800.00
GIVEN AWAY TO INVENTORS.

$150.00 every month given away to any one who applies through us for the most meritorious patent during the month preceding.

We secure the best patents for our clients, and the object of this offer is to encourage inventors to keep track of their bright ideas. At the same time we wish to impress upon the public the fact that such as the "car-window" which can be easily slid up and down without breaking the passenger's back, "sauce-pan," "collar-button," "nut-lock," "bottle-stopper," and a thousand other little things that most any one can find a way of improving; and these simple inventions are the ones that bring largest returns to the author. Try to think of something to invent.

IT'S THE SIMPLE, TRIVIAL INVENTIONS THAT YIELD FORTUNES,

IT IS NOT SO HARD AS IT SEEMS.

Patents taken out through us receive special notice in the "National Recorder," published at Washington, D. C., which is the best newspaper published in America in the interests of inventors. We furnish a year's subscription to this journal, free of cost, to all our clients. We also advertise, free of cost, the invention each month which wins our $150 prize, and hundreds of thousands of copies of the "National Recorder," containing a sketch of the winner, and a description of his invention, will be scattered throughout the United States among capitalists and manufacturers, thus bringing to their attention the merits of the invention.

All communications regarded strictly confidential.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS

THIRTY-SIXTH DAY.

HOUSE.—The military academy appropriation bill was passed and several bills of minor importance. The sum appropriated by the military academy bill is $449,547, which is less than the estimates by $171,422. At 3:45 the house adjourned.

SENATE.—Two opposing phases of the Monroe doctrine were presented in the senate today—one from the committee on foreign relations favoring a strong reaffirmation of the doctrine, and another from Mr. Sewell, of New Jersey, urging that the doctrine had been carried so far beyond its scope as to threaten dangerous consequences. Mr. Davis, of Minnesota, presented the committee report as the author of a resolution embodying the essential features of all the previous resolutions.... The silver bond bill was laid aside temporarily, as no senator was ready to speak. Mr. Platt and Mr. Hale pointed out the details of the practice long observed. Platt asked that a day be set for a vote. Mr. Jones, of Arkansas, in charge of the measure, declined to fix a time, as several senators were still to be heard.... Mr. Peffer's bill concerning congressional funerals was further discussed and then referred to the committee on rules with a view to formulating a general rule on funerals.... Mr. Pugh's resolution for silver payments of outstanding government obligations did not reach a vote, although urged by its author.... On motion of Mr. Dubois a bill was passed to aid the states of California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Idaho, Nevada, Wyoming, Colorado and South Dakota to support schools of mines by giving them 25 per cent of the moneys paid to the United States for mineral lands. ....The house bill was passed extending the time for improving Aransas Pass, Tex.,....The bill extending the limit of the port of entry of New Orleans was passed, also the bill amending the act granting the Gainesville, McAlester & St. Louis railroad company a right of way through the Indian Territory.....Mr. Baker, of Kansas, offered an amendment to the pending silver bond bill providing that coinage "shall be restricted to the product of the United States mines."....At 4:25 p. m., the senate adjourned until tomorrow.

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY.

HOUSE.—Some unimportant resolutions passed and the house went into committee of the whole on the urgent deficiency bill. In the course of a colloquy relative to the prevailing abuses of the fee system in the compensation of officers of United States courts, Mr. Swanson pointed out that in the last fiscal year nearly 11,000 persons were brought into court who ought not to have been there, imposing an unnecessary expense of $2,000,000 upon the government. Mr. Lacy, admitting the evils of the system and the urgent need of reform, said "some of the evils could be cured if the judges would dismiss the offending officials, as they have the power to do." The consideration of the bill having been concluded, several unimportant amendments and one appropriating $7,000 for the survey of the Chippewa Indian lands being added, the committee rose and the bill, as amended, was passed. ....At 4:15 o'clock the house adjourned until tomorrow.

SENATE—The senate put aside finance and foreign affairs today and gave the [illegible] to work of comparatively minor [illegible] About seventy bills were [illegible] calendar of much accumulation [illegible] only the important measures [illegible] The Cuban question received brief [illegible] inconclusive attention early in the day.... Bills were passed granting a pension of $50 a month to the widow of Rear Admiral English and the establishment of rules and regulations for the navigation of United States canals and similar works of navigation... The silver bond bill was laid aside to permit bills on the calendar to be passed. The following are among the bills passed: Authorizing certain persons to accept decorations from the Hawaiian government. Authorizing bridges over the Mississippi river at St. Louis, between that city and St. Clair, Ill., and over the Obion river, Tennessee. Reconvening the delegates to the international marine conference of 1889. For conference with foreign governments as to uniformity in census returns.... At 3:55 the senate went into executive session, and at 4 o'clock adjourned until tomorrow.

THIRTY-EIGHTH DAY.

HOUSE.—Two-thirds of the three hours' session of the house today was occupied in the consideration of a senate joint resolution authorizing the expenditure of $55,000, all told, for the employment of outside assistance to the supervising architect of the treasury in the preparation of plans and specifications and supervision of the Chicago public building. The joint resolution was passed.... The unanimous report of elections committee No 2 that H. C. Miner was entitled to the seat now occupied by him as representative from the Ninth New York district, and that Timothy J. Campbell, contestant, was not entitled thereto, was agreed to without discussion.... The house at 3:03 p. m. adjourned until tomorrow.

SENATE.—After the mourning routine business Senator Call's resolution calling for the dispatches of United States consuls in Cuba relating to the war was adversely reported from the committee on foreign relations and, at Mr. Call's request, went to the calendar....Mr. Cullum, of Illinois, from the committee on foreign relations, reported a preamble and resolutions, reciting the provisions of the treaty between Turkey and the leading powers of Europe, of 1878, by which protection was guaranteed to Christians residing in the Ottoman empire, expressing the sense of horror with which the American people regard the recent atrocious persecution of the Christian people in Turkey, and pledging to the administration the hearty support of congress in the most vigorous action it may take for the protection of American citizens in that country. The resolutions were laid aside for future action....Mr. Pugh made an ineffectual effort to secure present consideration of his resolution for the payment of national obligations in standard silver dollars. Mr. Hill, of New York, offered an amendment providing that, if for any reason silver coin shall not be at a parity with gold coin, the bonds now payable in coin shall be paid in standard gold whenever demanded....The morning hour having expired, Mr. Pugh's resolution gave place to the regular order—the house bond bill with its free silver substitute, which was discussed until 5:30, when the senate adjourned until tomorrow.

THIRTY-NINTH DAY.

HOUSE.—Mr. Hendrick, republican, of Iowa, from the committee on rules, reported the quorum counting rules as amended to meet objections.... Mr. Crisp, democrat, of Georgia, moved to substitute for the proposed rules those of the fifty-third congress. The motion was lost and the rules as reported were adopted..... Some routine business was transacted and at 4:30 the house took a recess until Friday night, when, after the consideration of private pension bills, it will stand adjourned until Monday.

SENATE.—Mr. Warren, republican, of Wyoming, addressed the senate in favor of protective tariff....Mr. Dubois, republican, of Idaho, advocated the free silver substitute for the bond bill; and Mr. Daniel, democrat, of Virginia, discussed the Monroe doctrine... ..Several bills and resolutions were introduced, and, after an executive session, the senate at 5:15 adjourned until tomorrow.

FORTIETH DAY.

HOUSE.—There was a fair attendance of members when at 8 p. m. the house met for the first pension session of the fifty-fourth congress. Among the thirteen bills which received favorable consideration were the senate bill granting $75 per month to the widow of the late brigadier-general and representative, William Cogswell, of Massachusetts, and the house bill increasing to $73 per month the pension of the widow of the late Colonel William Dulaney. At 10:30 p. m. the house adjourned until Monday.

SENATE.—The committee on privileges and elections was given permission to sit during the session of the senate to consider the Dupont election case from Delaware. Mr. Caffey had the president's communication as to the non-payment of the sugar bounties transferred from the finance committee to the judiciary committee and made a statement explanatory of the questions in dispute.....The concurrent resolution reported last Wednesday on the Armenian outrages was adopted.....The bill appropriating $5,000 for the purchase of lands adjoining the naval station at Port Royal, S. C., was passed. An executive session was held and the senate adjourned until Monday.

THE HOPE OF THE SOUTH.

The Policy That Won Victory in '95 Will Assure Success in '96.

The Cotton Growers' Protective association, upon the call of President Hector D. Lane, held an enthusiastic convention in Memphis last week. Six hundred delegates and visitors were present, and on every hand expressions of unqualified gratification over the results were heard. With other important actions taken by the convention a committee was appointed to prepare an address. That the committee was well chosen is apparent in their work. Into a few sentences they have condensed volumes of good sense and valuable suggestion, as follows:

To the Cotton Growers of Alabama:

The Cotton Growers' Protective association of America, in convention assembled at Memphis, Tenn., on this [illegible] day of January, 1896, again [illegible] an urgent appeal for co-operation [illegible] planting the crop for 1896. [illegible] of extreme congratulation that [illegible] made to you last year was so generally responded to and that the crop of 1895, made upon the diminished acreage, has had the effect of greatly increasing the price and bringing prosperity to the country. The crop of 1895, though estimated to be 3,400,000 bales short of the crop of 1894, was in the markets of the world worth more by nearly $30,000,000. In the face of this result to abandon the ideas of diminishing acreage would be to sound the retreat in the face of victory. It is the concensus of opinion among the best thinkers that if by any means the cotton crop of America could be held within the limits of 7,000,000 bales per annum for ten years, the people of these southern states would be the richest and most prosperous agricultural people in the world. How can this be brought about? The answer is with you. We appeal to your self-interest and to your patriotism to do all in your power to keep down the production of the staple. Do not abandon the ground you have won. Fight on upon the lines laid down, make the cotton states self-supporting, put more land in clover and grasses for your hogs to run on, diversify your crops, and when you have done all this the area devoted to cotton will yield more profitable returns than if you sought to increase the number of your bales.

It it felt by the most thoughtful men that we are entering upon a year of great uncertainties, and that even a small cotton crop may fail to give adequate returns for its production. The mutterings of a storm are disturbing the country and unsettling all business calculations. The prudent man will trim his sails to meet it. With the commerce of the country interrupted by war—and war may come—cotton would be unsalable except at nominal prices. Every consideration, then, of patriotism, of self-interest and of prudence dictates that you adhere strictly to the rule of diminished acreage. Earnest men are earnestly working to lead you and guide you into prosperity. Do not let them labor in vain, but cheerfully and hopefully respond to their appeal.

THEODORE RUNYON DEAD.

Our Ambassador to Germany Expires Suddenly of Heart Failure.

WAS A FAVORITE IN BERLIN.

Born in New Jersey in 1822, Graduated From Yale, Entered the Law Profession and Commanded a Brigade of Volunteers During Late War.

Hon. Theodore Runyon, United States ambassador to Germany, expired suddenly and unexpectedly at 1 a. m. Monday morning of heart failure. Mr. Runyon had been in somewhat feeble health for some time past, but no immediately fatal results were anticipated. No longer ago than last Tuesday evening he was present at a dinner given in his honor by ex-Empress Frederick, mother of Emperor William.

Mr. Runyon has manifested great activity in the discharge of the duties of his office, which have been more than usually onerous on account of the complications in European affairs, which have more or less demanded the attention and care of the diplomatic representatives of all nations. His death came as a great shock to official and social circles in Berlin, where he was a great favorite.

Theodore Runyon was born at Somerville, N. J., October 25, 1822. He graduated from Yale college in 1842, and in 1846 was admitted to the bar. In 1853 he was made city attorney and in 1856 city councillor of Newark, N. J., a position he retained until in 1864, when he became mayor of the city. He was appointed in 1856 a commissioner to revise and codify the military laws of New Jersey, and in 1857 was made brigadier-general and subsequently major-general of the New Jersey national guard. At the outbreak of the civil war he was placed in command of a New Jersey brigade of volunteers. In 1865 he was democratic candidate for governor of his state, but was not elected. In 1873 to 1887 he was chancellor of New Jersey.

In March, 1893, he was appointed by President Cleveland United States minister to Germany, and shortly afterwards was made ambassador in accordance with a law of congress that the United States representative in Germany should be raised to the rank of an ambassador, reciprocally with similar action on the part of the German government concerning its representative in the United States. The degree of L.L.D. was confered upon him by Yale, Rutgers and Wesleyan colleges.

Mr. Runyon was the successor of William Walter Phelps, who had held [illegible] of German minister for four years. [illegible] gallant soldier, and Fort Runyon, [illegible] Alexandria railroad at the south end [illegible] bridge near Washington, D. C., is [illegible] tion of his name.

He was a man of unquestioned ability and high social attainments.

During his service in Berlin the most important matter that has been pending between the United States and Germany has been that in regard to the removal of the restrictions imposed on the importations of American pork and beef products into that country.

He moved with his family in the best society in the state. He had three daughters and two sons. The daughters were all noted for their beauty, and there was much regret in Newark society when they followed their father and mother to the German courts. The sons are Chauncey Runyon, 22 years old, and Frederick, 20 years old.

The first known of the death of Mr. Runyon by his friends in Newark came in the form of a cablegram to Chauncey Runyon, saying his father had died from heart failure.

One of Mr. Runyon's daughters is a gifted writer and is credited with the authorship of a book recently published in which some well known Newark people are rather freely treated.

ALMOST A LYNCHING.

The Officer Surrenders, but His Prisoners Escape the Mob.

An almost successful attempt was made Friday night to lynch Sam Foster, colored, and Pete Smith, white, who murdered B. E. Atwater, of Chicago, Tuesday night at Webster Grove, a suburb of St. Louis, Mo.

After the inquest Friday the situation became so threatening that it was decided to take the prisoners to the city for safety.

They were handcuffed together and started for the city in a wagonette driven by Constable Fielson. When within six miles of the city limits the conveyance was suddenly surrounded by a mob of sixty armed men, who demanded the prisoners. Constable Fielson surrendered, but the prisoners began whipping the horse and started off on a run. A volley was fired after them and one shot struck the negro in the right hip.

They were not pursued and the horse fell lame. It being impossible for them to escape, they were finally overtaken by Fielson and taken to Four Courts in St. Louis early Saturday morning.

Foster fired the shots that killed Atwater and admits his guilt.

TINY REPUBLICS.

Small Countries that Maintain Their Independence.

The number of small republics that have stood the test of time and preserved their autonomy in spite of the jealousies of their powerful neighbor is greater than most people imagine.

Pitcairn Island, situated in the Pacific Ocean, has long remained in the peculiar position of being independent and free from interference without ever having had its national existence formally recognized. Its first settlers, from whom the present inhabitants are exclusively descended, were the mutinous crew of an English man-of-war, H. M. S. Bounty, famous in story.

Lying in the southern seas, in the region of the Australian continent, is the Island of Franceville. One of the New Hebrides, it is not far from New Caledonia. In area eighty-five miles, it is mainly occupied by about 500 natives, the white inhabitants being less than a hundred. France, which originally had control of this place, gave it, in 1879, a charter of independence, promising that no other power should be permitted to interfere with it. The people elect a President, who governs with the aid of an advisory council of eight members. The President, in addition to his administrative functions, exercises judicial powers, and there is no appeal from his decisions. Although no office can be held by colored citizens, universal suffrage prevails, without distinction of sex or color. Just now the President is an American, R. D. Polk.

To Europe, however, we must look for the smallest of all self-governing peoples. Some dozen miles from the Sardinian coast to the northeast, the long, narow island of Tavolara rises from the sea. Five miles long and about half a mile wide, its soil is cultivated by the natives, only to a limited extent, fishing being the staple industry. The republic of Tavolara dates from 1886. The island has a population of but fifty or sixty souls.

IRON IN FOOD.

Spinach Contains More of It than Eggs or Beef.

Prof. Bunge, in the course of a paper on iron as a medicine, read before the German Congress of Internal Medicine, has been ventilating some ideas which are as much matter of general science (and therefore extremely important) as they are details connected with the physician's domain. He is strong on the point that iron should reach our blood through the medium of our food, rather than through the druggist's specialties. Iron, as everybody knows, is a food element absolutely essential for the proper constitution of the body. It is as rigidly demanded by the plant as by the animal; and it is from plants that Prof. Bunge shows we should chiefly receive our iron supply. Spinach, he tells us, is richer in iron than yolk of eggs, while the yolk contains more than beef. Then succeed apples, lentils, strawberries, white beans, peas, potatoes and wheat, these substances being given in the order in which they stand as regards the plentifulness of their iron constituents.

Cow's milk is poor in iron, but, as balancing this delicacy in the food of the young mammal, it is found that the blood of the youthful quadruped contains much more iron than the adult. Thus, in a young rabbit or guinea pig one hour old, four times as much iron was found as occurs in these animals two and a half months old.—London Public Opinion.

Malaria on the Mississippi Bottoms.

From the Banner-Democrat, Lake Providence, La.

The swamp lands along the banks of the Mississippi river in Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana are generally considered very unhealthy in contrast with the hilly country adjoining them. It is here the germs of malaria are formed, and from which originate those terrible malaria chills and fevers which the people of the low countries dread. In addition to these are intermittent and remittent fevers, dyspepsia, indigestion and rheumatism, all caused from malaria germs and the dampness of the atmosphere.

Medical science has been put to its utmost capacity to devise some mode of treatment [illegible] these physical ailments can be mo[illegible] not eradicated, but so far it has failed [illegible] it seem that there can be found any cure [illegible] these symptoms. Such has been the general opinion until recently, when Dr. Williams' Pink Pills found their way here, and came to stay. To-day those who have used them say they would not do without them for all the medicines in the drug stores.

Mr. Dan O'Sullivan, Sr., is a prominent citizen of this city, Lake Providence, La., and has been identified with its interests for years. At present he occupies an important position on the City Council and is also Secretary of that body. He was once a strong, robust, healthy man, full of vigor and always on the go. Within the last year, however, his health has been very bad, his appetite poor, his digestion poor, in fact, his entire system was completely out of order. He began to use various medicines, but to no purpose. At length he decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. In a few days the change for the better could be noticed. He continued to improve so fast that the proprietor of the Lake Providence Banner-Democrat interviewed him and asked him what he had been taking to put him in such good shape again. His reply was in substance as follows:

"My liver was all out of order, my digestion was very bad, I felt sluggish and did not want to do a thing but lay around the house. My blood began to get thin, and I felt sick all over. I concluded to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as I had heard so much about them. After taking them a few days I could feel that they were doing me a great deal of good. I continued the use of them, and in a week or so I felt like a new man. They toned up my stomach, put my blood in good condition, gave me a good color, a good appetite, in fact, put me in first-class shape again. My friends congratulated me my return of health, and I smiled when I told them that Pink Pills did the work."

Mr. O'Sullivan takes every opportunity to recommend them to others, who are being likewise benefited.

Mrs. D. H. Parker, who was raised in the city of Lake Providence, but who now resides in Greenville, Mississippi, also uses Pink Pills. Her husband, Mr. D. H. Parker, a popular traveling salesman of the Drummond Tobacco Company, of St. Louis, says that for years his wife had been suffering from dyspepsia and indigestion, that she had to be very careful what she ate, and would frequently have severe spells from being a little imprudent in her diet. She sent for some Pink Pills, took them and is now well and strong, and can eat any and every thing without being effected in the slightest manner. She is loud in her praises of Dr. Williams' great remedy. She also suffered from rheumatism, and that, too, has left her. These are only two cases where the Pink Pills have done so much good. Others of a like nature in this locality could be mentioned, if necessary; but the experience of this gentleman and this lady are enough to warrant the assertion that for restorative qualities, and general recuperative properties, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best on the market.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. W. C. Lewis, who is connected with the artistic advertising department of the Youth's Companion, and resides at 88 Dwight Street, Boston, relates that he had his attention called to Ripans Tabules by a business acquaintance who expressed a high opinion of them. Mr. Lewis was a good deal troubled with what he describes as a nervous, bilious condition that appeared to be brought on from time to time by high pressure work or special mental activity or excitement, such as would be common at periods of unusual nervous tension. It has become his practice at such times to take a Tabule—just one—at the moment that he observes the difficulty approaching. It makes no difference when it is. A favorable result is invariably apparent within twenty minutes. The only noticeable effect is that he feels all right in twenty minutes if he takes the Tabule; while if he does not the nervous, uncomfortable feeling intensifies and leads to a bad afternoon and tired evening. He carries one of the little vials with him all the time now, but doesn't have occasion to apply to it anything like as often as he did at first. Nowadays there are frequent periods of from a week to ten days or even two weeks during which he finds that he has no occasion whatever to make use of the Tabules, but still carries them in his pocket, just the same, so that they may be ready if an occasion occurs.

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce st., New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

AN OLD-LINE DEMOCRAT REVIEWS SITUATION.

He Answers a Series of Questions That Are Now Uppermost in the Minds of Millions of Democratic and Republican Voters.

The following letter and questions were recently addressed to Judge X. B. Saunders, of Belton, Texas. The judge has been one of the old line democrats, and the questions were propounded to him by some of his old time friends:

Sparta, Bell Co., Tex.

Hon. X. B. Saunders, Esq., Belton, Tex.:

Dear Sir: Relying upon your frankness, intelligence, integrity and patriotism and on our long acquaintance with you, and further, knowing you to be a plain man of the people, take the liberty to ask your view on the following questions:

1. Are you a monometallist or bimetallist? Are you in favor of our nation establishing the ratio of 16 of silver to 1 of gold, and undertaking to maintain it without reference to action on the part of England or any other country?

2. Do you believe that a majority of the democratic party in Texas and the United States is in favor of the free coinage of silver at the old ratio of 16 to 1, and if so, do you believe that this majority in spite of the influences of the money power, backed by the president, John Sherman and eastern leaders of the so-called democratic and republican parties, will be able to have their will expressed in the national platform?

3. Is it your opinion that the present method, principles and practices of the president and his co-workers are in accord with the time-honored principles of democracy, and if not, are they in accord with any existing party? If so, which one?

4. Upon a calm and impartial survey of the present political field which one of the parties is the one, in your opinion, that nearly accords with the democratic party as organized and maintained by Jefferson, Madison and Jackson, and what is the duty of the citizen under the present political condition of parties and the country?

5. Do you consider the present condition of things as menacing any great evil to our government and country? If so, how and why? Your early answer will oblige

Your friends,
J. R. WALKER,
J. M. CRAMER,
G. W. COLE, and others.

Belton, Texas, Oct. 19, 1895.

Messrs. J. R. Walker, J. M. Cramer, G. W. Cole, and others, Sparta:

Gentlemen: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 16th inst., in which you request me to express my views upon certain questions therein contained touching the present political situation in our country. While I am not now, and as you are all aware never have been a politician (having never held a political office in my life), and therefore my reply will only be the expression of a private citizen, yet I always take enough interest in the affairs of my country to endeavor to inform myself upon all current political questions so as to be able to vote intelligently, and as I have no concealment to make of my endeavor to answer your questions candidly, and whether satisfactory to others or not, it will be at least satisfactory to myself, and the utterances I shall make will represent no one but myself.

In answer to your first question, I have [illegible] that I am a bimetallist. I am [illegible] a gold or a silver monometallist. I favor the money of the constitution, the money of our fathers, gold and silver. But if we are to have only one metallic currency, I favor silver, because it is the money of the people, is most suited to the ordinary transactions of the great body of the people, and therefore most usual and convenient, is more stable and and less subject to dangerous fluctuations than gold. I am in favor of the continuance of its coinage at the old American ratio of 16 of silver to 1 of gold, as about that ratio it maintained itself as the principal medium of exchange of the world for more than 300 years prior to the great crime of its demonetization, as the most accurate statistics will show. Besides, it is questionable if there is hardly gold enough in the world to sufficiently float the commerce of the United States unaided and alone.

I am also in favor of our country issuing a national paper currency directly to supplement our stock of gold and silver. I am opposed to national bank issue of paper currency by authority of government. I want the bondholders, banks and bankers to go out of the government business and I want our government to go out of the banking and bond-issuing business, as if I had the space it could be easily demonstrated that the people of this nation are annually robbed of many millions of dollars.

Yes, I am in favor of our nation establishing the ratio of 16 of silver to 1 of gold and maintaining it without reference to what Great Britain "or the balance of mankind" may think or say or do to the contrary notwithstanding. To coin, to establish, to fix and regulate its currency is one of the highest and most sacred arts of national sovereignty. To surrender that right to a foreign power either directly or indirectly is the most pusillanimous and disgraceful of all national acts. I am proud to say that the United States it a nation—the wealthiest and most powerful in existence, the census shows—with twice the population and greater wealth than Great Britain, and our people rank with the most intelligent, active and progressive on earth. Their renascent energies are incalculable, and resources practically inexhaustible.

More than a hundred years ago when our revolutionary fathers had gone successfully through an eight year baptism of fire and blood to establish their right to be a free and sovereign nation, with not three million of people, impoverished and financially exhaused to the last degree, with neither commerce or credit and not the one-thousandth part of our present national wealth, our monetary system was established then right in the teeth of the opposition of British capital and their paid agents, who then, as now, sought to hold us in financial slavery, and practically the same arguments were used then as now to show that it was to our best interest to permit England to regulate our financial affairs. But those sturdy old patriots paid no heed to them, but went ahead and established a system that for eighty years met all the demands of the most wonderful national development recorded in the history of men. * * *

To your second question I answer both yes and no. To the first part I answer yes, I am satisfied that at least seven-tenths of the democratic party in Texas and a large majority of that party in the United States is in favor of the free coinage of silver at the old ratio of 16 to 1. This will apply more particularly to the party in the south and west. But in the north and east the democratic leaders being "hand in glove" with the republican party on this and other questions are almost a unit for the demonetization of silver. I do not believe that the southern and western democrats will be able to so overcome the baleful influence of Cleveland, Sherman and money power sufficiently to get the honest expression of the majority in the national platform, and I believe this gold standard wickedness or a straddle of the question to catch votes will be fastened upon the party, in the event of either of which I think the honest democratic masses will become so disgusted they will no longer act with the party.

To the third question I answer no, I do not think the present methods, principles and practices of our president and his comrades are in any way in accord with the "time-honored principles of democracy," for numerous reasons, a few of which I will mention. It is not a time-honored principle of the democratic party for the president to go [illegible] the republican party and se[illegible] the highest office in his gift (secretary of state) a man who boasted to the day of his death that he had never voted the democratic ticket. Surely among the millions of democratic voters there could have been found some one honest and capable enough to fill the office. If there was, then he was untrue to his party and his principles. If it was true there was not to be found among all the democratic millions who could be trusted with this important portfolio, then the sooner the party is wiped out of existence the better.

It is not in accord with democratic usage or principle to issue in time of profound peace the enormous amount of $162,000,000 of bonds to supply a deficiency which is occasioned if not directly at least indirectly by destroying the debt-paying power of one-half the democratic and constitutional money of the country and to cover up as far as possible that criminal and undemocratic blunder. It is not democratic for a democratic president, who, when elected and finding an unprecedented democratic majority in congress who are opposed to the unconditional repeal of the silver bill of 1890, or in other words, who are opposed to the unconditional destruction of all silver money, conceives himself to be infinitely wiser and greater than the whole democratic party that he joins with the republican minority led by that enemy of democracy and constitutional liberty, John Sherman, by invoking all the influence of his great office and lavishing false promises, cause enough democratic votes to join with his faithful republican following to carry the repeal, and then when enough of the democratic congress, conscious of the great wrong he had induced some of them to commit, sought to partially atone for it and asserted their manhood and principle by passing the "seigniorage bill," faithful to his working republican minority and the money kings of Wall and Lombard streets to prevent cheapening their gold and vetoed it, knowing it could not be passed over his veto by a two-thirds majority, by which act alone he caused property values in this nation to shrink not less than $1,000,000,000 by increasing the purchasing power of gold that much.

It is not democratic for a president to accept a nomination on a platform intended by the party to favor bimetallism and after election to openly declare and work for monometallism.

In answer to your fourth question I have to say that after a deliberate review of the present condition of political affairs, with the democratic party hopelessly shattered and in connection with the republican party unalterably manipulated and dominated solely in the interest of the money power, utterly regardless of the interest or inconvenience of the great mass of the people; when for many years past principle has invariably been abandoned, when classing with expediency, when all along the pathway of the last thirty years are strewn the wrecks of broken political faith, and vicious legislation has been the rule instead of the exception, it seems to me that party which is ever regardful of the interest of the whole people above all other interests, which prefers to stand by principle for principle's sake, which in the simplicity of its instincts, its methods and principles most nearly agrees with the party of Jefferson, Madison and Jackson is the one known as the people's party. It is the outgrowth of a patriotic American sentiment, which is destined to cover out whole country, "as the waters cover the sea." Its very existence is at once an evidence of and an indignant protest of a nation against the corruption and degeneracy of its political parties. Whenever human brains are working, human hands are toiling, or human hearts are beating for a loftier citizenship or the amelioration of the toilers of earth, it reaches out the hand of sympathy and assistance.

As to what is the duty of the citizen under this condition of things I will not presume to answer for any one but myself, as each man in a matter of this sort must answer to his own conscience. For myself, I conceive it my duty as a well-wisher of my country to vote hereafter with this party and [illegible] through evil and goo[illegible]

To your fifth [illegible] last question I answer yes. I do consider the present condition of things, brought about by the corruption and misrule of the republican and democratic leaders, as a serious menace to the very existence of our free institutions, and one calling for the earnest, thoughtful consideration of every citizen. We are now actually in the midst of a condition of things the very thought of which was a source of much disquietude to the fathers of our government, and against which we have been so solemnly warned by them. It is a matter of history familiar to every school boy that at the organization of our government there were two great parties, federal and republican, one led by Mr. Hamilton and the other by Mr. Jefferson, the one favoring a strong, centralized, aristocratic government with long official terms, the other a more democratic form with short terms of office and the full preservation of all rights of the citizen consistent with good government. And these grave questions were only settled by a long, earnest, and peculiarly able debate by those old patriots in the formation of the constitution. Among other things it was proposed to elect the president for life.

To the everlasting honor of those old patriots the short term idea prevailed, and among other things the presidential term was fixed at four years. Geo. Washington was twice elected, serving in all eight years, and declining a reelection, declaring that no man ought to be permitted to serve longer in that great office. Ever since the example set by the Father of his Country has been accepted as American common law on this question, and until the last twenty-five years no one in this nation could be found so unpatriotic or corrupt as to wish to change it.

We have now fastened upon us an official aristocracy. It has become an established custom, inaugurated by the republican party and acquiesced in by the democratic representatives in congress, that it is right and proper to foist upon the government the widow of any man they choose, who has happened to have lived for any length of time by holding office, but who has been so improvident or worthless as to have lived beyond his income and died penniless, and too often when he has left his family in easy circumstances. These matters may seem unimportant and insignificant to the casual observer, but they as surely mark the corruption of the hour, the decadence of a simple, honest patriotism; the political, moral and social drifting of the office-holding class from the well defined landmarks of a glorious national past, as the light follows the rising of the sun. The people of our great nation can never be too distrustful of any innovation, however small, upon the wholesome rules and checks thrown around our institutions, or guard with too great diligence the inestimable privileges bequeathed to us by those grand old masters who stood at the cradle of our government.

The liberties of a people are never subverted at once, and the principles of free government are only changed by successive insidious steps. The innovation of today is too apt to become the precedent of tomorrow, and one by one the fundamental props of the system are stolen away until at last the whole system tumbles into ruins. I sincerely believe that if Mr. Cleveland is ever nominated for president in violation, as it will be, of a settled American principle, he will be the candidate of the combined republican and democratic monometallists, for their creed on this greatest of all present questions is identical.

And I further believe the success of that combination would be absolutely ruinous to the best interests of the country, if it did not result in the destruction of our system of free government. Then let the thoughtful, earnest men of all parties unite with the great party of the people and present an unbroken front against this combination of money changers and sweep them from our great political temple, which they have so long made a house of merchandise. You have the power if you but will it.

"You have a weapon that comes down as still
As the snowflake that falls upon the sod;
That executes a freeman's will,
As lightning does the will of God.
A weapon from which neither bolts nor locks
Can shield the traitor,
The unbought ballot in the ballot box."

Unite and you can scatter your political enemies like autumnal leaves. Justice may sleep, but never dies; the cause of the people may have been delayed by their apathy and want of concert, but the hour of triumph will surely come. The finger of destiny is pointing to it as surely as the needle to the pole. The cup of political iniquity of those who would make us bond slaves of a foreign and native moneyed aristocracy is full, and when that hour of triumph shall come, when their shields and lances are broken, and under the purer regime of the people our country shall be restored to its ancient way of national prosperity and permanent glory—

"Then shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain;
Here patriot Truth its sacred precepts
draw,
Pledged to Religion, Liberty and Law."

Very respectfully,
X. B. SAUNDERS.

Solid Truth.

In conversation with a gen[illegible] this city, who has [illegible] grocery business [illegible], he said, in speak[illegible] the money question [illegible] who are opposed to the free coinage of silver and more money argue that the volume of money has no effect upon the prosperity of the people they admit the dollar is harder to get, but contend that it will buy double the amount of goods. I want to tell you it is a mistaken idea. I can pass along my shelves and point out a great many staple articles that are practically the same price as they were when wheat was bringing a dollar a bushel. The reason," he said, "is plain enough to me; the railroads can and do hold up freight charges, and the big trusts dictate prices on nearly if not all staple goods, and the retail grocer must of course sell accordingly." Concluding he said, "I am in favor of more money, and I don't care what it is made of, so it has Uncle Sam's guarantee back of it."—Mo. World.

The Arkansas Kicker.

The Arkansas Kicker is among the latest list of comers to the Populist fold of able newspapers. It is published at Hardy, Ark., by W. S. Morgan, secretary of the U. R. P. A., and George A. Puckett. These names are sufficient guarantee that every issue will be like the initial one—a hummer. There are about 1,200 Populist papers in the country at the present time all doing noble service for the cause of humanity as enunciated by the People's party platform and the number is constantly increasing. The Kicker makes the third paper launched by Bro. Morgan in as many years and they are all doing splendid work. Bro. Puckett is a very able writer and has long been the personal associate of Bro. Morgan.—Ex.

The railroad companies don't want the government to build railroads for its own use, but have bribed legislation to have the government to build the roads and then turn it over to the corporations. But this is not paternalism. A parent would not give all the good things to one or two children, but divide them among all the children. After all, what is government ownership but the children going into partnership to build roads for themselves?

As a public policy concentration of wealth is as unwise as the concentration and support of a large army of soldiers. Both open up the avenues to an abuse of power, and are useless appendages of our civilization.

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

New Library.

The district school at Georgiana has recently fitted up a handsome new library.

Lively Demand for Mules.

It is reported that nine car loads of mules have been sold in Greensboro this season.

Dropped Dead.

Nathaniel Thompson dropped dead at Pheonix City Thursday. He was one of the oldest citizens in the town.

A Good Work.

The contract for grading the new road from Anniston to White Plain has been let. This will make a route six miles shorter between the two towns.

They Want the Prison.

A party of Anniston citizens will go to Washington and ask that the new prison to be located in the south be placed in that city.

State Bar Association.

The executive committee of the Alabama Bar association has fixed August 5 and 6 as the time for the next meeting of the association. The committee will determine the place of the meeting at an early day.

At Half Rates.

The Alabama Great Southern will grant rates on their entire division for the Mardi Gras in Birmingham of one fair for the round trip. This will attract people all the way from Chattanooga and Meridian.

A Perpetual Home.

The Grand Lodge of Masons of Alabama have purchased the lot and building on the corner of Perry and Washington streets, in Montgomery, for $9,750, and on the lot will build a perpetual home for the Grand Lodge of Alabama.

New Cotton Mill.

Parties from Lawrence, Mass., a cotton mill town not far from Boston, are considering locating a cotton mill in Walker county, on the Kansas City, Memphis & Birmingham road, not over forty miles from Birmingham. The land has been thoroughly inspected and the various qualifications of the property looked at, and, it is said, all that is lacking is the signing of the deeds conveying the property.

Big Purchase of Pig Iron.

A sale of 19,000 tons of pig iron in a lump was made in Birmingham Friday by several furnaces to an agent who represented industries in the Anniston district. The iron was bought especially for the pipe works and rolling mills and for immediate consumption. The sales indicate a general revival among the Anniston industries, and leads to the belief that consumers expect another rise in the iron market soon and are accordingly purchasing now.

Fatal Dynamite Explosion.

By a premature explosion of dynamite at the Henry Ellen mines of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway company, in the Birmingham distr[illegible] Friday morning about 11 o'cl[illegible] men were killed. [illegible] a colored mine[illegible] a charge, [illegible], when the explosion occurred. He was blown to pieces and instantly killed. Evan Morgan, a white miner, who was standing near by, received injuries which caused his death an hour later. Morgan's home was in Ohio.

Alleged Gold Brick Man.

Steve Pratt, who it is alleged is the artist who sold gardener Dobbins, of Birmingham, the "gold brick" for $6,000 was registered at the Jefferson county jail Saturday morning. Steve was arrested in Houston, Tex., a short time since; his description as reported tallied closely with that of the man who victimized Mr. Dobbins. The Birmingham chief of police, accompanied by gardener Dobbins, went to Houston, upon hearing of Pratt's arrest, and there a number of prisoners were lined up before them to see if Mr. Dobbins could pick out "cousin" Steve. It is said that gardener Dobbins looked dangerous when he brought his big right fist down on his left palm as he said, "That's him. He's shaved off his beard, but I'd know his hide in a tan vat."

A River of Rye.

One of the most complete and wonderfully appointed illicit stills ever discovered was captured on Gunter's mountain, near Scottsboro, Friday, by Deputy United States Marshal Arnold. The still was in a cave in the mountain, in which was a stream that did not show itself at all on the face of the mountain. The moonshiners had rigged up a water wheel and had everything very complete. The entrance was under some bushes, into which they crawled on their hands and knees. The officers noticed smoke on some stones, and found a hole which served as a chimney, down which he climbed for forty feet. He found a valuable still, with worm and everything in operation, and a spare still of 150 gallons capacity. He destroyed about 1,000 gallons of liquor. The capture is considered a remarkably clever one. The moonshiners escaped.

Convict Inspectors Report.

The state board of convict inspectors has filed its quarterly report with the governor. Among other things they report that on September 1 there were 1,610 state convicts on hand; that since that time 198 have been added, 110 discharged, 8 escaped and 33 have died, leaving on hand January 1, 1,663 There are 909 county convicts on hand. Prosperity is reported at the convict farms this year. At Fort Jackson 161 bales of cotton were gathered from the 225 acres planted, and 18,000 bushels of corn were made on the 300 acres planted. At Speigner's about 400 b[illegible] of cotton were [illegible] 000 bushels [illegible] 0 bushels [illegible] and a large quantity of forage, fodder, hay and pea vines were made on each place. Hogs and vegetables were raised at both the farms in sufficient quantity to furnish food for the prisoners. Improvement in the health of the convicts in the prisons and in the mines is reported. The bad condition in which the jailers of the different counties of the state deliver the prisoners to the mining companies is greatly deplored in the report.

From the Coal Fields to Mobile.

The first tow of coal from the Warrior coal fields of Alabama has passed through the new government lock above Tuscaloosa and in its passage down the Warrior, the Tombigbee and Mobile rivers to Mobile, has been given a rousing reception everywhere, particularly at Tuscaloosa and Demopolis. All of Mobile turned out to give the tow Baltimore and the initial barge of coal a reception and to emphasize the fact that, with steam coal at $1.50 a ton, Mobile is the cheapest coal port in the world. The mayor and council and officers of the commercial bodies met the boat up the river, where speeches of welcome were made by Mayor Lavretta, of Mobile, and responded to by Mayor Williams, of Demopolis. The parade past the city was participates in by all of the steam tugs and commissioned boats, while on the banks the population stood shouting a continual hurrah. The sixty sail vessels in port were properly decorated with flags. Every steam whistle in the city shrieked for an hour, while the artillery split the air with salvos. It was a great day for Mobile and Alabama.

The Arbachooche Gold Mines.

The Heflin Gold Mining company now has all its machinery in position on the placer fields at Arbacooche, Cleburne county, Ala. They have put in engine, boiler, pumps and all the appliances for hydraulic mining. The auriferous gravel will be lifted from its bed and dumped into sluice boxes and there washed. This placer gravel assays $3 per cubic yard, and can be handled at a cost not exceeding 20 cents per cubic yard. This rich gravel extends over a limited area and fully 100 acres are controlled by the Heflin company. It is about three to five feet in depth all over the property. A creek running through these lands furnishes sufficient power for all milling purposes that may be required. Heflin is situated eighty-seven miles west from Atlanta and the gold field is nine miles from the station. This company is composed of Chattanooga men, who have intrusted the work to W. L. Bowron, the well known analytical chemist for the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway company. Foreman W. F. Henry is conducting the operations. The development of this field is watched with great interest.

[illegible] OUT TO DECIDE.

Novel Compromise Over the Possession of an Offspring in Atlanta.

A unique compromise has brought an end to the fight in the Atlanta courts between Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Bellebeau over their child. In his petition for a writ of habeas corpus for the possession of the boy, the father says that his wife left him for reasons he did not know. She took the child with her, and he wanted it back. He could not get his wife, he says, to listen to his pleadings and finally brought the matter into court.

Before the case came to trial the father and mother had a conference, the result of which was the following order duly recorded in the records of the court: During the year 1896 the wife is to have the child. In 1897 the husband is to take possession, and the youngster will then spend alternate years with mother and father until he reaches the age of 12, when he is to decide for himself with whom he shall give permanent allegiance.

GOLD FIELDS OF VENEZUELA.

Party of Americans to be Organized by Edward McFarlane.

Edward McFarlane, a well-known mining engineer of Colorado and founder of the town of Telluride, has returned from the gold regions of Northern South America. Mr. McFarlane proposes to organize a colony, proceed to Caracas, the capital of Venezuela, apply for concessions from the government and lead the party to the gold fields in the disputed territory, which he says are the richest in the world. In the opinion of Mr. McFarlane there is no danger of encounter with the British. He is of the opinion that the boundary line will be located without bloodshed.

ACCEPTED IT AS A LOAN.

Money Sent to Nebraska Drouth Sufferers Returned With Interest.

The secretary of the St. Joseph Commercial club has received a draft for $103 from Grand Island, Neb., the same being money, with interest, donated by the jobbers of that city to drouth sufferers in 1894. A letter accompanying the draft says the farmers who were helped in 1894 raised good crops last year and intended to discharge their obligation. The money was sent as a gift, not as a loan and its return was a surprise and is something unprecedented.

CHAIRMAN Deans' address has called forth a prolonged wail from the Democratic press.

IT is about time we began to hear from the candidates, and know whom we are asked to support for the nominations.

IN another place in this paper will be found the call for the Republican convention to be held at Calera on March 4th.

THE State-Herald and the Advertiser are having a regular monkey and parrot time in their amiable efforts to boom their respective candidates. We want to please both sides so respectfully submit the following sample paragraphs:

RICHARD CLARKE Esq., at the present moment, can command, all told, four votes in Chilton county. One of the voters will most probably remove from the county shortly so the honorable Richard should only reckon on three. The State-Herald will please copy.

CAPT. JOE JOHNSTON, at the present moment, can command the balance of the organized vote in Chilton county, but by the time the conventions meet a large number of the organized will have become very much disorganized and will have come into the People's Party, so the gallant captain should not reckon on many. The Advertiser will please copy.

WE are looking forward at the Democratic primary to the biggest vote ever cast in any election in this State. The Advertiser gang will count more than enough votes in the black belt to nominate Dick Clarke and Captain Johnston's friends, not to be outdone, will count every voter in the white counties and say it's alright, all the Populists and Republicans—everybody, men, women and children—have united in voting for Joe. The population of Alabama is about a million and a half, but that's no matter, the organized factions can easily count a million each.

WE are given to understand there are some people in Chilton county who, while opposed to the politics of THE BANNER, are desirous of getting the news of the county. To all such we wish to state that although we cannot undertake to alter the policy of THE BANNER to meet their views, we can and do undertake to give them the news of the county. This year of 1896 is one fraught with the very greatest political importance, and as there is now only one newspaper (THE BANNER) in Chilton county our citizens, irrespective of politics, should subscribe at once and keep posted with what is going on around them. Every person in the county should be acquainted with all that is happening in and around their respective neighborhoods. Our correspondence columns are always open to everyone—politics cut no figure—if you have anything to say of public importance send it to us and we will publish it. As is well known THE BANNER is alive to the fact that the advancement of the county is also its own advancement, we shall continue in the future as in the past to do all in our power to keep Chilton county in the front rank of the commonwealths of the State of Alabama. With 500 additional subscribers we will put in a new steam press and give Chilton county such a boom as has never been dreamed of.

BALLOT REFORM.

It is of great importance that a true conception of the political situation in Alabama and other Southern States is had, not only by the people of the South, but by the people of the North and the entire country as well.

Any movement that seeks to acquaint the country with the methods that have been practiced by the ballot box stuffing regime, to stifle the will of the people, deserves the endorsement of all good citizens, who desire that public sentiment shall cause a revolt against cliques and corruptors of the ballot.

The campaign of education and agitation along this line, that has been inaugurated and successfully carried on, by Hon. J. C. Manning, President of the Southern Ballot Rights League, has justly won the plaudits of those who wish that honest elections may prevail anywhere. After a study of the situation in Alabama and other Southern States and after a careful study of the claims of contestants for seats in Congress from the South Mr. Manning has published letters in the leading Northern papers that have attracted widespread attention. He has caused newspapers containing these articles to be sent out to thousands of people, in[illegible]ding prominent Southern voters, South[illegible] newspapers, members of [illegible] No one interested in the cause [illegible] elections, can fail to appreciat[illegible] scope of this work, and the good to come from it.

Public opinion is a power in this country, and when aroused will right the wrongs done an outraged and defrauded people.

The writer is proud to have watched the progress of this movement and commend the efforts of Mr. Manning and believes it is the duty of the reform press in the South to endorse and sustain him.

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Asso'n.

Promptly at noon on Saturday, Feb. 1, 1896, in the court house in Clanton an audience of representative farmers of Chilton county was called to order by W. F. Claughton of Verbena. The object of the meeting was briefly stated in an appropriate speech. It was "the object and purpose of the meeting to organize in this county for the mutual protection of its members, "The Farmers Mutual insurance Association of Alabama" Incorporated by Acts of the General Assembly, session of 1894–5.

Prof. G. L. Speer was nominated for temporary chairman and was elected by acclamation, W. J. Martin was elected temporary secretary, and on motion of C. L. Manning, he read the Act incorporating the Association, also the plan upon which said Association is to be operated. Great interest was manifested in the movement by those present and the plans met the hearty indorsement of all.

It was then ascertained that policies representing something over $43,000 had been written up by the agent, C. L. Manning.

Permanent officers were then elected for the ensuing year, as follows:

W. F. Claughton, Verbena, Pres.;
W. M. Wilson, Clanton, Sec. Treas;
E. L. Manning, Verbena, agent;
B. M. Gentry, G. P. Haines, S. L. Scott; A. T. Hathcock and Akin Mims, Directors.

On motion a committee on by-laws and local government was appointed as follows:

W. M. Adams, chairman, John Strock, J. A. Logan, W. J. Martin and J. W. Moore.

The meeting then adjourned to meet on Saturday, 15th inst, at 10 o'clock, at which time the organization will be perfected and the by-laws go into full force and effect. All parties are asked to be present.

On motion it was ordered that a copy of the proceeding of the meeting be sent to the BANNER for publication.

Turn-Round Topics.

A shadow of gloom was cast over our community on last Friday when the news was circulated that Mrs. Rebekah Sneed had died the night before. Her death had been expected for only one or two days, she having been afflicted with a disease that I know not. One of her relatives telegraphed to her two brothers, one in Montgomery and the other in Birmingham. Mr. Clent Connell of the capital city received the telegram too late to come on the mail, so he jumped a freight train and came right a head arrived in time to see his sister buried. But her other brother, Mr. Jim Connell, of Birmingham, received the telegram too late for the morning accommodation; he was compelled to lay over for the evening mail, so when he arrived he found to his sad disappointment that his sister had been put away, she being buried between sun-set and dark Friday evening. Mrs. Sneed was possessed of many noble and endearing traits of character, and it is sad to us that Providence willed that she should be cut down so early in life. She died in the hope of an inheritance in the great beyond, and it has been requested that her funeral be preached on the first Sunday in next month, by Rev. J. L. Long at Corinth. It was requested by Mrs. Sneed before her death that her sister, Mrs. Joe Cash, of Bozeman, should take her little two-year old daughter and raise her. The request was granted. The deceased leaves a husband, three brothers and two sisters to mourn her loss.

Mr. Clent Connell after attending his sister's burial returned Saturday evening to his home in Montgomery.

Mr. Jim Connell, of Birmingham, will stay with us awhile.

We are sorry to report measles in our community, Mr. J. C. Pattillo has them, and we fear more of us will take them. It has been reported, that John William Pattillo, had to quit school on the account of having them, but I have heard since that he did not have them.

Mr. Fim Connell, of Birmingham, and sister, Miss Lona, of Verbena, visited their uncle, Mr. E. T. Connell, last Sunday.

Mr. J. S. Jones and wife have returned home from a visit to relatives and friends at Bozeman.

Mr. Harve Connell, a brother of the deceased, whom I did not mention, has returned from a trip to Bozeman.

Mr. Jasper Dennis, of Friendship, visited Mr. John Howard last Friday and Saturday.

Sunday was a rainy day, which prevented a great many from at[illegible]ing church.

This is log-[illegible] at least four days will be [illegible] in that work, at one place and then the other. E. A. Norris gives the first one.

Mr. Warren Jones, of Lomax, is visiting here.

While clearing last Tuesday, Mr. Will Manning made a glancing lick, cutting his leg just below the knee to the bone, though it is not a very serious cut, he can now walk about on it tolerably well. Be more careful next time Willie, will you?

Mrs. Eliza Kendrick returned home Thursday, from Elmore. She reports her daughter-in-law some better.

May success and prosperity be with the BANNER and its readers,

Coopers Clippings.

It has been quite awhile since I have given the BANNER any dots but am a fond reader of it. We have had plenty of rain for the past few weeks which has been very bad on oat sowing. There is a great preparation being made in this section for a large cotton crop, Phosphate and Guano are leaving this place every day.

Mr. S. E. Waldrup wanted to know what had become of the Hustler and in reply I will say that he is still on foot.

Mr. W. W. Gray says he is going to get married soon, we hope to have a big dance at his wedding. Mr. Joe Handling is standing a big hand with his girl across the creek.

Coopers is on a boom; it has a new blacksmith shop, you can get your work done cheap.

No other news I will close hoping to hear from Old Mike, Tom Hide and Uncle Sap.

Editor BANNER: We have a sad town, Brother John Patton lost his eldest son, Sam, last Thursday morning about seven o'clock, and his father died Saturday evening about three o'clock. Oh! how sad it was to see four sons and two daughters stand by and see the last breath leave the old man. He was a good man, had no enemies, was liked by all and may God bless his sons and daughters and may His spirit lead them to the place of happiness where there will be no parting. Sam was a boy loved by all; I have known him three years, have seen him nearly every day, and I have never heard any of his associates say aught against him, but to the contrary I have heard all of them speak well of him, he was a quiet peaceable boy and attended strictly to his own business; he was faithful to his father's business, could be trusted with all things that came under his care, but oh how he will be missed by his parents, there will be a vacant seat at the fire side, a vacant chair at the [illegible] a vacant place in his father s [illegible] our prayer is that he has filled [illegible] where all is happiness, peace [illegible] may the rich blessings of our [illegible] your rest on his faithful mother [illegible] father and may they take courage and say the Lord's will be done, and may they meet Sam in that world above together with the rest of their children. Respectfully,

A FRIEND.

On January 30 death claimed Samuel Patton, after a severe illness from pneumonia. He was a young man who was just stepping out into the responsibilities of the journey of life, and ready to bless fond parents who had so cautiously trained him for duties ahead. On 1 inst, while the cloud of sorrow was yet hanging heavily over Mr. John Patton's household, death entered the home of Mr. Wm. Patton and carried him away. He was the aged grandfather of the deceased Samuel. Thus we find but 31 hours between the flight of these two souls, so closely related. For years they have lived in speaking distance so closely are their homes situated. Now that their earthly pleasures have ceased, they will start on the celestial shore of the great beyond, viewing the untold rapturous and sublime grandeur of the home of the blessed. As time swiftly rolls by, another, and another one of these bereaved ones will pass on up to glory, there to join in with perpetual praise in admiration of the home bought by the blood of Christ.

A Great Chance to Make Money.

I want to tell you of my wonderful success. Being a poor girl and needing money badly, I tried the Dish Washer business and have cleared $200 every month. It is more money than I ever had before, and can't help telling about it, for I believe any person can do as well as I have if they only try. I sell from 5 to 15 machines a day. My business is increasing and am going to keep right on until I make $10,000. There is no excuse to be poor when so much money can be made selling dishwashers. The Washers sell on side; every lady wants one. The Mound City Dish Washer does splendid work; you can wash and dry the dishes in two or three minutes without putting your hands in the water at all. Try this business and let us know how you succeed. The Mound City Dish Washer Co., St. Louis, Mo., will give you all necessary instructions so you can begin work at once.

THE NEW YORK WORLD THREE TIMES A WEEK AND THE BANNER FOR $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE TWICE-A-WEEK edition of the New York World has been converted into the THRICE-A-WEEK. It furnishes 3 papers of 6 pages apiece, or eighteen pages every week, at the old price of one dollar a year. This gives 156 papers a year for one dollar and every paper has six pages eight columns wide or 48 columns in all. The THRICE-A-WEEK World is not only much larger than any weekly or semi-weekly newspaper, but it furnishes the news with much greater frequency and promptness. In fact it combines all the crisp, fresh qualities of a daily with the attractive special features of a weekly.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Edited by ALBERT SHAW.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

COLONIZING IN CHILTON.

Thrifty Scandinavian Immigrants Settling in Alabama.

Mr. A. L. Wamben, of Thorsby, the new town located on the Louisvill and Nashville railroad in Chilton county, passed through the city the other day on his return home to North Dakota. Mr. Wamben formerly lived near Hatton, Dak., and came to Alabama about two months ago prospecting, in company with several others from the same section and community. The party were met on their arrival in Birmingham by Capt Sid Jones and it was through his influence that they visited Chilton county, where they were so well pleased than they bought property and began building the town of Thorsby, which now boasts of a number of progressive families. The citizenship is composed altogether of Scandinavians, said to be the most progressive and enterprising people now immigrating to this country.

Mr Wamben said to a State Herald reporter that he was on his way to his former Dakota home for the purpose of disposing of all his property there, both personal and real, and that he would return with something near $6,000, which he proposed to invest in Chilton county. His landed interests in Dakota, he said, consists of a farm of 160 acres, located within one mile of the town of Hatton, and that he will find no trouble in disposing of it at $30 per acre.

He says that he is more than satisfied with his adopted home. In fact, he says Alabama is indeed the garden spot of America, and Thorsby is destined to be the garden spot of Alabama; that he is carrying with him to Dakota a full supply of printed matter containing all the information any one could desire, and that he is satisfied quite a number will come with him on his return. Mr. Wamben says that Dakota is a good country—plenty of good lands, but that the climate is almost unbearable at times, and an ancient prophet would hardly be able to tell when it would rain and blow and when dry weather might be expected. In Dakato, he said wheat is the only profitable crop that can be raised, and in Alabama he expects to raise any and everything, but will devote his attention in the main to fruit culture.

"How many people have you at Thorsby Mr. Wamben?" asked the reporter.

"All told I think we have about fifty people. The most of them are young men without families. We have been feeling our way so to speak, and have not been making any exertion much to increase our population. We wanted to be able to report correctly to our northwestern friends just how things are before inducing them to settle among us."

"And are you satisfied that they will be pleased with the change?"

"Pleased! They cannot help being pleased; we have found the Eldorado. By the way, do you know that we can raise coffee in Chilton county?"

"Coffee!"

"Yes, coffee—genuine coffee. A Mrs. Bruce, who resides about one and a half miles from Clanton, told me the other day that she had a neighbor that raised last year all the coffee she will need for several months. About three years ago the lady discovered a peculiar plant growing in her garden and decided to fertilize and cultivate it to see what it was, and it proved to be a coffee plant. She said that she remembered that her husba[illegible] from market at one [illegible] came in the garden where she was and spilled some on the ground, and that she is certain here was the starting of her coffee culture. The first year the coffee matured so nicely that she determined to save the crop for seed and plant again and did so, and it is the third years' growth that she is using. I don't know that I shall go in the coffee raising business just yet, but this experiment is worth telling the public about." "On the 10th of March a home-seekers' excursion will be run from all points in the north and northwest."

A Des Moines woman who has been troubled with frequent colds, concluded to try an old remedy in a new way, and accordingly took a tablespoonful (four times the usual dose) of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy just before going to bed. The next morning she found that her cold had almost entirely disappeared. During the day she took a few doses of the remedy (one teaspoonful at a time) and at night again took a tablespoonful before going to bed, a[illegible] on the following morning awoke free from all symptoms of the cold. Since then she has, on several occasions, used this remedy in like manner, with the same good results, and is much elated over her discovery of so quick a way of curing a cold. For sale by J. S. $1.00 FOR YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.

Write us a letter covering these three points:

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents. If consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

Fence the World in 20 Days.

In the sale of the "STAR" Machine, as shown below, we have done more in recent years to enable the farmers of this country to get their fencing at the actual cost of the wire than all other fence manufacturers in the United States, because we figure and show how cheap the various styles of fence can be made, or what the actual cost of the wire is to make them, while those who make and sell the fence must add the cost of labor to manufacture and their profit to the actual cost of the wire. We can sell you a Machine and enough wire to make 100 rods of the best Woven Wire Fence on earth, horse high bull strong, pig and chicken tight for the same money that will buy 100 rods of any good woven wire fence now on the market. In one case you have the fence alone. In the other you have not only the fence but a machine which enables you to be your own fence manufacturer and with which you can make over 50 styles, including several styles of Ornamental yard or lawn fences. To show how the farmers of this country appreciate this machine it is only necessary to say that if all the machines sold by us were run for twenty days, each machine making 40 rods per day, they would make enough fence to go around the world, being an average of 400,000 rods or 1,250 miles per day. If all of the machines were run only 60 days during the year, making 40 rods per day each, they would make a grand total of 24,000,000 rods, which would make an average of 76,[illegible] rods or 240 miles for every working day in the year. The combined product of all the Loom Fence Factories of the United States would not equal this. One cent isn't much. Invest it in a postal card and send for our Large Illustrated Catalogue, telling all about fencing. It may save you many dollars. Sent Free for the asking. $1800.00 GIVEN AWAY TO INVENTORS.

$150.00 every month given away to any one who applies through us for the most meritorious patent during the month preceding.

We secure the best patents for our clients, and the object of this offer is to encourage inventors to keep track of their bright ideas. At the same time we wish to impress upon the public the fact that such as the "car-window" which can be easily slid up and down without breaking the passenger's back, "sauce-pan," "collar-button," "nut-lock," "bottle-stopper," and a thousand other little things that most any one can find a way of improving; and these simple inventions are the ones that bring largest returns to the author. Try to think of something to invent.

IT'S THE SIMPLE, TRIVIAL INVENTIONS THAT YIELD FORTUNES,

IT IS NOT SO HARD AS IT SEEMS.

Patents taken out through us receive special notice in the "National Recorder," published at Washington, D. C., which is the best newspaper published in America in the interests of inventors. We furnish a year's subscription to this journal, free of cost, to all our clients. We also advertise, free of cost, the invention each month which wins our $150 prize, and hundreds of thousands of copies of the "National Recorder," containing a sketch of the winner, and a description of his invention, will be scattered throughout the United States among capitalists and manufacturers, thus bringing to their attention the merits of the invention.

All communications regarded strictly confidential.

Luster of Snow.

The pure white luster of snow is due to the fact that all the elementary colors of light are blended together in the radiance that is thrown off from the surface of the various crystals. More than a thousand distinct and perfect forms of snow crystals have been found by the various investigators in that line. One hundred and fifty-one different forms were once observed by an English scientist, who carefully made engravings of each.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

Worthy of Trial—That is the Opinion of Mr. A. E. Thornton

"I think it is best not to hide a light under bushels, and when a good remedy is discovered it is our duty to let it be known in the interest of suffering humanity.

"I have been suffering with indigestion and dyspepsia. I tried all the various remedies as well as several eminent physicians, but without avail. I was induced by a friend to try Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy and the first dose relieved me. Yours is a grand remedy for indigestion and dyspepsia. It builds up, and I recommend it as worthy of trial by all who wish to be cured." For sale by all druggists.

A Good Dog is Worth Looking After.

If you own a dog and think anything of him, you should be able to treat him intelligently when ill and understand him sufficiently to detect symptoms of illness. The dog doctor book written by H. Acres of Mushrooms.

A gentleman who lately returned from a visit to Astoria says that while there he went over to look at what the Astorians call the "mushroom town" site of Flavel. He is not interested in the rivalry between the two terminal cities, but says that in the line of mushrooms he has never seen anything equal the Flavel town site and vicinity. There were acres and acres literally covered with the nutritious and delicious fungus, which were of astonishing size. He secured one which was nine inches across, as big as a soup plate and weighed half a pound, the largest mushroom he has ever seen. There were others nearly as large and any number of good-sized ones.

The boys of Flavel, if there are any, might make plenty of spending money by gathering mushrooms for the Portland market, if they would select nice, fresh ones, cut and pack them carefully, as grapes, etc., are packed. They could be gathered during the day, sent up on the night boat, and be here all nice and fresh next morning. Mushrooms sell here at retail at twenty cents per pound, and the dealers probably pay ten or fifteen cents for them. All sorts and sizes are gathered, including stale ones, and no care is taken to get them to market in a presentable condition.

The large mushrooms are broken, and they are gathered stems and all, and the earth from the roots is scattered among them. This makes the demand small to what it would be if the fungus were properly handled. Tons of fine mushrooms are to be had in this country, and, besides furnishing a very palatable and wholesome dish, they make the finest kind of catsup. But one variety is in common use, although two or three other kinds are occasionally seen in the market, and at least six or eight wholesome varieties are to be found in the region.—Portland Oregonian.

Indian and Magician.

"Nothing so completely mystifies an Indian," said Captain Partello at the Officers' Club recently, "as to witness the operations of some itinerate sleight-of-hand performer, many of whom find their way into the sparsely settled portions of the Northwest, where they are always sure to reap a good harvest. Professor McAllister, the magacian, once visited a camp of River Crows on the Yellowstone, and, after extracting various packs of cards and other articles from the ears, necks, noses and garments of the astonished Indians, was invited to a big feast of roast dog and other delicacies. The Chief was so impressed by the great medicine powers of the professor that he took him to his wigwam, introducing him to his daughter, Miss Wicista-Neeta (meaning Wild Cat), and offered her for a wife at the low price of two ponies. The feast and daughter were both declined, but as McAllister was leaving the tepee he spied a lean, yellow cur. He asked the chief how much he would take for the dog, at the same time stroking the brute down the back to his tail length and each time taking a handful of money from the end of his tail.

"'Him very valuable dog,' said McAllister, picking a coin out of the dog's eye and another out of his nose. 'Two ponies for him, Chief?'

"The Indians, with eyes as big as saucers, stood in awe and astonishment and shook their heads. After McAllister had gone they carried the poor dog down to the river side and cut him open, but the goose had no golden egg, and they went slowly back to [illegible] completely dumfounded and as sor[illegible] beings can possibly be."—Exch.

A Blind Little Prince.

Much sympathy is felt in England for the little boy of Prince and Princess Adolphus of Teck, who is doomed to blindness for the remainder of his life. He was afflicted with ophthalmia shortly after his birth, and, after having his eyes operated upon several times, has now lost the use of both eyes. It is a sad blow for the young parents, who were married under such very brilliant auspices, the bridegroom a brother of England's future queen, the Duchess of York, while the bride, a daughter of England's wealthiest peer, the Duke of Westminster, was one of the great heiresses of the London season. It is difficult to understand the discussion that has arisen in the English papers with regard to the correct style and dignity of the poor little blind boy of the Prince and Princess of Teck, and one finds even a former diplomat, such as Mr. Labouchere, suggesting in Truth that the Queen should confer upon the child some courtesy title in order to avoid his being condemned to the dignity of a mere esquire. Of course, all this is ridiculous. The father of Prince Adolphus, the Duke of Teck, is a German duke and an Austrian prince. The title of prince, in accordance with German and Austrian law and usage, is borne by all his male children, no matter how many of them there are, and by their children in turn, while the eldest son of the Duke will, on the death of his father, succeed to the dukedom. There is absolutely no need for the Queen to interfere in the matter, as the little blind baby is a prince and will remain so until the end of his days.

A Simile in Smoke.

There's all sorts of grades of tobacco plant. The best comes from Havana. There's all sorts of grades of sarsaparilla plant. The best comes from Honduras. If you want cheap tobacco, all right—provided you get value for your money. Cheap tobacco's not as good to smoke—but it don't cost as much.

If you want cheap sarsaparilla . . . But you don't want it. Of course you don't. You are paying for the best. To pay for the best and get anything but Honduras sarsaparilla is like paying for Havana cigars and getting Pittsburg "Stogies." There's only one sarsaparilla made exclusively from the imported Honduras plant. That's Ayer's. Just keep it in mind that you are paying for Honduras sarsaparilla when you are paying for the best; but you don't get what you pay for unless you get Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Any doubt about it? Send for the "Curebook."
It kills doubts but cures doubters.
Address: J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

FORTY-FIRST DAY.

HOUSE.—The senate concurrent resolutions relating to the Armenian persecutions, after four hours' debate, passed by 143 to 26....A message was received from the president asking an appropriation to concur the expense of bringing the negro colonists back from Mexico....The diplomatic and consular appropriation bill was reported. Adjournment until tomorrow.

SENATE—The senators from Utah appeared and took their seats. The long term ending March 3, 1899, fell by lot to Mr. Cannon. Mr. Bunner's term will end March 3, 1897....The bond bill came up, as the regular order, and two speeches were delivered on it, but no action taken. Mr. Lodge, of Massachusetts, gave notice of an amendment providing for the issue of $100,000,000 of 3 per cents. for coast defense....A number of petitions were presented, an executive session was held and the senate adjourned until tomorrow.

FORTY-SECOND DAY.

SENATE.—Mr. Turpie, of Indiana, presented a memorial relating to the Armenian horrors and addressed the senate on it. Notices of two amendments to the bond bill and substitute were given; one by Mr. Tiller, of Colorado, requiring the payment of National bank notes in coin when presented for redemption at the banks of issue; and one by Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, to prohibit the issue of bonds until congress shall first declare the necessity for such issue....Mr. Call's resolution for a special committee to investigate the imprisonment of Eugene V. Debs, being before the senate, Mr. Hill, of New York, moved an amendment instructing the judiciary committee to investigate the whole subject of contempt of courts as enforced by Federal courts. The subject was debated until the hour assigned for hearing Mr. Thurston on the Monroe doctrine, when the resolutions were laid aside and Mr. Thurston proceeded with his speech....The debate on the bond bill was then resumed. An effort was made for an agreement to set a time for a vote on it, but failed ....Resolutions of regret at the death of Frederick Reiman, representative elect from Illinois, were adopted, and the senate adjourned until tomorrow.

HOUSE.—The diplomatic and consular appropriation bill went through the house today without discussion and practically without amendment. Mr. Hitt, chairman of the committee on foreign affairs, explained the changes made in the text of the law, and Mr. McCreary stated that in his opinion, they were all essential to the welfare of the service. The bill had the unanimous support of the committee....Bills were passed authorizing the secretary of state to convene the international marine conferences, and authorizing officers and soldiers of the army who are members of the Sons of Veterans to wear a badge of that society on occasions of public ceremony ....Upon hearing the formal announcement of the death of the late Frederick Reiman, representative-elect of the Eighteenth Illinois district made by his successor, Mr. Hadley (Rep. Ill.), the house passed its usual resolution of respect, and at 2:35 o'clock, adjourned until tomorrow.

FORTY-THIRD DAY.

HOUSE.—A resolution, with amendments, authorizing the donation of condemned cannons to grand army posts, was referred to the naval affairs [illegible]ttee....The regular order, be[illegible] committee for the consideration [illegible] the morning hour, was taken up, [illegible]ing that no quorum was pres[illegible] journed until tomorrow.

SENATE.—Mr. Morgan from the committee on foreign relations reported, as a substitute for Mr. Calls resolution to accord belligerent rights to the Cubans, The following:

Resolved, By the senate (the house of representatives concurring) that the present deplorable war in the island of Cuba has reached a magnitude that concerns all civilized nations to the extent that it should be conducted, if unhappily it is longer to continue, on those principles and laws of warfare that are acknowledged to be obligatory on civilized nations when engaged in open hostilities, including the treatment of captives who are enlisted in either army; due respect to cartels for exchange of prisoners and for other military purposes, truces and flags of truce; the provision of proper hospitals and supplies and services to the sick and wounded of either army; be it further

Resolved, That this representation of the views and opinions of congress be sent to the president, and if he concurs therein, that he will, in a friendly spirit, use the good offices of this government to the end that Spain shall be requested to accord to the armies with which it is engaged in war the rights of belligerents, as the same are recognized under the laws of nations.

Mr. Cameron presented a minority report, closing with a resolution that "the president is hereby requested to interpose his friendly offices with the Spanish government for the recognition of the independence of Cuba."

The entire majority report was read and the whole matter went to the calendar....The regular order, being the house bond bill and silver substitute, was taken up and Mr. Tillman, of South Carolina, spoke two hours, advocating the substitute....Mr. Jones, of Arkansas, who is in parliamentary charge of the bond bill, made another ineffective effort to have a time fixed for a vote or for beginning the debate under the five minute rule. Senator Morrill and Hill objecting on the ground that several senators desired to speak on the bill....Mr. Call then addressed the senate on the bill, advocating bimetalism, and the senate adjourned until tomorrow.

FORTY-FOURTH DAY.

SENATE.—Most of the day was spent in debate. The urgency deficiency appropriation bill was reported back from the committee on appropriations and notice was given by Mr. Hale, of Maine, that he would probably ask the senate to consider it tomorrow.... Mr. Allen, populist, of Nebraska, introduced a bill to prohibit the purchase or use by the government of any wares manufactured in any penitentiary work house or any prison, or by convict labor. Referred to the committee on education and labor. At 6 p. m. the senate took a recess until noon tomorrow.

HOUSE.—Mr. Wadsworth, republican, of New York, chairman of the committee on agriculture, reported the agricultural appropriation bill, and Mr. Grout, republican, of Vermont, the District of Columbia appropriation for the year ending June 30, 1897....Mr. McCall, republican, of Texas, from elections committee No. 3, reported its unanimous finding that David Culberson, democrat, was entitled to his seat as a representative from the Fourth Texas district. J. H. Davis having abandoned the contest, of which he gave notice to the clerk, a resolution to that effect was agreed to....Mr. Jenkins, republican, of Wisconsin, reported from the same committee its unanimous report in favor of the sitting member in the contest between Rosenthal and Crowley, from the Tenth Texas district, stating that he would call it up for consideration tomorrow....A resolution reported from the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, by Mr. Doolittle, republican, of Washington, was agreed to, asking the president to transmit to congress the report of the board of engineers appointed by him to investigate the Nicaraguan canal....The speaker announced the assignment of Mr. Wellington, of Maryland, to the committee on labor, and Mr. Belknap, republican, of Illinois, to the committee on railways and canals....The following bills were passed: Directing the pension bureau, in claims by widows for pensions, to accept as evidence of the soldier's death proof of his unexplained absence for seven years; transferring to the state of Nebraska the military reservation of Fort Omaha for a school of instruction of the national guard of that state; to reorganize the customs collections of the district of Alaska; to open the forest reservations of Pike's Peak, Plum creek and the South Platte, Colorado, in the Cripple Creek district, to the location of mining claims; confirming certain cash entries of "offered" lands in the states of Alabama, Mississippi and Arkansas....The house at 2:10 p. m. adjourned until tomorrow.

FORTY-FIFTH DAY.

HOUSE.—A bill was passed giving brandies made from other fruits the same conditions under the revenue laws as brandies made from peaches, apples and grapes....The District of Columbia appropriation bill was considered in committee of the whole. Without disposing of it the committee rose and the house took a recess until 8 o'clock, after disposing of the contest from the Tenth district of Texas in favor of Crowley, democrat, the sitting member. The evening session was devoted to private pension bills and at 10:30 the house adjourned until tomorrow.

SENATE.—The senate was called to order at noon and resumed consideration of the bond bill and silver substitute. An agreement to take a final vote at 2 p. m., tomorrow was reached. Mr. Palmer, democrat, of Illinois, gave notice of an amendment declaring it to be the policy of the United States to maintain the parity between the gold and the silver dollar and directing the secretary of the treasury to use his discretion, under the law, to that end.....A recess was taken at 4 p. m., until 7:30, after which the debate was continued until 10, when a recess was taken until 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Corbett's Mouth Murphy Mashed.

It was at the National theatre in Philadelphia where the pugilist is playing. Murphy, who is a small man, was the fireman on duty. He smelled [illegible]rette smoke and entered Corbett's [illegible] to tell him that smoking is agains[illegible] "No one is smoking here," Co[illegible] "Why," said Murphy, "You are smo[illegible]self." He had seen the smoke from [illegible]rette hidden under Corbett's co[illegible] Thereupon the big pugilist shoved Murphy out and slammed the door. The little man threw himself against the door, it opened so easily that he staggered half across the room. So Corbett took him at a disadvantage and struck him twice. But Murphy came back with a blow on the big fellow's mouth that brought the blood profusely. Having no further business there Murphy started down stairs when Corbett seized him, threw him down and kicked him. The little man started down again. As Corbett followed him he turned suddenly, caught the big fellow around his legs, jerked them from under him and sent him bumpity bump down the stairs. Corbett upon getting on his feet attacked Murphy furiously, but others now interfered and the fight was off. So the story goes, but Corbett says it is all made up, and that he only had some words with the fireman about smoking a cigarette.

Complaint of Consular Neglect.

The Foresters of Cleveland, O., have asked Secretary of State Olney for an explanation of the neglect of Patrick A. Collins, United States consul-general at London, to give certain information that was requested of him. Fred McAdams, a Forester whose home was in Cleveland, died in a London coffe house and when his brethren here heard of his death they asked Consul-General Collins to look after his effects and see that they were returned to his relatives. It is asserted that the consul-general paid no attention to the request and that it was necessary to proceed through another channel. Past Chief Ranger Johnson of Court Forest City has laid the case before Secretary Olney and is awaiting an explanation.

The Coliseum Selected.

The next democratic nominee for the presidency will be named at the Coliseum at Sixty-third and Jackson park, Chicago. This was the decision of the sub-committee of the national democratic committee Saturday afternoon after a session of over four hours, and it means that an audience of not less than 15,000 will be afforded an opportunity of greeting with acclamation the name of the successful candidate. It was also decided to locate the headquarters of the national committee at the Palmer house.

[illegible] Quigg's Fine [illegible]

Speaking of Caruth: He is the gentleman who rather disturbed the serenity of that metropolitan editor and statesman, Lemuel Eli Quigg.

"The Republican party, Mr. Speaker," shouted Mr. Quigg on an occasion when, metaphorically speaking, he was sailing and soaring in the heavens of the house, "the Republican party, Mr. Speaker, on that occasion of the nation's greatest peril, stood like a gladiator, belted and buckled, booted and spurred——"

"Will the gentleman," interrupted Carthur, with the look of one who was taking a consuming interest in Quigg's speech, and wanted full information on all points as he went along, "will the gentleman please mention where and when it was that the gladiators wore boots and spurs?"

The house, as usual, full of approving delight, yelled its glee over the interruption, and all very much to the confusion of Lemuel Eli Quigg.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Had No Use for Another Fortune.

A laborer employed in one of the iron mills in Allegheny, earning the munificent salary of $1.10 a day for wheeling ore in a wheelbarrow, received a telegram announcing that a relative in Ireland had died and left him $60,000. He left his job, went to Ireland, secured the cash and started upon a career of luxury and high living. Two years later he reappeared in Pittsburg, asked for his old position and went back to wheeling ore. One day another telegram came announcing that a relative in England had died, leaving him $20,000. He threw up his hands in despair. "Hivins!" cried he. "Must Oi trow up me job and go over ther and waste another year or two in spending that? It's a shame to handicap a decint workin' man like thot. Oi'll sind word to thim Oi can't do it."

Prosperity Came Through Pines.

The region of the Landes, which, fifty years ago, was one of the poorest and most miserable in France, has now been made one of the most prosperous, owing to the planting of pines. The increased value is estimated at 1,000,000,000 francs. Where there were, fifty years ago, only a few thousand poor and unhealthy shepherds, there are now sawmills, charcoal kilns and turpentine works, interspersed with thriving villages and fertile agricultural lands.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. R. L. Johns, of Selma, Ala., is in the habit of buying Ripans Tabules at White's Pharmacy at Selma. When interviewed at the time of a recent purchase, Mr. Johns said: "Ever since I was in the army, where I contracted indigestion and dyspepsia from eating "hard tack and sow belly," I have suffered much from those and kindred ailments. A son of mine who clerks for J. N. Harter in a drug store at Winfield, Kansas, told me while home on a visit, over year ago, to get a box of Ripans Tabules and take them. I did [illegible] in a very short time I was benefited, and by the time they were half gone I was well, and since then I have felt better, ate more and relished it better than at any time since the war and am doing more work now than I ever expected to do again. I tell you, they are the greatest medicine for a fellow's stomach I ever saw. This box is for a neighbor of mine out by me in the country. We always have them at home, and I never hesitate to recommend them when a fellow complains about his stomach hurting him
(Signed), R. L. JOHNS."

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, FEBURARY 13, 196. NO. 16.

STATE'S EVIDENCE.

EX-GOV. GIBBS OF TEXAS LAMBASTS THE OLD PARTIES.

He Says They Are Selling Bonds and Devising New Systems of Taxation Instead of Laboring to Lighten the Burdens Already Upon the People.

Another prominent democrat has taken the witness stand and scored the democratic party. This time it is ex-Governor Gibbs of Texas. He gives the following reasons for the change. He says:

"It used to be that a democratic platform was no longer than the ten commandments, and as easy of comprehension. Now it takes Roger Q. Mills and Horace Chilton two hours each to tell a crowd what it is, and when they get through talking the oldest democrats are as badly mixed as if they had been alternating between beer and red liquor. Mills says that gold with just a little silver mixed in makes democracy. Chilton says that Mills is wrong; that democracy consists of an allopathic instead of a homeopathic dose of silver. Which is the right prescription for democrats? They differ on the size of the dose. Which will kill or cure? When it comes to the tariff, Cleveland and Mills think that it is democratic for the men, women and children who herd sheep and round-up cattle to do this in the teeth of the northern and the competition of the world, but that it is also democratic for corporations who manufacture woolen goods and shoes in big brick buildings to have 50 per cent protection.

"Old Bill Morrison of the old-line democrats was retired to a soft job on the interstate commerce commission because he thought the tariff ought to be on a strictly revenue basis, and while it was getting there that all should have the same amount of protection. He did not believe that the sheep and cattle industries of the south and west, pursued by individuals for a livelihood, should be laid out to hold the campaign fund and votes of eastern corporations. They killed old Morrison and the fact that he was choked to death on soft official butter doesn't fool a man at the forks of the creek.

"We know that republicanism stands for protective tariff and extravagant appropriations every day in the week and Sunday, too. We know that it stands for big pensions to the rich, when Texas, looking to the condition of those who had to pay pensions to its grand veterans, provided that where one of these heroes was worth more than $1,000 that he should draw no pension, and those grand veterans left out from reasons of justice and equity never complained. When the democrats had congress they never had the nerve to pass such an amendment to the pension law of the United States, but left the country to pay more than one-half of the immense pension list to men and women of wealth. Under the tariff system the poor people pay the most of this pension money. The democrats did not tackle this and other manifest abuses of government because they wanted to win with eastern votes and get appointments to foreign missions and other fat offices. In their anxiety to get and hold office they have made platforms and congressional records that look as bad and contradictory as some old woman's crazy quilt made of rags just as they come to hand. Free perfumery and taxed wool hats is a more ludicrous political sight and smells worse to an educated political nose than the oft-ridiculed populist pumpkin in the government subtreasury. A [illegible]nting office may swallow [illegible] all this hybrid tariff and financial policy just as a child will take sheep saffron tea when he has the bellyache. The democracy now dished out by the leaders has as many ingredients as Rio Grande hash, but the smell of official garlic is the only distinctive quality, whether it is Hogg or Clark hash or Cleveland and Mills hash. The recipe for making this hash is so complicated that even our governor understands it one way the day before and another way the day after. The uncertainty of what constitutes Simon pure democratic hash has turned the political stomachs of even Kentucky and Texas democrats.

"The result of all this democratic and republican strife for office is that we have had class legislation and special indulgencies until the people are eaten up by the office-holding, protected and pensioned classes. They are issuing bonds and devising new systems of tax levy and collection and trying to create money out of everything, instead of trying to reduce taxation and expenses and the too tempting official salaries. The national, state and county governments are on too high a horse, but their dignity won't permit them to ride a smaller one. When the people kick they give them a war commission or an agricultural commissioner to spend more money and inquire of somebody else living on government money what is the trouble with the mudsill fellows who are not on a government horse, but are walking. The mudsill people have got afraid to complain for fear they will have some more expensive commissions or special committees to use up the contingent funds, which have to be filled up again by taxation. It takes a mule to pull a copy of the United States statutes, and two mules to pull a copy of the state statutes, and still they are adding to them and every page creates more officials. Increased taxes and floating warrants don't breed democrats.

"When the people begin to kick against so much officialism, so much taxation, the democratic and republican leaders begin to levy more taxes, spend more money and create more offices. Lead put in the right place will quiet these tax producers.

"We can get money to build warships to float around the world and fire salutes and to pay big pensions to the already rich, but when it comes to doing something practical for the benefit of the masses we are as the Chinaman says: 'Alee times busted.'

"The canalization of the Trinity river at a cost of $1,000,000 would save to the producers of Texas about $2.50 per bale on their cotton freights, but our representatives won't demand it, either because it will scare eastern democrats or won't appear economical. If Texas is safely democratic, what is the use of giving them any relief? If we canalize the Trinity river it will save the producers several millions every year, but it will make the holders of railroad stocks and bonds in the east mad, and they won't put up any democratic campaign fund. Instead of canalizing the Trinity river they will build a warship at a cost of $2,000,000 and call her Texas and let Texas girls baptize her, and this won't hurt or offend the railroads and will quiet the 'mud sillers,' who will vote ticket, although ship won't float. This is the game the democratic and republican leaders give the people, and then tell us that this is the government of the people, by the people, and for the people—but which people?

"We can build a $1,000,000 park in the middle of the Potomac river, for the official class to play hide and seek in, but we cannot get any tax money to facilitate the commerce of the state. Oh, yes, this is a government of the people, but it is the people controlling the democratic and republican rings. There is not a representative in congress from Texas but feels all he needs to do is talk tariff and silver and cuss republicans and ridicule populists to get a nomination by a convention and then be elected. As long as it is this way Texas will be in the soup.

"In return for all the racket we have raised at the forks of the creek the state administration has given us a railroad commission without power to act; higher taxes and more officials. Even the national government and monarchies limit the amount [illegible] an officer can pocket, but this people's democratic administration fixes no limit, and when the people talk about reforming this abuse, the leaders begin to talk tariff or silver or hunt some popular individual to put into office. In many counties the excess of fees over $2,500 per annum to each officer would put the roads in good order, but the Texas democracy is afraid to reform this system, for fear it will lose ward organizers or voters, so authorized an increase of taxes. In Kentucky the leaders thought that fool democrats could be depended on to vote the ticket forever. Now where are they? What has happened in Kentucky will happen in Texas, for the people are politically weary. They feel like killing snakes at home instead of in South America. The next democratic primaries in Texas will be slimly attended, for thousands of democrats, without changing their principles, believe that the party can never be depended on for reform, and know that it is a political impossibility to reorganize a political party in power, with the political patronage and election machinery in its hands. Democratic votes beat the party in Kentucky and will defeat it in Texas.

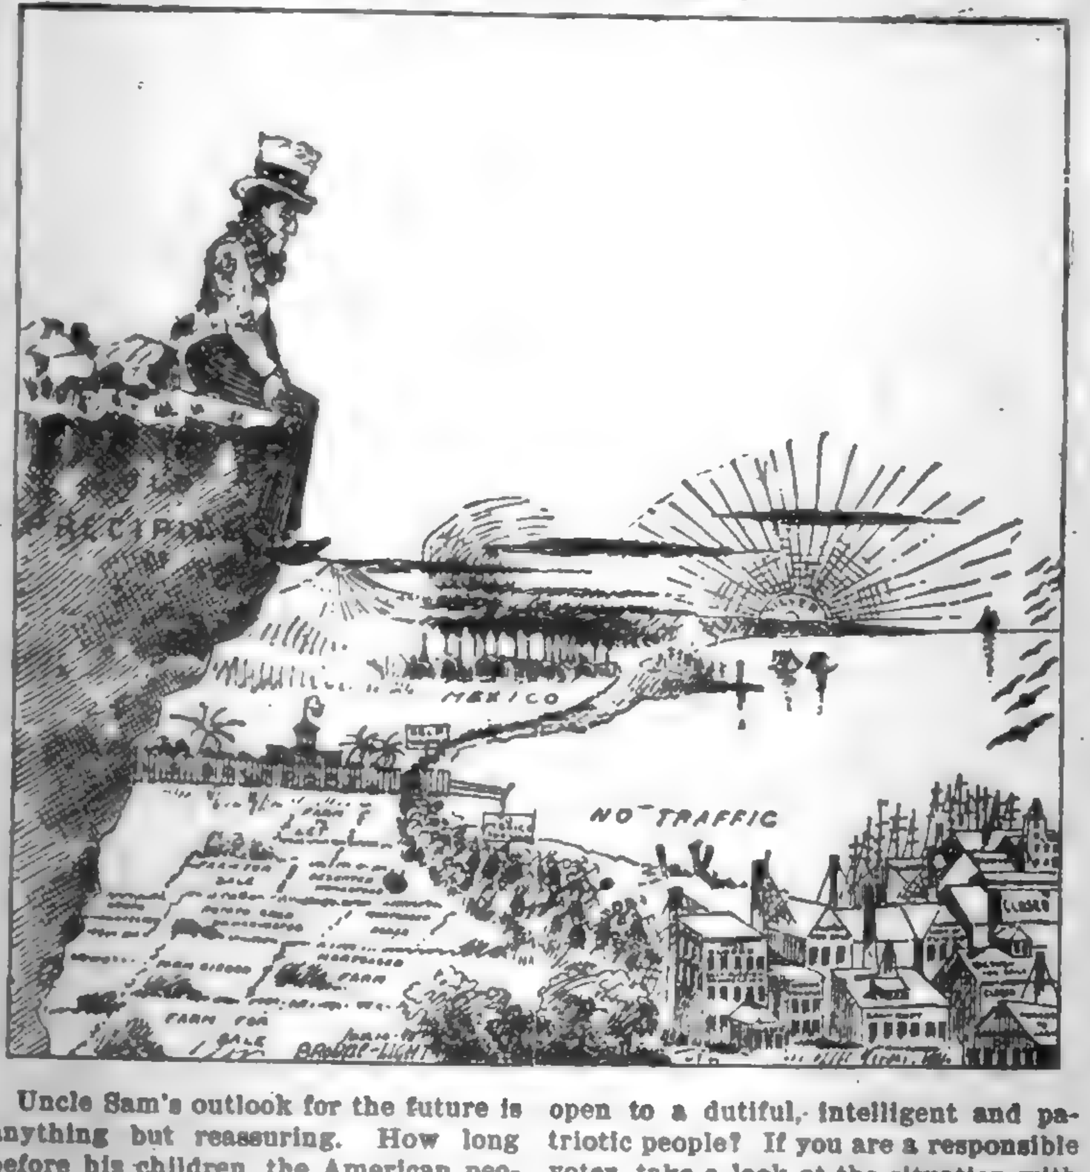
"There are enough democrats and republicans in Texas who hold Texas prosperity and genuine reform of more worth than party fealty, to defeat with their votes any ticket put up, and for the good of the state without yielding any convictions. They can flock together one day and argue with each other the next. Populists could not give us anything worse than the official fee system and the ornamental railroad commission in state politics; and in national politics no more extravagance and demoralization and unequal taxation than the last democratic and republican congresses. In congress they could demand in behalf of the people fair treatment in a tariff bill or an appropriation bill. They could be earnest, if not eloquent; honest, if not polished, and preach and vote against the autocratic tendencies of democratic and republican congressmen. They might reduce expenses to a basis where the money in circulation would abide more in the pockets of the people than in the government treasury or official pocketbooks. They might cause the people to find out that just as efficient officers could be obtained for one-half the present salaries, just as in the best and most honest days of the republic. They might teach the official class that being a democrat or a republican does not give them a cinch on official holding. They might teach the world that the mud-sillers of America make just as good office holders as beasts of burden. They might prove to the world that republican governments can reform themselves, and that democratic institutions can live beyond the usual age of corroding corruption. It might teach us that there is enough political vigor and independence always inherent in the people to make formation of the political rings dangerous to political safety. If they taught us this much, we can stand their mistakes in financial theories; which, after all, would not cost as much as quasi proclamations and do-nothing congressional sessions. Political opiates have ceased to lull the masses to sleep, and there has got to be a political upheaval before there is any reform or check to the arrogance of party power. If the mud-sillers of our social and political organism [illegible] ignorant, they may compensate us for their ignorance by their economy and honesty, just as old Andrew Jack[illegible]d. If he makes a good tax-producer in time of peace, and a good soldier in time of war, why not a good office-holder? It is not as brutal nor expensive to us for him to murder the queen's English as to murder the queen's subjects.

"He may have sense enough to run the government for a fair and equal toll, and return to the 'pay as you go policy.' He may not have a university education, and yet may know more than the financier who killed the goose that laid the golden egg. N[illegible] how uncouth the mud[illegible] appear, when he gets [illegible] the pie counter with his official apron on, he will be transmogrified into a thing of wisdom and beauty, and handle the official baton and draw the offi[illegible] salary with the grace of a Sir Miles Crowley or a Sir Roger. If he can't shoot ducks on the Chesapeake bay, he can go over on the Virginia side and make the coons and opossums think that the world was at war. If he gave us much troub[illegible] as a living congressman, he would at least compensate us by an economical funeral. Peffer says that any good populist will be satisfied with one government paid mourner. The shrewd Yankee congressman could not get away with any more of the populist wool and hide than he has with the democratic wool and hide. If he did not prove himself a good performer and breeder we could turn him out on the commons and try a new breed, for after all government is but an experiment. Why not give the populist or mud-siller the benefit of the doubt, for we do this much for the criminal. If he can raise any more political hell, or make times any harder, or be bossed any more by corporations than the democratic and republican parties of to-day are, it will be because he gets up earlier and puts in mo[illegible] time at it. It will require great wisdom for him to get up a more Dolly Varden tariff or financial system.

"Some of these one-gallused fellows know as much about what constitutes good government as some of these political dudes, who pose as statesmen and teachers of democracy, and get on both sides of silver and the railroad, and every other political question, and expect democrats to make jumping-jacks of themselves in trying to follow them.

"When the democratic party is defeated it will be re-organized on a basis of honest, economical, equal government."

"THE DAWN OF PROSPERITY."
(For the silver-using Nations.)



Uncle Sam's outlook for the future is anything but reassuring. How long before his children, the American people, will discover the real cause of his dejected mood and, recognizing the situation from his present point of view, resolve upon the only dignified course open to a dutiful, intelligent and patriotic people? If you are a responsible voter, take a look at the situation with your own eyes—your conscience and common sense will do the rest in November, 1896.—From the Chicago National Bimetallist.

The Democratic party never was so demoralized as it is now. It has nothing but broken pledges upon which to make the campaign.

It is evident now that about all the present Congress will do is to pass the usual appropriation bills, draw its salary and go home.

"NOTES AND COMMENT" FROM A SKILLFUL PEN.

Flashes of Thought from the World of Thinkers Commented Upon by the Secretary of the National Reform Press Association.

The meeting of the National Committee at St. Louis, Jan. 17, was one of the great events of the year. The results of the meeting, we believe, are generally satisfactory to the Populists. There is some dissatisfaction as to what some of the committee should have said in interviews published in the St. Louis papers. We have little confidence in what we read in the plutocratic papers and are not willing to take such reports for truth. However, there is one suggestion we would make in this connection, inasmuch as the interview is so seldom truthfully reported, we see no reason why our leading Populists should persist in submitting to being interviewed, unless it is through an uncontrollable desire to attract public attention.

There is a kind of discussion going on in some of our Populist papers, if it can be dignified by the name discussion, that is doing the party more harm than good. It is with reference to the so-called "issues" in the Omaha platform. Now, if there is anything wrong in the Omaha platform it ought to come out. Upon that all good Populists will agree. But it is not fair to arraign the "issues" and not designate what they are. The plutocratic press hold that the platform is made up of "issues," and, by the way, the word "issues" was first applied by the plutocratic press. When Populist papers or Populist leaders speak of the issues, they owe it to the public to state what, in their opinion, constitute the "issues" in the platform. While some seem to think that everything is an "issue" except the free silver coinage plank, the plutocratic press charges that that is the worst issue of all. To talk about "issues" and not state what they are occure to us as firing from the brush to escape a responsibility which there is a lack of courage to assume.

In a speech before the Illinois Bar association, Judge John Barton Payne made a very startling statement, which if true (and there is no doubt of it), demands a very drastic remedy.

"In Cook county," he declared, "no man who has sufficient influence to see the County Commissioners can be brought to trial for any crime on earth. Did you apprehend the force of that statement? It is literally true."

About a year ago, in that city, a poor man was sent to jail for taking a pig's foot. Of course he had no "influence." Several men were hung because they happened to be present at a meeting where some reckless fellow threw a bomb, and several policemen were killed and injured. It was never charged that any of them threw the bomb, or knew anything about it. Of course they had no influence. But the rich dodge their taxes by making false oaths, and resorting to all kinds of unlawful subterfuges, and nothing is said about it. They have "influence." "Influence" is a great thing in Chicag[illegible] A stranger going to that cit[illegible] never neglect to [illegible] supply of it w[illegible]

[illegible] now comes the charge that the [illegible]easury officials are covering up the true facts about the gold withdrawals from the reserve fund. This is not the first time the charge has been made that these officials are juggling with figures in making their reports. But this time the kick comes from the plutocrats, who demand the right to know just how much blood there is left in their victim, that they may know how to gauge their speculations. They do not care to kill the goose that lays the golden egg, or even to rob the nest that she might be discouraged or disgusted and not lay anymore. Hence they demand to know the facts in the case. So far as the people are concerned it makes but little difference; while there is a traitor in the camp who holds the keys and opens the doors the thieves will raid the treasury, and until the fool-killer can catch up with his work, or the partisan scales drop from the people's eyes, we cannot hope for anything better.

Senator Sherman will probably live long enough yet to drain to the dregs the cup of gall he has prepared for the people. His methods and his record are being laid before the people in a way that is not calculated to add to his happiness. In a recent speech in the senate, Senator Morgan indulged in most emphatic criticisms of his record.

He referred to the intrigues before national conventions and the "wind-shaken platforms" of these bodies. In his judgment the emergency tariff and bond bills were constructed merely as a part of the platform to be laid before a national convention next summer and not with any purpose to enact them as laws. Mr. Morgan criticised the financial course of Mr. Sherman, while he sat across the aisle giving close attention to the remarks. He referred to Mr. Sherman as the "Napoleon of finance," but this Napoleon was rapidly nearing his Waterloo and his exile at St. Helena. Mr. Morgan enumerated in detail the financial burdens which the legislation urged by the Ohio senator had imposed on the people. They were evils which brought misery, want and calamity to the whole people. It had worked more miseries than those pictured in the Apocalypse. His (Mr Sherman's) garment was one of many colors, in keeping with the variegated lines of the party to which he belonged. At the present time the Ohio senator and the President were together in their financial views, both equally oblivious to the constitutional requirement that the metals be on equal terms. It was the Ohio senator who originated the evil of selling bonds to a syndicate.

The People's party has plenty of generals but not enough privates. Let us devote our time now to mustering and organizing recruits—when the proper time arrives we can select our generals. —Industrial Leader.

That is only a part of the truth, Brother Royelle; but it is mighty good as far as it goes. The People's party has too many so called generals. And some of them are generals, too,—general nuisances. One of the drawbacks to progression is that too many men think they are born to lead, who are actually not fit to lead a mule to water. All the trouble that has ever come to the People's party has come through its generals(?). You are right; what we need now is recruits—privates. And here is the field for the would-be generals to work. Let them organize and equip an army and then they are entitled to be called generals. Some of them could not, or would not organize a corporal's guard. Yet many of just such men frequently make the most noise in our conventions. The trouble with many of our people is, they got the impression in their old party that patriotism consisted more in making a noise than anything else, and they can't divest themselves of the habit. What we need is voters and you can't get them by making a noise. Go to work and organize.

J. A. Wayland, in Appeal To Reason states the following indications of a coming revolution:

"One has to turn away from the pages of a great daily sick at heart at the awful daily recital of crime. Crime crime, crime. In every column. On every page. Mothers killing their children and themselves to escape lingering starvation. Suicides, murders, holdups, burglaries, perjury, forgery, embezzlement, violation of trusts, public and private. And in the midst of it another class giving great balls, banquets and extravagances, decked in silks, satins, diamonds, totally unmindful of the terrible anarchy their avarice is creating all about them! Such contrasts only appeared near the end of the nation that produced them. But this time it is world-wide, in every nation, and the cataclysm will be correspondingly great."

It was ever thus. History repeats itself. It was to be hoped that in a popular government, with popular education, and with the fearful examples of history before us, we might escape the doom which concentrated capital and the establishment of privileged classes bring in their train. But the greed of gain is stronger than the fear of destruction, and prejudice throttles intelligent action. The abyss of revolution yawns, but the roar of the storm is drowned in the subsidized cry of "anarchy," "paternalism," "lunacy," 'isms," and "impracticables." But the end will come.

At this juncture of our [illegible] lations with Great [illegible] mony of [illegible] before a [illegible] the House of Commons, [illegible] 1776, will be interesting. In answer to the question, "What was the temper of America to Great Britain before 1773?" he answered:

"The best in the world. They submitted willingly to the government of the Crown, and all their courts paid obedience to acts of Parliament. Numerous as the people are in the several old provinces, they cost you nothing in forts, citidels, garrisons, or armies to keep them in subjection. They were governed by this country at the expense only of a little pen, ink and paper. They were led by a thread. They had not only regard but affection for Great Britain, for its laws, its customs, its manners and even a fondness for its fashions, that greatly increased its commerce. Natives of Britain were always treated with particular regard; and to be an old England man was of itself a chacter of some respect and gave a kind of rank among us. The British government took away from America its representative money, commanded that no more paper bills of credit should be issued, that they should cease to be a legal tender, and collected the tax in silver. This was in 1773. Now mark the consequences. This contraction of the circulating medium paralyzed all the industrial energies of the people. Ruin seized upon these once flourishing colonies; the most severe distress was brought home to every family; discontent was urged on to desperation, till at last human nature arose and asserted its right!"

To-day we are practically under the domination of English financiers. It was at the dictation of England that our silver was demonetized and depreciated. It was England that dictated the contraction of our currency and a consequent reduction of values of all she wanted to buy of American products. It is England that is now withdrawing our gold from the Treasury and conspiring to force the issue of more bonds. If less provocation than this inspired our fathers to rise up in open revolt against a much more powerful nation than themselves, of what stuff are we to submit quietly when we possess as great power as England can muster? And no resort to arms is necessary. We can vote off this domination, but since England has captured both old party machines we must smash the machines before we can do it.

SUCCESS OF THE POPULAR LOAN

Has Fully Restored Confidence in All Quarters and Stimulates the Foreign Demand for American Securities—There Are Signs of Improvement, Yet Prices Are Lower.

Failures for the week have been 323 in the United States, against 381 last year, and 63 in Canada, against 58 last year. The wonderful success of the popular loan alters the face of events. January operations become ancient history as the nation mounts above all doubts and fears to a solid certainty that the people can and will uphold their government with $568,000,000 bid by 4,600 banks or persons, and the tremendous strength of the national credit is demonstrated as it has not been before for many years. The influence of this event upon all manufacturing and all trade cannot be lightly estimated. It strips the silver agitation of all its power to hurt. It puts the treasury upon a safe basis for the time, whether congress does anything or not. It notifies foreign nations that the United States has power as well as purpose. It unlocks millions of gold, which have been gathered in preparation, brings directly several millions of gold from Europe and stimulates the anxiety of foreign investors to obtain American securities.

With such a revolution in business suddenly effected, the customary records of the past week and month are of less value than usual. But there have been signs of improvement in the iron manufacture, although the average of prices is nearly 1 per cent lower this week, and orders for wire nails are stimulated by a decision to advance the price again March 1. There is also a more active demand for plates and sheets. Southern competition lowers coke iron at Chicago and prevents advance at the east, while sales of last year's speculators in the Pittsburg region still depress Bessemer. The ore pool is expected to fix the price for the year at $4, or possibly $4.50, and the coke pool still reduces the output.

The boot and shoe manufacture does not gain as yet, leather being about 1 per cent lower for the week.

The cotton mills continue generally active, though talk of decreasing the production still continues. Print cloths do not rise above 2 3-4 cents and some goods tend lower.

[illegible]SATIONAL DISPATCH.

Aerial Disturbance Attributed to the Explosion of an Aerolite.

An aerolite burst over the city of Madrid Monday morning, causing great consternation among the inhabitants. The first warning of the explosion was a flash which illuminated the sky, which was almost immediately followed by a tremendous report, the vibrations from which shattered hundreds of windows. The aerolite was accompanied by a great white cloud, and simultaneously with the explosion there was a trembling of the earth resembling the sensation produced by an earthquake. When the flash and ensuing report took place the people rushed panic-stricken into the streets, and some minutes elapsed before the excitement was allayed. It is estimated that the meteoric body was twenty miles above the earth when it burst.

The people in the suburbs of Madrid were also panic-stricken by the explosion. The operatives in the factories, the children in the schools and the employes and others in the markets rushed into the streets in a wild stampede, believing that the world was about to be destroyed. Many persons were injured in the aimless rushes by running into one another or by being thrown down and trampled upon.

The shock of the explosion was so great in the city that it caused the collapse of one house and threw down a partition wall in the building occupied by the American legation. The shock was strongly felt in Guadalajara, the province bounding the province of Madrid on the northeast, and in other places. Among the superstitious the visit of the aerolite is believed to have had a dire potent[illegible]

SWEPT BY FIRE AND FLOOD.

Disastrous Fire in a New Jersey Village While Partially Submerged.

Bound Brook on Thursday night experienced the most dreadful calamity in its existence. It was swept by both fire and flood. The water from the Raritan river ran through the streets of the village and at 3 o'clock Friday morning the water was nearly 10 feet high in the main street of the town. The three main blocks in the village were flooded with water, and while the citizens were trying to rescue the men, women and children from the houses that were in danger of being swept away by flood, fire was discovered. The iron bridge over the Raritan river was swept away, cutting off all traffic from New York to Philadelphia on the Reading railroad. Among the buildings burned was the First Presbyterian church, which was 200 years old. The building was totally destroyed. One man was drowned by the upsetting of his boat while going to rescue a family.

We have received several communications this week concerning the claims of various gentlemen for the different county offices. We have given free scope to our correspondence and all have had an opportunity to present the names of their friends. There is nothing to be gained by publishing all this over again. All that the people are now waiting for is the time [illegible] to be candidates to announce themselves. Simply because a man's name has been mentioned for an office by some one is not sufficient for the people. Let the candidates themselves come forward.

Our county commissioners are to be congratulated on their financiering abilities. The treasurer has now on hand more than enough funds to pay for building the new court house. There was some slight opposition to the proposal of the commissioners to raise the money at once by a special tax instead of issuing bonds, but now all are agreed that it was much the better plan. We shall now have an elegant and permanent court house at a very low price and no indebtedness to meet in the future.

For three years the Chilton View under an almost innumerable number of editors, has been trying to stem the current of Populism, and now the Democratic wave of prosperity, which it averred was flooding the country, has swept it into oblivion. We have not the least desire to say one word against the gentlemen who have vainly endeavored to keep the View in existence. We have no doubt but that they acted conscientiously and according to their light, but we would impress upon them the fact that they are now fully cognizant of their mistake. We ask no man to come into the People's Party unless he appreciates the fact that Populism is really and truly Democracy in its fullest and widest sense. THE BANNER as well as all Populists, takes the position that Populism represents the will of the people, and by this we are governed.

THE NEW COURT HOUSE.

ON Monday last the gentlemen from various points assembled in Clanton for the purpose of submitting their bids for building our new court house to the Probate Judge and County Commissioners. The bids were as follows:

E. W. Waller, Chattanooga Tenn	$15,600.00
J. W. Morgan & Co., Birmingham	$13,503.35
W. N. Cox, Montgomery	$13,480.00
Cook & Laurie, Montgomery	$12,481.00
Thomas L. Howser & Co., Anniston	$11,963.00
Thomas Purvis, Birmingham	$11,750.00
Z. H. Clardy & Son, Talladega	$11,250.00
T. C. Thompson & Bros., Birmingham	$10,828.00
J. H. Dukes & Co., Anniston	$10,187.50

It will be seen that the bid of Messrs. J. H. Dukes & Co., of Anniston was the lowest and consequently was accepted. The contract was at once signed by Mr. Dukes and the bond will be signed in the next few days. The plan and specifications were prepared by Mr. W. S. Hull, of Dallas, Texas, who has great experience in this class of work. Mr. D. F. Youngblood, of Montgomery, is his representative and will have the superintendence of the structure.

It is Messrs. Dukes intention, if they find the conditions favorable, to make their own brick in Chilton county. They will commence work not later than March 1 and the new court house will be completed by November 1, next. Messrs. Dukes on consideration of being paid for their work as it proceeds instead of having to wait until the completion reduced the amount of their contract to a level $10,000.

THE BANNER intends to keep Chilton county in the proud position she has already attained in the front rank of the counties of our State. But although Chilton is in the lead that is no reason why she should not continue to advance. THE BANNER which you should "Remember is the only newspaper in Chilton county" is willing to do its part, and MORE than its part, and we therefore confidently appeal to those citizens who are not already subscribers, to come forward with their subscriptions and aid us in the glorious advancement of our county and the welfare of the State.

While cleaning the brush at this place, Mr. John Billingsley's son, Sammie, was seriously hurt by a tree falling on his leg and bruising it; we hope he will soon recover.

The health of this community is not very good, the measles are giving some trouble.

Mr. A. C. Pool visited his son Mr. W. M. Pool last Sunday six miles above Clanton.

Mr. W. A. Pool and Mr. John Chance made a trip to Selma last week with cotton, we hope they came back with a pocket full of money. Mr. Johnnie Pool took the measles at his brother's but we are glad to say he has recovered and came down to his father's last Sunday. This is leap year, it is the year for the girls to go to see the boys, but the boys around Kincheon don't stay at home enough for the girls to come. Spring is coming early, the Sweet Williams are blooming. Kincheon is on a boom it has a new blacksmith shop and another near by, the farmers will not have to plough with a dull plough this year.

Success to the BANNER and its readers.

Valley Creek Visiting.

The health of this community is very good at present; our friends who have had the measles are convalescent.

The Sabbath-school at this place is progressing nicely; there was a large attendance last Sunday.

It is said that some of the young people had a nice time at R. J. Mitchell's on Saturday night last. Misses Emma and Minnie Cook were there; it was a time ever to be remembered by some of the boys.

Mr. Frank Perry is visiting our community very often, he has a trap set for some young lady and I think he will catch our little May-flower.

Mr. Wiley Mitchell and sister are visiting relatives in East Perry.

I learn that Mr. R. J. Mitchell's hat rack does not hold near all of the young men's hats who visit there Sunday evenings.

As this is my first time to write to THE BANNER I will close, wishing its many readers success. IRA.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

JEMISON, Ala., Feb. 10, 1896.

Editor BANNER: The political breeze is beginning to blow and will in a few months culminate in a terrible cyclone that will sweep this nation from Alpha to Omega. And how important it is that we the People's or Populist party should be in a condition to withstand the onsets of the storm. We have certainly got to face it. We know of no better safeguard than complete organization. People must be organized to successfully accomplish any undertaking. Without it no set of men can carry out their plans. Without it the adherents of no party can be educated in its principles. And this, in my estimation, is the great defect in the People's Party. We are not organized as we should be. Too many are laboring under the idea the work of organization is done; but not so, there never has been a time since the dawn of our party when the school house clubs and meetings were more needed. We are promised our enemies would move the earth and the heavens to accomplish our defeat. We need county meetings, beat meetings and school house clubs in every county and township in the government, where the questions at issue could be discussed and talked about until there would be awakened an interest in minds of all lovers of liberty. All [illegible] an interest in arising to [illegible] the questions of the situation [illegible] and step themselves [illegible] the just demand. Let us do this [illegible] the armies of Grover and the [illegible] will be made to [illegible] and turn pale and cry aloud "this populism" sure enough. Our demands are just, and justice like truth never dies, but when crushed, bruised and trampled beneath the earth will rise again, for the endless years of God are hers. Could a complete standard of unity exist everywhere amongst the friends of reform there would be no trouble in carrying our banner to a triumphant victory. UNO.

A Great Chance to Make Money.

I want to tell you of my wonderful success. Being a poor girl and needing money badly, I tried the Dish Washer business and have cleared $200 every month. It is more money than I ever had before, and can't help telling about it, for I believe any person can do as well as I have if they only try. I sell from 5 to 15 machines a day. My business is increasing and am going to keep right on until I make $10,000. There is no excuse to be poor when so much money can be made selling dishwashers. The Washers sell on sight; every lady wants one. The Mound City Dish Washer does splendid work; you can wash and dry the dishes in two or three minutes without putting your hands in the water at all. Try this business and let us know how you succeed. The Mound City Dish Washer Co., St. Louis, Mo., will give you all necessary instructions so you can begin work at once.

Sunday night Sam Arledge was killed at the house of Widow Sammons at Stumps Hill by Will Martin, son of Tom Martin, who was convicted at the last term of circuit court and sent to the penitentiary. It seemed it might have been an old grudge. They quarrelled in the house but Mrs. Sammons quieted them but they went outside and renewed the quarrel. It appears that Arledge had Martin down beating him with his fist when Wash Sammons came and pulled him off and carried him away. Then Martin followed them and shot Arledge through the heart with a Smith & Wesson pistol. The unfortunate dead youth was attended to immediately but he never spoke a word—death must have been instantaneous. He was buried on Tuesday at the Robinson graveyard where there was a most distressing scene. Martin after the shooting went off right away and next morning was arrested at his home by Buck Arledge, uncle of the dead boy, who carried him to Clanton where he was committed to jail by Dr Stewart, J.P. He will have a preliminary trial on Saturday.

SOULLESS CORPORATIONS.

Dr. Washington Gladden in his lecture on corporations, one of the course which he is now delivering in this city, said: "If we, the people of America, mean that this nation shall continue to stand for a genuine Christian democracy, we must at once confront the fact that the day of judgment has fully come to all these great combinations of corporate wealth. Such vast accumulations of power cannot be left in the hands of soulless and conscienceless organizations."

Whether there is Christianity enough in the country to want a "Christian democracy" is doubtful, but there is enough of it, unless church membership is a sham, to make a much more vigorous protest against "soulless and conscienceless organizations" than has been made. The revelations of such a book as that of "Wealth against Commonwealth" ought to make the blood boil in any country that preferns to be Christians, and yet we have not heard that, outside of what are called labor circles, blood was boiling except in very limited quantities. In fact, the Tenth Commandment seems to be in great danger, under the development of civilization, of suffering the same fate as the tail of a tadpole, dropping off in the upward progress. At least, to express the present state of feeling, it should be changed to read: "Thou shalt not covet everything that is thy neighbor's unless thou art in a trust." A vast portion of the general public looks complacently upon the efforts of combinations of individuals to obtain the earth so long as they do not resort to violence.

It is high time for the public to change its tone and join with Dr. Gladden in proclaiming the day of judgment at hand. The church should stop looking upon the Tenth Commandment as least because it is last. It should be preached in trumpet tones in every pulpit in the land.

The settling down process, noticed elsewhere in this issue, seems inevitable. There are world wide factors and forces at work which we cannot always resist or counteract by artificial methods. But the country cannot bear the process and the crushing weight of the combinations at the same time. The two will grind a large part of the people to powder. The lowering of wages on one side and increasing profits and multiplying millionaires on the other is more than American flesh and blood will endure.

Again, Dr. Gladden speaks to the point when he says that "the nation cannot afford to give any room to the suspicion that combinations of laborers are judged by a more vigorous law than combinations of capitalists." A United States Senator said in a speech a few days ago that there is a general impression throughout the West that the courts are running the railroads in the interest of the corporations. This feeling would not exist if there was not some reason for it. Just now the question before the Supreme Court is whether railroad officials who violate the Inter-State law can be punished, not because there is a doubt of their guilt but an absolute certainty of it. Could there be any cooler effrontery than this attempt to escape penalty and nullify a great law of the land by an open admission of guilt? Is the small man to be punished because he is guilty and [illegible] man to escape because he is guilty?

Back of all these slippery methods of violating law and eluding penalty is the too common feeling that in industrial matters the only law breaker is the man who uses a club. If a man raises a riot, he is a law breaker, which is true, and the offense is not to be overlooked; but the official who gives one man a rebate and ruins another thereby, is a peaceable citizen, which is not true, but an iniquity which has wrought more harm than all the railroad riots that this country has ever known. It is the kernal of a monstrous system of trusts whose corruption has touched and tainted every function of government, enthroned a plutocracy and reduced multitudes of American freeman to vassalage. "Yea, why even of yourselves judge ye not what is right;" said the great Teacher to those who stood around him. This question needs to be sounded along the line again. The judgment of the time is not falling where there is the most lawlessness, but where there is the most weakness.—The Advance.

A Des Moines woman who has been troubled with frequent colds, concluded to try an old remedy in a new way, and accordingly took a tablespoonful (four times the usual dose) of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy just before going to bed. The next morning she found that her cold had almost entirely disappeared. During the day she took a few doses of the remedy (one teaspoonful at a time) and at night again took a tablespoonful before going to bed, and on the following morning awoke free from all symptoms of the cold. Since then she has, on several occasions, used this remedy in like manner, with the same good results, and is much elated over her discovery of so quick a way of curing a cold. For sale by J. S. Johnson, Jr., Druggist.

$1.00 FOR YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.

Write us a letter covering these three points:

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

Fence the World in 20 Days.

In the sale of the "STAR" Machine, as shown below, we have done more in recent years to enable the farmers of this country to get their fencing at the actual cost of the wire than all other fence manufacturers in the United States, because we figure and show how cheap the various styles of fence can be made, or what the actual cost of the wire is to make them, while those who make and sell the fence must add the cost of labor to manufacture and their profit to the actual cost of the wire. We can sell you a Machine and enough wire to make 100 rods of the best Woven Wire Fence on earth, horse high bull strong, pig and chicken tight for the same money that will buy 100 rods of any good woven wire fence now on the market. In one case you have the fence alone. In the other you have not only the fence but a machine which enables you to be your own fence manufacturer and with which you can make over 50 styles, including several styles of Ornamental yard or lawn fences. To show how the farmers of this country appreciate this machine it is only necessary to say that if all the machines sold by us were run for twenty days, each machine making 40 rods per day, they would make enough fence to go around the world, being an average of 400,000 rods or 1,250 miles per day. If all of the machines were run only 60 days during the year, making 40 rods per day each, they would make a grand total of 24,000,000 rods, which would make an average of 76,800 rods or 240 miles for every working day in the year. The combined product of all the Loom Fence Factories of the United States would not equal this. One cent isn't much. Invest it in a postal card and send for our Large Illustrated Catalogue, telling all about fencing. It may save you many dollars. Sent Free for the asking. GIVEN AWAY TO INVENTORS.

$150.00 every month given away to any one who applies through us for the most meritorious patent during the month preceding.

We secure the best patents for our clients, and the object of this offer is to encourage inventors to keep track of their bright ideas. At the same time we wish to impress upon the public the fact that such as the "car-window" which can be easily slid up and down without breaking the passenger's back, "sauce-pan," "collar-button," "nut-lock," "bottle-stopper," and a thousand other little things that most any one can find a way of improving; and these simple inventions are the ones that bring largest returns to the author. Try to think of something to invent.

IT'S THE SIMPLE, TRIVIAL INVENTIONS THAT YIELD FORTUNES,

IT IS NOT SO HARD AS IT SEEMS.

Patents taken out through us receive special notice in the "National Recorder," published at Washington, D. C., which is the best newspaper published in America in the interests of inventors. We furnish a year's subscription to this journal, free of cost, to all our clients. We also advertise, free of cost, the invention each month which wins our $150 prize, and hundreds of thousands of copies of the "National Recorder," containing a sketch of the winner, and a description of his invention, will be scattered throughout the United States among capitalists and manufacturers, thus bringing to their attention the merits of the invention.

All communications regarded strictly confidential.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

FORTY-SIXTH DAY.

SENATE.—At 3 o'clock the debate in committee of the whole on the house bond bill and the silver substitute reported from the senate finance committee was closed. Butler's amendment requiring the secretary of the treasury, whenever the dollars of the two metals are not at parity, to pay out the inferior coin was voted down by 60 to 13. The amendment by Mr. Allen, populist, of Nebraska, depriving the secretary of the treasury of the power to issue bonds without special authority of congress was defeated; yeas 21, nays 54. Mr. Morrill offered an amendment to the substitute reserving to the government on silver to be coined under this act, as seigniorage, the difference between the coinage and the commercial value of the bullion when delivered at the mint; lost by nays 43, yeas 33. A motion, by Mr. Gorman, to lay the substitute on the table, was defeated; nays 43, yeas 34. The substitute was then agreed to by yeas 43, nays 34. The bill as amended was then passed without a division and reported to the senate. The fortifications amendment, by Mr. Lodge was offered and tabled, without a division. The bill was put upon its passage and carried; yeas 43, nays 35. ....After holding an executive session the senate adjourned until Tuesday.

HOUSE.—The following bills were passed: House bills authorizing Capt. D. McNally of the army ordnance department to issue a duplicate check for $36,195, in favor of the Independent National bank of Philadelphia, the original check in favor of the Midvale Steel company, in payment for material furnished the ordnance department and deposited with the bank for collection, having been lost in the mails authorizing the issue of an American register to the foreign built ships Linde and Johann Ludwig; granting right of way through Indian and Oklahoma territories to the St. Louis and Oklahoma City railroad; authorizing the secretary of the interior to pay from the fund in his hands, belonging to the Indians, the sum of $1,000 to Reese Voorheese and John Paul Jones, for legal services to the "old settlers" or western Cherokee Indians. Senate bill amending the act granting right of way through the Indian Territory to the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf railroad, so as to permit the construction of a branch near Scullville to Fort Smith, Ark....The regular order being the District of Columbia appropriation bill, was taken up and was pending when the house adjourned until Monday.

FORTY-SEVENTH DAY.

SENATE.—Not in session.

HOUSE.—The army appropriation bill for the coming fiscal year was reported.....A bill was passed granting right of way through the Choctaw nation to the Arkansas & Choctaw Railroad company.....The senate free coinage substitute for the house bond bill was received and referred, under the rules, to the committee on ways and means.....A message from the president asking a reasonable appropriation for the families of four Italians killed in Colorado last spring was referred to the committee on appropriations.....Mr. Hill, republican, of Connecticut, offered a bill amending existing laws so as to permit national banks to issue currency to the par value of bonds deposited. When currency is issued to the banks the secretary of the treasury is directed to redeem [illegible] corresponding amount of [illegible] Should no legal tenders be presented [illegible] tion, then the secretary is di[illegible] redeem and cancel notes issued under the Sherman act. To carry out the provisions of this bill the secretary is authorized to issue a 3 per cent gold bond payable in twenty years, to be sold as occasion requires. The bill also reduced from 1 per cent to one-fourth of 1 per cent the tax on national bank circulation.....The house went into committee of the whole on the District of Columbia appropriation bill, which was considered until 4:59 p. m., when the committee rose and the house adjourned until tomorrow.

FORTY-EIGHTH DAY.

SENATE—Mr. Morrill, chairman of the finance committee, reported back the house tariff bill with an amendment substituting the silver bill already passed as a substitute for the house bill. Mr. Quay offered a resolution to recommit the bill, with instructions to report back the original house bill and the amendment as separate propositions. The resolution went over.—Numerous bills were reported and put on the calendar.—Mr. DuBois asked to have taken up his resolution providing for the distribution of the appropriation bills among the committees. These resolutions propose to substitute for the rule under which all appropriation bills have heretofore been referred to the appropriations committee a rule to refer every such bill to the committee having jurisdiction of the subject matter to which the bill relates. If adopted it will in effect abolish the committee on appropriations. The proposition was discussed until 5:30, when it went over without action, and the senate, after a short executive session, adjourned.

HOUSE—Mr. Dingly, republican, of Maine, chairman of the committee on ways and means, reported a recommendation that the house non-concur in the senate substitute (the silver bill) for the house bond bill.—A number of measures were taken up and passed, and the rest of the session was devoted to the District of Columbia appropriation bill. A warm debate sprang up on a motion by Mr. Haines, of Nebraska, to strike out a paragraph giving $5,400 to St. Anne's Infant Asylum. Carried by 93 to 25. Appropriations of $1,800 each to the Association for Works of Mercy and St. Joseph's Asylum were stricken out, while those of $1,000 to the Young Women's Christian Home, and $9,900 to the Industrial Home school were retained, it being conceded that they were non-sectarian. The consideration of the bill in committee of the whole was completed, but no vote had been taken when the house adjourned until tomorrow.

FORTY-NINTH DAY.

SENATE.—Mr. Morgan from committee on foreign relations offered a substitute for the resolutions relating to the Cuban war heretofore reported. It is as follows: Resolved by the senate, the house of representatives concurring, That in the opinion of congress a condition of public war exists between the government of Spain and the government proclaimed and for some time maintained by force of arms by the people of Cuba; and that the United States of America should maintain a strict neutrality between the contending powers and accord to each the rights of belligerents in the ports and territories of the United States.....

The resolution is on the vice-president's table and will be taken up tomorrow.....The diplomatic appropriation bill was reported and placed on the calendar.....Several resolutions were brought up and discussed but no vote was reached. At 6:05 the senate adjourned until tomorrow.

HOUSE.—The District of Columbia appropriation bill as amended was defeated by 143 to 64, and recommitted with instructions to report a new paragraph relating to charities.....A bill to prevent prize and bull fighting in the territories and the District of Columbia was passed. It make the principals and promoters of such fights liable to a penalty of from one to five years imprisonment.....The senate silver substitute to the house bond bill was under consideration when a recess was taken. The house reconvened at 8 p. m., and continued the discussion until 10:30, when it adjourned.

FIFTIETH DAY.

SENATE—The senate passed without division, debate or amendment, the bill passed by the house yesterday to prevent prize fighting in the territories. The text of the bill follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That any person who, in any of the territories or the District of Columbia, shall voluntarily engage in a pugilistic encounter between man and man, or a fight between a man and a bull, or any other animal, for money or for other thing of value, or for any championship, or upon the result of which any money or anything of value is bet or wagered, or to see which any admission is charged, either directly or indirectly, shall be deemed guilty of a felony and upon conviction shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than one nor more than five years.

Sec. 2. By the term "pugilistic encounter," as used in this bill, is meant any voluntary fight by blows by means of fists or otherwise, whether with or without gloves, between two or more men for money, or for a prize of any character, or for anything of value, or for any championship, or upon the result of which any money or anything of value is bet or wagered, or to see which any admission fee is charged, either directly or indirectly.

No other business was completed when the senate at 6 p. m. adjourned until tomorrow.

HOUSE.—The day and night sessions were spent in debating the senate silver substitute to the bond bill, and at 10:30 the house took a recess until tomorrow.

FIFTY-FIRST DAY.

SENATE.—Senator Frye, republican of Maine, was chosen president pro tem. of the senate....The Dubois resolution, for the distribution of the appropriation bills among the committees, was referred to the rules committee with instructions to report it back on the first Monday in December; yeas 40, nays 28....At 3:15 p. m. the senate adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE.—It was agreed to close general debate on the pending bond and [illegible] bill at the close of Monday next. [illegible] age from the president, trans[illegible] report of the Nicaragua canal co[illegible] received. Referred to the committee on [illegible] and foreign commerce....Debate on silver bill continued, pending which the house took a recess until 10:30 tomorrow.

FIFTY-SECOND DAY.

HOUSE.—The entire day was taken up in debate on the senate silver substitute to the house bond bill and at 10:30 the house took a recess until Monday.

SENATE —No session.

ONE MAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Others Narrowly Escape—$200,000 Worth of Property Destroyed.

Early Saturday morning a fire started on the fifth floor of the Altemeyer building, at McKeesport, Pa., and is supposed to have been caused by defective electric light wiring. The flames were discovered by the printers of the Herald as the fire began to eat its way through the sixth floor. The night's work had just been finished and the paper was just about to go to press. When the flames were seen a rush was made for the usual points of egress, but the stairway was already impassable and the only resources were the windows and the elevator shaft. All but G. M. Barton, the foreman, succeeded in sliding down the rope. His escape was cut off and he was burned to death.

The flames spread to the residence of Peter Strong, adjoining, which was totally destroyed. Pollard's jewelry store and Deitrich's livery stables were also on fire, but the flames were extinguished without much damage. The loss on the Altmeyer theater building and the Herald plant is estimated at $175,000, and on the other buildings $25,000.

The Bristol Bridge Calamity.

Up to noon Saturday no more bodies had been found at the scene of the Bristol bridge accident and the record now stands: Six dead, two missing—Patrick McCarthy and James Mack, both of New Britain.

William T. Barry, the East Hartford section foreman, cannot recover from his injuries.

Murder by Unknown Hands.

Saturday morning Coroner Gus Johnson, of Knoxville, Tenn., held an inquest over the remains of John Melton, who was found in the creek at the Clinch street bridge Friday morning. After empanneling a jury and taking testimony a verdict was reached that the deceased came to his death from wounds in the head, inflicted by unknown persons.

The stave works at Bridgeport, which have been reported shut down, are running daily.

Plenty and to Spare.

The good people of Gadsden sent last week to the Presbyterian Orphans' Home in Talladega $30 in provisions, and $65 cash.

Body of an Unknown Man.

The body of a man, not identified, was found in a pit near Benton by two hunters. It was wrapped in cotton bagging and bore marks of violence.

Alabama Ships Hogs.

A Scottsboro dispatch says: "Ashmore and Robinson ship 1,000 hogs from here to western markets next week." It is predicted that more than 5,000 will be shipped.

Store and Safe Robbery.

The storehouse of J. W. Moore, of Steels, Ala., was broken into last Wednesday night by unknown parties. The iron safe was broken open and robbed of $80 in cash, and a quantity of merchandise.

Killed a Fellow Convict.

On Thursday last, at Coalburg, John Waldrop, a negro convict who was sent up from Jefferson county for grand larceny, drove a pick into the brain of Jasper Thornton, colored, also a convict, causing his death in a short time.

The Rains Last Week.

Unusually heavy rains were reported from several points in the state last week, beginning on Wednesday night, swelling streams to the great danger of bridges, tearing up roads, destroying fences and suspending farm work.

Coming Back Home.

A dispatch from Florence mentions the return to that city and vicinity of a number of families who emigrated to Texas and have come back satisfied that Alabama possesses the elements of prosperity and happiness in as high a degree as any state in the Union.

With His Little Pistol.

In an altercation between Mr. Pan Freeman and Mr. Robert Broadnax last Wednesday night at Hayneville, the latter shot the former, wounding him slightly, the ball having passed through Broadnax's hand before it struck Freeman.

Train Load of Bananas.

A train of eighteen cars of bananas from the steamer Condor left Mobile at 4:47 p. m. on January 29, and arrived at St. Louis at 3:55 p. m. January 30, making the time between the points on this train 23 hours and 8 minutes, a very fast run.

Tennessee River Trade.

The rise in the Tennessee river, which threatens to submerge all the islands and main shores along its course, has boomed business at Decatur and other north Alabama towns, and every serviceable boat now finds employment.

From Tuscaloosa to Liverpool.

The steamer Hatttie B. Moore was at the Tuscaloosa wharf Friday night and on her down trip to Mobile carried a considerable lot of compressed cotton on through bills of lading to Liverpool. The all water route from Tuscaloosa to foreign ports is being utilized this season as never before.

Rebuilding Burned Mills.

Andrews and Stevens large planing mills which were burned at Opelika during first part of January are being rebuilt, and will soon be ready for the new and improved machinery. This enterprise is a very important one to Opelika, as a large number of workmen are dependent upon it for labor.

The Tennessee river was rising rapidly Saturday night and it was thought the islands and bottom lands would be flooded. All cattle were being [illegible] from the bottoms. It is the first big [illegible] months, the river having been [illegible] for navigation above Florence the grea[illegible] portion of last year.

Mr. J. D. Mosely Loses a Hand.

On Monday morning Mr. J. D. Mosely, of Selma, while getting out of his buggy in front of Farrel's store near that city put his right hand on the muzzle of a gun, moving it so that the hammer was thrown and the gun fired, shattering his wrist and hand so that amputation was necessary.

High Waters at Brewton.

Another heavy rainfall visited Brewton Friday night, causing the streams to take another rise, though they had hardly gone down from the rise the day before. Several commercial men had to stay over two or three days last week, on account of the high water. All the mills were closed down water being up in them so they could not operate.

Prospective Cotton Mill.

Oxford is to have a cotton mill. The company starts with a paid-up capital of $50,000. The stockholders met Friday night and elected the following directors: O. W. Cooper, T. A. Howle, D. C. Cooper, J. R. Draper and L. B. Miller. Officers will be elected this week. Other industries are on foot and soon Oxford will be a thriving manufacturing city.

Indicted and Bailed.

Steve Pratt was indicted by the grand jury of Jefferson county last Monday for false pretense and, in another court, grand larceny, in obtaining $6,000 from old man Dobbins by the gold brick scheme. Under habeas corpus proceedings Friday his bond was fixed at $6,000 and was made, with Dr. R. M. Green, of Opelika, and M. T. Stratford as sureties, secured by cash deposited with the sheriff.

Musn't Print Nasty Things.

Joseph R. Dunlop, proprietor of the Chicago Dispatch, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000 for circulating through the mails indecent matter contained in the daily issues of his newspaper. The conviction is the first of the kind in Chicago, the publisher of a daily paper never having been arraigned in court before to answer such a charge. A stay of twenty days was granted to permit of the preparation of a bill of exceptions, the intention being to appeal to the supreme court. Dunlop was released on $10,000 bail.

A MIGHTY UNDERTAKING.

A Mammoth Church in Chicago Being Moved Intact.

They don't do things by halves in Chicago as a general thing, and the removal of the Immanuel Baptist Church from its present site to a new one 75 feet away, bears out the reputation of the metropolis of the West. This undertaking is said to be the greatest and most hazardous in the history of engineering feats. The edifice is a very massive one, with heavy buttresses and a tower 225 feet high resting on a base 24 feet 6 inches square. The building, which is built of stone, is irregular in form, with a frontage of 100 feet. It is located near the southwest corner of Michigan avenue and Twenty-third street, adjoining the Metropole Hotel. It is, or was, so close to the hotel, in fact, that it shut off much light from one side of the building, and so the hotel people are having it removed.

The work of removing the church to its new site will require about three months, and will cost something like $75,000. Not a piece of plastering in the edifice is expected to be even cracked nor a stone loosened. The church is elevated on 1,600 jack screws and slid upon a steel railway. From the apex of the church, in the center, hangs a great plumb line, with a point beneath for a marker. Stationed at this marker all the time during the operation is a man, whose duty it is to watch the line and see that the church never leaves a true level. By a system of signals he directs the operations of the immense gang of workmen on the outside. Every man at his post awaits the proper signal and then all together they send the edifice a little way on its journey. Slowly but surely the great building creeps on, at the same time rising a little, for the new foundation will be six feet higher than the old one.

The contractor, of course, takes the risk upon himself, and if the edifice is injured he will be held responsible; so until the building has been firmly settled upon its new foundation he will be under a great strain. Altogether it is a mighty undertaking.

Let It Alone.

There is a story told of a very eminent lawyer, now no longer with us, who once, while endeavoring to dissuade a friend of mine from going to law, was asked what he would himself consider a sufficient ground for resorting to litigation.

"My dear fellow," he replied, "I do not say that under no conceivable circumstances would I take proceedings against anyone, but I do say that if at this moment you deliberately upset my ink on the tablecloth, chucked my wife out of the window, threw that volume of reports at the bust of Blackstone, 'made hay' with my furniture, and finally tweaked my nose, I should no doubt use my best endeavors to kick you down stairs; but, once rid of you, either by force or persuasion, no power on earth should induce me to bring an action against you."

THE DRUG CLERK'S STORY.

He Talks of Headaches and Nervousness and Gives a Cure for Both.

From the Evening News, Newark, N. J.

It was the drug clerk's turn to tell a story of one of his experiences, and the reporter, expecting something good, as usual, settled himself comfortably in a chair prepared to give his undivided attention to the speaker. The latter was Henry Maier, who resides with his parents on Acqueduct Street, Newark, N. J., and who hands out medicine over the counter of Dr. Andrew F. Burkhardt's drug store at 21 Orange Street, this city.

"Perhaps I can do nothing better," he began, "than to tell you the secret of my good health. It is a story that I have told to many recently, and as it resulted in good in each case, it may be worth your while to listen to it. To begin with, I was not always strong and robust, as I am now. Long hours of work and hard study had left me in a wretched condition. Frightful, lingering headaches found me a ready victim, and at times I was so nervous that the dropping of a pin would cause me to give a violent start, and then I would be seized with a fit of trembling that was, to put it mildly, exceedingly bothersome. Well, I began to doctor myself. Now I flatter myself that I know something of medicine; but with all my knowledge, I could find nothing that would cure those terrible headaches or put an end to my extreme nervousness. When I picked up a bottle my hand would shake as though [illegible] the chills, and if it was a powder that a [illegible] dling I stood a good chance of sprinkl[illegible] over these black trousers. Things went from bad to worse, and I soon realized that a man of my physical condition had better not attempt to mix any medicine.

"'Try a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills,' said Dr. Burkhardt, one day; and as you know the doctor's advice is always worth following, I got the Pink Pills and began to take them. Aladdin's lamp never performed the wonders of these pills. Would you believe it? Before I had taken the contents of one box my headache began to give me a day off occasionally, and soon it left me entirely. How about my nervousness? Well, the pills put an end to that with almost startling abruptness. You see I know enough about the business to appreciate the importance of following the prescribing physicians' directions, and by paying strict attention to those given by Dr. Williams with each box of his Pink Pills, I was soon another fellow. Look at me now! A picture of health; eh? Well, that is what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do for a man, or a woman either. See, I can hold this glass of water out now without spilling a drop, but I couldn't do that two months ago and—

"What is it, ma'm?" he asked as a neatly dressed woman came up to the counter. "A box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." "Yes, ma'm, fifty cents, please. Thank you."

"These Pink Pills are great things," said Mr. Maier as he turned to the reporter again, and the latter, after all he had heard, thought so too.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

A Good Dog is Worth Looking After.

If you own a dog and think anything of him, you should be able to treat him intelligently when ill and understand him sufficiently to detect symptoms of illness. The dog doctor book written by H. Clay Glover, D. V. S., specialist in canine diseases to the principal kennel clubs, will furnish this information. It is a cloth bound, handsomely illustrated book, and will be sent postpaid by the Book Publishing House, 134 Leonard St., New York City, on receipt of 40 cents in postage stamps.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. Bert M. Moses, the advertisement and business writer of 502 Third street, Brooklyn, relates that he recently had occasion to consult Dr. J. S. Carreau, a well-known physician of 18 West Twenty-first street, New York City, for a stomach trouble which was pronounced a type of dyspepsia. "After consultation," writes Mr. Moses, "the Doctor gave me a prescription, and I was somewhat surprised to note that the formula was nearly identical with that of Ripans Tabules, for which I had, on more than one occasion prepared advertising matter. I had Dr. Carreau's prescription filled, and it proved satisfactory, giving quick relief. A week later, when I had taken all the medicine, I again called on the Doctor and mentioned the similarity of his prescription and the proprietary remedy spoken of, showing him both the remedy itself and the formula. The Doctor was at first somewhat inclined to criticise what he called patent medicines, but appeared to be surprised when he noted to what extent his own prescription conformed to the formula I showed him. It was practically the same. After a short time devoted to noting the careful manner in which the proprietary medicine was prepared, he wound up by prescribing it for my case. Of course I had to pay him for telling me to do this, but it was worth the cost to have such high professional assurance that the advertised article was, in fact, the scientific formula that it purported to be. I might have taken the proprietary medicine in the beginning and saved the Doctor's fee, but I think the confidence I have acquired in the efficacy of the remedy, through the Doctor's indorsement of it, is well worth the fee."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce st., New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

BEN TILLMAN'S FIERY TONGUE.

His Great Speech Arraigning the Administration of Grover Cleveland.

PORTENTOUS WORDS FROM THE BRAVE SOUTH CAROLINAN.

A Speech That Will Live in the History of the Country Like Those of Lincoln, Clay and Webster.

"God Forbid This Nation the Fate of France in 1789"—Is the Money Power Conspiring to Bring on Another Conflict at Arms—How the People Were Deceived Into Voting Democratic in 1892—Wall Street Is Behind the Old Parties and Is Contributing to the Campaign Funds of Both—High Time That the People Get a Party of Their Own—Good Reasons for Voting the Populist Ticket.

When Senator Ben Tillman, of South Carolina, got the floor in the senate to speak on the free coinage substitute, he spoke to a packed floor and galleries and received the undivided attention of his hearers.

The senator said that he would use plain Anglo-Saxon, the language of the common people, for he was one of them. He spoke bitterly of the essay-reading indulged in by senators, charging that that body was not the deliberative body that it was intended it should be by the fathers who framed the constitution. "How much," he said, "of this so-called senatorial dignity of which we hear so much and see so much is worthy of preservation? It hangs over this chamber like a wet blanket, it smothers down independent action: it obliterates the man and we are here the puppets, the cogs in the wheel of party, to do the bidding of the manipulators of the party machines. (Applause.)

"Speeches here change no votes. There is not a man on this floor who on any question affecting his party has ever been budged one inch from his position by a speech from a man on the other side. I have a higher conception of my duty than to feel or believe that South Carolina's interests alone are in my keeping. I am an American senator. I have one vote out of ninety which deal with the lives and liberties and property of the people of this country.

"So far as I know I am the only farmer pure and simple in this august body. Yet out of the 70,000,000 people in this country, 35,000,000 are engaged in agricultural pursuits alone. If, then, one farmer has broken down the barriers and forced his way here, upon his head rests the responsibility of giving utterance to the feelings, the aspiration of his fellows and of giving utterance to the sense of wrong they have. Therefore, Mr. President, I feel constrained to-day to raise my voice to speak, and before I get through you will realize the fact that I speak plainly and bluntly and use Anglo-Saxon, the vernacular, the language of the common people, for I am one of them, and I expect to tell you how they feel and what they think and what they want.

"The senator from Ohio (Mr. Sherman) said the other day that the question of the free coinage of silver is old straw, that it has been thrashed and thrashed and thrashed; that there is nothing new in it. It has been thrashed, sir, by law[illegible] has been thrashed by railroad magnates; it has been thrashed by the president of this corporation and the attorney of that corporation. It has not yet been handled on the pitchfork of the farmer. I am here to see if I cannot get a few grains more of truth in the straw, therefore the simile of the statement is good. They use pitchforks to handle manure, and perhaps I shall find some of that in my pathway before I get through."

Speaking of Cleveland and Sherman, he said: "In what respect do they differ? Mr. Sherman wants coin bonds. Mr. Cleveland wants gold bonds. Mr. Sherman wants a higher tariff. Mr. Cleveland wants the present tariff. Mr. Sherman, as a means of relief to stop the endless chain, which is a patent contrivance, with thieves at one end and dishonest officials at the other, to rob the American people, wants to keep the redeemed greenbacks in the treasury so no one can get them to raid the treasury, while the president says the only refuge he sees is to redeem, to blot out and issue bonds in place of every solitary piece of paper that circulates without interest. And both of them mean contraction, lower prices, harder times."

He referred to the present derangement of our finances as a "damnable scheme of robbery" which had for its object the destruction of silver, the increase of the debt and the surrender to corporations of the power to issue money and give to them a monopoly of that function. He called attention to the fact that the election of a president who would veto a silver bill in the coming campaign means continued disaster to our industries and increased poverty to the masses of the people.

Speaking of the last campaign, he said: "If the secret history of the year 1892 shall ever be written it will disclose the fact, which cannot be proven now, but of which I have not the slightest doubt, that the gold ring of New York, which embraces nearly all of the bankers in the eastern and middle states and the stock gamblers of Wall street, controlled the presidential nominations of both the democratic and republican parties, and had an understanding with the managers or with both the candidates themselves in regard to what policy should be pursued toward our finances. They contributed money for the booming of Mr. Cleveland as the only available democratic candidate and they abused and ridiculed every other democratic aspirant.

"They kept up such a noise and racket in the lobby of the Palmer House that one would have thought that pandemonium had broken loose and all the demons of hell had collected in one group to shout for 'Grover.'

"Interpreted according to the plain use and meaning of English words, the platform means bimetallism, but there are conditions and ambiguous phrases which have afforded an excuse to the elastic conscience of the bull-headed and self-idolatrous man who holds the reins of power to pursue the policy he has. Whether the scheme was agreed to by the president or not and whether he bound himself in plain terms or not, will, perhaps, never be known. His course has been unswerving in the absolute contradiction of his public professions and letter of acceptance. The expectations and interests of the people have been forgotten and ignored. The party which elected him has been betrayed and its banners now trail in the dust of disgrace and defeat. The practical destruction of the party has been accomplished. The republicans are now in possession of the other branch of congress by a majority unknown to our history except during and immediately after the war. They are there not because there has been an increase in the republican vote, but because hundreds and thousands of disgusted democrats have stayed at home and let the election go by default.

"The people by their votes (in 1892) demanded a change from the republican policy. A democratic president gave them a change for the worse by encouraging his moneyed friends who controlled the newspapers and thus directed the current of public opinion to hurry up their operations of robbery by means of the panic and to accelerate the downward progress of the country.

"I came up here as the governor of my state and stood out in the cold around here on North Capitol street for four hours, nearly frozen to death, to be present at the jollification and glorification upon the inauguration of a democratic president, with a democratic senate and a democratic house, and God forgive me for being such a fool. (Laughter.) Thank God, I did all I could to keep him from being nominated."

The senator quoted from President Cleveland's response to the committee that notified him of his nomination the last time, and declared there was nothing in it to warrant one to expect that the leader of the democratic party would ignore the platform and treat with contempt the trusted lieutenants whom the people had sent to the national capital to assist in shaping legislation.

He asked: "How many of you, men grown old and gray in the service of the party and of the nation, men who were its trusted leaders before this man from Buffalo was ever heard of—how many, I say, have been called into his councils? Whose advice has he followed? None but that of the bootlicks and sycophants which have crawled on their knees for crumbs of patronage and betrayed their constituents for the offices in his gift.

"In the entire history of this country the high office of president has never been so prostituted and never has the appointing power been so abused. Claiming to be the apostle of civil service he has made appointments only of those whose sponsors would surrender their manhood and, with bated breath, walk with submissive head in his presence. With relentless purpose he has ignored his oath of office to uphold and obey the law and has paid out gold instead of coin and issued bonds to buy more gold, by both actions overriding the law and giving no heed to the interests of any but moneyed friends—I might say, his owners and partners.

"While to this besotted tyrant coin has come to mean gold alone, he cannot by his mere 'ipse dixit' change the law of this land and pervert the plain meaning of the English language.

Speaking of the party talk he said: "The object was to have them use each other to hold silver up by holding gold down, and an honest secretary of the treasury who would have resigned his office rather than submit to the dictation of a besotted chief would have paid out silver to protect the treasury from the gold gamblers and bond gamblers, as the law and his oath of office required.

"But, alas! the old breed of southern statesmen, like Calhoun, who, after a life spent in public service, had to be buried at public expense, and his debts paid by the state of South Carolina, is no more. No wonder the senator from Massachusetts feels warranted in twitting me with the decay of southern statesmanship and charging us with dishonesty. He charges it, however, in another connection, and as aiding and abetting this Judas from Kentucky, who, after a brilliant career of twenty years and more as leader and champion of the silver forces, has in his old age come to this pitiful pass. And then to think this indictment brought against a whole section should have so much color of truth and of fact to back it up in the apostacy from the principles of the two other secretaries from the south in the cabinet of a president who has so disgraced the name of democracy.

"The south bows its head in shame at this exhibition of moral cowardice and despises the renegades."

The senator then asserted that Cleveland had not, during his term of office, held the hand of a simple, square, straight, honest toiler in the field. "He knows nothing about farmers, and, more's the pity, he cares nothing about them.

"They are burning our candle at both ends, robbing us on one hand with the tariff and robbing us on the other hand with the single gold standard. And they have asked us like beasts of burden, like dumb driven cattle, to bear these things and say nothing but to vote the party ticket."

He said, referring to Cleveland's toriff utterances, that he had sung this siren song with "damnable iteration" in the ears of the farmers. He quoted the messages for "the purpose of pointing out the evolution of a tyrant, and of showing the transition from a conscientious, law-abiding chief magistrate to an arrogant and obstinate ruler, who ignores the law and issues bonds at will. He not only issues them, but does it secretly with his law partner as a witness to the contract, and has created the suspicion in the minds of millions of his countrymen that a president of the United States can use his high office for private gain. The suspicion, like a 'damned spot,' has been burned into the brains of the people and will no more 'out' than Duncan's blood could be washed from the lily hands of Lady Macbeth."

He predicted that he was the last of the democratic presidents who would be elected by the party as now organized.

"The democratic party elected him and re-elected him and would have no other leader. It must bear the odium of his official misdeeds, his utter lack of leadership. He has never been a democrat, measured by the standard of Jefferson and Jackson. His opinions and policy on finance have been those of Sherman, who is not a republican measured by the standard of Lincoln."

He congratulated Sherman on his victory in the special session, and said he (Sherman) had the proud satisfaction of "knowing that he has brought the party which he so hates to its knees, and has lived to see many of his old antagonists enlisted under his banner of monopoly and class privileges."

"If he (Cleveland) was honest in the start (and I am willing to grant that [illegible]), his associations with Wall street and his connection with wealthy men have debauched his conscience and destroyed his sympathy with the masses."

In discussing the gold standard he said:

"Rothschild and his American agents graciously condescended to come to the help of the United States treasury in maintaining the gold standard which has wrought the ruin, and only charges a small commission of $10,000,000 or so on one little transaction. Great God, that this proud government, the richest, most powerful on the globe, should have been brought to so low a pass that a London Jew should have been appointed its receiver to have charge of the treasury. Is there a man here who can think of it without blushing?"

"And what are the people going to do about it? Why are these iniquities permitted, and the outrageous and unlawful actions of the executive unchecked? No man here denies the assertion that it is unlawful to issue bonds to pay the current expenses of the government, and yet it has been done. There has been a lame explanation attempted, that redeemed greenbacks had to go into the general fund and be reissued, but if they were secured for the gold which the bonds have been issued and they were not used to pay current expenses, where are they? The responsibility of providing revenues and looking after the solvency of the treasury, which rests with congress, has been usurped by the president.

"Now comes the crucial question for the republican party. Why have you not impeached him? You have nearly a three-fourths majority at the other end of the capitol, which alone can formulate articles of impeachment. Why have you not impeached him?

"Because he is carrying out republican policies, and the majority in the house of representatives feel safe, the senators over here feel safe, and you all believe that the republican party is certain to elect the next president and obtain control of the government.

"The encroachments of the federal judiciary and the supineness and venality—corruption, I may say—of the representative branches of this government are causes of deep concern to all thinking and patriotic men. We are fast drifting into government by injunction in the interest of monopolies and corporations and the supreme court, by one corrupt vote, annuls an act of congress looking to the taxation of the rich.

"You all remember Macauley's prediction that some day a government would be put in charge of this country by the commune. When that time comes, God have mercy on you millionaires who have stolen so much of the people's money.

"A day of reckoning will come, unless there is no longer a just God in heaven, and when it does come, woe be unto those who have been among the oppressors of the people. The present struggle is unfortunately too like that which preceded the late civil war, inasmuch as it is sectional. The creditor and the manufacturing states of the north and east, those which have grown inordinately wealthy at the expense of the producing classes of the south and west, are urging this policy with the besotted blindness of Belshazzer. The old slaveholders of the south were not more arrogant or more determined. The sordid despotism of wealth, to use the apt phrase of Justice Brown, is already felt throughout the land.

"And the new Mason and Dixon's line which is drawn, not by the surveyor, but by the denial of the natural and inalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness to a large majority of citizens, will sooner or later bring together in the bonds of union the toiling and now down-trodden masses of the cities and the equally desperate masses of the country; agrarianism and communism will join hands. There are millions now on the march, and they tramp, tramp, tramp; tramp the sidewalks hunting work and tramp the highways begging bread. Unless relief comes they will some day take a notion to tramp to Washington with rifles in their hands to regain the liberties which have been stolen from them or which their representatives have sold; and the hitherto conservative force of the republic, the well-to-do agricultural class, will lift no hand to stay the march, but join it. God grant that our country may be spared the enactment of such scenes as were witnessed in Paris in 1789. But the fair flower of liberty planted by Jefferson in the immortal declaration of the 4th of July, 1776, watered by the blood of our revolutionary sires under Washington, cannot be uprooted or smothered by the noxious weeds of monopoly and class privilege without bloodshed; and a cataclysm which will give us a military despotism or leave the republic redeemed, regenerated and disenthralled is just as sure to come as yonder sun shines in the heavens unless we do our duty here and take the hands of these conspirators off the people's throats and give them an opportunity to breathe, to work, to live.'

Initiative and Referendum.

The Initiative and Referendum is a feature of vital importance to the people. Briefly stated, it means that by petition a certain per cent of the population can call for the enactment of any law they may desire. This is the Initiative. Then the proposed measure is referred back to the whole people for their adoption or rejection by ballot. This is the Referendum. If we enjoyed this privilege, how many bond bills would pass? How long would it be until we had free coinage and many other measures of relief for the people? The Initiative and Referendum simply means that all important measures shall receive the approval of the people before it becomes a law.—Topeka Co-Operator.

DUN'S TRADE REVIEW.

The Continued Closeness of Money Hinders Busi[illegible]

R. G. Dun & C[illegible] weekly review [illegible] for the first week of Feb[illegible] were $4,079,680, against $2,909,890 last year. Manufacturing were $2,372,253, against $729,348 last year, and $1,584,072 in 1894, and trading were $1,636,427, against $1,934,894 last year and $2,465,585 in 1894. Failures for the week have been 327 in the United States against 270 last year, and 67 in Canada against 51 last year.

There is a little more demand for some manufactured products. Exports improve with yielding prices of staples and for the week from New York exceeded last year's 30 per cent, while imports have increased 15 per cent. Pig iron at the east and at Chicago has not advanced, southern competition continuing at prices so low that several Alabama furnaces have stopped. A demand for finished products keeps about 70 per cent of the capacity employed. The coke output is again much reduced.

Textile work shows little change, though the cut in print cloths and general concessions in brown and bleached staples, averaging for the whole list quoted 6 per cent since January 1, induced more buying, which the known accumulation of goods ahead of demand has hindered. Many mills are reporting great profits last year from the rise of cotton, but the prospect of a larger crop this year does not promise a repetition of such gains. Though goods still average 12.7 per cent above their lowest point a year ago, cotton is now 44 per cent higher than it was then. Sales of wool have been small for two weeks of February, but higher prices abroad, sustained by heavy shipments of goods to this country, incline holders of wool here to make no concessions, so that manufacturers have the more difficulty in meeting competition. Cotton receipts at this season, never large, still indicate a supply for the current crop year, including stocks brought over, much in excess of the world's needs, so that the prospect of increased acreage has the more power to depress prices, and spot cotton has declined an eighth for the week. Exports in January were $8,653,566 less than last year, though prices were 45 per cent higher.

Clearings for the week were 10.4 per cent larger than last year and 27.7 per cent less than in 1893.

Liverpool Cotton Statistics.

Following are the Liverpool weekly cotton statistics: Sales, total 48,000 bales; American, 43,000; trade takings, 66,000; actual export, 8,000; import, total 138,000; American, 117,000; stock, total, 11,560,000; American, 962,000; afloat, total, 154,000; American, 130,000; sales for speculation, 2,000; purchases for export, 1,700.

A SHOCKING STORY

Received by a Young Armenian, a Resident of Milwaukee.

Giragos Tomanian, a young Armenian of Milwaukee, Wis., is almost prostrated by a letter which he received from his uncle, Khiatjian Tomanian, written December 31, 1895, in the village of Ouzounaba, Pelau, province of Diarbekir, Armenia. This place is twenty days distant from Constantinople by horse. The letter says:

"I wrote you of the horrible happenings, which are unequaled in the history of our village. Brother, they have struck our quiet village; they have burned our church and our home and robbed us of everything. They have killed nearly everyone. Those who are left have changed their religion and become Mohammedans. But this is not all; let me write and relate about your home.

"Your brother's wife and your little boy are killed. Your wife and mother have thrown themselves into the Euphrates in order to save themselves from Turkish outrages. Your sister is living yet; but I wish she might have been killed with the rest, for they have taken her and married her to a Kurd and have changed her religion to Mohammedanism. The massacre continued for three days. Very few of us are left in the village."

Alabama's Coal Output.

The following is taken from the state mine inspector's report:

There are in Jefferson county 4,906 coal miners. This includes 1,500 convicts. During the past twelve months there were mined in Jefferson county 3,710,331 tons of coal, and the coke output was 1,301,881 tons of 2,000 pounds. Walker county—Miners, 2,150; coal, 935,701 tons; coke, 3,290 tons. Bibb county—Miners, 1,085; coal, 643,762 tons; coke, 38,835 tons. Tuscaloosa county—Miners, 677; coal, 208,117 tons; coke, 40,840 tons. Blount county—Miners, 95; coal, 62,400 tons. Shelby county—Miners, 233; coal, 52,754 tons. St. Clair—Miners, 120; coal, 30,806 tons. Winston county—Miners, 20; coal, 4,500 tons. There are a number of mines in the coal district that employ less than twenty men, and make no report. Mr. Hillhouse estimates that these small mines turn out 25,000 tons per annum. These figures show a total of 9,286 miners, and a production of 5,648,461 tons of coal.

LEE HAYES.

The announcement of Mr Lee Hayes for the office of sheriff which appears in this issue is not in the nature of a surprise as it has been well known for some time he intended to be a candidate Mr Hayes is generally credited with having made the best sheriff our county ever had, and we have no doubt but if he is elected he will again fill the office to the entire satisfaction of the county

G. W. PATRICK.

The friends of Mr Patrick in announcing him for the sheriff's office do so with much exultation, claiming him to be a strong candidate This gentleman hails from the western part of the county which has always sent in good men and true, and we believe if Mr Patrick is elected he will uphold the dignity of the office

M. A. KILLGORE.

The announcement that Mr Killgore is a candidate for the position of sheriff is hailed with satisfaction by his friends Mr Killgore is a gentleman highly thought of in the county and his admirers claim will, if elected, make an admirable sheriff This is his first candidacy

JAMES T. COOLEY.

This gentleman has come forward at the request of his friends as a candidate for the office of sheriff Mr Cooley is a well known man and if he should prove to be the [illegible] people will doubtless fill the [illegible] he aspires with credit to him[illegible] the county

T. J. HUBBARD.

Mr Hubbard is a candidate for the onerous position of tax collector and his supporters aver their enthusiastic belief in his ability to fill the office in a thoroughly creditable manner if he is elected It takes a peculiarly gifted man to fill this office but we are confident that Mr Hubbard has the necessary qualifications

P. M. MOORE.

Sheriff Moore, whose term will soon expire has been induced by his friends to seek the office of tax collector Mr Moore's genial and urbane manner has gained him many friends who will do their best to see him elected We are satisfied that if he gets the office he will prove a most efficient officer

L. B. POUNDS.

Perhaps no gentleman is better known in our county than Rev L B Pounds A man of sterling worth, his friends have announced him as candidate for the position of tax assessor, being assured that if he is elected he will prove the right man in the right place, and that the office will be in good hands

E. W. BAILEY.

Commissioner Bailey has in the course of his duties made a good record and now that his friends announce him as a candidate for the office of tax assessor his official record will stand him in good stead The duties of assessor are of great importance to the community and we feel fully justified in saying that Mr Bailey if elected is thoroughly competent to perform them

L. H. REYNOLDS.

Mr Lewis Reynolds, the popular manager of the Alliance store at Jemison, is announced as a candidate to represent Chilton county in the general assembly Mr Reynolds is known to everyone in the county His suave manners and business experience will, if he is elected, give us a good representative at the state capital

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION
[illegible] Congressional District
[illegible]bama.

By authority of the District Committee the Fourth district convention of the Republican Party is hereby called to meet in Calera on March 4, 1896, at 12 m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the 55th congress; for the election of two delegates and two alternates to the Republican National convention to be holden in St. Louis, Mo., June 16, 1896. For the election of two members of the State committee; for the election of a district committee and chairman and for the transaction of such other business as may come before it. Each county will be entitled to the number of delegates as follows: Cleburne 4, Calhoun 9, Chilton 4, Dallas 10, Talladega 12, Shelby 9. Total 47.

J. D. HARDY, Chairman.
F. M. SHOUSE, Secretary.

West Chilton Warblings.

The health of this portion is extremely good at present. Farm work is on a drag owing to so much rains. Old Mrs. Mary Ray a fine old lady and the mother of C. C. Ray died very suddenly on the morning of the 12th from heart trouble. Prof. Henry Burges has a nice school at Bluff Springs. Plantersville is still on a boom; Capt. R. W. Little is having another fine residence built on his north lot in front of the Hickabee block and there is now 4 store, 1 drug shop, 1 blacksmith shop, 1 masonic lodge, 1 large college, 2 churches, 1 minister and 3 docters all in Plantersville and the sweet little town is building up rapidly.

I am mighty afraid that the farmers are fixing to draw on a western smokehouse and corncrib. There is a great deal of fertilizer being used in western part of the county this year. Men, this is going to ruin us again; we should look sharp and not dabble too much in cotton. I will close hoping that all who are not subscribers to the BANNER may soon be. Good will to everybody.

PLANTERSVILLE, ALA., F[illegible] 5, '96

Editor BANNER: I have learned that some of my friends in the eastern pert of the county are talking of putting my name before the people of the county as a candidate for commissioner or some other office. This is bitterly against my will and consent. Owing to my fast declining health I am not a candidate for any office nor ever have been or intend to be and if elected to any office without my will and consent I shall certainly not serve. And I want the people of the county to distincted understand that I shall not serve nor accept any office. You will please publish this and by so doing you will greatly oblige,

Yours, M. H. BARNES.

Editor BANNER: The hour is approaching when the candidates for our county offices will again have to be selected. And we suppose this will be done by holding primary elections in the various beats in the county. This we think a good and safe plan to arrive at the wishes of the people, and one to which none can reasonably object. As yet we learn of but few who have submitted their names to the public. But here and there they are beginning to pop up

Who shall we have for Tax collector? Beat four has the man if he will consent to make the run. But above all things let us have peace and harmony in our ranks. Let no aspirant be guilty of trife or wire-pulling while seeking an office.

A Great Chance to Make Money.

I want to tell you of my wonderful success. Being a poor girl and needing money badly, I tried the Dish Washer business and have cleared $200 every month. It is more money than I ever had before, and can't help telling about it, for I believe any person can do as well as I have if they only try. I sell from 5 to 15 machines a day. My business is increasing and am going to keep right on until I make $10,000. There is no excuse to be poor when so much money can be made selling dishwashers. The Washers sell on side; every lady wants one. The Mound City Dish Washer does splendid work; you can wash and dry the dishes in two or three minutes without putting your hands in the water at all. Try this business and let us know how you succeed. The Mound City Dish Washer Co., St. Louis, Mo., will give you all necessary instructions so you can begin work at once.

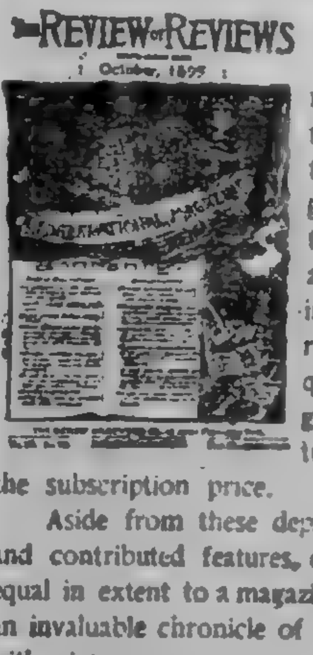
THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Edited by ALBERT SHAW.



THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $100 per bottle at J. S. Johnson, Jr., Drug Store.

On February 7 Deputy Marshall J. A. Dudley and Collector C. S. Tutwiler and Deputy G. L. Bender captured a still on W. G. Hayes' place, near Macedonia church, five miles southeast of Randolph. The still was a 50 or 60 gallon copper still. There was 250 gallons of corn beer on hand. A run had been made the night before and about 20 gallons of whisky was taken from a wagon on its way to Randolph. The horse and wagon was seized by the collector and will be sold, the proceeds going to the U. S. government. The following persons were arrested: W. G. Hayes, Charles Presley, Monro Atchison, James Smitherman and Jase Hayes, but Jase managed to escape. The other four were carried to Montgomery and placed under bond to await the action of the grand jury.

Last Tuesday Deputy Marshal Dudley arrested John Rutland (colored) at Jemison for retailing whiskey without license. He was taken to Montgomery and placed under bond.

Yesterday about noon an alarm of fire was raised. A very high wind was blowing at the time which caused everyone in town to feel more than usually anxious. The fire was at the residence of Mr. Joe Gore and had originated from a spark from the kitchen stove. Fortunately it was discovered in good time and immediately extinguished without doing any damage but it was a narrow escape.

The experience of Geo. A. Apgar, of German Valley, N. J., is well worth remembering. He was troubled with chronic diarrhœa and doctored five months and was treated by four different doctors without benefit. He then began using Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, of which one small bottle effected a complete cure. It is for sale by J. S. Johnson, Jr., Druggist.

Mrs. J. P. Bell, Osawatomie, Kan. wife of the editor of The Graphic, the leading local paper of Miami county, writes "I was troubled with heart disease for six years, severe palpitations, shortness of breath, together with such extreme nervousness, that, at times I would walk the floor nearly all night. We consulted the best medical talent. They said there was no help for me, that I had organic disease of the heart for which there was no remedy. I had read your advertisement in The Graphic and a year ago, as a last resort, tried one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart, which convinced me that there was true merit in it. I took three bottles each of the Heart Cure and Restorative Nervine and it completely cured me. I sleep well at night, my heart beats regularly and I have no more smothering spells. I wish to say to all who are suffering as I did; there's relief untold for them if they will only give your remedies just one trial."

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

The Cotton Crop.

The crop of the coming season should not exceed that of last year a bale. If the acreage be limited, then there will be a sufficient demand to keep the price from 7 to 9 per pound. The farmers made it profitable to themselves last year by reducing the cotton yield, in two ways. First, they received 3 to 4 cents more per pound for their cotton than the year previous; and, secondly, they grew more corn, potatoes, hay, beeves, sheep and hogs all of which yielded fair profit to the growers, or prevented them from buying these necessities. By this change they did not have to contract debts for supplies, and all of these diversified crops and stock decreased the expenses of the farm and at the same time produced larger supplies of home fertilizers for keeping up the fertility of the lands.—Hector D. Lane.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at J. S. Johnson, Jr Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

The Silver Question.

No great revolution in prices therefore follows the restitution of silver to its old role. That is the second specter with which men seek to horrify public opinion. However, suppose it should come, and the value of gold should sink by half, exactly as the Selesian Times maintains. It does not follow that the farmer is no better off, because all prices, including those of his produce, rise. Every farmer will gladly pay for wages and for everything he buys twice as much as he now pays, provided all the forms of his income double. He would gladly see the change if only his fixed expenses, like mortgage interest, quittances, taxes and burdens, were not doubled. Besides, in farming, what a man produces for his own use counts for much more than in other callings. This may be remarked in a purely theoretical way. In practice no such wide-reaching effect of bimetalism could be considered. It would not alter the value of money to any such extent as that. It would, mainly by doing away with the different ranges of value in different parts of the world, introduce an upward tendency in prices, as the sole gold standard brought a downward tendency. Instead of the slow increase in the value of money now going on there would be either complete steadfastness or a slow lessening in the value of money. Differences in ranges of prices would disappear, as also monetary crises Commerce and business would be quickened and in a short time nothing would seem so incomprehensible as that the world allowed itself for a quarter of a century to be halted in its economic development by a sorry experiment with the sole gold standard.—From "Leading Errors of the Gold Standard Party," by Dr. Otto Arendt (translated by President E. B. Andrews), in the February Review of Reviews.

Card from Doc Rogers.

I wish respectfully to say to my friends that my name having been mentioned in connection with the office of Sheriff in the coming election that I am not a candidate and have no intention to enter the race

Respectfully, H B ROGERS.

A Des Moines woman who has been troubled with frequent colds, concluded to try an old remedy in a new way, and accordingly took a tablespoonful (four times the usual dose) of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy just before going to bed. The next morning she found that her cold had almost entirely disappeared. During the day she took a few doses of the remedy (one teaspoonful at a time) and at night again took a tablespoonful before going to bed, and on the following morning awoke free from all symptoms of the cold. Since then she has, on several occasions, used this remedy in like manner, with the same good results, and is much elated over her discovery of so quick a way of curing a cold. For sale by J. S. $1.00 FOR YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.

Write us a letter covering these three points:

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

Fence the World in 20 Days.

In the sale of the "STAR" Machine, as shown below, we have done more in recent years to enable the farmers of this country to get their fencing at the actual cost of the wire than all other fence manufacturers in the United States, because we figure and show how cheap the various styles of fence can be made, or what the actual cost of the wire is to make them, while those who make and sell the fence must add the cost of labor to manufacture and their profit to the actual cost of the wire. We can sell you a Machine and enough wire to make 100 rods of the best Woven Wire Fence on earth, horse high, bull strong, pig and chicken tight for the same money that will buy 100 rods of any good woven wire fence now on the market. In one case you have the fence alone. In the other you have not only the fence but a machine which enables you to be your own fence manufacturer and with which you can make over 50 styles, including several styles of Ornamental yard or lawn fences. To show how the farmers of this country appreciate this machine it is only necessary to say that if all the machines sold by us were run for twenty days, each machine making 40 rods per day, they would make enough fence to go around the world, being an average of 400,000 rods or 1,250 miles per day. If all of the machines were run only 60 days during the year, making 40 rods per day each, they would make a grand total of 24,000,000 rods, which would make an average of 76,800 rods or 240 miles for every working day in the year. The combined product of all the Loom Fence Factories of the United States would not equal this. One cent isn't much. Invest it in a postal card and send for our Large Illustrated Catalogue, telling all about fencing. It may save you many dollars. Sent Free for the asking. IT 'S THE SIMPLE, TRIVIAL INVENTIONS THAT YIELD FORTUNES, such as the "car-window" which can be easily slid up and down without breaking the passenger's back, "sauce-pan," "collar-button," "nut-lock," "bottle-stopper," and a thousand other little things that most any one can find a way of improving; and these simple inventions are the ones that bring largest returns to the author. Try to think of something to invent.

IT IS NOT SO HARD AS IT SEEMS.

Patents taken out through us receive special notice in the "National Recorder," published at Washington, D. C., which is the best newspaper published in America in the interests of inventors. We furnish a year's subscription to this journal, free of cost, to all our clients. We also advertise, free of cost, the invention each month which wins our $150 prize, and hundreds of thousands of copies of the "National Recorder," containing a sketch of the winner, and a description of his invention, will be scattered throughout the United States among capitalists and manufacturers, thus bringing to their attention the merits of the invention.

Freight by Trolley Cars.

A move has been made in Newark, N. J., which is significant in view of the present changing condition of general freight service. A bread bakery which runs out fifty delivery wagons daily to points within fourteen miles of the city finds that it can do much of its freight delivery in a simpler and better and cheaper way. Eighteen of its wagons are sent to Jersey City in the morning, loaded with hot bread, which is delivered to the locked boxes in front of the grocery stores before the stores are open. To save a drive of from fourteen to twenty miles a day for each of these wagons, the firm has made a contract with the local electric car company to run trolley freight cars from the bakery to a new delivery depot in Jersey City. The cars will be run at an hour of the night when they will not interfere in any way with passenger traffic. If the venture is successful the firm proposes to run cars to more distant cities. On the other hand, the traction company is now seeking to make similar contracts with the brewers of the city, who now deliver large quantities of beer in Hudson County and New York by wagons. It is but natural that the strongest pressure should be brought against this innovation, but under its franchise the company has the right to run freight cars. Should the night trolley freight service become general it will readily be seen what an important modification of city and suburban delivery traffic will follow.

Seeks an Appropriation.

J. A. Van Hoose, mayor of Birmingham, is in Washington to ask of the river and harbor committee an appropriation for the long-talked-of canal uniting the Tennessee, Coosa and Warrior rivers, which will give Birmingham an outlet to deep water and the markets of the world, and will be of incalculable benefit to the people of Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee. Mr. Van Hoose will have the cordial cooperation of the Alabama delegation in Congress, and as he only asks for enough money to make the initial survey, he has strong hopes of success.

A Father Sues His Sons.

A remarkable suit was filed in the United States court at Birmingham last Thursday by John Klein against Henry Klein, Charles W. Klein and William L. Klein, his sons, for $50,000 damages for alleged trespass committed by defendants against the personal property of plaintiff, causing his arrest and imprisonment unlawfully, as he alleges. The suit grows out of an old family quarrel over possession of half a block of valuable property in Birmingham, occupied by Klein's sons, who are prosperous merchants. Klein is a very old man. The arrest of Klein occurred three years ago, and was for an alleged interference with them.

Regimental Encampments.

The Alabama State troops will go into camp in regiments this year, instead of battalions, as during the past two or three years. The troops are divided into three regiments and the colonel commanding each will probably be accorded the privilege of selecting the place at which the encampment of his forces will be held. Mobile will certainly entertain one regiment, Montgomery or Birmingham another and Anniston appears to have a good chance at the third. It is intended that the encampments this year shall be administered in as economical a way as possible, in order that the troops shall be enabled to save out of their appropriation sufficient to purchase arms and equipments for 100 additional men, three new five-mile rifles for the artillery battery and a Hotchkiss mounted, rapid-firing rifle, with a range of three and a half miles. All of these proposed purchases are intended to be kept at the capital.

An Important Prisoner.

Robert Charlson, ex-United States commissioner at Attalla, and a fugitive from justice, was captured last week at Paso del Norte, Mexico, just across the Rio Grande from El Paso, Tex., where he was engaged in the cattle business. Charlson is now under arrest, and in the course of time will be taken to Birmingham and surrendered to the local United States authorities by his bondsmen. Robert Charlson is about 40 years of age. His early manhood was spent in the northwest, where he acted as an Indian scout. He also visited Mexico, where he picked up the Spanish language. He could converse readily in that tongue, as well as German, Swedish and several other languages. About the year 1892 he was appointed commissioner by Judge Bruce, and established his office at Attalla. In 1893 the federal court grand jury here sent a memorial to the government complaining of vast frauds committed in North Alabama by commissioners and deputy marshals. As the result the government sent a special examiner, Lee Chalmers, to the scene, and Chalmers got the government to appoint Lee Cowart as his aid. The two made a thorough investigation, the upshot of which was the indictment of Charlson and several other commissioners and about ten to twelve deputy marshals on the charge of extorting from the government by presenting false accounts. The investigation disclosed that the government had been robbed of about $100,000 in the space of two or three years. Charlson and others were removed from office and Charlson was tried and convicted of presenting fictitious pay rolls to the government and getting pay for alleged trials that never took place. He received a sentence of a year and a day in the government penitentiary. Pending an appeal he fled the country. Ten other cases against him had not been tried.

Cotton Growers' Association.

H. C. Reynolds, president of the Alabama Cotton Growers' Association, has issued the following from Montevallo

The following named gentlemen are appointed county presidents of the Cotton Growers' Association. From advices received from various portions of the state, I believe by prompt and energetic action we can yet avert the calamity that a ten-million-bale crop will bring. I earnestly request the county presidents to organize their respective counties and insist on a reduction in the acreage of cotton.

Singular Catastrophe.

At 3:15 Wednesday morning a water main on Franklin Avenue Hill, Cleveland, O., burst and with the volume of water that poured out several hundred feet of the hill was washed into the river. A small one-story frame house, occupied by Mrs. Mary Ravey, 60 years of age, was inundated, and with its contents was hurled into the river. Mrs. Ravey was drowned. A New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio freight train was passing at the foot of the hill, and the force of the water carried four cars into the river. On the cars were three of the train crew, and the men were carried with the cars. Two of the men jumped before the river was reached and escaped, but the third was dumped into the river, and but for the tenders of Columbus Street bridge would have been drowned. An alarm of fire was turned in and a message sent to the waterworks pumping station and the main was cut off.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Summary of the Week's Proceedings in Both Houses.

FIFTY-THIRD DAY.

In the senate the day was spent chiefly in speeches on the Monroe doctrine and the seed bill. The usual resolutions were adopted on the announcement of the death of Representative Cain, of Texas.... The house resumed debate on the bond bill and continued it until noon. A committee consisting of Messrs. Pendleton, of Texas; Crowley, of Texas; Kyle, of Mississippi; McDearmond, of Tennessee; Miles, of Maryland; Milner, of Michigan; Leonard, of Pennsylvania; McCleary, of Minnesota; and Murphy, of Illinois, was appointed by the speaker to accompany the body of Representative Crain to Texas, after which, at 12:40, the house as a further mark of respect adjourned.

FIFTY-FOURTH DAY.

A bill granting to the city of Charleston, S. C., the old postoffice building there, to be used by the commercial bodies of that city, was reported to the senate and passed. On motion of Mr. Hoar, republican, of Massachusetts, it was ordered that on the 22d day of February, Washington's birthday, immediately after the reading of the journal, Washington's farewell address be read to the senate.... The bill for the purchase and distribution of seeds was passed. A message from the president was received transmitting the correspondence relating to Ex-Consul Waller's case and a report of the secretary of state thereon. The message expresses the expectation of Waller's immediate release.... The time of the house until 3:30 p. m. was given to District of Columbia business, after which the debate on the bond bill was resumed in committee of the whole.

FIFTY-FIFTH DAY.

In the senate Mr. Peffer, populist, of Kansas, introduced a resolution which calls for an investigation of recent bond sales, all dealings with syndicates and individuals. The resolution is so comprehensive as to cover every possible phase of the negotiations in the bond issues of the last three years. Progress was made on the deficiency appropriation bill, and the item of federal court expenses brought out strong criticisms from Messrs. Chandler, Tillman and Vest against the free system. Among the favorable reports presented was one on Mr. Hale's bill, making February 12 Lincoln's birthday a national holiday. Mr. Hale called up the bill making February 12 Lincoln's birthday a national holiday. Mr. Hill, democrat, of New York, said he had intended to offer an amendment making the birthday of Andrew Jackson a legal holiday, but in order not to interfere with this measure, he would submit his bill separately. Mr. Hawley objected to the immediate consideration of the bill, and this prevented action.... The house spent another day in the discussion of the silver bond bill. The feature of the day was the speech of Mr. McCleary, republican, of Minnesota, who used to illustrate his remarks the charts previously employed by Mr. Towne, from his own state, and by them sought to refute the arguments in favor of free silver made by Mr. Towne. Messrs. Dolliver, republican, of Iowa, Brosius, republican, of Pennsylvania, and Brunn, republican, of Pennsylvania, also opposed the bill. Messrs. McMillan, democrat, of Tennessee, Bailey, democrat, of Texas, Underwood, democrat, of Alabama, and Cox, democrat, of Tennessee, spoke in favor of free coinage.

FIFTY-SIXTH DAY.

The senate defeated the motion of Mr. Morrill, chairman of the finance committee, to take up the tariff bill, by a vote of 21 yeas to 29 nays. The negative vote which defeated the motion was given by democrats, populists and four republican senators, viz.: Messrs. Teller, Mantle, Dubois and Carter. The affirmative vote was entirely republican, but its total of twenty-one is less than half of the aggregate republican strength.... The urgent deficiency bill was passed. It carries about $6,000,000, a considerable increase over the bill passed in the house. A resolution was adopted directing the Pacific railroad committee to make full inquiry into the status of the Pacific railroads.... The house, after a ten days' debate, by a vote of 80 to 190 in committee of the whole, rejected the senate free coinage amendment to the bond bill and reported the bill to the house with a recommendation to non-concur and insist on the house bill.... Propositions were offered during the day to concur with the amendments as follows: To coin the American silver product, for the retention of the seigniorage by the government and to open the mints to the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 15½ to 1, when Germany and France should have agreed upon similar action. All were defeated by large majorities.

FIFTY-SEVENTH DAY.

By a vote of 215 to 90 the house after debating the matter for almost two weeks decided not to concur in the senate's free silver coinage substitute for the bill of the house authorizing bond sales to maintain the gold reserve, sales of treasury certificates to meet temporary deficiencies in revenue and providing additional revenue for the treasury. Nothing else was presented in the course of the five hours' session. The closing debate was notable principally because of the fact that the principal speeches for and against free coinage of silver were made by two democrats, both members of the committee on ways and means and both from Georgia—Crisp and Turner. The attendance upon the evening session was unusually large, 116 members being present. The committee acted favorably upon ten bills, which at 10:15 were reported to the house by Chairman Hepburn, and five bills previously reported were passed, when the bill to pension Hannah Wright was reached. General Curtis, republican, of New York, asked unanimous consent to withdraw it, briefly stating that the morning after favorable action had been taken by the committee of the whole he had received word that the old lady had died.

Corean Uprising.

Advices received from Seoul, capital of Corea, says that an uprising took place there on February 11, during which the premier and several officials were murdered. The dispatches add that the king and crown prince have sought shelter in the Russian legation. A force of 200 Russian sailors and marines are now guarding the legation of that country.

Rattlesnakes, Butterflies, and . . . ?

Washington Irving said, he supposed a certain hill was called "Rattlesnake Hill" because it abounded in—butterflies. The "rule of contrary" governs other names. Some bottles are, supposedly, labeled "Sarsaparilla" because they are full of . . . well, we don't know what they are full of, but we know it's not sarsaparilla; except, perhaps, enough for a flavor. There's only one make of sarsaparilla that can be relied on to be all it claims. It's Ayer's. It has no secret to keep. Its formula is open to all physicians. This formula was examined by the Medical Committee at the World's Fair with the result that while every other make of sarsaparilla was excluded from the Fair, Ayer's Sarsaparilla was admitted and honored by awards. It was admitted because it was the best sarsaparilla. It received the medal as the best. No other sarsaparilla has been so tested or so honored. Good motto for the family as well as the Fair: Admit the best, exclude the rest.

RIPANS TABULES

Mrs. James Taylor, who resides at No. 82 Bailey avenue, Kingsbridge, New York, on the 14th of December, 1894, said: "My age is 60 years. For the past two years I have had liver trouble and indigestion. I always employed a physician, which I did in this case, but obtained no beneficial results. I never had any faith in patent medicines, but having seen Ripans Tabules recommended very highly in the New York Herald, I concluded to give them a trial. After using them for a short time, I found they were just what my case demanded. I have never employed a physician since, which means $2 a call and $1 for medicine. One dollar's worth of Ripans Tabules lasts me a month, and I would not be without them if it were my last dollar. They are the only thing that ever gave me any permanent relief. I take great pleasure in recommending them to any one similarly affected."

DEAD STATESMAN.

COME HIGH AND CONGRESS REFUSES TO CHEAPEN.

Funerals and Obituaries—Senate and House Decline to Omit Them—Growth of the Scandal—Commissary Supplies—Some Recent Extravagances.

[illegible]

[illegible] Senator [illegible] Kenna and Senator [illegible] have in turn found [illegible] objections which have [illegible] bill. Doubtless [illegible] senators will be [illegible] bill comes [illegible] to shant [illegible] the bill was [illegible] o'clock. Then [illegible] the senate adjourned [illegible]

Where Senator Peffer finds an unanswerable argument is in the growing extravagance in attending [illegible]. Up to 1847 there had been [illegible] deaths of senators and in only [illegible] of these cases was the senate called upon to spend any money. When senators died at their homes or during a recess of the senate, it was not deemed necessary for the government to turn undertaker. Now, however, no senatorial death is allowed to escape the contingent fund. Down to 1847 no senatorial funeral cost as much as $1,000. Since 1877 every senator but one who has died has been buried at government expense. It is perhaps worthy of mention that the last senatorial death before 1877 which did not cost the government anything was that of Lewis V. Bogy of Missouri. Mrs. Leland Stanford did not permit the senate to pay any of the bills of her husband's funeral, but the Hearst obsequies cost the government $21,322.55.

Some of the more recent congressional funerals illustrate the elasticity of the expense accounts. When Representative Houk of Ohio dropped dead during the last congress, he was given a casket that cost $350, to which was added a copper lining at a cost of $100 more. A brick grave and a marble slab were put in by the thrifty cemetery management in Ohio. It cost $937.24 to take the committee from Washington to Dayton and back, and to feed them en route. When these bills were audited it was found necessary to disburse in addition $74.60 for meals en route. Dayton is about fifteen hours from Washington. The committee was evidently composed of good feeders.

Another recent congressional funeral was that of Representative Chipman, whose body was taken to Detroit. Here are a few of the queer items in the Chipman funeral account:

One-half dozen glasses	$18
Six professional bearers	18
Shaving	5
Pall-bearers' invitations	5
Canopy at grave	[illegible]
Soloist and male quartet	85
Four clergymen's fees	40
Choir and organist	40

Mr. Chipman was put into a $550 cas-[illegible]

[illegible] his colleague Senator Plumb. He [illegible] $[illegible]. [illegible] the senate [illegible] more than $1,000 [illegible] than the average of the last ten senatorial funerals [illegible] was equal [illegible] of an average [illegible] Senator Peffer puts [illegible] funeral expenses of Senator [illegible] paid by the senate. It appears [illegible] paying $400 for a casket and [illegible] embalming the body in Washington. The committee employed an undertaker of Kansas to re-embalm [illegible] body [illegible] to attend [illegible] paid. The [illegible] for the [illegible] members [illegible] committee to [illegible] cost $46.18. It appears that after reaching Emporia the members of the committee scattered in various directions to their homes, and then put in individual bills for what they spent in getting back to Washington by various roundabout ways. "Commissary supplies en route" for those twelve gentlemen cost $155.41.

"Commissary supplies" cover a multitude of expense sheets. In the old [illegible] expense accounts of congressional funerals were found wine, brandy, cognac, almonds, raisins, syrup, soda water and so on. These items never appear now. "Commissary supplies" sounds better. When congress footed the bill for the nation's hospitality to Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot, one item in the official expense account was:

Champagne, sherry, madeira, postage, cigars, lemonade bar bill, washing, medicine, post office stamps, porterage, and messengers, hack hire paid at different times, telegrams, sugar, brandy and whisky in room, porter and ale, envelopes, barber's bill............$658.82

Brandy and whisky were called "brandy and whisky" in those days, and not "commissary supplies."

One curious discovery, resulting from Senator Peffer's industrious investigation is the fact that distance usually has little to do with the cost of a congressional funeral. Senator Plumb was buried at Emporia, Kan., and Senator Kenna at Charleston, W. Va. Emporia is more than 1,000 miles west of Charleston. Senator Kenna's funeral cost $34.75 more than Senator Plumb's. "Commissary supplies, meals and lunches" for the Kenna funeral cost $432.48—about three times the cost of the same for the trip from Washington to Emporia. Charleston, W. Va., is eleven hours' ride from Washington. Besides this $432.48 for "commissary supplies, meals and lunches" on the Kenna funeral trip, there was a charge of $76.50 for room and board while at Charleston. A Washington undertaker went on the trip and received $45 for his funeral services, while the Charleston undertaker got $56 more for his funeral expenses. The two items already mentioned for "commissary supplies" and for "room and board," aggregating over $500, do not include $29.75 for breakfast at an eating station en route. The car which carried the body of Senator Kenna was draped at a cost of $55.

"Besides, undertakers, florists and hotelkeepers all perform their work and make their charges on the same grand scale." Senator Peffer observes.

[illegible] Senator [illegible] Senator [illegible] Senator [illegible] Washington [illegible]

[illegible]

The funeral of Senator [illegible] [illegible] Senator [illegible] [illegible]

The custom of traveling at the contingent expense of statesmen began, it is believed, with cases where [illegible] in Washington when congress was sitting. It now extends to senators and representatives wherever they die. The last senatorial death was that of Senator Stockbridge of Michigan, which occurred at the senator's home. A committee of senators was appointed and sent to the funeral at a cost of $[illegible]. Representative Myron B. Wright died during recess in the last congress. The sergeant-at-arms made up a party to attend the funeral, and charged the expenses, $[illegible], to the contingent fund. It will be noted that the cost of assembling a committee to witness the burial of a dead senator or representative at his home when congress is not in session is much greater now than the cost of giving a funeral in Washington and sending it all the way home with an escort was a few years ago.

"The average congressional funeral," says Senator Peffer, "is nothing more than a party of goodnatured gentlemen having a good time at the public expense."

In the fifty-second and fifty-third congresses there were twenty-one funerals of representatives; that is twenty-one funerals in four years from 1891 to 1895. The cheapest was that of Representative James Phelan, of Memphis, who died in the Bermudas, and was taken thence to Tennessee at an expense to the government of only $345.80. The most expensive of these twenty-one funerals was that of J. L. Chipman, of Detroit, which cost $2,308.40. The body of the Hon. J. W. Kendall was escorted to the mountain home in Eastern Kentucky at a cost of $2,156.56, and one of the members who went with it wrote for the papers a very humorous description of the expedition on his return to Washington. SOUND SENSE.

Eternal Vigilance Is the Price of Liberty.

Missouri World: This paper has repeatedly advised the silver men of the old parties who could not see their way clear to join the people's party, to withdraw from the goldbug parties and form a party of their own, and expressed the belief that if they would do so nothing could keep them and the populists from coming to an understanding. We said that when old party ties were severed they would not see so much in the populist platform that was objectionable to them. When the single plank platform was first advocated we asserted that the money question in its broad sense was alone worthy of a dozen campaigns. But we opposed the one-plank move. The party was advancing rapidly on the Omaha platform. The railroad and government loan and postal bank propositions were dear to many of our people. These principles of the party had gathered to us, we had reason to believe, a large per cent of our strength. They were concrete and caught the attention of people whose attention could not be attracted by the abstract money question. They were a great aid to the party instead of a hindrance, as the one plank men thought.

While the question was up for discussion the bimetallic party was formed at Washington City. In its platform there was none of the alleged objectionable planks of the Omaha platform. We hoped this new party would be able to gather round its banner millions of voters. But from all appearances it proved a complete failure. One trip across the continent by Mr. Sibley and little was heard of it afterward.

The silver men—most of them—who had abandoned the old parties found a suitable place in the people's party and this set to work for the bimetallic party.

[illegible]

[illegible] one plank sentiment, [illegible] the two bodies [illegible] together and that with a part of the populist convention and all of the bimetallic, they will be able to dictate platform and candidates.

On the other hand, there may be a bolt from the republican convention and there is pretty sure to be one from the democratic convention, and it may turn out that the bimetallic convention will represent millions of voters. We hope so. But let populists bear in mind that "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

ONE CLEVELAND ENOUGH.

Jefferson City Pastor Would Pray the Lord to Send No More Like Our President.

Jefferson City (Mo.) special: At the First Methodist church in this city last evening prayer services were held for "Our Rulers." There was a large audience. The pastor of the church, in announcing the subject, said: "Let us pray for our rulers. Let us not forget our president, Grover Cleveland. Let us pray that God in His mercy will make him a wise and good man, doing right for the sake of right; shunning the wrong because it is evil. Like the Englishman who prayed for George III, let us ask God to assist him in wisely guiding the affairs of state, bless him, be merciful to him; but in Thy mercy give us no more like him."

The Great Man.

The great man was so great that he held thirty million two-legged animals in his left hand and thirty-five million in his right, in perfect balance. At the same time a great eagle appeared at Washington. When the eagle spread out his wings they touched Boston and San Francisco at the same time. The great man took the great bird on his hands and named the great eagle "Congress." He decided to break the eagle to be a gentle servant for his private service. In his boundless wisdom he decided not to use physical force but to starve nearly to death, and it was a success. The great man then said, "My little country is not fit for a great man; guess I will take a trip to Jupiter and give that little globe an object lesson, and my eagle will fetch me there." He then cut a large piece of meat out of a farmer's heap, put the meat on the point of his sword, seated himself on the eagle's neck, holding the sword in his right hand, with the meat twelve inches ahead of the bird's head, and a black-snake in his left hand, whipping the bird all the time in order to make his meat tender. The eagle, flying for the meat, shot through the air like a cannon ball. As the air was full of road dust from below and meteor dust from above, the great man's eyes became of no account. For the sake of producing light he put a gold piece in his mouth, but still the Egyptian darkness prevailed; he then swore by his greatness that gold was of no account at Jupiter. Presently the eagle collided with a great wall, and the great man touched solid ground, but darkness still prevailed. "Where am I at? Perhaps in hades! I desire a better place. I have changed my friends and my party, and I took my nation by the throat and choked the life out of her; but if I am in hades it is a step in the right direction. I will meet the rich man here." Presently the rich man appeared, plated with gold and powdered with diamonds. Seeing a little animal crawling on the ground with a yellow speck in its mouth, he picked it up with his right hand and put it in the palm of his left, looked at it but could not tell what it was; he put it under a powerful microscope and pronounced it to be a genuine American "gold bug." Well, the rich man charged ten million dollars for entertainment and a return ticket. The farmers paid the bill.—J. Fatland, Newark, Ill.

OUR TRADE AND TRAFFIC

As Observed and Reported by Dun's Weekly Review.

STATEMENT OF WEEK'S FAILURES.

Business Somewhat Retarded by Stringency Resulting From Withdrawal of Cash to Purchase Bonds, Confidence in American Securities—Low Prices—Large Stocks.

Liabilities in failures during the three weeks of February were $7,680,393, against $5,55[illegible],096 last year. Manufacturing liabilities were $3,163,986, against $1,592,319 last year, while tradings were $3,842,033, against $3,353,019 last year. Failures for the week have been 280 in the United States, against 303 last year, and 66 in Canada, against 36 last year. The restoration of the treasury reserve has been effected with remarkably little monetary disturbance, though stringency in the New York markets, greater elsewhere than here and greater in commercial than in other loans, has somewhat retarded business. The rapid rise in the price of bonds strengthens public confidence. Prompt action of the house on the silver bill has helped to increase foreign confidence in American securities. Prices of commodities as a whole are now at the lowest average ever known, though only one-half of 1 per cent below the average of September 3, 1895. Hides, leather and their products, textile goods and iron products have declined much since that date, and meats are also lower.

Though business is less than was expected at Chicago, it is increasing for materials for cars and car-wheels and is excellent in plates. The cast pipe business is active, but little is doing in rails, and the new bar classification is not favored. Prices are steady at Philadelphia and plates are doing a little better, but other branches are dull.

In textile manufactures prices are generally weak, open reductions averaging 3 per cent for cotton goods, and since January 1 about 9 per cent. Not much increase of buying answers to these reductions, and some of the accumulated stocks are quite large. The volume of domestic trade reflected by clearings is 63.7 per cent larger than last year. Railroad earnings in February thus far are 13.6 per cent lower than last year. Stocks weakened until Thursday, but then advanced and closed about ⅓ cent per share higher for railroads. Exports of products in two weeks of February have been 7 per cent larger than last year, though cotton mills are growing fewer. Imports no longer show the increase formerly observed, but for two weeks have been 18.8 per cent larger than last year.

LEGISLATURE.

I beg to announce myself as a candidate for Representative of Chilton county subject to the action of the People's Party primary.

L. H. REYNOLDS.

At the solicitation of, perhaps, too partial friends throughout the county I announce myself a candidate for the office of Representative in the General Assembly, subject to the action of the People's Party of Chilton county. If elected to this office my best endeavors will be exerted in securing such legislation as shall redound to the best interests of our State and County.

FRANK CRICHTON.

TREASURER.

We are authorized to announce the name of Alex. G. Dake as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer subject to the action of the People's Party Primary.

SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION.

The friends of J. W. Moore hereby announce him as a candidate for the office of Superintendent of Education subject to the action of the People's Party Primary.

COMMISSIONER.

The friends of Alex Glasscock hereby announce him as a candidate for re-election as Commissioner for the Second District subject to the action of the People's Party Primary.

WE are obliged to hold over several communications on account of lack of space.

DON'T forget the date of our primaries—April 14 and May 5.

A LARGE gathering of the most influential and representative members of the Populist and Republican parties of the State of Alabama met in Erswell hall, Birmingham, to-day (Thursday) and fully discussed the advisability of uniting their forces in opposition to the ballot-stuffing organized democracy. The following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That it is the sense of the conference that the conventions of the People's Party and of the Republican party that are to meet in Montgomery on April 28 shall enunciate their principles in their platforms and shall each seek to, if possible, nominate the same ticket, which will in no instance violate the distinctive principles of either party, but which will draw to its support all good citizens of Alabama who seek to establish honesty in our elections and the advancement of the peace and prosperity of our State and nation. Without seeming to in any way usurp or assume any of the powers which naturally devolve upon the respective State conventions we respectfully recommend that both parties co-operate to this end.

FRANK BALTZELL, Ch'm'n.

Resolved, That it is the calm and deliberate judgment of the members of this conference, individually and collectively, that the most urgent demand and exacting duty of our friends in the United States senate requires the prompt adoption of the resolution offered by Hon. W. V. Allen, which provides for an investigation of the frauds perpetrated in the State election held in Alabama the first Monday in August, 1894; and that we appeal to each and all of them, who favor good government and honest elections, to use every effort in their power to secure the adoption of said resolution at the earliest practical moment.

WE have the best authority for stating that within the next few days the investigating Congressional Committee will declare Hon. W. F. Aldrich duly elected to Congress from this district.

ALEX GLASSCOCK.

Our present county commissioners of whom Mr. Glasscock is one, have made such a splendid record during their term of office, that there appears to be little desire on the part of the people to change them. Mr. Glasscock announces his candidacy for re-election, and probably other members of the board will follow his example. We think Mr. Glasscock is eminently fitted for the position and hope to see him re-elected.

ALEX G. DAKE.

In this issue will be found the announcement of Mr. Alex G. Dake as a candidate for county treasurer. Mr. Dake is universally conceded to be a man of fine business qualifications, of unimpeachble honesty and integrity and has been a pioneer worker in the cause of reform and for the People's party. He was for several years secretary of the County Alliance, and as a Justice of the Peace made a fine record. Most of his judgements having been sustained. He is thoroughly competent to fill the office of Treasurer and if he is elected we are satisfied it will be for the benefit of the county.

J. A. LOGAN.

Mr. Joe Logan, known to everyone as one of our most progressive and successful farmers, is announced as a candidate for Tax Collector. He has been prominent in all reform matters since their conception; was one of the first members of the First Alliance in Alabama and hopes to be first in the election for the office he seeks. We believe Mr. Logan would make an excellent tax collector if he is elected, leaving every confidence in his ability and integrety.

J. W. MOORE.

County superintendent of Education J. W. Moore seeks re-election to this important office. Bro. Moore has made a splendid superintendent and we have no doubt that if the people retain him in his office he will continue his good work in the same spirit he has carried it on up to the present.

TRUCKLING TO TOM REED

"Parsons and Kolb are here to attend a secret conference of Alabama Republicans and Populists to decide on the question of fusion. They will refer the matter to Tom Reed and will abide by his decision. It is learned from a reliable source that the Speaker will urge a combination against the Democrats. In fact, he has already expressed himself on this subject, and there is no doubt that his counsels will be followed. The contingent of Alabama Republicans who oppose fusion will be whipped into line. The scheme is to make Goodwyn the gubernatorial candidate and to divide the Presidential electors between the parties of the combine. —Special from Washington."

The extract above appeared first, as I am informed, as a special to The Montgomery Advertiser. The day following, February 14, it appeared in the State-Herald of this city, as a special. The fact that I had gone North with Mayor Van-Hoose for the sole purpose of promoting a great public improvement in which this city and county are most deeply interested, was well known to many leading citizens here, and my mission was cordially endorsed by them. If the State-Herald did not know from its local staff the fact of my departure, about midday, and the reason that carried me, there is nothing to be said by me in reproach. The enterprise displayed, however, in paying for a telegram from Washington, which purported to explain my departure and which was a malicious falsehood; and the vulgar editorial endorsement of so improbable news, was simply in keeping with the vile prostitution of the columns of that paper, daily made, for the purpose of promoting the political ends to which its owners and managers have sunk their money and ceaselessly devote their time and energies. This latter kind of enterprise is what I now propose to expose to the public view.

I denounce the alleged "news," published, as the work, originally, of a mendacious and corrupt Democratic politician in the city of Washington. I inform the general public that the only semblance of truth in the item, as set out, is, that I visited Washington and that, it being considered, by myself and those from Birmingham with whom I was associated in a public mission, best that we should meet the Speaker of the House of Representatives before which body our business was to be placed, I did see Speaker Reed accordingly.

Now for the facts in detail. I left the passenger station here in company with Mayor of the city and Mr. P. G. Bowman, all of us on the same mission, on the afternoon of Tuesday, February the 11th inst.

Wednesday night we reached Washington. It was agreed that I should proceed at once to New York on our common business. I accordingly remained only 15 minutes in Washington. I staid Thursday and Friday in New York, going back to Washington the evening of the latter day. Saturday we undertook to see Speaker Reed. Mayor Vanhoose, myself and others were introduced to him at the Capital at the same time. There was no mention made of politics. The interview was brief. I had never met him before and did not see him again.

By Monday I had become cognizant of the infamous report sent out, as having come from me in the few minutes that I had spent in Washington Wednesday night. I met a Mr. Smith, reporter on the Washington Post, Monday night. He informed me that he had sent the dispatch and expressed deep regret that he had been the victim of a malicious deception. He assured me that a prominent Democrat from Alabama had stuffed him with his news. He volunteered to say he would correct himself by a second special, but, of course, the correction, if received, would be smothered in the newspaper office where so precious a lie had been beforehand received and sent out to do its pre-ordained work.

The people of Alabama have been unnecesarily insulted by this dastardly attempt to pervert a bona fide public service of several gentlemen of this city in its proper effect because I happened to be one of the number. I am glad to say those who undertook the public work referred to are content with the promise of success thus far. All of us were cheered by the reception which business men and legislators accorded us. This city and this county, with due attention following up our initial action, must be very largely the beneficiaries of the high endeavor on foot. It may be too much to hope that The State-Herald will be able to rise to the plane of the public appreciation of that endeavor; or to allow that endeavor to proceed as against its own political schemes and its vile attempts at assassination of the character of men who cross its narrow horizon. The unvarying and notorious feebleness of its support of any public question is ample assurance to all that when its lies are exposed and consigned to oblivion no other uttrances given out by it carry the least weight or consideration with them.

R. F. KOLB.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION
Fourth Congressional District of Alabama.

By authority of the District Committee the Fourth district convention of the Republican Party is hereby called to meet in Calera on March 4, 1896, at 12 m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the 55th congress; for the election of two delegates and two alternates to the Republican National convention to be holden in St. Louis, Mo., June 16, 1896. All white voters who will support the nominees of the Democratic party, are entitled to participate in the election of delegates to the county convention.

R EHRMAN,
Acting Chairman Democratic Executive Committee Chilton Co.

Turn-Round Topics.

Mr. and Mrs. Kendrick attended the birthday celebration of Mr F. M. Connell Sr. last Friday, it being his 74th birthday. They report one of the most pleasant spent days they ever spent.

We are all expecting the measles to get down here yet; that will be bad. The Pattillos are all getting well of the measles. Mr. Walter and Daisy Kendrick attended the German at Mr. William Rutlin's Friday night; everything was arranged most romantically for the occassion. They say it was as good as they ever witnessed.

The new Methodist minister occupied the pulpit Sunday. Your correspondent did not learn his name. Mr Newton Calloway, of Salem, was here Sunday.

Mr. E. L. Jones commenced working the Mountain Creek road to-day. I don't know how long he's going to work but I guess he will get through this week, as the road is in a bad condition.

By the way, readers, let me ask you a question before I forget it. Did you ever know a man, when called upon to engage in a most needful work at the cemetery a half mile from his home; that would go to his stable, bridle his short bodied, little legged, longed eared and short tailed Hamiltonian saddle him, jump astride and start out as if he had a week's jorney before him? Now as I have asked I will answer. Such a man is in existence and he don't live one hundred miles from here either, and he don't ha! ha!

Mr. E. A. Norris gave his friends an entertainment at Mr. B. I. Goss' Saturday night, Mr. F. M. Connell, and sister, Miss Julia from the Lovely Lane, were in attendance. Mr. Fim Connell and neice Miss Sallie DuBose of the Cross Roads paid us a flying visit Sunday. Mr. H. I. Norris has returned from Prattville accompanied by uncle George Morgan.

Miss Lucy Gentry was struck with paralysis Saturday morning, and she is now in a very serious condition. We wish and hope for her rapid restoration.

One of our prettiest and most accomplished young girls was nearly crazy Saturday night because her best fellow (that fellow with the ideal Hamiltonian) was not at the party. I would advise him to come down soon for she takes on about him mightily. Little I. W. P. has had the measles and is now about well, but he aint been down here lately. In conclusion I will say to the Boy Afraid of Girls who wrote from Swift Creek last week, that he need not be afraid of girls, for they won't bite him but then they might kick him. Let us hear from all the correspondents.

O. W. O. Hardman, Sheriff of Tyler county, W. Va., appreciate a good thing and does not hesitate to say so. He was almost prostrated with a cold when he procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He says: "It gave me prompt relief. I find it to be an invaluable remedy for coughs and colds." Vine Hill.

The farmers in our section are taking advantage of this beautiful weather. They are preparing their lands for another crop. Owing to the fire which swept over the woods near here during the windy weather last week the sound of axes and mauls can be heard making new rails as the fire did not stop for fences.

The party given by Mr. and Mrs. Williams last Friday night was simply grand. Mr. Will Kelly, with his band of music, made all who were present want to shake their feet. The old felt young and the young felt grown.

There will be a sociable at the school house next Friday night, given in honor of Miss Mattie Willis who has been spending several days with Miss Lula Willis. Everybody is invited.

A new public road has recently been cut from the Chilton county line to Mr. W. D. Ellis' mill.

Messrs John and Sam Gantt called at Vine Hill yesterday.

A Great Chance to Make Money.

I want to tell you of my wonderful success. Being a poor girl, and needing money badly, I tried the Dish Washer business and have cleared $200 every month. It is more money than I ever had before, and can't help telling about it, for I believe any person can do as well as I have if they only try. I sell from 5 to 15 machines a day. My business is increasing and am going to keep right on until I make $10,000. There is no excuse to be poor when so much money can be made selling dishwashers. The Washers sell on sight; every lady wants one. The Mound City Dish Washer does splendid work; you can wash and dry the dishes in two or three minutes without putting your hands in the water at all. Try this business and let us know how you succeed. The Mound City Dish Washer Co., St. Louis, Mo., will give you all necessary instructions so you can begin work at once.

The experience of Geo. A. Apgar, of German Valley, N. J., is well worth remembering. He was troubled with chronic diarrhœa and, doctored five months and was treated by four different doctors without benefit. He then began using Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, of which one small bottle effected a complete cure. It is for sale by J. S. Johnson, Jr., Druggist.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS
October, 1895

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

FIVE MONTHS FOR $1.00.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION $2.50.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

On Wednesday afternoon, about 3 o'clock, a difficulty occurred near the Congregational church in Clanton between John Moon and Dennis Ponder, both colored, in which Moon was shot and killed. Two shots were fired by Ponder in rapid succession, one passing through the left hand and the other entering Moon's body in the region of the heart. Immediately after the shooting Ponder fled and up to the hour of going to press has not been arrested. The parties are said to have quarrelled on Tuesday about a woman, and a renewal of the quarrel resulted in the killing of Moon. Both Moon and Ponder are well known, the former having been employed for some years as a cook at the Misses Duke's boarding house, and the latter as hostler for Mr. W. H. Merritt.

Weak, Irritable, Tired

"I Was No Good on Earth."

Dr. Miles' Nervine strengthens the weak, builds up the broken down constitution, and permanently cures every kind of nervous disease.

"About one year ago I was afflicted with nervousness, sleeplessness, Creeping sensation in my legs, Slight palpitation of my heart, Distracting confusion of the mind, Serious loss or lapse of memory. Weighted down with care and worry. I completely lost appetite And felt my vitality wearing out, I was weak, irritable and tired, My weight was reduced to 160 lbs., In fact I was no good, on earth.

A friend brought me Dr. Miles' book, "New and Startling Facts," and I finally decided to try a bottle of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. Before I had taken one bottle I could sleep as well as a 10-yr.-old boy. My appetite returned greatly increased.

When I had taken the sixth bottle My weight increased to 176 lbs., The sensation in my legs was gone; My nerves steadied completely; My memory was fully restored. My brain seemed clearer than ever. I felt as good as any man on earth. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is A great medicine, I assure you."

Augusta, Me. WALTER R. BURBANK.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Collins Chapel, Feb. 26, '96.

Editor BANNER: God has, in His all wise wisdom, seen fit to call our much beloved brother, T. G. Robinson, from the walks of man to Himself. Mr. Robinson was a devoted Christian, his seat on his church days was never vacant; he was just as true to the reform cause. He was a charter member of Collins Chapel Alliance, I never knew him to be absent from his Alliance from the time he joined until he died; he was the the president of our Alliance at the time of his death. He left a wife and ten children to mourn his loss for which this community extends their most heartfelt sympathy.

Clanton, Ala, Feb. 24, '96.

Editor BANNER: A few words to the readers of the BANNER and oblige in behalf of M. A. Killgore, as a candidate for sheriff. He is a man highly respected in the community in which he lived 13 years, as a good citizen and an open hearted christian. He will appreciate the support of all who feel disposed to do him the honor. He is fully competent to fill the office and as far as making bond is concerned he will make it.

Notice is hereby given that application will be made to His Excellency the Governor for the pardon of Isaiah Patrick convicted at the Fall Term 1895 of Circuit Court of Chilton County of the offense of burglary.

B. T. PATRICK.

A Des Moines woman who has been troubled with frequent colds, concluded to try an old remedy in a new way, and accordingly took a tablespoonful (four times the usual dose) of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy just before going to bed. The next morning she found that her cold had almost entirely disappeared. During the day she took a few doses of the remedy (one teaspoonful at a time) and at night again took a tablespoonful before going to bed, and on the following morning awoke free from all symptoms of the cold. Since then she has, on several occasions, used this remedy in like manner, with the same good results, and is much elated over her discovery of so quick a way of curing a cold. For sale by J. S. $1.00 FOR YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.

Write us a letter covering these three points:

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

Fence the World in 20 Days.

In the sale of the "STAR" Machine, as shown below, we have done more in recent years to enable the farmers of this country to get their fencing at the actual cost of the wire than all other fence manufacturers in the United States, because we figure and show how cheap the various styles of fence can be made, or what the actual cost of the wire is to make them, while those who make and sell the fence must add the cost of labor to manufacture and their profit to the actual cost of the wire. We can sell you a Machine and enough wire to make 100 rods of the best Woven Wire Fence on earth, horse high, bull strong, pig and chicken tight for the same money that will buy 100 rods of any good woven wire fence now on the market. In one case you have the fence alone. In the other you have not only the fence but a machine which enables you to be your own fence manufacturer and with which you can make over 50 styles, including several styles of Ornamental yard or lawn fences. To show how the farmers of this country appreciate this machine it is only necessary to say that if all the machines sold by us were run for twenty days, each machine making 40 rods per day, they would make enough fence to go around the world, being an average of 400,000 rods or 1,250 miles per day. If all of the machines were run only 60 days during the year, making 40 rods per day each, they would make a grand total of 24,000,000 rods, which would make an average of 76,800 rods or 240 miles for every working day in the year. The combined product of all the Loom Fence Factories of the United States would not equal this. One cent isn't much. Invest it in a postal card and send for our Large Illustrated Catalogue, telling all about fencing. It may save you many dollars. Sent Free for the asking. Address, Kitselman Bros., Box 1092, Ridgeville, Indiana.

$1800.00 GIVEN AWAY TO INVENTORS.

$150.00 every month given away to any one who applies through us for the most meritorious patent during the month preceding.

We secure the best patents for our clients, and the object of this offer is to encourage inventors to keep track of their bright ideas. At the same time we wish to impress upon the public the fact that such as the "car-window" which can be easily slid up and down without breaking the passenger's back, "sauce-pan," "collar-button," "nut-lock," "bottle-stopper," and a thousand other little things that most any one can find a way of improving; and these simple inventions are the ones that bring largest returns to the author. Try to think of something to invent.

IT'S THE SIMPLE, TRIVIAL INVENTIONS THAT YIELD FORTUNES,

IT IS NOT SO HARD AS IT SEEMS.

Patents taken out through us receive special notice in the "National Recorder," published at Washington, D. C., which is the best newspaper published in America in the interests of inventors. We furnish a year's subscription to this journal, free of cost, to all our clients. We also advertise, free of cost, the invention each month which wins our $150 prize, and hundreds of thousands of copies of the "National Recorder," containing a sketch of the winner, and a description of his invention, will be scattered throughout the United States among capitalists and manufacturers, thus bringing to their attention the merits of the invention.

Lost Delight.

There are some pleasures which are inexpensive but satisfying, particularly to the childish mind.

"Oh," exclaimed Marjorie Manson, as the dessert came on, "how I wish you had told me this morning, mamma, that you were going to have ice cream for dinner!"

"Why, what difference would it have made?" inquired Mrs. Manson.

"Oh, lots!" said Marjorie, with a sigh, "I could have expected it all day, then!"

Retaliation.

Inkleigh—Did you read that last story of mine?

Pushpen—I did.

Inkleigh—Well, I'm going to write an article on how I came to write it.

An Oversight.

It is said that when one of the sons of the emperor of Austria called his brother the greatest fool in Vienna, the emperor, who was present and highly offended at their quarrel, exclaimed, "You forget that I am present!"

Grass is King! Hurrah!!

Shout for joy. The green grass rules. It's more valuable than oats, wheat and corn together. Luxuriant meadows are the farmer's delight. A positive way to get them and a very sure one we know is to sow Salzer's Extra Grass Mixtures. No need of waiting a life time either. Salzer has a mixture, sown in April, producing hay in June. Many farmers report yields of six tons of magnificent hay per acre. Over one hundred different kinds of grasses, clovers, Teosinte, Sand Vetch, Giant Spurry and Fodder plants! 35 packages earliest vegetables $1.00. (A. C.)

IF YOU WILL CUT THIS OUT AND SEND with 10c. postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will receive, free, ten grass and grain samples and their mammoth seed catalogue. Catalogue alone 5c. for mailing.

The Prevailing Malady

in this country is dyspepsia. Probably more than three-fourths of the people suffer from it in some of its many forms. Many have dyspepsia and don't know it, because they have the painless kind. Such are always half sick and ascribe their ailment to any cause but the true one. Where dyspepsia is known, or suspected, Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy ought to be used. It is a wonderful medicine, very pleasant to take, and not only corrects digestion in a few minutes, but cures the worst cases of dyspepsia. For sale by all druggists.

A Good Dog is Worth Looking After.

If you own a dog and think anything of him, you should be able to treat him intelligently when ill and understand him sufficiently to detect symptoms of illness. The dog doctor book written by H. ALABAMA IN BRIEF.

Birmingham Pushing for Water Transportation.

EX-CONVICT KILLED AT GURLEY.

Two Deaths From Explosion of an Engine—A Murderer Surrenders. A New Marble Discovery—Two Young Lives Extinguished by Fire.

Inexpressibly Sad.

In Etowah county little Amy Darnell was so badly burned as to leave no hopes of her recovery. Her clothes were burned from her body, and the flesh peeled off in slices.

An Editor Made Happy.

Mr. J. W. Young, the popular young editor of the Fayette Sentinel, was married on the 18th instant to Miss Naomi Ward, of Sulligent. A host of friends are offering congratulations.

Danger in Open Grates.

A special from Gadsden, Ala., says: Little Katie Green, whose parents live in St. Clair county, was playing with her doll before the grate when her clothing caught on fire. Her mother and aunt extinguished the flames and the child's wounds were pronounced very light. She played around the rest of the day but about midnight she had an attack, and in an hour was a corpse.

By Violence the Violent Die.

At Gurley's Thursday evening Dick Childress, an ex-convict, was terrorizing the citizens with a pistol when he met with Policeman Erwin and began to curse him, at the same time pointing his pistol at him. Erwin drew his pistol and both began firing. Childress shot twice and fell, dying instantly, three balls from Erwin's pistol having struck him. Erwin was unhurt.

She Would Dance.

A fatal shooting affray occurred at a candy break near Sardis, Dallas county, Friday night. Virgil Morrisette was jealous of Andrew Wilkins' attention to his wife and forbade them dancing together. Later he saw them dancing and, drawing his pistol, fired at Wilkins and the ball passed through his heart, killing him instantly. In the confusion which followed Morrisette made his escape and has not yet been captured.

A Thief Gets Ten Years.

J. W. Strong, who stole a bag containing one thousand silver dollars from an express truck in the union depot, at Birmingham, on the night of December 13, last, while it was being unloaded fom a car upon its arrival from the New Orleans mint, was on Saturday sentenced by Judge Green of the criminal court to ten years labor in the mines. Strong escaped from the officers last Saturday while he was being taken to the court room to receive sentence but was recaptured that night. The officers say he is a notorious crook.

Washington's Birthday.

The Birmingham society of the Sons of the Revolution on Saturday held a session at the Young Men's Christian association rooms at 3 p. m., in celebration of the one hundred and sixty-fourth anniversary of the birth of George Washington. The Daughters of the American Revolution participated, and the exercises were very interesting. The membership of these two societies is made up of some of the best citizens. All who feel an interest in patriotism were cordially invited, and members of the organization were especially requested to be present.

Cotton Planters Convention.

M. B. Shelton, president of the Lauderdale County Cotton Growers' association, has called a convention of cotton growers, to meet in Florence next Saturday. The convention is for the purpose of taking active steps to reduce the cotton acreage this year. A convention of this character was held here last year and as a result the acreage was reduced about 30 per cent. It is feared that many of the farmers of this section contemplate planting an increased cotton crop this year on account of the better prices that prevailed last fall. A strong effort will be made at the coming convention to persuade them against such a policy.

More of Our State's Wealth.

Gen. J. W. Barker, receiver of the Chattanooga Southern railroad, has received a slab of the most beautiful dove colored marble ever found in the south. It is from a large deposit on the property of P. J. Hines, near Jacksonville, Ala. A short time ago Charles Hang, president of the Rockwood (Ill.) Furniture company, was in the south and was anxious to secure marble to be used in the less expensive grades of furniture. At Roulnette Creek, in Wayne county, a county concerning whose riches "the half has never been told," some fine pink marble has been found, but it was too far from any transportation facilities to be available. The recent discovery at Jacksonville is attracting considerable attention.

Horrible Catastrophe.

A local freight train on the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis rail road, pulled into Bridgeport at 3:15 p. m., Thursday and had stopped on the main track preparatory to taking a siding, when, without a seconds warning, the boiler exploded with terrific force. The locomotive was torn to atoms. One piece of it crashed through the gable of a house several hundred feet away. The body of the fireman, Will Irvin, was torn to shreds, and that of John Walkup, the engineer, was thrown over the top of a planing mill, over 200 feet distant, and was horribly mangled. Simon Riggles, a brakeman, who was on the locomotive tender, was scalded and is not expected to recover. Not a vestige of the big locomotive remained on the track except the wheels.

"Gwine Back" to Africa.

Ten negro families, consisting of forty persons, reached Selma Saturday from Camden, en route to Liberia. J. J. Carmichael, an intelligent negro, is in charge of the party. He is the agent of the International Emigration society, of Birmingham, and will go through to Liberia with them. The negroes are from Dallas, Wilcox and Marengo counties. Their passage is $41, and is paid through, and their household effects and farming implements have been shipped to Savannah. The party went on to Birmingham and will sail from Savannah. The negroes are promised three months provisions by the emigration company, while the government of Liberia offers them thirty acres of farm lands, ten acres for a house site, and each child in a family over 16 years of age ten acres of land additional.

Weary of His Secret.

William Walters has surrendered himself to Sheriff Barr, of Los Angeles, Cal., saying he killed Paul Maddox, in Tuskaloosa county, Alabama, in April 1889. According to his story, he was working at the coal mines near Tuskaloosa. One day he and a friend, Martin Davis, were riding along the road, when they met several other men who were supplied with whisky. Walters bought some whisky of Maddox, one of the other party, and paid for the liquor. They had several drinks together, when Maddox again asked for pay. Walters said he had already paid for the liquor. Maddox struck him on the forehead with a bottle. Walters retaliated by drawing a revolver and putting a bullet through Maddox's body. Walters fled, and made his way to Mississippi, where he boarded a train for the Pacific coast. Sheriff Burr has received a telegram from Alabama that an officer and requisition papers will be sent for Walters.

Experiments in Photography.

Prof. A. F. McKissick, of the Alabama Polytechnic institute has very successfully reproduced the now celebrated experiments of Professor Roentgen, of Wurzberg, by photographing through wood, card board, paper and the human hand. In one of the experiments he places a plate sensitized in a plate holder, which is impervious to sunlight. The articles to be photographed are placed on the top of the plate holder. A tube is lighted up for five minutes. When the plate is developed an image of the articles placed on the plate is distinctly seen. In another experiment he places a key and a book in a thick pasteboard box. This is placed on top of the plate holder and, after being exposed to the lighted tube five minutes, an image of the key and book, which are inside the box, is photographed on the plate. The third experiment consisted in photographing a pair of scissors through a thick piece of wood. One of the most interesting is the photographing of the human hand, which shows the faint outline of the hand, the bones, the joints, etc.

Pushing for Water Transportation.

Mayor VanHoose, of Birmingham, has lately visited Washington and New York with a view to forwarding measures looking to the construction of a canal through the Birmingham district to deep water on the Warrior river.

Mr. VanHoose said Saturday morning: "There were on the committee Congressman O. W. Underwood, Mr. W. F. Aldrich, Capt. R. F. Kolb, Mr. P. G. Bowman and myself. Mr. Aldrich, who was personally acquainted with several members of the committee on rivers and harbors, made a speech and showed them what benefit the canal would be to this section of the United States, and explained the reasons why the government should take a hand in the affair.

"A strange coincidence took place," continued the mayor, "and that was our delegation followed a delegation from Mobile. It was not a preconcerted affair. The Mobile delegation was before the committee for the purpose of asking for a continuation of the work on the gulf and bay there. That committee showed the good that would accrue from the continuation of the work, saying that it would afford an outlet for the coal and iron products of the state and assist the other industries of the commonwealth of Alabama. We showed the committee, after hearing that the Mobile delegation had just been ahead of us, that there was no arrangement between us, and it was only the coincidence that did our cause some good.

"The committee asked us to file our papers and, while not made in so many words, we were given to understand that a thorough investigation of our request would be made. The indications are that a survey will be ordered during this coming summer.

"I cannot say whether the survey will be made down Five-Mile creek or along Village creek."

BILL NYE IS DEAD.

The Great Humorist Succumbed to a Recent Attack of Apoplexy.

Bill Nye died at his home in Buck Shoals near Asheville, N. C., about 1 o'clock last Saturday afternoon.

He suffered a stroke of paralysis about two weeks ago, and since that time has been steadily sinking. His health had been frail for some time and his illness was superinduced by mental worry over the financial failure of his recent lecture tour.

Edgard Wilson Nye, humorist and lecturer, was born in Shirley, Me., August 25, 1850. He was educated at an academy in River Falls Wis., removed to Wyoming, studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1876. He began early to contribute humorous sketches to the newspapers, using the pen name of "Bill Nye." He was connected with various western journals, and afterward settled in New York city. He has published "Bill Nye and the Boomerang," "The Forty Liars," "Baled Hay," "Bill Nye's Blossom Rock," "Remarks" and other productions.

He ranked with the best known and most popular humorists of his time, and has made several wide lecture tours. Mr. Nye owned an elegant winter home near Asheville called Buck Shoals. He leaves two daughters.

Few men were more widely known and none have made the world laugh more by humorous writings than Bill Nye.

Fell to His Death.

Saturday morning Conductor Winyard, of the Savannah, Florida and Western railroad, was killed at Walthourville, Liberty county, Ga. He fell from the train as he was passing from one car to another. The train passed over both legs, mangling them terribly. His body was taken to Savannah for interment.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Summary of the Week's Proceedings in Both Houses.

FIFTY-EIGHTH DAY.

The attack on Secretary Morton for his refusal to expend the appropriation for seed in the present agricultural appropriation bill, was transferred from the senate to the house to-day, and furnished the feature of the proceedings in the lower house. Some very harsh things were said and applauded, especially by Mr. Boatner, who referred to Mr. Morton contemptuously as "that individual," and not a voice was raised in his defense. The general debate on the agricultural bill was closed before adjournment....Several bills of minor importance were passed, and a resolution was adopted directing the judiciary committee to inquire into the right of an executive officer to refuse to execute a law on the ground of its unconstitutionality, and to report by bill or otherwise. This investigation grows out of Comptroller Bowler's decision in the sugar bounty cases.

FIFTY-NINTH DAY.

The speech of Senator Davis, of Minnesota, supporting the resolution of which he is the author, enunciating the policy of the United States on the Monroe doctrine, was the event of the day in the senate. The rest of the day was given to the military academy appropriation bill, which was under discussion when the senate adjourned. The proposition of Mr. Vilas to increase the third-class appointments from each state to an aggregate of ninety, brought out much debate, the prevailing sentiment being favorable to the report. A resolution by Mr. Allen (pop., Neb.) was adopted calling on the secretary of the treasury for information as to the amount of money, including the gold reserve in the treasury on March 4, 1889, and March 4, 1893, respectively; whether there was a decrease of revenue between those dates and the causes therefor. A message from the house of representatives announced the disagreement of that body in the senate silver substitute for the bond bill. No action was taken as to a conference....The agricultural appropriation bill occupied the attention of the house today. A great deal of criticism of Secretary Morton was indulged in both sides of the political aisle. An amendment was pending when the house adjourned making mandatory the execution of the provision in the bill for the distribution of seed. An amendment appropriating $42,360 for a new edition of the "horse book" was adopted. Before the bill was taken up, the senate's amendments to the urgent deficiency bill were non-concurred and a bill was passed for the examination and classification of lands in the railroad grants in California. Mr. Dalzell (rep., Pa.), of the committee on ways and means, reported a resolution of inquiry calling on the secretary of the treasury for an exhaustive report relative to the sale of bonds under the resumption act between the two periods between 1879 and March 1, 1893, and between the latter date and January 1, 1896, which was adopted. The house then went into committee of the whole and resumed the consideration of the agricultural appropriation bill under the five minute rule. Amendments were adopted as follows: On motion of Mr. Doolittle (rep., Wash.), directing the secretary of agriculture to distribute fibre flax seed in the state of Washington, and on motion of Mr. Long (rep., Kan.) appropriating $15,000 for continuing the investigation of modes of irrigation.

SIXTIETH DAY.

In the senate two appropriation bills, the military academy and the pension bill, were passed during the day. The pension appropriation bill, carrying $142,000,000, was passed after ten minutes' debate....The house today passed the agricultural appropriation bill. It carries $3,158,192. The section of the revised statutes for the purchase and distribution of "rare and uncommon" seed, which Secretary Morton declined to execute in the current appropriation law, was repealed, the appropriation for seed was increased from $130,000 to $150,000, and its execution was made mandatory upon the secretary. Bills were passed to permit the Kansas City & Fort Scott railroad to extend its lines into the Indian Territory, to dispose of the Fort Kalmath hay reservation, and to grant the Columbia & Red Mountain railroad a right of way through the Colville Indian reservation. A resolution was adopted directing the committee on ways and means to investigate the effect of the difference of exchange between gold and silver standard countries upon the manufacturing industries of the United States. Notice also was given that the contested election case of Vanhorn vs. Tarsney would be called up next Tuesday.

SIXTY-FIRST DAY.

About sixty private pension bills were passed by the senate during the day. The bill pensioning the widow of the late Secretary Gresham as brigadier-general at $200 monthly, with an amendment making the amount $100 monthly, went over without action in order to permit Mr. Voorhees to speak against this amendment....In the house the army appropriation bill, carrying $23,275,902, was passed; the conference report on the urgent deficiency bill was adopted, and the bill to extend for five years the time in which the government can bring suits to annul patents to public lands under railroad and wagon road grants was passed. An amendment was adopted limiting the application of the act to "railroad and wagon road grants."

SIXTY-SECOND DAY.

In the senate the bill to regulate marriage in the District of Columbia was passed. Mr. Morgan's resolutions, according belligerent rights to Cuba, were taken up and were pending when the senate adjourned until Saturday. ....The house refused to concur in the senate amendments to the general pension appropriation bill and it was sent to a conference. The Indian appropriation bill was taken up in committee of the whole and was pending when a message from the senate was received announcing the passage of the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill. Mr. Hitt, chairman of the committee on foreign affairs, asked concurrence in the senate amendments. The amendments were three in number, increase the salary of the consul at Cape Town to $3,000; making a secretary of legation in Liberia at $1,500, and appropriating $10,000 to cover expenses of officers already in the service detailed to make inspection of consulates. The motion of Mr. Hitt was agreed to. The committee then rose, and at 5:10 o'clock the house adjourned.

SIXTY-THIRD DAY.

In the house, during the morning, the amendments to the military academy appropriation bill were agreed to and a senate bill was passed to amend section 5294 of the revised statutes so as to empower the secretary of the treasury to remit and to mitigate forfeitures under his jurisdiction as well as fines and penalties. Consideration of the Indian appropriation bill was resumed in committee of the whole. Having completed only ten pages of the bill in two days, the committee rose and, on motion of Mr. Dingley, republican, of Maine, it was ordered that when the house adjourn at the close of the evening session for the consideration of private pension bills it be to meet on Monday next. At 5 o'clock a recess was taken until 8 p. m., the evening session being for the consideration of private pension bills only.

SIXTY-FOURTH DAY.

As it was publicly known that the ordinary legislative proceedings in the senate were to be dispensed with today and that the day's session was to be devoted to the memory of the Father of His Country, the galleries of the senate were early crowded with spectators. The opening prayer was delivered by Rev. Wallace Radcliff, D. D., pastor of New York avenue Presbyterian church. He offered special thanks to God "for him whose name is in all hearts today; for the inheritance of his memory, and for the inspiration of his life and example." The reading of Thursday's journal was dispensed with, and the vice-president announced that, under the resolution of the senate the Farwell address of President Washington would be now read by the president of the senate pro tempore, the senator from Maine, Mr. Frye. Taking his position at the clerk's desk, Mr. Frye commenced in a clear, strong voice and with perfectly accentuated delivery to read the farewell address. The reading occupied three-quarters of on hour, and when it was ended the thanks of the senate were, on motion of Mr. Gray, given the reader, and then the senate, at 12.55 p. m., adjourned until Monday.

The Way of the Transgressor is Hard.

Robert Charlson, ex-United States commissioner at Attalla, Ala., who was arrested several days ago in San Antonio, Tex., and brought back to Birmingham and placed in jail, having two years ago fled his $7,000 bond while under sentence of one year for defrauding the government by returning false accounts, which case was pending an appeal, and also while nine other indictments on a similar charge were pending against him, has told the story of how his recapture was effected. He says that he was advised when his first case went against him two years ago, by ex-Deputy Marshal A. H. Draper, a close friend, to skip, Draper promising to go with him and remain by him. The two went to Monterey, Mexico, where Charlson changed his name to J. F. Robertson. He and Draper opened a restaurant at Monterey, Charlson putting up all the money. They struggled hard to make both ends meet and once in a pinch Charlson divided his last dollar with Draper. Now Charlson charges that it was his friend Draper who informed on him for a reward. He says Draper opened correspondence with a woman in Alabama last fall over his protest and in December last made a mysterious trip to San Antonio, Tex., where he remained. About ten days ago, Charlson says, he had to go over to Chihuahua and via San Antonio was the nearest route. While in that city he met Draper, who induced him to walk up to the government building with him. There he was arrested by an officer in Draper's presence. Charlson will remain in jail until the March term of the United States court, when Judge Bruce will decide whether to send him on to the Brooklyn penitentiary now or place him on trial for some of the other charges that are pending. Draper's treachery to Charlson is very likely to be rewarded by his own arrest. When Draper left here there was no charge against him, but after his departure it was discovered that he had made way with some important papers in the cases of the government against Charlson, so it is alleged, and he is now under indictment for that offense. The government authorities have telegraphed to the authorities at San Antonio ordering Draper's arrest.

WOMAN'S WIT.

TOLD BY A SOCIETY GIRL.

Something About Morphine, Sulphur, Molasses and Other Things.

From the Evening News, Newark, N. J.

Among the popular society leaders in East Orange, N. J., Emma L. Stoll, a charming young maiden, stands in the foremost rank. She is of a lovable disposition and the light of the social set in which she moves. For two years she has been a sick girl from internal troubles peculiar to women, and having recently recovered, has given our reporter the following interesting account:

"Instead of improving under the care of my physician I became worse. For five weeks I was unable to get out of bed and about six o'clock each morning I suffered horribly. My lips were sore and lacerated from the marks of my teeth, for in my efforts to keep from screaming I sunk my teeth deep into my lips. At such times I rolled and tossed until the bed shook like an aspen leaf and it finally got so serious that the doctor—I won't tell you his name—gave me some morphine pills to take. The very thought of them now makes me shiver. These morphine pills simply put me to sleep for a while, and when I became conscious again my agony was renewed.

"The pain in my stomach and back was more than I could stand. 'Your blood is poor,' said the doctor, 'take sulphur and molasses,' and I did until it was a great wonder that I was not a molasses cake. It was time wasted in taking it because I was not benefited in the least; my suffering continued, but by a mighty effort after being in bed so long, I got up. Oh, but I was a sad sight then. From 112 pounds, I had fallen to ninety; my cheeks were pale and sunken and I limped; yes, actually hobbled from the extreme pain in my side. Then I read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and the testimonial in the News inspired me with hope. I got the pills and took them. Before many days I began to improve and before I had finished one box I felt as if I could go out and walk for miles. I soon stopped limping and through the Pink Pills I soon bid good bye to my headaches, while the pain in my stomach and back slowly but surely succumbed to the influence of these pills that seem to be able to persuade all pain to leave one's body. Now I am as I used to be, well and strong, light-hearted and merry but never without the pills. See I have got some of them now," and from a nearby desk she handed out one of the boxes.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

"Plain, but athletic."

(After sketch in New York Truth.)

Evidently the picture of a woman cleaning house for the first time with Pearline. She finds that what has always been the hardest kind of hard work is now comparatively easy, pleasant, quickly done—and in her joy and enthusiasm and high spirits, she kicks up her heels.

Probably this is an extreme case. Still, it may be there are numbers of women who, when they clean house first with Pearline, manifest their pleasure in the same way. You don't hear of it, though. They simply tell you that in all their lives the work of house-cleaning has never been so light, so satisfactory, so soon over, so thoroughly well done.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. JAMES PYLE, New York.

CREATOR OR CREATED.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE HUNGER AND IDLENESS.

Is the Crime of Human or Divine Origin—Premature Death from Hunger, Cold or Exposure in a Country Possessing Unlimited Wealth Is Murder.

From the St. Louis Evening Journal.

Presidents, senators, high muck-a-mucks in the social and political world from home and abroad, including Scrofulous heiress huntres from run-down estates in Europe, and upstart politicians recently promoted from the gutter to the judiciary for devoted sycophancy to the vested interests—these and others of their ilk are now interviewed and held up to public view by the daily papers, and their every remark reported and every action noted so assiduously that the millions—that is the every day fellows like you and me have almost forgotten that we exist. We see the members of the official and social ring quoted so often that we have come to think that they are the country, the people, and when they say "we" or "us" or "our," we common people get confused and think we are in it. They do the talking, for they own the sources of information. We the millions, have no organs and are dumb. So when when they are having a good time the country is prosperous, when they gorge themselves God is good, when they get into a senseless quarrel with the same breed across the water our country must prepare for war and when one of their youngsters has the stomach ache cold weather is prophesied. But we, the people who have been left out in the cold have a mouth-piece now in the Daily Journal, and we are going to speak through it and be interviewed ourselves. Those of us who have sorrows are going to tell how we think they came upon us and give any advice we wish, to others in danger of ills that may be prevented.

A Journal man met an old soldier coming out of the postoffice yesterday and as he did not claim the title of colonel interviewed him.

Have I got anything to say to the public?" he ejaculated in answer to the first inquiry. "I should think I have I have enough to say that if the people would listen to me and had hearts instead of gristley blood pumps they would rise against their present rulers before tomorrow.

I went to the war as a healthy smart young man, from a pleasant home and even left my sweetheart, to give my life to save my country. I generously laid my all on the altar of patriotism and when I returned home wounded and only a wreck of a man I found that the country I thought I was saving had been captured in the rear by a band of scheming traitors headed by John Sherman. I worked hard to make a living but because I would not become a partner to the rascals who looted the public treasury to enrich national banks, I was refused a pension.

"Last year my only daughter who all her life has been devoted to me and nursed me like an angel through every illness and who used to sit up nights to make me delicacies—she was forced to work in a factory on Washington avenue. The boss' son took a liking to her and I don t blame him for she was the loveliest creature you ever laid eyes on. He told her how pretty she was and she was fooled into thinking he was going to marry her. He came to our house many times, and I knew he meant to marry her. I knew he was a good-intentioned fellow and generous, but his grisly old dad said he would disinherit him if he did. My daughter used to tell me with her arms around my neck all the things she was going to do for me [illegible] she married Fred. But one day she came home as pale as death. She said she was sick. I knew she was sick in her mind and got her to tell me that her sweetheart was not going to marry her. I thought this was all, poor child, but one week later she did not return one night, and told me in a note that she was not worthy to live with me any more, and that I would never see her again. The poor youngster, I have been looking for her ever since, but she is gone, I am afraid, forever. I would not condemn her—I would forgive her—I would forgive even the young man. Both are angels beside the prostitute editors and preachers who uphold a system of society that makes Christian marriage impossible, and sells the love of both man and woman for gold. The young man had been sent away by his father for fear I would kill him. No, I wouldn't hurt him; he was only weak; I know he really loved my girl. But I would not object to killing a few of the fellows who have made it impossible for me to get work and support my daughter, and who make social laws against men marrying those they love when poor. I would not object to shouldering my rifle the second time to abolish slavery, this time of sixty instead of four million slaves, whose sons are made drudges or criminals, and whose daughters are regarded as the natural game for the sport of the idle classes. Oh. I just wish they would try to count out the people's choice for president this year, if the poor people elect him. I would just like to get one whack at them. Curse their souls, if they keep on breaking the laws and spitting on the people they will find enough just such broken-hearted, simple-minded fellows of my stripe to make short work of them. No, I ain't got no more to say and if you publish half I've told you you've got more spunk than William Lloyd Garrison."

Muttering a few curses the old wounded soldier walked away. He gave his blood to save his country—to-day his country denies him the opportunity to earn a living and drives his daughter to what is worse than death.

Walking into the postoffice the Journal man saw an old woman writing on a postal card, but after she would write each word she had to stop and wipe the tears from her eyes. She first resented being asked the cause of her sorrow, but after being assured she was talking to a friend explained that she had raised a family of three bright boys, but all were now dead, and that although they once owned their own home and store, doing a prosperous business, the millionaire's department store had caused their failure, and now she and her aged invalid husband were about to be separated and sent to two different charitable houses for the aged. My youngest boy killed himself by overwork trying to make the business go and when he saw we were all going under in spite of his efforts, he lay right down on his bed and died in delirious fever. And to think after losing all our children and working hard all our lives we must now be separated in our old age and be sent to different institutions among strangers—! Oh! My God it is too much! I wish I were dead too!"

When asked if she thought God was to blame for her misfortune she answered: "Oh, no; He made the world big enough and rich enough for all." "Then why is this world filled with so much pain and wretchedness?" continued her interrogator. "I don't know," she sobbed. "Is it not all the fault of those who monopolize the world and deny the poor the right to earn their living?" The poor woman looked up in blank amazement. She had been their in a church led by Pharisees, who had never suggested that God's Kingdom was possible on this earth, or that the present hell is the result of social and political crimes, and so she only shook her old aching head—she could not understand. The idea that the benefit of progress and invention belonged to all alike, and that every man, woman and child in the world might enjoy an abundance of all the good things of life had never occurred to her. The poor thing had cried, "Oh, my God!" in her misery, never realizing that God had given her a world of unlimited beauty and delight, which had forcibly been taken from her by the ruling classes; that these people waste enough in one brutal feast to save the lives of a hundred hungry women and children; that single families squander in useless ostentation weekly what would give comfort, peace and plenty to a neighborhood and that these things are crimes for which the pereptrators must not only answer to heaven but for which they shall very soon have to answer to an enraged and determined people.

The victims of social injustice will be interviewed from time to time by the Journal man and their suggestions published as to how existing social cannibalism can be abolished, how each individual can be most useful in quenching the flames of our earthly hell and overcoming the two-legged devils who now poison the stream of human life.

Alleged Disreputable Action.

The newspapers that believe that a high tariff is the remedy for all our most important ills are berating the Senate finance committee because it reported a free silver bill as a substitute for the tariff bill. It is asserted that the substitute bill is not germane to the original bill. Well, let us see. The purpose of the tariff bill is to raise revenue, to get hold of some money, is it not? If it were passed it is altogether problematical whether it would answer the purpose or not. Importations depend upon a market for what is imported. When times are good and everybody has money to spend a tariff will produce revenue. When nobody has any money, importations will necessarily be light and a revenue from a tariff will not be heavy. The government has asked congress to enact some sort of legislation that will relieve the financial necessities of the treasury. The finance committee had before it the simple question of how to raise money and it very wisely concluded, in our judgment, that the easiest and most certain way of raising money was to provide for the coinage of silver. It seems to us that it was the most sensible thing that the senate has done for ten years. It went about accomplishing a purpose in a direct, business-like, common sense way. The majority of the senate is in favor of free silver. The majority of the senate next year will be in favor of free silver; and to charge that the free silver senators are obstructionists because they provide a way for raising revenue according to their financial convictions, is as silly as would be the charge that the house is an obstructionist because it believes in the tariff bill and not in the silver bill. When a majority of such a straight-back institution as the senate is in favor of free silver, it looks to us as if the gold men ought to pause and ascertain where they are at.—Chicago Voice.

Seeing that by taking in the honest elements of all parties the populists can elect president and vice president, the Wall street wolves (that is all that will be left of the republican and democratic parties after July 22) are already planning to capture the presidency by force. Wonder if they know what such a course would entail? "We have the guns," they say, "the president is ours, the navy is ours, the army is ours. Just let them try and inaugurate a crazy populist president of this country and we'll kill them like cattle." Gentle reader, the above expression comes from a third-term advocate of Mr. Cleveland. He speaks for plutocracy. Wall street has actually planned to steal the presidency in March, next year.

Would not the "pitchfork" make a good and attractive addition to the plow and hammer as an emblem of the people's party?

WHAT GENERAL GRANT SAID:

"With Free and Unlimited Coinage of Gold and Silver we will Clear Away our Public Debt Before the Close of the Century."

These Were Uttered by the President Just After He had Signed the Bill Demonetizing Silver. In Other Words, He did not Know that the Bill which He Signed had for its Object the Destruction of One-half of the Debt-Paying Money of the Country. Yet Wall Street Wolves Tell Us the Demonetization Act was not Sneaked Through Congress by John Sherman and his Co-conspirators from England.

IT'S THE PROGRAM.

SO THINKS A DEMOCRATIC NEWSPAPER.

Says that Grover Cleveland and John Sherman Will Support the Same Candidate This Year—Next President Will Be a Populist.

(From the Chicago Opinion.)

National politics have been taking such shape for the past few months that the tariff question promises to be largely eliminated from the coming presidential campaign, through being so completely overshadowed by the financial issue embodying the remonetization of silver at 16 to 1 and the abolition of the national banks.

Many indications point to a general smashing of party lines and the union of men from all parties, who think alike on the financial question, under a new party banner. That the gold standard leaders will control both the republican and democratic national conventions does not permit of a doubt, and while they may attempt to deceive the people as usual by a straddle, those old methods will no longer be effective, and when the lines are fairly drawn it is not improbable that Grover Cleveland and John Sherman will be found standing upon the same platform and supporting Governor Morton of New York for president, who is now reasonably sure to receive the republican nomination at the demand of Wall street, while the democratic party is liable to be absorbed in the extreme west and south by the populist party. Since the meeting, Jan. 22, at Washington, of the silver men matters have made rapid progress toward the fusion of all the elements who believe in a genuine double standard and oppose a surrender of this country to English domination in our financial management under the populist banner. It was there decided to call a national convention to meet June 22, at the same time the populist party is to convene, to select a presidential candidate, when it is expected that conference committees will arrange a platform and candidates that will easily satisfy those two bodies and also all the republicans and democrats, who will be virtually driven out of their respective national conventions, which will already have made nominations and adopted a gold platform in the face of strong and bitter opposition. All western republicans and democrats also southern democrats, who are opposed to reduction in value of the silver dollar will have no place to go but to the new party, and in most cases will control the party machinery west of the Mississippi and south of Mason and Dixon's line. Consequently, in those states both of the old parties will be placed in the attitude of bolters and the populists assured of every electoral vote in all of those states, thus making it incumbent upon them only to carry Indiana and Michigan in order to win the election, both of which states have always retained a strong greenback sentiment. Republican and democratic aid in those states will accomplish that much. In Michigan Mayor Pingree, of Detroit, an ardent free-silver man, will undoubtedly secure the republican nomination for governor, and the gold standard republicans will be compelled to bolt. A fusion of the Pingree men, silver democrats and populists for electors is assured, which means their election. In Indiana the democrats will place themselves squarely upon the silver platform, and a fusion with the populists and silver republicans assure a large majority in the state. In Illinois the populists will hold their convention first, and the program is now to nominate Governor Altgeld and Attorney General Moloney, with perhaps Hinrichsen, thus paving the way for a fusion of all the free silver men in the state upon one ticket. The candidates who are to lead this formidable party comprised of men who have tired of the double dealings of both old parties upon the vital interests that more than all others affect business prosperity to-day, are Senators Henry M. Teller of Colorado, long a leading republican, for president, and Senator Morgan of Alabama, Representative Crisp of Georgia, or some such man for vice-president. Mr. Teller has always been a loyal republican, but has never failed to place the financial question above that of tariff. Work on these lines has been going on for months, and 8,000 newspapers are already prepared to sustain the silver party. T. H. Carter, chairman of the republican national committee, must naturally stand by his avowed convictions and throw his influence into the scale for silver. Tom Reed has never taken a position on the question where he could be counted, while McKinley already scents the new arrangement of party lines, and is speaking upon both sides of the issue. The nomination of Governor Morton will make many heart burnings, especially when it it known to be at the dictation of Wall street, with ten millions behind it and double that amount if necessary, all of which was made by the syndicate who sold Cleveland's bonds. The headquarters of the Bimetallic Union is in this city and is in charge of Edward B. Light, secretary, and Hon. H. F. Bartine, editor of the National Bimetallist. They are doing a vast amount of missionary work and disseminating the silver doctrine through an immense volume of literature, with which they are flooding Indiana, Illinois and Michigan and educating the people. At the same time W. H. Harvey (Coin) is still actively engaged in making converts through his splendid organization of the Patriots of America. Leading greenbackers like General Weaver of Iowa, Jed Spalding of Michigan, and Robert Schilling of Wisconsin fully approve of the movement, as do the populist leaders like Senator Peffer of Kansas. Politicians may decry the issue and machine men attempt to dodge and straddle again, and once more fool the people, but every move upon the checkerboard is forcing men who think alike to bury all old prejudices and stand together for their own interests and a common country. Let the honest voter take notice and govern himself accordingly. The next president will be a populist.

NATIONAL LEGION.

The Legion is now rapidly growing among the people; it is growing faster than any organization in the nation. The People's party must thoroughly organize. If it will not, it will meet with the fate of the Greenback and Labor parties. If they want to preserve the faith they have battled for on many fields, it is of the highest importance that they should unite at once in the Legion and seek converts in a regular systematic way. It is possible between now and July 22d to convert the great mass of the people who are dissatisfied with the two old parties. We must provide a plan to educate and instruct them in the faith we hold. If we had a Legion in every state, county, precinct and school district in the land, as has been constantly recommended, there would be no misunderstanding about our platform and vital principles. What we must do is to educate the people; and we should at once, without a moment's delay, organize. It is no use quarreling with each other; no use reviling at the faults and frailties and mistakes that may be made. What we want is perfect unity and organization. It is useless to criticise the action at St. Louis. We must without sacrifice of principle hold out the olive-branch to those who believe as we do on fundamental questions, and keep our "doors open to the North, South, East and West" if we expect to win and relieve the oppressed people. I have ever upheld the Omaha platform, and will loyally do so until the St. Louis convention establishes its creed. I believe that we will agree without the loss of our self-respect or the abandonment of our principles. In order to hold our faith we should organize into a compact, united band. And if the two million who have voted our ticket, and the loyal following associated with them in their households, will organize and individually and by force of perfect organization go into earnest missionary work, we can convert enough voters before July to win the fight.

From every quarter come the glad tidings of great accessions to our ranks. In some localities it amounts to a landslide. We can never gain in this grand contest if we are divided ourselves. I have had many grievances and have been burdened with a heavy task. I have resented bitterly unfair treatment, but I am willing to bury it all and labor to organize for victory in 1896. The people should sustain their committees. They should build up and encourage their newspapers. They should cheer the overworked, illy paid editors. They should be willing, one and all, to "divide their last blanket and last crust" with each other, and remember that no great cause has ever triumphed unless martyrs trod the hot plowshares and unselfishness was ever uppermost. We have adopted a new form of membership for those who desire it and who wish to swell the fund for propaganda work.

We send the certificate of membership, a beautiful token, and Legion button to all sending $1.00; and with it we enclose a full set of supplies and commission as Legion Scout if desired; and a sample copy of The Nation, which prints all orders and circulars. There is no red tape. Send for papers and organize at once.

We want you in line now; and the moment you read this go out and drum up ten people and organize and send for charter. Always enclose stamps for supplies. We draw no salaries, and labor as a freewill gift. We are already burdened with a load of debt incurred in this work. We want to establish a lecture bureau, and we urge your active co-operation. Our mail is constantly increasing and we need a typewriter for this great work. We do not appeal to or beg of the people. It is their work and they should help sustain it.

This is a great struggle for human rights. No more sacred contest was ever waged in all the ages. If we are alive, if we will awake, if we will arouse from slumber, and each one do his whole duty—if we are a band of freedom, united in fraternity—we can restore liberty and bring back prosperity. We are in the ruthless hands of aliens and traitors to our nation who sell our birthright daily. Our rulers worship the golden image, and humiliation and shame are the lot of our patriotic people.

A new Declaration of Independence is demanded, and on our shoulders rests the sacred work.

PAUL VAN DERVOORT.

Boycotting the Populists.

The "Times-Echo" of Eureka Springs, Ark., says:

"There is one peculiarity about all Populist papers that's very noticeable—they run practically no advertisements. Perhaps advertisers think that a man who will read a Populist paper hasn't money enough to buy goods that are advertised.".

We can hear some old party merchant chuckling to himself as he reads that little squib.

The partisan merchant knows why Populist papers have very little advertising. It is a part of the organized boycott against people who protest against being robbed.

Populist papers have just as large subscription lists, and often larger, than any old party paper published in the same counties. Their readers have just as much money to buy goods as do the farmers and laborers of the two old parties, and they are more intelligent and likely to see a good point in an advertisement.

But Populist papers are boycotted purely for partisan reasons.

Most Populist editors do not expect any patronage from old party sources—and some are so independent that they fly at their masthead, "No advertisers need apply."

It requires courage to run a Populist paper—but Populist newspaper men are usually "built that way."

In view of these facts Populists generally are beginning to see the wisdom of "tit for tat," and patronizing only those business men who consider their trade worth asking for. By and by no Populist will buy anything at all from the merchant who boycotts his paper.

We must do it in self-defense.

A Don't Care Citizen.

Don't care how the cotton sells—
Takin' of my ease,
Where the music of the bells
Jingles on the breeze.

Don't care how the country goes—
Roamin' far an' free;
In the woods there blooms a rose
Red an' sweet for me!

Don't care how the cities roll—
Thundering along!
Streak o' sunshine in my soul
Twinklin' into song!

Don't care where my life is led—
Still it's honey sweet,
Blue sky smilin' overhead—
Green earth at my feet!

CURRENT OF COMMERCE.

About the Usual Number of Failures, With Average Liabilities.

BUSINESS GAINS IN THE WEST.

No General Improvement—Demand for Industrial Products Not Equal to Supply—Fewer Labor Difficulties Than Usual—Decline in Cottons.

Failures in the three weeks of February show liabilities of $10,839,916, against $8,523,028 last year and $11,420,418 in 1894. Failures for the week have been 273 in the United States, against 259 last year, and 53 in Canada, against 38 last year.

In some quarters business gains at the west rather than at the east, but there is no general change for the better, though hopefulness still predominates. Foreign affairs grow more pacific and public opinion turns more resolutely towards sound money, but the want of sufficient demand for the products of the great industries still retards actual improvement. Strikes of some importance in garment making and kindred lines affect trade in Chicago and Baltimore, but there are fewer labor difficulties than usual, as existing conditions warn wage-earners that controversies at this time are unwise. The speculative market shows little life.

The market for textile goods is disappointing. Materials reductions in cottons have not brought out the needed demand, and a further decline in Lawrence, L. L. brown sheetings this week to 4 1-8 cents corresponds with reports that mills of some importance may prefer to arrest production for a time unless the demand improves. Clay worsteds are again a shade lower; the range for all woolens is scarcely 1 per cent higher than a year ago, although wool is more than 7 per cent higher and a good many mills are closing or reducing time. The feature in iron has been the large demand for wrought and cast pipe. Large orders for structural are received at Chicago and expected at the east, as building plans are unusually large; but sheets sell slowly and rails very little, though bar iron is fairly active, with many orders coming for cars. Iron quotations average 2 per cent lower for the week, because of the drop in Bessemer at Pittsburg to $12.50, and in gray forge to $10.75. The demand for boots and shoes gains very little. Exports of domestic products from New York for three weeks show a gain of 16 per cent over last year, while imports in the same time scarcely increase.

NOTIFIED TO GET OUT.

Pleasant Way in Which Pennsylvania Workers Show Preference.

Daniel Winter, who was appointed president pro tem. of the National Window Glass Workers' association when President Burns was suddenly deposed last week, and Hudson Campbell, presiding officer of L. A. No. 300, were run out of Jeannette, Pa., last week by a mob of more than 1,000 men and boys. The officers went to Jeannette to visit the glass workers at the Chambers-McKee factory. The latter are friendly to Burns and as soon as the officials were recognized work was stopped. A crowd quickly gathered and the two men were notified to get out of the town at once. They started for the station, followed by a howling mob, blowing horns and threatening them with summary punishment.

The crowd finally became so demonstrative that Winter and Campbell took refuge in Burgess Bethune's office from which they were escorted to the railroad station by the police, followed by the mob, yelling, "Burns, Burns, Burns, is president," and "Hang the villains." The two men quickly boarded the train and as it pulled out for Pittsburg the last words Campbell and Winter heard were a promise of death if they returned to Jeannette.

NO OBJECTION

To Bimetallic Congress Has J. Bull, But Can't Think of Opening India Mints to Silver.

In the British house of commons Friday Mr. George N. Curzon, under secretary for foreign affairs, stated that the government had been approached with a view to the convening of another international bimetallic congress. To these representations Lord Salisbury had replied that he would consult with his colleagues in the ministry before giving a definite answer. The premier informed the powers making the overtures, however, that he had no desire to oppose the holding of such a conference if good grounds were shown, but upon learning that the reopening of the Indian mints was a necessary condition to an international monetary agreement he refused to continue the matter to any further conclusion.

Specie Exports

The exports of specie from the port of New York for the week amounted to $347,500 in gold and $1,338,000 in silver. The imports were: Gold, $769,447; silver, $51,618; dry goods, $3,935,305; general merchandise, $8,615,976.

THE Republican convention yesterday at Calera passed resolutions against co-operation or fusion and indorsed the nomination of Gen. Joseph H. Burke, of Calhoun, for governor.

THE resolutions in the U. S. Senate in regard to the belligerent rights of the Cuban patriots have wounded the susceptibilities of the Spanish people and now it is war talk again.

EUGENE DEBBS, the labor leader, gave an excellent lecture on the brotherhood of man in Birmingham last Sunday. He received an ovation on his arrival in the city and was carried to his hotel on the shoulders of his admirers.

THE committee on elections have made their report in favor of seating W. F. Aldrich from this district, and the cause of honest elections in Alabama has gained a great victory. We hope next week to be able to say that Capt. Goodwyn has been seated for the fifth district.

THE Senate committee on elections have reported favorably on Senator Allen's resolution for the appointment of a committee, to consist of two Democrats, two Republicans and one Populist, to inquire into the legality of the present Alabama legislature that returned Senator Morgan.

IN Jefferson county we notice the announcement of our old and highly esteemed friend A. J. O'Keefe, editor of the Independent, for the office of representative in the legislature. Jefferson sends six representatives to the legislature and we hope and expect to see six Populists returned. If it should unfortunately happen that a democrat is to be one of the six we certainly would like to see Mr. O'Keefe that one. Although he still remains in the Democratic party he is a gentleman of broad mind and liberal views, and a staunch free silver man. He is a well known labor man and was president of the Birmingham Trades Council.

THE Republican convention of the fourth Alabama district met yesterday at Calera and in our opinion did an unkind act in nominating H. Alex Wilson, of Lomax, as their candidate for congress. Our present congressman, Hon. W. F. Aldrich, fought a great fight in the last campaign which is only just completed. In all probability he is the only man in the district who could have carried the affair to such a satisfactory conclusion. But it would appear the republicans think Mr. Aldrich is too good a Populist for them and have declined to nominate him again. Republicans in this district cannot elect their man without Populist support. The logical conclusion is that Mr. Aldrich should come directly into the Populist party and if he desires to be again returned to congress we can and will elect him. We extend the invitation and say, come!

CONFEDERATE MUSEUM.

After more than thirty years, during which time the historic building was used as headquarters for the United States Military Commanders of District No. 1 and as a Public Grammar School, the Jefferson Davis mansion, known the world over as the "White House of the Confederacy," is about ready to be thrown open as a Confederate Museum.

A room has been assigned to each of the Confederate States and has been put in charge of a Regent residing in that State, together with a Vice-Regent residing in Richmond. The duty of the former will be to gather and forward all Confederate relics possible in her State, while the Vice will have charge of the room. The Regent and Vice-Regent for Alabama are Miss Mary Clayton, of Eufaula, Ala., and Mrs. Jas. H. Drake, of Richmond, Va., respectively. Miss Clayton is to gather the relics and forward them to Mrs. Drake who will place them in the Alabama room for preservation and exhibition. In order to collect these relics Miss Clayton desires to appoint a committee in each city and town in the State to assist her.

Time and ill-use have greatly impaired the Davis mansion and it will be necessary to have the Alabama room made suitable for the reception of the relics, and glass cases will have to be procured in which to preserve them. Miss Clayton desires the committees appointed in the cities and towns to collect as much money as possible with which to repair and furnish the room. The larger the amount of money the more creditable will be made the Alabama exhibit. She feels sure that every old Confederate, as well as their sons and daughters will be glad to assist her.

Miss Mary Clayton, of Eufaula, Regent for Alabama of the Confederate Battle Abbey Association, is the daughter of the gallant and distinguished Maj Gen Henry D Clayton, who was the ideal of splendid soldiers he commanded on many battle fields, and who died while president of the State University at Tuscaloosa

J. J. L. STEWART.

Mr. Stewart who is well and favorably known throughout the county but more particularly in the neighborhood of Verbena where he has resided for many years is a candidate for the office of Tax Assessor. Mr. Stewart is thoroughly posted on the duties of the office having served the county of Autauga as Tax Assessor in a most efficient manner, gaining the respect and confidence of even his political opponents. If elected we are satisfied he will make as good a record in this county.

P. E. HARRIS.

Mr. P. E. Harris, of Plantersville, is announced as a candidate for county commissioner for the Third District. This gentleman has never sought office before but his neighbors and friends, by whom he is held in high estimation, have induced him to become a candidate in this coming election. The people are aware that the county commissioners have a great responsibility and are seeking the best men for the position. If elected Mr. Harris will look well after the interests of his constituents and the county.

RUFUS C. RIGGINS.

The announcement of Mr. Rufus C. Riggins' candidacy for the office of county commissioner for the First District will be hailed with satisfaction by his friends. Mr. Riggins during his term of office as justice of the peace in beat 4 made a good reputation. He is a gentleman highly thought of in his own community and we feel assured the interests of the county could not be entrusted to better hands. If he is elected he will undoubtedly make an excellent commissioner.

BEN H. WELLS.

It has been understood for some time past that Mr. Ben H. Wells would be a candidate for the office of tax collector and his announcement is very gratifying to his friends. Ben is a strong man and enters the race with a vim and vigor that will carry him well forward to the goal. He has been a leading man in the reform movement from its beginning and is well known throughout the county. Thoroughly posted on the duties of the office to which he aspires he will, if elected, make a most efficient tax collector.

MOSES ROBINSON.

It is with unqualified pleasure we make the announcement of the candidacy of Mr. Moses Robinson for re-election as commissioner for the Fourth District. At the present time it is of the utmost importance that some tried and true man should be on the board of commissioners and the able manner in which the proceedings of the board have been conducted, together with his great experience in county matters, make it eminently proper that Mr. Robinson at least should be retained in the office he has so worthily filled. We hardly expect there will be any opposition to his candidacy, but if there should be we are confident of his re-election.

"Perhaps you would not think so, but a very large proportion of disease in New York, comes from carelessness about catching cold," says Dr. Syrus Edson. "It is such a simple thing and so common that few people, unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to a cold. New York is one of the healthiest places on the Atlantic Coast and yet there are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in this neglect of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most sensible advice is, when you have one get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Dr. Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but we will. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will relieve the lungs, aid expectoration, open the secretions and soon effect a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by J. S. Johnson, Jr., Druggist.

A Great Chance to Make Money.

I want to tell you of my wonderful success. Being a poor girl and needing money badly, I tried the Dish Washer business and have cleared $200 every month. It is more money than I ever had before, and can't help telling about it, for I believe any person can do as well as I have if they only try. I sell from 5 to 15 machines a day. My business is increasing and am going to keep right on until I make $10,000. There is no excuse to be poor when so much money can be made selling dishwashers. The Washers sell on side; every lady wants one. The Mound City Dish Washer does splendid work; you can wash and dry the dishes in two or three minutes without putting your hands in the water at all. Try this business and let us know how you succeed. The Mound City Dish Washer Co., St. Louis, Mo., will give you all necessary instructions so you can begin work at once.

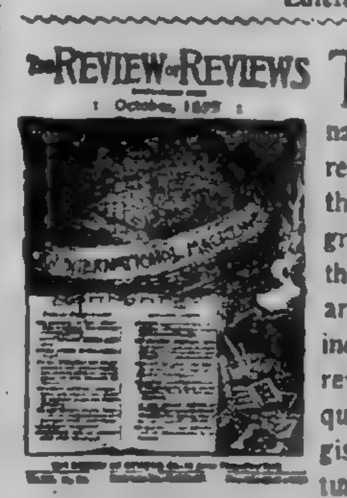
THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Edited by ALBERT SHAW.



THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

Clanton, Ala., March 3, '96.

Last Wednesday about noon the lot buildings of Mr. H. J. Hardy, 5½ miles west of Clanton were burned to the ground. Mr. Hardy had been clearing new ground and the nearest brush heap was about 40 yards from the buildings. It is supposed that either a current of air carried the fire to the buildings or that a rabbit in the brush heap caught fire and ran under the buildings. In addition to the lot buildings a mule was burned and Mr. Hardy lost all his corn and fodder and a ton of guano. The neighbors have made good the loss so far as the corn and fodder is concerned and also helped him with some money.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives the best satisfaction of any cough medicine I handle, and as a seller leads all other preparations in this market. HEART DISEASE, like many other ailments when they have taken hold of the system, never gets better of its own accord, but Constantly grows worse. There are thousands who know they have a defective heart, but will not admit the fact. They don't want their friends to worry, and Don't know what to take for it, as they have been told time and again that heart disease was incurable. Such was the case of Mr. Silas Farley of Dyesville, Ohio who writes June 19, 1894, as follows:

"I had heart disease for 23 years, my heart hurting me almost continually. The first 15 years I doctored all the time, trying several physicians and remedies, until my last doctor told me it was only a question of time as I could not be cured. I gradually grew worse, very weak, and completely discouraged, until I lived, propped half up in bed, because I couldn't lie down nor sit up. Thinking my time had come I told my family what I wanted done when I was gone. But on the first day of March on the recommendation of Mrs. Fannie Jones, of Anderson, Ind., I commenced taking Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart and wonderful to tell, in ten days I was working at light work and on March 19 commenced framing a barn, which is heavy work, and I hav'nt lost a day since. I am 56 years old, 6 ft. 4½ inches and weigh 250lbs. I believe I am fully cured, and I am now only anxious that everyone shall know of your wonderful remedies."

Dyesville, Ohio. SILAS FARLEY.

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5 or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

South Calera.

Farm work is beginning to flourish around here.

The Spoke Factory here is running on full time; Mr. G. B. Deans chairman of our executive committee, is superintendent of the works here.

South Calera Sabbath school has ordered a lot of song books to put in their new library.

The Christian Endeavor Society of South Calera church held their semi-annual election of officers last Sunday evening, resulting in the election of Prof. J. E. Creel, president, Federick Endres, vice-president, K. M. Jones, Secretary treasurer.

Owing to the sickness of Rev. J. L. Busby's family the stand was occupied Sunday by Rev. J. R. Crowson who preached an excellent sermon.

Mr. H. Harsh, of Birmingham, attended church here Sunday.

Anyone wishing to educate their children would do well to patronize the South Calera school under the principalship of Prof. J. E. Creel, cheap school, cheap board, good school and good society.

Institute opened with prayer by L. B. Pounds.

First subject, The best way of impressing upon the pupils the importance of an education, A B Harwood opened followed by R. E. R. Hicks, J. W. Moore and L. B. Pounds. Home and parental duties, responded to by B. D. Wilson, also discussed by J. W. Moore R. E. R. Hicks, J. Alex Moore and L. B. Pounds. Adjourned one hour for dinner 2 p m Institute called to order Should country schools be graded? A lively discussion by the teachers joined in by several citizens, who gave good talks, all agreeing that they should be graded when they can be done so with justice to all Opening question box and answers to questions; adjourned to meet Saturday at 8:30 a m Institute met according to adjournment, opened with music by Prof Veazey and others, prayer by J. Alex Moore. Miss Sadie King and H L Hicks were added to the program committee and instructed to prepare program for next Institute History, H. L. Hicks opened, followed by W R Headley, A B Harwood, J Alex Moore, R E R Hicks and Miss Sadie King; next subject taken, Can reading be successfully taught in the schoolroom simply by hearing reading lessons, discussed by J W Moore Miss Sadie King R E R Kicks and J Alex Moore Adjourned until 2 p m, at 2 o'clock Institute resumed work, Orthography discussed by J W and J Alex Moore

The following resolutions on the death of Miss Viola Woolley were read and adopted:

By some mysterious dispensation of all wise Providence, He has seen fit to remove from the cares of this life one of our most earnest teachers, and that in this removal the county has lost a friend to education, and the teachers profession, a noble worker. That such a life was severed in the death of Miss Viola Woolley, Therefore be it

RESOLVED 1. That in the death of Miss Woolley, her patrons have lost an untiring worker, her pupils a noble example.

2d. That we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who is too wise to err and too good to be unkind.

3d. That we extend our sympathy to the grief stricken family.

4th. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the BANNER and to the Montevallo paper for publication. Also a copy furnished the bereaved family.

On motion the Institute adjourned to meet at call of the president.

$1.00 FOR YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.

Write us a letter covering these three points:

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

Fence the World in 20 Days.

In the sale of the "STAR" Machine, as shown below, we have done more in recent years to enable the farmers of this country to get their fencing at the actual cost of the wire than all other fence manufacturers in the United States, because we figure and show how cheap the various styles of fence can be made, or what the actual cost of the wire is to make them, while those who make and sell the fence must add the cost of labor to manufacture and their profit to the actual cost of the wire. We can sell you a Machine and enough wire to make 100 rods of the best Woven Wire Fence on earth, horse high, bull strong, pig and chicken tight for the same money that will buy 100 rods of any good woven wire fence now on the market. In one case you have the fence alone. In the other you have not only the fence but a machine which enables you to be your own fence manufacturer and with which you can make over 50 styles, including several styles of Ornamental yard or lawn fences. To show how the farmers of this country appreciate this machine it is only necessary to say that if all the machines sold by us were run for twenty days, each machine making 40 rods per day, they would make enough fence to go around the world, being an average of 400,000 rods or 1,250 miles per day. If all of the machines were run only 60 days during the year, making 40 rods per day each, they would make a grand total of 24,000,000 rods, which would make an average of 76,000 rods or 240 miles for every working day in the year. The combined product of all the Loom Fence Factories of the United States would not equal this. One cent isn't much. Invest it in a postal card and send for our large Illustrated Catalogue, telling all about fencing. It may save you many dollars. Sent Free for the asking. Address, Kitselman Bros., Box 1092, Ridgeville, Indiana.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT A SAW MILL.

Colored Farmers and Teachers Meet. Too Many Watches Per Capita—A Distinguished Alabamian's Death Little Girl Burned—Proposed College—Etowah County Enterprises

Pipe Works to Resume.

The pipe works at Bridgeport are preparing to start work. They have been shut down for a number of weeks.

Lots of Hogs.

Messrs. Robinson & Ashman, at Scottsboro, have paid out $14,000 for hogs during the last year. All of them were shipped to western markets.

Alabama Conference Female College

At a recent meeting of the trustees of this institution Dr. John Massey, who has presided over it for twenty years already, was elected president for another term of five years.

Fatal Accident in a Saw Mill.

Last Thursday, while at work in a saw mill near Green Hill, Lauderdale county, Harvey Lifan was struck on the back of the head by a piece of timber and instantly killed. His neck was broken by the blow.

Important Tributary to Gadsden.

The Gordon Chemical works at Round Mountain have twenty-one ovens in full blast turning out 80,000 bushels of charcoal per month, which is used by the Furnace Company at that place.

The Usual Cotton Acreage.

The convention of farmers that was called to meet in Florence last Saturday did not materialize. The object of the convention was to curtail the cotton acreage in that section, but the farmers were too busy getting ready to plant cotton to attend. Only town people were present. The usual amount of cotton will probably be planted in that county this year.

Another Little Girl Burned.

At Ball Play, Etowah county, Wednesday morning, LaFayette Mickwent to the woods to cut crossties, and was accompanied by his son and daughter. A fire was built and the children were standing around it, when in some manner the little girl's clothing became ignited and she was enveloped in flames before her father could reach her. Every thread of clothing was burned off, and she suffered excruciating agony before death relieved her sufferings.

Proposed New Negro College.

A college for the education of negroes of both sexes is to be built near Courtland by the Muscle Shoals Association of colored Baptists who have secured twelve acres of well located land for the purpose. The purchase price of the school site was $30 per acre, and lands adjoining have risen in value in consequence. Courtland was selected after Decatur, Florence and other available sites had been carefully examined.

Robbins of the Fourth Goes Out.

A Washington dispatch says: The house committee on election No. 1 has decided the contested case of Aldrich, republican and populist, against Robbins, democrat, for the Fourth Alabama district, in favor of Aldrich. The vote in Aldrich's favor is unanimous, but the committee divided on party lines upon the argument by which the same conclusion is reached. So there will be two reports to the house, signed by democrats and republicans respectively, assigning different reasons for one result.

Another Etowah Enterprise.

The Anniston Lime & Stone Company have purchased 200 acres of land five miles from Gadsden, and will immediately begin the largest lime manufacturing plant in the south. Four furnaces are to be built, four lime kilns, a barrel factory and a number of tenant cottages. A spur line will also be constructed to connect with the Louisville & Nashville railway. The rock is quarried on Calvin mountain. The new village is to be called Calvin, and about 150 workmen and their families will reside there.

Populists and Republicans.

About 100 leading populists and republicans of Jefferson county met in Birmingham last Saturday to formulate plans for fusion on a county ticket. Reuben Kolb, Jr., presided. Early in the conference, Jerry Fountain, county populite chairman, and H. P. Burrus, populite candidate for state senator, opposed fusion. The conference concluded by appointing a committee to formulate fusion plans to be reported upon two weeks hence. Mr. Fountain and the anti-fusionists, then bolted and held a meeting of their own, a call for a populist county committee meeting to convene the same day as the fusion conference resulting.

Guntersville Industries.

The Chattanooga Tradesman says: The Standard basket factory is pushing its work at a lively rate. The addition to the factory has been followed by a general overhauling, under the supervision of S. H. Tyler, and the plant is now ready for use, with a capacity of 600 baskets daily. Robert M. Huffman, who has been foreman for Messrs. Sanders & Folsom, at the Fort Payne basket factory, will be in charge as general manager, and Sam H. Tyler, of Guntersville, will be time-keeper and shipping clerk. The pay rolls and the timber bills will be about $100 a day, or 65 per cent more than at any time previous. The enterprise will be of great benefit in the way of stimulating the trade of the town.

Normal and Industrial Institute.

This week will be remembered as a great occasion at the Normal and Industrial Institute at Tuskegee. On Thursday, March 5th, begins the fifth annual meeting of the colored farmers and educators. At this meeting will assemble many of the leading men and women among them and their discussion of every-day topics will prove beneficial to all who attend. The invitation have been sent far and wide, and parties coming are urged to be there if possible on Wednesday night. After they reach the college they will be at no further expense.

The Big Factory Humming.

Gadsden's great cotton factory, the largest in the south, with its 30,000 spindles, is in full operation, and the weaving of cloth goes merrily on. Some 500 neat dwellings have been completed and are now occupied. The place now has a population of 3,000 souls and 800 will be given employment. The company has 6,000 bales of cotton stored in their warehouses, enough to run them nearly a year. Gadsden is lively now and all her industries are in full blast, with a weekly pay roll of $15,000.

Under the Cruel Wheels.

Saturday morning at Palmer station, on the Birmingham Mineral road, J. P. Hanbury, a flagman, met with an accident in which he lost a leg and had the other badly crushed.

Mr. Hanbury was making a coupling, and by some means unaccounted for he fell between the cars and two wheels passed over both his legs. He was carried to Birmingham and taken to the Wilson & Brown infirmary. The left leg was taken off at the thigh and the right one bandaged as well as could be. The injured man has a family in Birmingham, and has a large number of friends who will regret to know of his unfortunate accident.

Important Prospective Industry.

A deal has just been consummated by which Florence secures a new and important manufacturing industry. Within the next two weeks there will be established in Florence a wood working plant that will give employment to one hundred skilled mechanics. All of the arrangements have been made, the factory building secured and the new factory will commence operations as soon as the machinery arrives and is put in place. The new factory will manufacture wagon wheel material for the export trade. It will be operated by W. E. Winch & Bros., who have an extensive plant of the same kind in Indiana. They have been offered cash bonuses and factory buildings free by other towns, but they went to Florence without any inducements except the natural advantages which the place offers.

Colony of Grape Growers.

A syndicate, composed of R. L. Spencer, O. F. Sampson, L. D. Phillips, J. B. Merrill, and associates of the Alabama Fruit Growing and Winery association of Fruithurst and W. G. Ledbetter and others of Anniston, have bought of the Woodstock Iron works 8,000 acres of land adjoining and just northwest of Anniston, and will colonize it with Swedish, Scandinavian and German grape growers. The organization will be called the Anniston Homestead and Fruit Growing association, and will be capitalized at $153,000. An application has been made for a charter, and the organization will be perfected in a few days. The company will begin planting vineyards within the next ten days. The superb foreign agency organization of the Fruithurst company will be used, and a large class of the best immigrants will be settled on the lands.

Farmers to Meet at Florence.

The prospects are encouraging for a good attendance at the convention of farmers to be held in Florence Saturday. The convention has been called for the purpose of taking active steps for the reduction of the cotton crop in this section during the coming season. It is feared that the farmers, elated over the prices received last fall, are preparing to plant a larger crop than usual this year. At the convention tomorrow they will be asked to pledge themselves not to plant more than a certain percentage of their lands in cotton and to diversify their crops more than they have been in the habit of doing. The farmers of this section are in better financial condition than they have been since the war. The majority of them are out of debt and many have a surplus to run them through the year. Another siege of 4 cent cotton, it is feared, would put them back to where they were two years ago.

A Distinguished Career Closed.

One of the most noted figures in antebellum days of Alabama passed away in the city of Washington, D. C., at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning. This was Judge Wm R. Smith, Sr. of Tuskaloosa county. He was aged 80 years and 11 months. Judge Smith was living in Washington at the time of his death with his family, some of the members of which are employed in the government service.

Deceased represented Alabama in Congress from the old Sixth District several times before the war and was a member of the Confederate Congress during the war. He has written a number of treatises on Alabamians and kindred subjects of wide note and a book on Alabama of much historic value. He was the first student to matriculate at the State University of Alabama at Tuskaloosa. He stood high among his colleagues in the departments of public service and was universally esteemed by the people of Tuskaloosa county and the State at large.

A Pair of Thieves Penned.

Constable Phillips, of Pratt City, on Thursday arrested two negroes who had in their possesion ten watches and eight rings; also a pawn ticket for one watch, which had been placed in a Birmingham pawn shop.

Yesterday J. W. Carroll, of Warrior, arrived in the city and advised Sergeant J. B. Donelson that his jewelry house had been burglarized of twenty-four watches and ten rings early in the week. Sergeant Donelson informed Mr. Carroll of the arrest of the two negroes at Pratt City, and he went to that place and readily identified the watches and rings as his property. The negroes were immediately given a preliminary hearing by a justice of the peace, who bound them over to await the action of the grand jury. The watch deposited in the pawn shop in Birmingham was also identified and recovered. The two negroes were placed in the county jail.

Hours of Labor Reduced.

Beginning next Monday the hours of labor in the cotton mills of the Columbian Manufacturing company, Greenville, N. H., employing 600 hands, will be reduced from forty to thirty hours per week because of the small demand for goods. These mills have been running on full time since September, 1894.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Summary of the Week's Proceedings in Both Houses.

SIXTY-FIFTH DAY.

In the senate the bill granting a pension to the widow of the late secretary of state, Walter Q. Gresham, as brigadier-general, was amended by substituting $100 per month for $200, and passed. Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, spoke another installment of his address on the Cuban resolutions. The house bill to provide the extension by five years of the time within which suits may be brought to vacate and annul land patents to railroad companies was reported from the committee on public lands, discussed briefly and passed. The vice-president announced his signature to the urgent deficiency bill. After a short executive session the senate adjourned until tomorrow. ....In the house the Indian appropriation bill occupied the day. By a vote of 93 to 64 the provision that the secretary of the interior shall make contracts with present contract schools for the education of Indian pupils to an extent not exceeding 60 per cent of the amount authorized for the fiscal year 1895 was stricken out on motion of Mr. Linton, republican, of Michigan and an amendment inserted prohibiting the secretary of the interior from spending any of the money appropriated for education in a sectarian institution. Under existing conditions only Catholic schools are in contract relations with the interior department, the other churches having abandoned their claims to public money. Speaker Reed announced that he had signed the current deficiency and diplomatic and consular appropriation bills. At 5:10 the house adjourned until tomorrow.

SIXTY-SIXTH DAY.

In the senate Mr. Morrill, chairman of the finance committee, moved to proceed to the consideration of the house tariff bill. The motion was defeated by nays 33, ayes 22. The Cuban resolutions were again taken up, and Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, finished his three days' speech in favor of the resolutions. Mr. Gray, of Delaware, thought the question of belligerency was in the exclusive jurisdiction of the executive branch of the government and wholly outside the constitutional powers of congress. The senate adjourned without action on the resolutions.... The house passed the Indian appropriation bill, a bill relating to the seal fur business, and three bills relating to the District of Columbia. The report in the election contest of Robert T. Vanhorn vs. John C. Tarsney, from the Fifth Missouri district, was taken up and was pending when the house adjourned. There was a minority report in this case, favoring further investigation, and it is expected that several days will be spent in debate.

SIXTY-SEVENTH DAY.

In the senate the army appropriation bill was reported and placed on the calendar. It calls for a total appropriation of $23,279,402. The senate committee increased the amendment of the house bill by $3,500.

Mr. Allen, populist, of Nebraska, offered a substitute for the pending Cuban resolution. It authorizes and requires the president to issue a proclamation recognizing the independence of the republic of Cuba. He asked that that the resolution lie on the table. Mr. Allen referred to the vote yesterday on taking up the tariff bill and the statement made by Messrs. Morrill and others that the tariff bill was dead, and stated that while he did not believe in the policy set forth in that bill yet if the republicans could unite upon it and would couple with it an amendment providing for the free coinage of silver—not a substitute—the populist party in the senate would help pass it. Mr. Canton, republican, of Montana, addressed the senate in explanation of his vote against taking up the house tariff bill on the 13th. The Cuba resolutions were laid aside to allow him to finish his address, which was followed by a discussion on finances, at the conclusion of which an executive session was held and the senate then adjourned.....In the house the senate amendments to the bill extending the time in which the government may enter suit to annul land patents issued under railroad, wagon road and canal grants were concurred in by a yea and nay vote—155 to 93. The postal appropriation bill for the year ending June 30, 1897, was reported. The committee has made several important additions to the bill. One providing increased fast mail facilities between Springfield, Mass., and New Orleans, La., which had been stricken from the bill, was reinserted, the appropriation for the service being $196,000. An item appropriating $1,000,000 was added for special mail service between Chicago and Council Bluffs, Ia., via Burlington. Special facilities were also provided for between Kansas City, Mo., and Newton, Kas., the appropriation for this route being $81,700. The Vanhorn-Tarsney contested election case from Missouri occupied most of the session, without reaching a conclusion, and at 5:30 the house adjourned.

SIXTY-EIGHTH DAY.

A resolution authorizing the committee on coast defense to visit and examine the New York City defenses and to take testimony, was agreed to in the senate. Bills appropriating $500,000 for two first-class revenue steamers for the Pacific coast and $100,- for a public building at New Port News, Va., were passed. Also the army appropriation bill, with no greater delay than that caused by its being read in full. It appropriates over $22,000,000 and is the fifth of the annual appropriation bills that have passed the senate. The debate on the Cuba resolutions was resumed and continued until the hour of adjournment. In the house the Vanhorn-Tarsney contested election case was disposed of by seating Vanhorn, republican. Mr. Hitt, from the committee on foreign relations, reported a substitute for all the pending resolutions relating to Cuba. Objection being made to present consideration, the resolutions went over and the house adjourned.

SIXTY-NINTH DAY.

The senate passed the Cuba resolution by 64 ayes to 6 nays. The resolutions were as follows: Resolved, by the senate, (the house of representatives concurring), That in the opinion of congress, a condition of public war exists between the government of Spain and the government proclaimed and for some time maintained by force of arms by the people of Cuba; and that the United States of America should maintain a strict neutrality between the two contending powers, according to each all the rights of belligerents in the ports and territories of the United States. Resolved further, That the friendly offices of the United States should be offered by the president to the Spanish government for the recognition of the independence of Cuba. The conference report on the pension appropriation was presented and agreed to. The house bill relating to the anchorage and movement of vessels in St. Mary's river, on Lake Huron, was taken from the calendar and passed. The house devoted most of the day's session to the legislative, judicial and executive appropriation bill, but did not complete it. A message from President Cleveland vetoing the bill authorizing the leasing of the school lands of Arizona was laid before the house and made the special order for tomorrow. The conference report on the general pension appropriation bill and the report of the elections committee No. 1 confirming Mr. Jones' title to his seat as representative from the First district of Virginia were agreed to. At 4:50 the house took a recess until 8 o'clock, the evening session to be for the consideration of private pension and relief bills only. The house tonight, in committee of the whole (Mr. Hopkins, of Illinois, in the chair), considered and laid aside with a favorable recommendation nine private pension bills, with others ordered to be reported to the house.

THE EFFECT IN SPAIN.

American Consulate at Barcelona Stoned--Our Flag Trampled Upon.

An attack was made upon the United States consulate in Barcelona, Spain, on Sunday, notwithstanding the fact that the building was guarded. During the day a procession comprising 10,000 persons paraded the streets of the city as a demonstration against the action of the American senate.

As the procession passed the consulate some of the paraders tried to force their way into the building, but the police and gendarmes succeeded in driving them away, but not until they had been forced to charge upon the mob with drawn sabers.

While this trouble was going on the main body of the procession continued its march to the town hall, where the leaders handed to the mayor a strongly worded protest against the action of the American senate and against the speeches that had been delivered therein on the Cuban question, it being declared that some of the speakers had grossly insulted Spain and the Spanish government in defending Cuban bandits and outlaws.

Subsequently a great crowd, excited by the burning oratory of speakers glorifying Spain and denouncing the United States, proceeded to the American consulate, where they gave vent to their patriotism by stoning the building, much to the damage of the windows thereof.

In the evening there was another outburst of disapproval of the United States and all things American. The rioters had purchased somewhere a large American flag, which, after it had been dragged through the street, was pulled to pieces amid cries of 'Long live Spain" and "Down with the Americans!"

After this the mob became more violent and proceeded to the consulate, where a perfect volley of missiles was directed against the shield over the doorway bearing the American coat of arms, which was battered almost to pieces. The mob in some way became possessed of several American flags, which were destroyed amid ribald jests and expressions of contempt for the nation they represented.

At length the guards at the consulate were re-enforced by a detachment of mounted police, who charged the rioters with drawn swords and dispersed them.

Spanish Government Expresses Regret.

After a long conference with President Cleveland Monday morning Secretary Olney gave out for publication the following cablegram from Mr. Taylor, United States minister at Madrid, under date of March 1: "The Minister of State has just called to express deep regret that a mob has insulted the Barcelonian Consulate, and breaking windows, and offered a complete reparation. He informed me that the government on its own motion has taken every precaution to guard the legion and give it protection."

FATAL SHOOTING AFFRAY.

Two Dentists, Working Together, Quarrel and Shoot Each Other.

As the result of a quarrel Thursday afternoon in the office at 810 Broadway, St. Louis, Mo., Dr. Edward A. Dill, a prominent dentist, is probably fatally wounded with a bullet in his right lung, and Dr. J. J. Seaman, his assailant, is lying dead at the morgue.

Dr. Dill, who is in the city hospital, says that he reprimanded Seaman for neglecting his work, when the latter began to talk in a loud voice. A lady who was present receiving treatment, requested that he make less noise, when Seaman slapped her in the face, at the same time drawing a revolver and shooting at Dill, who received a bullet in the right lung. Dr. Dill then drew his revolver and shot Seaman in the side. The latter ran from the office and dropped dead on the sidewalk, surrounded by an immense crowd of people that had been attracted by the shooting. His body was taken to the morgue.

Dr. Dill was removed to the city hospital, where the physicians are of the opinion that he cannot live long. He has a family living at 912 1-3 North Campton avenue, in the heart of the fashionable west end, while his assailant is a single man and lived in a down-town lodging house.

The deceased has a brother in the city, James O. Seaman, who is stopping at the Grace Hotel, the two having occupied a room together. They are from Atlanta, Ga., and the brother notified the morgue-keeper tonight that he would have the body removed to Atlanta for burial.

Policy a Motive to Humanity.

General Weyler began an investigation of the Guatao horror immediately after its publication by the American press. He had interviews with Marquis Cervera, Captain Calvo and others implicated. There is little doubt that examples will be made now that the truth has been revealed. Other instances have occurred where Weyler relied entirely upon the reports of subordinates and refused to investigate. In the Candelaria affair, where seventeen prisoners were taken from the field after the battle and shot down in cold blood, Weyler sent General Canella, who commanded, back to Spain. Weyler undoubtedly regrets these occurrences. He realizes the effect abroad, and has ordered the generals to prevent repetitions.

The Ins and Outs of It.

If you get best wear out of a coat, best work must have gone into it. You can't get good bread out of poor flour.

Moral: You can't get the best out of anything, unless the best is in it; and the best has to be put in before it can be taken out. Now, we have a rule to test those sarsaparillas with a big "best" on the bottle: "Tell us what's put in you and we'll decide for ourselves about the best." That's fair. But these modest sarsaparillas say: "Oh! we can't tell. It's a secret. Have faith in the label." . . . Stop! There's one exception; one sarsaparilla that has no secret to hide. It's Ayer's. If you want to know what goes into Ayer's Sarsaparilla, ask your doctor to write for the formula. Then you can satisfy yourself that you get the best of the sarsaparilla argument when you get Ayer's.

It kills doubts but cures doubters.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. Wm. J. Carlton, of Elizabeth, N. J., says: "I consulted a physician in the country this summer where I was spending my vacation, about a chronic dyspepsia, with which I have been a good deal troubled. It takes the form of indigestion, the food I take not becoming assimilated. After prescribing for me for some time, the physician told me I would have to be treated for several months with a mild laxative and corrective—something that would gradually bring back my normal condition without the violent action of drastic remedies. I recently sent to the Doctor (Dr. Thomas Cope, of Nazareth, Pa.) a box of Ripans Tabules, and wrote him what I understood the ingredients to be—rhubarb, ipecac, peppermint, aloes, nux vomica and soda. He writes back 'I think the formula a very good one, and will no doubt just suit you.'"

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Co pany, No 10 Spruce st., New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

BOND IS A VAMPIRE.

NATIONAL DEBT HAS NEVER BEEN REDUCED ONE CENT.

John Clark Ridpath, LL. D., Discuss the Devilish Work of the Shylocks Through the Agencies of the Bond and the Dollar.

The Road: John Clark Ridpath, LL. D. has an article in the January number of the Arena which should be read and pondered upon by every producer in the country and by every man and woman who has the welfare of our country at heart. The article referred to is the first of a series of three upon "The Bond and the Dollar," and describes "The Genesis and Evolution of a Monster." The schemes resorted to by the money power, the results so far, and the inevitable slavery sure to follow soon if something is not done to dethrone the Shylocks who turned the greenbacks into an interest-bearing, bonded debt and forced the single gold standard upon us, are depicted by a master hand. John Clark Ridpath can hardly be laughed down as a "crank" or his utterances characterized as "vagaries." He is a scholarly gentleman who has an international reputation as a historian; his "History of the United States," "The Seven Great Races of Mankind," "History of the World," etc., being recognized everywhere as standard works. He looks at the question of "The Bond and the Dollar" from the standpoint of the historian, and reaches conclusions which every honest reformer can endorse as true. The article should be read in full to be thoroughly appreciated—get a copy of the January Arena and keep it for reference.

In his description of the "Genesis and Evolution of a Monster," the author says in part:

"War preys on two things—life and property; but he preys with a partial appetite. Feasting on life, he licks his jaws and says, 'More, by your leave.' Devouring property, he says, between grin and glut, 'This is so good that it ought to be paid for.'. Into the vacuum of the wasted life rush the moaning winds of grief and desolation; into the vacuum of the wasted property rushes the goblin of debt. The wasted life is transformed at length into a reminiscent glory; the wasted property becomes a hideous nightmare. The heroes fallen rise from their bloody cerements into everlasting fame; the property destroyed rises from the red and flame-swept field as a spectral vampire, sucking the still warm blood of the heroic dead and of their posthumous babes to the tenth generation.

"The name of the vampire is Bond.

"On the first of March, 1866, the national debt of the United States entailed by the Civil War reached the appalling maximum of nearly three thousand millions of dollars. The American people were inexperienced in such business. They had never known the incubus before. Europe had known it, but not America. For a long time the public debt of the nation had been so small as to be disregarded. Now all of a sudden, with the terrible exigencies of the war, the debt expanded and settled over the landscape like a cloud from Vesuvius, darkening from shore to shore.

* * * * * * *

"It was intended by those who first contrived the legal-tender currency that it should be absolute money in the payment of all debts of whatever kind. The Supreme Court of the United States has since decided by a voice of eight to one that congress possessed—and possesses—the right and power to make such a money, whether in war or in peace. The validity of the Legal-Tender Act is now [illegible] much a part of the constitutional [illegible] of the United States as the abolition of African slavery. But they who were skillful in watching their own interests, even in the throes of our national break-up and impending catastrophe, adroitly contrived that the national currency should have an exception in it in favor of those who should lend their means to the government. They who should make such loan should receive therefor a bond; and the interest on the bond—as also the duties on imports of foreign goods—was exempt from the legal tender of paper and reserved for it. * * *

The party of the bond became skillful and adroit. * * * They understood the situation perfectly, and adopted as their method a policy embracing [illegible] intentions: First, to perpetuate the bond and make it everlasting by the postponement and prevention of payment; second, to increase the value of the currency in which all payments were to be made; that is, to increase the [illegible]e of the units of such payments as the payments should become due, so that whatever might be the efforts of the people to discharge the debt, it should increase in value as rapidly as they could reduce it! * * * For thirty years this game has been permanently, skillfully and successfully carried on. * * * If the treasury should have to-day, or in the year 1900, a surplus of six billions of gold, the government could not call and cancel its bonds. They were not made to be called and canceled, but to be refunded and perpetuated. * * *

Besides, the reduction in interest has been a reduction only in name. In no case has the reduction been made until the value of the dollar of payment has been so enlarged as more than to balance the reduction. The same thing is true of the payment of principal as well as the payment of coupon. For thirty years the American people have been pouring into that horrid maelstrom the volume of their great resources. They have paid on their debt, or at least they have paid, in this long period such a prodigious sum that arithmetic can hardly express it. (At the close of 1895 the interest account alone on the national debt had cost the American people over $2,635,000,000.) The imagination cannot embrace it. And yet it is the truth of the living God that in the year 1895, at its close, the national debt of the United States, in its bonded and unbonded forms, will purchase as its equivalent in value as much of the average of twenty-five of the leading commodities of the United States, including real estate and labor, as the same debt would purchase at its maximum on the 1st of March, 1866! The people have paid and paid for thirty years, and at the end have paid just this—NOTHING." (Mr. Ridpath furnishes facts and figures which prove indisputably the truth of the above assertion.)

"Let all men know it. Let the world know it. Let the common man ponder this appalling statement of an undeniable truth. Let our national authorities know it. Let the leaders of every political party have it shouted in their ears. Let every administration that has been in power from the first of Grant to the last of Cleveland be told in trumpet voice that the publications put forth from month to month as statements from the treasury about the reduction of the national debt of three millions or seven millions or ten millions have been essentially and utterly false. True it is that the debt has been nominally reduced according to the publications; but it has never been so reduced, for until by the contrivance of those who possess it the purchasing power of the currency has been augmented fully as much as the equivalent of the payment!

"Thus from month to month and from year to year the astounding process has gone on. And thus from year to year the judgment of the American people has been abused with the iteration and belief that they were paying their debt, when in truth all the multiplied millions on millions, and billions which they have paid have been simply contributed to the fund-holding class, whose claim after a lifetime is worth as much as it was at the beginning! The resources of a great people have been poured like a roaring river into a sinkhole that has swallowed all; and the golden streams of the contribution have issued silently through a thousand unseen spouts into the private reservoirs of the holders of the debt."

The Middle of the Road.

Slumber on, you proud and haughty swell-headed plutocracy, and your ignorant and misguided followers! Stop your ears to shut out the truth; close your eyes to the vision of desolation before you; do not let reason have its sway; count as naught the logic of events; do not think of reason, but move on in ignorance, blinded by prejudice! You'll wake up by and by, but your impotent rage will not avail you. Your derision and scorn of the people's movement, of their struggles for industrial freedom, only adds strength to their purposes, energy to their efforts and zeal for the cause. Congressman U. S. Hall, of Missouri, is reported as saying that "somebody on deck ought to anonunce that there is a storm brewing." Is it possible that Mr. Hall has not read Senator Tillman's speech.

ABOLITION OF

SUGGESTED BY SENATOR TILLMAN'S SPEECH IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

HALL THE TRAITOR.

EIGHT SENATORS ARE POLITICAL COWARDS.

Between the Cowards and the Traitors the Liberties of the People Are Being Crucified—Time to Call a Loud Halt.

Congressman U. S. Hall, of Missouri, who, like Livingston, of Georgia, and others, owes his position in Congress to the deception he practiced on the Alliance, or Farmers' and Laborers' union of his state, has been creating a little sensation in Congress.

Hall is one of those shrewd fellows who took advantage of a popular uprising among the people against existing evils to boost himself and a few friends that helped him into a salaried positions. He never could have broke into Congress any other way, and his treachery to the organization that elevated him to the position is a fitting evidence of the unscrupulousness of the man. He went to Congress as a free silver advocate. He assisted in constructing the St. Louis demands at the joint meeting of the Alliance and Knights of Labor, in December, 1889, and also the Ocala demands a year later. He was then a warm advocate of free silver.

In 1892 he took a prominent part in the Missouri campaign, running against Chas. H. Mansur, and aided other leaders in deceiving the members of his party into the belief that the national platform adopted at Chicago meant free silver. Now he says the platform don't mean any such thing. He was speaking on the free silver senate amendment to the bond bill, and said:

"I observed a remark of my friend from Georgia this morning to the effect that in voting for this first section of the Senate amendment he was standing upon the democratic platform adopted at Chicago in 1892. I know that I am talking for a body of men who know that platform by heart, and I defy any one of them to produce one section of that platform that warrants a vote by any democrat for the first section of this Senate substitute. You can not find any such provision in the Chicago platform of 1892. You will find in that platform of the democratic national convention a declaration that one dollar should be made as good as another in the United States and the world over. You will find in the platform of one national convention a doctrine corresponding exactly with the first section of that senate resolution; I refer to the national platform of the populist party, announced at Omaha, July 4, 1892. That is the only political platform in the United States that has ever laid down such a doctrine as that embodied in this senate resolution."

Mr. Talbert, of South Carolina, asked him if he did not vote for free silver when he was first elected to congress? Mr. Hall replied:

"The gentleman from South Carolina asks if I did not vote for the free silver coinage bill in the extra session in 1893. I answer, yes. But I will tell the gentleman that I have progressed since that time."

Now "progressed" is a very good word. Some one has called it "succumbed," but in our opinion "progressed" is much more respectable. Besides, there is no suggestion about it of any undue influence being used to accomplish the desired result. Just "progressed."

Carlisle has "progressed."

Hoke Smith has "progressed."

J. Sterling Morton has "progressed."

We know of "oodles" of postmasters, too, who have "progressed."

Benedict Arnold "progressed."

Judas "progressed."

The people have "progressed," too, but it is backwards, and towards greater destitution and poverty.

What Mr. Hall's constituents ought to do with him is to "progress" to the ballot box and elect him to stay at home.

Mr. Hall's sensation was that he had heard that eight senators had voted for the free coinage amendment who said they believed that the free coinage of silver would ruin the country.

Of course nobody believed any such thing, and if they did it ought not to startle the country, because the people know that there are several times eight senators that could be relied upon to do almost anything in the play of politics.

Mr. Hall tried to justify his change of attitude and in so doing showed how near he was getting over towards the republican camp. He said:

"But let us take legislative proceedings; take matters of parliamentary law. My friend from Georgia has had occasion on this floor to cite a case where our present speaker varied from the position which he now occupies upon the question of counting a quorum. Certainly Mr. Reed, of Maine, held at the time the view attributed to him; but further investigation showed him that he was wrong; and when he found he was wrong, what did he do? Once when the question arose in this house as to the right of the speaker to count a quorum, Mr. Reed, then a member, thought that such power did not exist. But investigation of the matter subsequently opened his eyes upon that question. What is the result? He changed his position upon that great rule of parliamentary law, and wrote himself down what history, after partisan prejudice and passion shall have passed away, will justify, as one of the greatest pioneers in parliamentary law that ever lived. (Applause.) That was a violation of consistency. I never in any public utterance of mine condemned Mr. Reed for the position he took on that question, and I never intend to do so; for he was, in my judgment, absolutely correct."

Mr. Hall then announced himself as "the one democrat from the rural districts, west of the Mississippi, in a purely agricultural region, that dares stand up and say that sound money is the salvation of the agricultural and laboring classes of this country."

Yes, indeed, Mr. Hall has "progressed" since we knew him in the Alliance, and between the "political cowards," to use his own words, and the political traitors, the liberties of the people of this country are being crucified.

Everything saved out of the wreck of the democratic party points to the incapacity of its leaders and their failure to redeem their promises.

STILL THEY COME.

Another Democrat Repudiates the Grand Old Party.

Southern Mercury: Hardly a day passes that does not record the accession to Populist ranks of some leading Democrat or Republican. We are just in receipt of a letter from Hon. W. C. Blanks, of Willis Point, Tex., from which we make the following extract:

"At one time or another in a man's life he is confronted by a dilemma which calls him to a halt and serious contemplation of which horn he will take. Just such a dilemma is presented for the consideration of every thinking free-silverite in Democratic ranks to-day. The Democratic party is a house divided against itself, a union of dissenting elements, a combination of faiths so politically incompatible that it will be an utter impossibility to harmonize them. The larger faction proclaims with a flourish of trumpets the fidelity to the peculiar doctrine that we may increase our prosperity by adherance to a principle that fair practice has clearly demonstrated is ruinous to our financial success—the gold standard. The other faction is as unyielding, apparently, in its allegiance to the doctrine of the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. It is a practically demonstrated truism that discrimination against the money of the people deleteriously affects the price of the products of farm and daily labor. Believing in such a doctrine, should I continue with either wing of the Democratic party, or should I turn my back upon them and seek the companionship of the Populist hosts, who are now, and have been since the organization of their party, staunch and unequivocal advocates of that favorite theory of the money-making classes. The majority of the big guns in the Democratic party announce themselves and their party favorable to gold-buggism. If I continue with them and vote their ticket, I implicitly proclaim my belief in that idea, which, believing as I do, would make me a political hypocrite of the first water. It is no more excusable to be a hypocrite in politics than it is to be a hypocrite in religion. On the other hand, why should I go with the silver wing of Democracy? What hope have the members of that faction? Frowned upon by the majority of Democratic leaders, hopelessly disorganized, they have, under the name of Democracy, less prospect than any set of wanderers on the political desert. The only reason advanced to me by Democrats that I should remain with them is that they retain the name "Democrats." The most hopelessly befuddled brain in the state lunatic asylum should be enabled to bury that argument beneath an ocean of logic. An examination of the record of the Democratic party, and a dispassionate review of its boasted achievements, but leads us to the conclusion that it can be depended upon to always do the wrong thing at the critical moment. The result of its labors is but 'a comedy of errors.'

"I see no reason why I should continue in the stranded ship of Democracy, and so I part company with it and announce myself with the Populist party hereafter, 'teeth and toenail.' Yours very truly,

"W. C. BLANKS."

MARKETS AND TRADE.

Observations of Dun's Review Upon Present Conditions and Prospects.

EFFECTS OF CUBAN RESOLUTIONS.

Remarkable Steadiness of Railroad Stocks, Largely Due to Satisfactory Reports of Railway Earnings, Slightly Lower Range of Prices on Industrial Products.

Failures for the week have been 285 in the United States, against 234 last year, and 68 in Canada, against 58 last year. The Cuban resolutions and the appointment of receivers for the Baltimore and Ohio were events of sufficient importance to affect almost any genuine market, especially for securities. It therefore argues either remarkable strength of conditions or an entire want of life and genuineness in the market that the prices of the sixty most attractive railroad stocks, which averaged $49.74 per share February 1, have never fallen since that date lower than $49.36 nor risen above $50.85 per share. The market is largely under the control of operators who cannot afford to see it decline much, but it is also true that the vote on the Cuban question and the receivership had both been discounted. The strength of the market is largely due to more satisfactory reports of railway earnings. The volume of business reflected by clearing house exchanges is not materially improving, the week's returns showing a gain of only 6.5 per cent over last year and a decrease of 17.6 per cent in comparison with the same week in 1893.

The industries all report a slightly lower range of prices except for iron and steel products, and it is noteworthy that while combinations in structural beams and wire and cut nails are advancing in prices, the quotation for Bessemer pig has fallen to $12.40 at Pittsburg, and southern No. 2 is offered at $7.75, deliverable at Birmingham, and billets have sold at $17, Pittsburg. The bar combination, which raised the prices not long ago, finds an increasing part of the business absorbed by outside works.

The reports of the boot and shoe interests are not on the whole more encouraging this week, shipments from the east being still nearly 20 per cent less than last year, but there was no further decline in prices.

There is no improvement in the demand for woolen goods and a number of establishments have closed. Some further reductions have been made in prices of cotton goods, although it does not appear that the concessions have thus far been successful in calling out new business.

BETTER a blush on the face than a stain in the heart.

REAR ADMIRAL WALKER DEAD.

He Was a Distinguished Officer of the American Navy.

Rear Admiral Henry Walker died at his home in Brooklyn Sunday afternoon.

Henry Walker was born in Virginia eighty-eight years ago. His father, Anthony Walker, was a college student at Yale with John C. Calhoun. In 1827 he became a midshipman in the navy, being assigned to the frigate Alert, under the command of Lieut. Farragut. He was present at the surrender of Vera Cruz during the Mexican war, being the executive officer of the brig Vesuvius. During the war of the rebellion he commanded the gunboats Taylor and Lexington, and protected General Grant's army while it was making its retreat on the transports. He was also at the battle of Fort Henry, in charge of the gunboat Carondelet. He was successful in getting the Carondelet past island No. 10 on April 4, 1862, while the enemies' shots fell on it like hail. For this piece of work the commander was honorably mentioned. In 1862 for his bravery he was made a captain; in 1866 commodore, and a rear admiral in 1870. One year later he retired, having the proud distinction of being the first officer to do so voluntarily to give the young men a chance.

Green Goods Men Entrapped.

An important capture of green goods men was made Friday by the postoffice inspectors of Chicago in conjunction with Deputy Marshals Thomas P. Gray and W. A. Richards, of Des Moines, Ia. The captured men are Charles Hurd, alias Vogel; J. R. Gray, alias Vogel, Jr., and Frank Smith. The capture was made at the Hotel Delaware, on Cottage Grove avenue, near Sixty-third street, and was the result of an appointment growing out of an extensive correspondence and repeated interviews. The seizure was very dramatic, weapons being freely displayed on both sides, and the guests of the hotel were thrown into a panic. A satchel containing $35,000 in good money, which was found in the possession of the prisoners, was taken in charge by the officers.

Thrasher Not the Man.

The man Thrasher, who was arrested in Birmingham on suspicion of being the man who recently assaulted Miss Jones, in Walker county, Georgia, was taken before Miss Jones Thursday afternoon by Sheriff Riley of that county and was released, the young lady declaring emphatically that he was not the man. It is now believed that the guilty man is Arthur Tippins, and the posse are now hunting for him. Governor Atkinson has offered a reward of $140 for the arrest and conviction of the guilty man.

THERE will be a public meeting at Collins' Chapel on Saturday night next (March 14). L. H. Reynolds, Frank Crichton, M. A. Kilgore, J. A. Logan, P. M. Moore and other candidates will be on hand to address the people. A large crowd is expected.

THE Senate Committee on elections reported on Tuesday recommending the adoption of Senator Allen's resolution providing for an investigation of the Alabama State and Legislative elections of 1894. The report states that instead of Oates having been elected by 27,587 votes he was defeated by about 7,000.

WE are requested to state that Cane Creek church has been made a polling place for beat 4, and Messrs. Wm. Lambert and Henry Mahan appointed managers for the primaries to be held on April 14th and May 5th. This gives beat 4 two polling places—Clanton and Cane Creek. The latter place has been added so that voters will not have to come such a long distance to vote.

THE Republican party in their conventions in this State appear to be actuated by one motive. If the regular convention cannot nominate their own particular favorite there is a bolt, with the result that both factions nominate their own man and send contesting delegations to the national convention. Like the Democrats they are hoplessly divided. There can be only one sequel to these divisions in the two old parties and that is a steady gain to the Third Party. Let the good work go on!

As we predicted some time since the Democrats are piling up the returns for their respective candidates. In the extreme south—Geneva county—the Clarke people claim a great victory for their man, and in the north—Morgan county—Johnston men have piled up an overwhelming majority for the redheaded son of Jefferson which the Birmingham State-Herald coolly claims to have been caused by the return of 500 voters to the Democratic fold. The latter claim is the veriest bosh, and we trust that the Morgan populists will take such precautions in the August election as will prevent their votes being counted against them.

THE Montgomery Advertiser is beautifully inconsistent. It rails against Senator Allen for having a "smelling committee" appointed to investigate frauds in the last election in Alabama, (when their fraudulent practices were for the time successful) and at the same time sends its own representatives as a "smelling committee" to Morgan county to discover fraudulent practices in the recent Democratic primary when they were outwitted by their own Democratic opponents. We say most heartily, go it, both Democratic factions, by the time you get through exposing each other's rascality, honest elections will be within easy reach.

CHAIRMAN'S CALL

HEADQUARTERS STATE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE PEOPLE'S PARTY OF ALABAMA.

Birmingham, Ala., March 9, 1896.

In accordance with instructions from State Executive Committee, I hereby call a State Convention of the People's Party, to be held in the city of Montgomery on the 28th day of April, 1896.

The qualification of voters who participate in the selection of delegates to the State Convention, and nomination of county officers, was prescribed by State Executive Committee as follows:

That all lawful voters who favor the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, the abolition of National banks and the increase of the volume of money by the national government, who favor a free ballot and a fair count, and who are opposed to an increase of the national debt by the sale of interest-bearing bonds to keep up a reserve, and who will pledge themselves to support the candidates nominated by the Populist for State and county offices, are invited to come into these primaries and assist us in nominations and selecting delegates.

The basis of representation allowed each county at said State Convention was fixed a follows:

"One delegate for each member of the lower house of the General Assembly, and one for each 200 votes cast for Kolb in 1894, or fraction of 200 over 150."

The table below shows the number of Representatives each county in this District has in the house of representatives, number of votes cast for Kolb, in 1894, as declared by Speaker Clark, and the number of delegates each county will be entitled to in the next People's Party State Convention:

COUNTIES,	No. of Rep in L.	No. Votes for Kolb.	No. of Delegates
Calhoun	2	2672	12
Chilton	1	1242	7
Cleburne	1	990	6
Dallas	3	167	4
Talladega	2	2471	14
Total	9	6942	43

G. B. DEANS,
Chairman State Ex. Com.

WE are pleased to note that Hon A. P. Longshore is a candidate for Representative in the General Assembly from Shelby county. The next legislature needs the best men in the State and Shelby could not find a better man than Brother Longshore.

D. C. GANDY.

Since it has been known that our popular Tax Assessor, Mr. E. G. Rollins, would not seek re-election, the people in different parts of the county have been looking around for a good man to fill the office. Amongst others Mr. D. C. Gandy, late manager of the Alliance store at Stanton, has been considered by his friends as a gentleman thoroughly competent in every way for the position, and the announcement of his candidacy consequently now appears. If elected we are assured that Mr. Gandy will not only perform the duties of the office satisfactorily but will endeavor to reach the high-water mark in efficiency.

J. G. SMITHERMAN.

Mr. J. Goodman Smitherman is a candidate for Commissioner from the Third district. He is a gentleman well known all over the county and stands pre-eminent in his own community as a thorough-going Populite and genuine reformer. He is fully aware of the fact that the people are determined to put the best man they can get in office and we have no hesitation in saying that Mr. Smitherman is a right good man and if elected will reflect credit upon our county.

SAM PATE.

We have the pleasure to announce this week the candidacy of Mr. Sam Pate for re-election as commissioner from the first district. Mr. Pate is one of our present efficient board of commissioners, and was elected to the position without any effort on his own part. He is again urged to allow his name to be brought forward and we have no doubt if he is re-elected the affairs of the country will receive the same careful attention in the future which he has given to them during his term of office.

Death of Mrs. Busby.

Ellen, wife of Rev. Joseph L. Busby, died at South Caiera, Alabama, Tuesday March 4, 1896, 36 years of age. She had been in indifferent health for about one year, but the immediate cause of her death was measles. She leaves a husband and six children grieving over their irreperable loss. Her devotion to her husband, home and children, and her love for her church, were undoubtedly known to all in the community where she resided. For three or four days before her departure she knew that she was surely going home, and more impressive words were never heard than those in which she exhorted all who came within reach of her voice to be faithful to God and loyal to their church. She obtained a great victory and is now numbered with the saints on high.

The funeral services were attended by Rev. A. T. Clarke.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION.

By authority of the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton county a convention of the Democratic party of said county is hereby called to meet at the court house in Clanton on Wednesday the 15th day of April, 1896, at 12 o'clock for the purpose of selecting delegates to the Democratic State convention which meets in Montgomery on April 21. The following apportionment of delegates has been fixed by the committee: Beat 1, Mineral Spring 4; beat 2, Providence 4; Jemison 6; beat 3, Benson 5; beat 4, Clanton 12; beat 5, Coopers 5, Verbena 7; beat 6, Kincheon 5; beat 8, Maplesville, 5; beat 8, Dixie, 8; beat 9, Strasburg, 4.

Delegates will be chosen to the convention at an election to be held as nearly as may be under the forms governing general elections in this State on Saturday April 11, 1896. All white voters who will support the nominees of the Democratic party, are entitled to participate in the election of delegates to the county convention.

Coopers Clippings.

Coopers is improving, our streets are all ditched and the sidewalks thrown up.

"Perhaps you would not think so, but a very large proportion of diseases in New York, comes from carelessness about catching cold," says Dr. Syrus Edson. "It is such a simple thing and so common that few people, unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to a cold. New York is one of the healthiest places on the Atlantic Coast and yet there are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in this neglect of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most sensible advice is, when you have one get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Dr. Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but we will. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will relieve the lungs, aid expectoration, open the secretions and soon effect a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by J. S. Johnson, Jr., Druggist.

Don't forget that April 14 is the date of the first primary.

1000 WAYS TO CURE A COLD!

Quinine, aconite, hot tea, onion syrup, whiskey and quinine, rock candy and rye, a "sweat" foot bath, starvation feeding, wrapping your hose around your neck, cod liver oil, and old hundreds cough cure, these and over 900 other ways are used by the human race to cure a cold. The best way is to make CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER your daily companion and you will never catch cold.

A man must be miserable indeed who is laid up with a bad Cold, Catarrh, Headache, unable to breathe without pain, his throat sore and his head throbbing, when one little product in the market called CUSHMAN'S INHALER will give him instant relief.

RELIEF EASY TO GET!

He may go on and on, sneeze his head off for that matter, snuffle and snort around to everybody's discomfiture. His eyes may become inflamed, his head and ears ache, and his throat so sore he can hardly swallow. Patient he must be to endure it all when for 50c. he can buy CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER and restore himself to his normal condition.

Cushman's Menthol Inhaler a Jewel!

A woman will sit around prostrated in nerves, feeling desperate over loss of sleep, head and eyes racked with pain, cold settled in every bone, so miserable that life seems a blank, but if she would make the marvelous little instrument known as CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER her daily companion, her headaches would come less frequent, she would never have a cold, and sore throat and catarrh would have no terrors.

NEVER NEGLECT A COLD OR COUGH

Neglect a Cold or Cough and if La Grippe don't get you, Consumption will. CUSHMAN'S INHALER cures colds and all diseases of the breathway passages. You lose dollars in doctor bills in not keeping CUSHMAN'S INHALER handy to drive off a cold or cough or sore throat at its very first approach.

The Greatest Authority in the World.

DR. J. LENNOX BROWNE, F. R. C. S. Ed. Senior Surgeon to the Central London Throat and Ear Hospital, says: "The vapor of Menthol checks in a manner hardly less than marvelous, acute Colds in the head. For all forms of nasal diseases, causing obstruction to the natural breathway, I prescribe CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER to the extent of hundreds per annum."

[Is not this recommendation sufficient that all who read may profit by it?]

DR. BROWNE.

Brings sleep to the sleepless. Cures Insomnia and Nervous Prostration. Don't be fooled with worthless imitations. Take only CUSHMAN'S. 50c. at druggists, or mailed, postpaid, on receipt of price. Write for book on Menthol and testimonials.

Notice of Application for Pardon.

Notice is hereby given that application will be made to His Excellency the Governor for the pardon of Isaiah Patrick convicted at the Fall Term 1895 of Circuit Court of Chilton County of the offense of burglary.

B. T. PATRICK.

A severe rheumatic pain in the left shoulder had troubled Mr. J. H. Loper, a well known druggist of Des Moines, Iowa, for over six months. At times the pain was so severe that he could not lift anything. With all he could do he could not get rid of it until he applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm. "I only made three applications of it," he says, "and have since been free from all pain." He now recommends it to persons similarly afflicted. It is for sale by J. S. Johnson, Jr., Druggist.

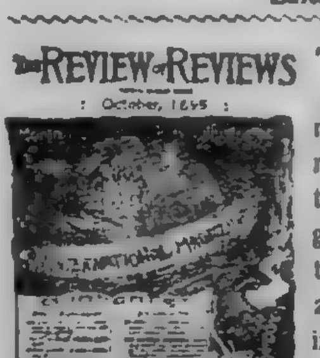
THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS
Edited by ALBERT SHAW.



THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

FIVE MONTHS FOR $1.00.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION $2.50.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

THREE RECENT SAMPLES 25 cents.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

The young people of our town enjoyed an entertainment last Monday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. VanDerveer. The entertainment was to have been on last Friday evening but owing to the inclemency of the weather was postponed until Monday. The young ladies masked, in their robes of white marched to the Thornton hotel, where they were joined by the young gentlemen, who greatly surprised the fair ones by being themselves masked. Then they, two by two, marched up to elegant home of Mr. VanDerveer, after which some time was passed trying to distinguish them apart, as there was a pound of candy offered for the hardest one to be distinguished, it was won by Miss Bettie Mullins and Miss —— Herring, who could not be recognized. After unmasking they proceeded in having all kinds of games until 12:30 when they marched into the dining room where an elegant table was furnished; returning to the parlor where everyone enjoyed themselves until 12:30 o'clock. Everyone going home hoping that it would not be long before they could have the pleasure of attending another entertainment at Mr. VanDerveer's.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of circuit court of Chilton county, and State of Alabama, and to me directed, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain judgment recently obtained against Geo. E. Skaggs out of the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the said Geo. E. Skaggs I have levied on the following property, to-wit:

One half undivided interest of the Sw ¼ of the Se ¼ sec 1 tp 23 r 13, lying and being in Chilton county Alabama.

Therefore according to said command I shall expose for sale at public auction all right, title and interest of the above named Geo. E. Skaggs in and to the above described property, on Monday the 13th day of April, 1896, during the legal hours of sale, at the court house door in Clanton, Chilton county, Ala.

Dated at Clanton this 7th day of March 1896.

From LaGrippe.

How Dr. Miles' Nervine Restored One of Kentucky's Business Men to Health.

NO DISEASE has ever presented so many peculiarities as LaGrippe. No disease leaves its victims so debilitated, useless, sleepless, nerveless as LaGrippe.

Mr. D. W. Hilton, state agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Kentucky, says: "In 1889 and '90 I had two severe attacks of LaGrippe, the last one attacking my nervous system with such severity that my life was despaired of. I had not slept for more than two months except by the use of narcotics that stupefied me but gave me no rest. I was only conscious of intense mental weakness, agonizing bodily pain and the fact that I was hourly growing weaker.

When in this condition, I commenced using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. In two days I began to improve and in one month's time I was cured, much to the surprise of all who knew of my condition. I have been in excellent health since and have recommended your remedies to many of my friends."

EDITOR BANNER: Health of the community good as usual except some complaint of measles.

Rev. Mr. Eam who has been sick has recovered.

Farm work progressing finely. Farmers have planted a large oat crop.

Politics are on a boom over here, and we are pleased to hear the people speaking out for those who have been true reformers in the stormy days of the reform movement.

Rev. G. W. Freeman of Bibb, filled his regular appointment at Pleasant Grove on the 4th Sunday.

Prof. Thomas has closed his school at Pleasant Grove.

The Sabbath school at Mars Hill has been closed on account of the measles.

By the way, who are to be our commissioners? We have heard that Mr. S. E. Waldrup, of beat 3, will be a candidate for that office, we can say that Mr. Waldrup is a true Populist and a good man, and one who has been bold for reform ever since its introduction here.

Give us, this year, men for office who are Populists indeed. Men like the gallant L. B. Poonds, the indefatigable J. A. Logan and many others who have been fearless in the reform work.
POPULIST.

CORRESPONDENCE

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Clear Creek, Ala., March 9

EDITOR BANNER: Among the candidates for tax collector we notice the name of Mr. J. A. Logan, of Clanton. This pleases Eli well. For while we are a good friend to all the other aspirants and believe them to be the best of reformers we must be allowed to urge the claims of Mr Logan in preference to anyone else. No man in the county has made greater sacrifices, no man has worked harder and accomplished more for the reform cause in Chilton county than J. A. Logan. It was he who first organized the county, often leaving his wife and children to take care of the home, while he would be gone days and nights traveling through rain and sunshine telling the people of the danger ahead. And from that day to this he has fought for every inch of ground we now hold in this county. He is honorable, high minded and well qualified to make us a good and safe tax collector. What say the people of Chilton? You all know him.
ELI.

EDITOR BANNER: I have noticed the names of James Cooley, Lee Hayes, G. W. Patrick and M. A. Killgore as candidates for sheriff on the reform ticket. I wish to say in regard to Bro. Killgore he is an open hearted man to all in distress and prompt at his church. It is the wish of the people in the east end of beats 1 and 4 to have him as our next sheriff. We think it is high time we elected a man from our part of the county, we have been helping elect men from the western part long enough, and we can't do better than elect Brother Kilgore for sheriff and Frank Crichton as Representative.

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co.; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials free. Address

FIFTY FOURTH CONGRESS.

Summary of the Week's Proceedings in Both Houses.

SEVENTIETH DAY.

A number of petitions were presented in the senate and several resolutions offered and referred. A conference was ordered on the army appropriation bill. The president's veto message on the bill leasing lands in Arizona was received and the bill and the veto message were referred to the committee on public lands. The senate then, by unanimous consent, proceeded to the consideration of bills on the calendar unobjected to and passed, among others, senate bill authorizing the secretary of the navy to enlist additional men for service in the United States navy. The bill was passed. The remainder of the day was consumed in the passage of bills on the calendar that are unobjected to, the most important being one to promote the efficiency of the revenue cutter service by establishing a permanent retired list on three-fourths pay; and the omnibus bridge bill, regulating the construction of bridges over the Mississippi and Missouri rivers. The Cuban resolutions passed by the house were laid before the senate and referred to the committee on foreign relations. Adjourned....In the house the senate joint resolution authorizing the continuance of the improvements of Mobile harbor was agreed to. Also a bill authorizing the Arkansas and Northwestern Railroad company to construct and operate a road through the Indian Territory. On motion of Mr. Willis (rep., of Dela.) the rules were suspended and a senate joint resolution was agreed to, authorizing and directing the secretary of agriculture to purchase and distribute seeds, etc., as has been done in preceding years. Mr. Hitt, chairman of the foreign affairs committee, then called up the senate Cuban resolutions and moved to suspend the rules and pass the resolutions reported by the house foreign affairs committee, in lieu of the senate resolutions. The house resolutions were then read at the clerk's desk. The motion to suspend the rules was carried by 175 to 19. It was agreed that 35 minutes on each side be allowed for debate. Upon the conclusion of the debate the previous question was ordered and the house resolutions were agreed to by 263 to 17. The resolutions are as follows: Resolved, By the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring, That in the opinion of congress a state of public war exists in Cuba, the parties to which are entitled to belligerent rights and the United States should observe a strict neutrality between the belligerents. Resolved, That congress deplores the destruction of life and property caused by the war now waging in that island, and believing that the only permanent solution of the contest, equally in the interest of Spain, the people of Cuba, and other nations, would be in the establishment of a government by the choice of the people of Cuba, it is the sense of the congress that the government of the United States should use its good offices and friendly influence to that end. Resolved, That the United States has not intervened in the struggles between any European governments and their colonies on this continent, but from the very close relations between the people of the United States and those of Cuba, in consequence of its proximity and the extent of the commerce between the two peoples, the present war is entailing such losses upon the people of the United States that congress is of the opinion that the government of the United States should be prepared to protect the legitimate interests of our citizens by intervention if necessary." The executive, legislative and judicial appropriation bill was then taken up, the question under consideration being the substitution of salaries for fees in the compensation of United States attorneys and marshals. Without reaching a conclusion, the house, at 4:50, adjourned.

SEVENTY-FIRST DAY.

The conference report on the army appropriation bill was agreed to. Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, introduced a bill which provides for the retirement of all national bank notes and the substitution therefor of United States legal tender notes to be issued by the treasury to the banks—the bonds now deposited as security for the redemption of national bank notes to be retained in the treasury as security for those legal tender notes. A resolution was also offered by Mr. Allen and went over until tomorrow declaring that under existing laws all United States bonds and legal tender notes are redeemable in gold and silver coin. Mr. Chandler, republican, of New Hampshire, reported from the committee on privileges and elections a resolution for the appointment by the president of the senate a committee of five to investigate the Alabama election of October 1894, with power to send for persons and papers, and to inquire whether the legislature then chosen, and which elected a United States senator, Morgan, was elected by false returns or other dishonest methods or violent practices. The resolution went over without action. Mr. Gray, democrat, of Delaware, giving notice of a minority report. The agricultural bill, which appropriates $3,262,652, was passed. It is the sixth regular bill that has passed both houses. After some other business, of minor importance, and a short executive session the senate adjourned..... In the house the day was devoted to consideration of the executive, legislative and judicial appropriation bill, which was still pending when the house adjourned.

SEVENTY-SECOND DAY.

Much of this day was devoted in the senate to debating the claim of H. D. Dupont to the Delaware senatorship. The case was laid aside, Mr. Mitchell, of Oregon, who had spoken three and a half hours in support of Dupont's claim, having the floor. The senate disagreed to the house substitute for the senate Cuba resolutions and requested a conference. The following bills passed: Senate bill to provide for substitute ports of entry and delivery in the state of Florida. Senate joint resolution directing the secretary of war to furnish an estimate for deepening the channel from Hampton Roads to the navy yard at Norfolk, Va., and also improving the western branch of the Elizabeth river. Senate bill granting a pension of $75 a month to the widow of ex-Senator Spencer, of Alabama as brigadier-general. Senate bill for the relief of St. Charles college, Missouri, for use, occupation and damages by United States troops during the civil war. Also senate bill repealing the law which requires the southern district judge of Florida to reside at Key West, Fla. Adjourned....After passing a few relatively unimportant bills the house spent the rest of the day's session in the consideration in committee of the whole of the fee and salary amendment to the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. In the course of the afternoon a message was received from the house announcing the disagreement of that body to the substitute of the house for the Cuban resolutions and asking a conference thereon, but no action was taken on it. The order for the printing of the report of the Nicaragua canal commission made February 19 was amended so as to exclude the printing of the accompanying papers and maps. The conference report on the army appropriation bill was agreed to. The house, at 5 o'clock, adjourned until tomorrow.

SEVENTY-THIRD DAY.

The debate on the case of Mr. Dupont, the contestant for the Delaware senatorship was continued in the senate, but no conclusion was reached and the case went over to Monday. The conference report on the Cuban resolution was presented by Mr. Sherman, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, the report being that the senate recede from its disagreement to the house resolutions and agree to them as a substitute for its own. The report was made a special order for Monday next at 2 o'clock. The senate passed some twenty-five bills on the calendar that were unobjected to. Among the bills passed was senate bill to pay $48,858 to the heirs of the late John Roach for labor and material on the United States gunboat Dolphin. Also house bill to incorporate the supreme council of the thirty-third degree of Scottish rite masonry for the southern jurisdiction of the United States. An executive session was held and the senate adjourned until Monday.....In the house the senate's request for a conference on the Cuba resolutions was agreed to and the conferees appointed. The bill making the national military parks public fields for military maneuver and drill by the regular army and state militia, under regulations fixed by the secretary of war, was passed. Also a bill appropriating $69,000 for the reconstruction of the bridge over the Mississippi river at Rock Island, Ill. Consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill occupied the remainder of the session and was still pending when the house adjourned.

SEVENTY-FOURTH DAY.

The house passed a bill requiring all pensions to be paid in checks. The legislative appropriation bill was passed. The postal bill was taken up and was pending when a recess was taken until 8 o'clock p. m. At the night session about a dozen private pension bills were passed.

SEVENTY-FITH DAY.

The senate resolutions authorizing the secretary of the treasury to distribute the diplomas and medals of the World's Fair were agreed to in the house. A bill to incorporate the Free Masons in the Indian Territory was passed. The postal bill was taken up and was pending when the house adjourned until Monday.

ITALIANS SUFFER DEFEAT.

Loss Reported From 3,000 to 10,000, Including 200 Officers.

A battle was fought on Sunday, March 1, between the Italian army under General Barateri and the Abyssinian forces, in which the Italians were routed with great slaughter. It seems that in the morning the Italian forces, comprising four brigades with one in reserve, occupied two ridges near Adowa. One brigade (Alberton's) was thrown forward and advanced too far. It was attacked by overwhelming numbers and driven back in such confusion that the supporting artillery could not be brought into action. In the effort to relieve this brigade all the Italian forces became engaged, fighting desperately. Gen. Dabormida's brigade was cut off. He fought his way through the Abyssinian lines, and, with a remnant of his battalions, rejoined the Italians. Fighting at great disadvantage from the first, and assailed by vastly superior numbers, the Italians at length retreated, and it appears that the retreat had much of the character of a rout. Among the killed were General Alberton and Colonel Galliamo. General Arimandi was seriously wounded. It was stated that of 247 officers engaged, only 40 answered to roll call after the battle. Reports as to the losses vary from 3,000 to 10,000, killed wounded and missing. But as numbers of the missing returned to the lines after the first reports were sent out, it is probable that the losses will not exceed 5,000. The Italians retreated toward Assemira.

MISS BARTON'S MISSION.

She Says the Distress and Suffering is Enormous.

A letter just received by a member of the American National Red Cross from Miss Clara Barton, dated Para, Constantinople, February 19, tells of the journey of the Red Cross party which sailed on January 23, and also contains the following:

"Not only was the fullest permission given by the sublime porte for entrance into Armenia, but an active and generous effort was displayed toward making our journey safe and pleasant. Mr. Terrell was very much gratified and seems very happy over our success, to which the state department and he contributed so largely.

"As soon as an outfit can be made and passage secured our men will start for the desolate regions. It will be cold and terribly hard for them, but that is what they came for. I have met several of the leading missionaries and other American gentlemen here. It is hoped that the massacres are over, but it is of course uncertain. The general feeling is that Russia has said 'Enough.'

"The distress and suffering through want and sickness is enormous and terrible."

Rush to the Alaska Gold Mines.

The steamship Topeka sailed from Port Townsend, Wash., at noon Thursday with the largest passenger list ever carried north, made up of 300 miners, for the gold fields of the famous Cook's inlet and Youkon county. Nearly as many more have engaged passage for a future trip. The steamship Alki arrived Thursday, and in one day the entire accommodation had been spoken for. The rush to the north is unprecedented. The steamer The City of Puebla, which sailed Thursday, had also on board a large party of miners under command of Capt. John H. Johnson, bound for the gold mines 700 miles in the interior of Alaska.

Uncle Sam's Marines at Corinto.

The United States warship Alert arrived at Corinto, Nicaragua, Thursday and landed a force of marines to protect foreign interests in the town.

Trolley Cars and Pills.

From the Evening News, Newark, N. J.

Mrs. Anna Burns, of 838 Plane Street, Newark, N. J., is a decidedly pretty brunette, twenty-six years old, tall, and a pleasant conversationalist. On the ground floor of her residence she conducts a well-ordered candy store. When our reporter visited her store, she in response to a question told him a very interesting story.

"Until about two months ago," she began, "I enjoyed the very best of health and could work night and day if necessary. Suddenly, and without any apparent cause, I began to suffer from intense pains in my head, in my limbs and temples. Almost distracted with this seemingly never ending pain, I tried cure after cure, prescription after prescription and almost a gallon of medicine of all kinds. Nothing did me any good. In fact I became worse. The knuckles of my hands soon became cramped and the pain in my hips became more and more distressing each day. Business in the store had to be attended to, however, and so I was obliged, suffering as I was, to keep more or less on my feet and occasionally I was forced to go out. This was the ordeal I dreaded. Each time I went out I trembled when I came near the car tracks for my pain at times was so severe that I was obliged to stand perfectly still no matter where I was. On one occasion I was seized in this way while I was crossing the tracks on Market Street and there I stood perfectly rigid, unable to move hand or foot while a trolley car came thundering along. Fortunately it was stopped before it struck me, but the dread of it all lasted as long as my pain, for I never knew when crossing the tracks, whether I would not drop to the ground in my agony and be crushed to death. My anxiety to get well grew apace and I had about given up in despair when I saw in the Evening News one day, an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Here was something I hadn't tried before and I lost no time in getting to the nearest drug store. There I paid fifty cents for a box of these truly wonderful, health restoring pills. Before I had finished taking half of the pills I began to feel relieved; the pains in my hips gradually disappeared and for the first time in many days I felt as if there was some hope. I continued to take the pills and the more I took, the better I felt. I finished one box, got another and now having taken only a few of the second fifty cents' worth, I am free from all pain and as happy as the day is long. Since I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I have gained thirty pounds and now when I cross the car tracks I don't care if there is a dozen vehicles nearby. It is a great relief, I assure you, and suffering humanity has a never failing friend in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I know what I am talking about. I speak from experience."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental, worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Puzzle Jugs.

Water or puzzle jugs were made in England as early as the seventeenth century, and at the beginning of the present century were still being produced. They are now seen only in museums or private collections. These tantalizing vessels, though not always equally complex, have generally some features in common. In spite of their many spouts, a perforated neck usually prevented the abstraction of their contents in the ordinary way. But a secret passage for the liquor up the hollow handle and through one spout or nozzle afforded the means of sucking out the contents. Of course all other spouts and a small concealed hole under the top of the handle had to be closed by the fingers judiciously employed during the imbibing process. The inscriptions found on some of these puzzle jugs usually relate to the difficulty of getting at their contents; the following is an example, written in "scratch blue," on a salt-glazed jug: "From Mother Earth I claim my birth, I'm made a joke for man; But now I'm here, filled with good cheer, Come, taste me if you can."

No Protection.

Green is popularly supposed to be the color which best protects the eye, but a German professor denies that it has any beneficial effect whatever, and declares that green newspapers, green glasses and green umbrellas are all a mistake. His theory is, at all events, plausible. It is that each different color tires a different set of nerves and vision, and, therefore, looking at one particular color saves one set of nerves at the expense of another. The best method, he points out, is to dim all the rays of light by smoked or gray glasses, which rest all the optic nerves.

THE DOWN-HILL ROAD!

Once give a disease a start, and the road from health to sickness is smooth, and declines rapidly. Sometimes just a little irregularity, just a little drain, just a faint "bearing down" feeling, indicates the existence of a disorder that nearly always leads to the most serious consequences.

There are very few women in perfect health. Nearly always there is some weakness in the female organs. Neglect of these little things is sure to push the sufferer farther down the hill to disease. Put a stop to them.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI

will quickly stop and cure all displacements and drains the weaknesses peculiar to women. It cures by building up the whole system. Disease can't exist in a strong, healthy body.

Wine of Cardui enables women to cure themselves. It enables them to keep secrets from the doctor that he must know if she goes to him for help.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

THE AERMOTOR CO. does half the world's windmill business, because it has reduced the cost of wind power to 1/6 what it was. It has many branch houses, and supplies its goods and repairs at your door. It can and does furnish a better article for less money than others. It makes Pumping and Geared, Steel, Galvanized-after-Completion Windmills, Tilting and Fixed Steel Towers, Steel Buzz Saw Frames, Steel Feed Cutters and Feed Grinders. On application it will name one of these articles that it will furnish until January 1st at 1/3 the usual price. It also makes Tanks and Pumps of all kinds. Send for catalogue. NOT FOR SILVER.

REPUBLICAN PARTY PLEDGED AGAINST WHITE METAL.

A Declaration that It Will Bear Defeat Rather Than Surrender to the Demands of the Silver Element in the Party.

One of the strangest thing in politics is the apparent blindness in the adherents of a party to see its defects, or to determine its policy. It cannot be said that all men who hold views opposite to the well-established policy of the party to which they belong are dishonest. It is like color blindness, a species of defect which, while it exists, cannot be accounted for. A good illustration of this idea presented itself in the senate the other day when Carter, Dubois and others took a firm stand for silver, and insisted that they represented the republican idea on that question. As a matter of fact the republican party has made no pretensions to being a free silver party for over twenty years. While it is true that it has declared for bimetallism in its national platforms, and for the use of both gold and silver, yet it insisted on impossible conditions to obtain bimetallism, and only favored the use of such silver as was already coined.

It knew that bimetallism through international agreement, which meant England's consent, was impossible, and growing more so every day. That declaration is only an artful evasion of the real issue for want of courage to meet it. The republican party demonetized silver in 1873. It opposed its full restoration in 1878. It is responsible for the Sherman makeshift in 1890, and for the decision that creditors of the government could demand gold in payment for coin obligations at their option. All these things are matters of record. Intelligent and well-informed men know them to be so. Yet in the face of all this evidence, there are thousands of men who believing that relief from the present condition of prostrated industries can only be had through free silver are still hanging to the republican party, hoping against hope, fighting against fearful odds, with defeat staring them in the face, surrounded with broken pledges, and blasted hopes, weighed down with despair, knowing full well that they are engaged in a losing fight.

In addition to the record of their party every leading republican paper is against them and in favor of the gold standard. A recent issue of the Globe-Democrat contained an editorial along these lines from which we clip the following: "Even if the entire mining region were solidly arrayed in defense of the bolters the republican party would make no surrender to silver. On this question of honest money—of money which, in the language of Jones, of Nevada, in his best days, "can not lie," and which "keeps its promises to rich and poor alike"—the republican party has taken its position. To this position it will stick despite the threats of fanatics and demagogues, and regardless of the fortune which the immediate future may have in store for it. The position which the party took in the conventions of 1888 and 1892 is the position which it will take in the convention of 1896. It would be easy, to be sure, to make the silver utterance clearer, squarer and stronger than those of the years named were. Probably that of 1896 will be. In any event it will mean a dollar which at all times, in all places and under all conditions will be worth 100 cents in the world's money, gold.

If there is to be any split in the two great parties [illegible] the silver question 1896 is the time to have it. A square contest on this issue without any entangling alliances with the tariff or any other question, is the great need of this country at the present time. One canvass on the silver issue—one canvass in which the 14,000,000 voters of this country could vote "yes" or "no" on the question of whether the national finances were to be debased to the Chinese level—would stamp out the silver distemper and remove finally and eternally this fiat money in peril. It is well for the honest money men in both parties to understand that silverism is as hollow and false physically, so to speak, as it is morally. Outside of the half a dozen mining states it has no standing among the people. The result in 1895 in Kentucky, in Nebraska (where the democrats split into a silverite and anti-silverite group) and in the eighteenth Illinois congressional district tells the story of the feebleness of the silver folly when it is resolutely attacked. But even if it were as powerful as its advocates pretend, the duty of the republicans to assail it would still be imperative. The party which created the national banking system, which maintained, in the face of powerful opposition, the government's faith with its creditors of 1861-5 and which brought every dollar of the country's currency up to the gold level, could better afford to be defeated in defending the public credit than it could to win by a surrender which would make it break with its record of a third of a century's glorious achievements in the policy of financial sanity and honesty."

It would be utterly impossible for the English language to make plainer the position of the republican party upon the silver question. Then why do men who are honest and intelligent any longer cling to a party that is so palpably pledged to pursue a policy inimical to their interests and their principles. The time has come for a new dispensation in the domain of politics—or rather a revivifying of an old dispensation that has been set aside to make room for a system of spoils and reign of greed that are undermining the foundations of our republic. There never was a time when this nation approached nearer a crisis fraught with more importance than the present. Let men weigh well their duty as patriots against their allegiance to their party.

The republicans apparently have been having pretty smooth sailing, but recently a large sized skeleton has shown itself in the family closet. Whatever may be said of the sincerity of the senators representing the silver mining states, there is a constituency behind them that don't propose to take a stone for bread, and between their allegiance to the grand old party and the frantic appeals, not to say demands, of their constituency, the aforesaid Senators are between the devil and the deep blue sea, with the chances that the party will have a devil of a row before the thing is settled. If there is anything that the people in Colorado, Nevada, Idaho, Montana and other silver states want more than anything else it is free silver, and they are not at all backward about declaring their intention of having it or a free fight. When the tariff measure came up in the senate the other day, five of these silver senators voted to block any further progress along those lines, unless we were to have free silver. This proceeding was so extraordinary in the republican family that it excited much comment, and no little criticism against the aforesaid five senators. Senator Carter, who also happens to be the Chairman of the National Republican Committee, smarting under these criticisms, dropped his robe of senatorial courtesy, borrowed brother Tillman's pitchfork and proceeded to probe the old republican dung-hill in the following refreshing style:

"It is high time that republicans who claim to be within the party should take their cues from the party platform, rather than from the White House. If it shall occur that this senseless crusade against republicans who believed in good faith in the Minneapolis platform, when it declared for bimetallism as well as protection, shall be carried to such an extent as may result in the adoption of President Cleveland's scheme by the St. Louis Convention, I submit that republican success will be rendered utterly impossible. If the platform of 1896 announces to the country, in conjunction with the action of republicans between the two conventions, that the plank on bimetallism adopted at Minneapolis was a delusion, a fraud and a snare, it would be just as well for the republican party not to make a nomination at St. Louis at all. Such a platform as that, which will be the logical outcome of the republican following of President Cleveland's scheme, would leave the republican party in this chamber with scarcely enough members to second a demand for the yeas and nays. In plain view of these facts, the drift of the republican party in the eastern section of the country toward Clevelandism and the gold standard is to me an appalling spectacle. In the name of all the republican party means to human civilization, let republicans in and out of congress take counsel of their own party platform and traditions and cease blind devotion to the false god who deals in mysterious phrases."

Senator Carter said much more than this, but it is enough to show that he knows how to handle a pitchfork and that there may be more trouble ahead for the republican party than it is willing to admit. One thing, however, Carter and his associates ought to know, that is they are making a hopeless fight against fearful odds in their own party, and that their action only serves to keep the free silver forces divided and thereby assists the goldbugs.

W. S. MORGAN.

PLEDGING CANDIDATES.

Do the People Hire Officials to [illegible] Them?

How could a national convention pledge a president to any particular course? Where is the man fit to be president, the candidate whom the people respect, who would accept a nomination under such conditions? A president thus elected would be foresworn to a course which might violate his official oath. Such a president would be a cipher. There is not now, and never has been, a party in this country foolish enough to adopt such a course, or strong enough to carry an election by such a policy.—Washington Post.

So?

Thought this was a government of the people.

Appears to us that no president has a right to disobey the instructions of the people who have him hired.

Not only the president, but every other official elected by the people ought to be bound under penalty of death to carry out to the best of his ability the pledges and instructions upon which he is elected.

A majority of the people have a right to dictate the policy of government even to the extent of changing all present existing constitutional and statute law.

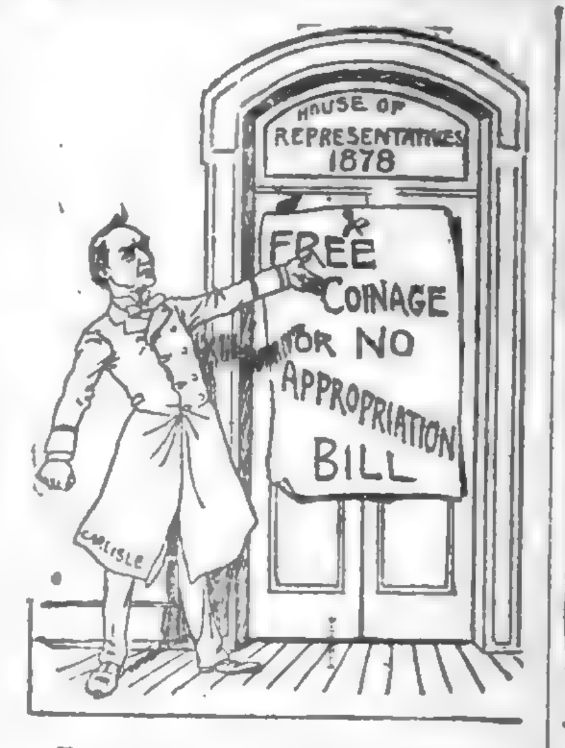
No law of the land should be allowed to stand supreme in the presence of a majority of the people opposed to it.

No president or other official has any right to set up his personal opinion against that of the people whom he is sworn to serve.

There is one party that believes in instructing and binding its candidates to carry out the instructions of the convention—that is the People's party. —Arkansaw Kicker.

Protection that don't protect farmers and their wives and children, protects millionaires and corporations that don't need protection.

If the democrats want to see the republicans laid in the shade all they have to do is to join the populists, and the job will be neatly done.

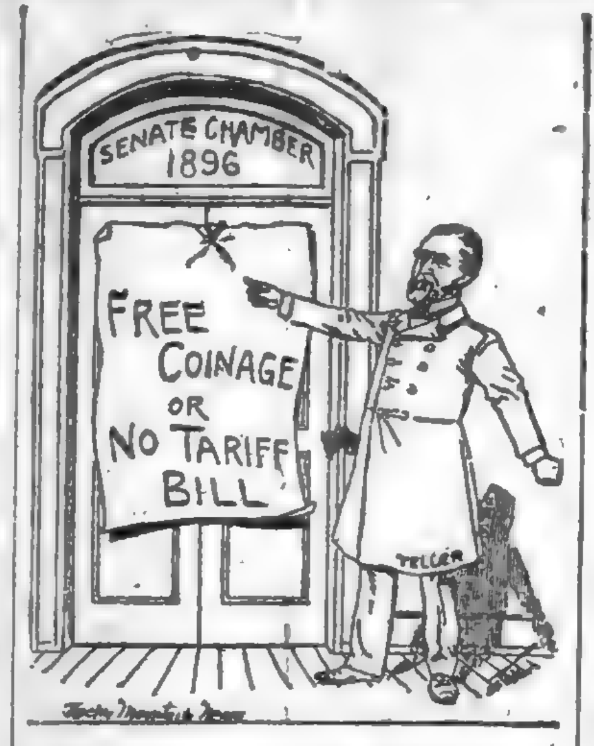


HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES 1878
FREE COINAGE OR NO APPROPRIATION BILL
CARLISLE

From John G. Carlisle's Speech.

For the Bland Bill in 1878.

The struggle now going on cannot cease, and ought not to cease until all industrial interests of the country are fully and finally emancipated from the heartless domination of syndicates, stock exchanges and every great combination of money grabbers in this country and in Europe. Let us, if we can do no better, pass bill after bill, embodying in each some one substantial provision for relief, and send them to the executive for his approval. If he withholds his signature and we are unable to secure the necessary vote here or elsewhere to enactment them into laws, notwithstanding his veto, let us, as a last resort, suspend the rules and put them into the general appropriation bills, with the distinct understanding that if the people can get no relief the government can get no money.



SENATE CHAMBER 1896
FREE COINAGE OR NO TARIFF BILL
TELLER

Teller's Message to New York World.

"The action of the house has not been a surprise to anyone and has no special significance, for it is well understood when the members of the house were elected that the majority were opposed to silver.

"I do not state a secret when I say that the influence of the administration was exerted in favor of the republican candidates in favor of the gold standard and against democratic candidates in favor of bimetallism.

"I am confident we shall very soon hear from the industrial interests of Christendom, now threatened as never before, by the competition of the silver-using countries, especially the Asiatic countries, or what has been properly called 'the Asiatic pool.' This competition cannot be met by tariffs and can only be overturned by a change in the monetary system."

MR. WATSON RAISES THE CURTAIN OF THE PAST.

And Makes a Comparison Which Also Answers the Purposes of a Lecture—$1,000 to an Opera Singer—$21,000 for a Funeral.

People's Party Paper: Do you remember how mad congress became with me because of the Campaign book in which the drunkenness of members was shown up?

Do you recall how the Atlanta Journal and other democratic newspapers assailed me as a liar and slanderer?

If you do, you will read with special interest the following paragraph from the Atlanta Journal:

"Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—The death of Representative Crain, of Texas—the first member to die since the opening of the recent session of congress—was as sad as it was unexpected, and has thrown a temporary pall of gloom over the house.

"When 'Bill' Crain first came to congress—the forty-ninth—he was only 37, rich, handsome and talented beyond the majority of his fellows. He came brimful of ambition, hope and health, enjoying the perfect confidence of his Texas constituency and possessing the elements of a successful and honorable public service.

"It is far from my purpose to distress those who loved him or to say aught but good of him—for after all, his faults—whether right or wrong—are those that most men are quick to condone.

"Suffice it to say that in the heydey of his youth he fell into the hands of the gilded Philistines of the capital. His talents were soon lying dormant and his money went so fast that he hardly realized that he had nothing left but the confidence of his own people and his congressional salary to live upon.

"The moral of it all is that Washington is a bad place for young men with money and talents coupled with convivial habits."

You may remember that congress appointed a prosecuting committee to try me for slander, and that the evidence I introduced before this committee was so damaging to the prosecution that neither the report of the committee nor the evidence taken by it were ever publishd and circulated.

In that record the testimony of the Hon. John G. Otis, of Kansas, is to be found.

Among other incidents, he spoke of seeing a certain congressman attempt to rise from his seat and ask a question of a member who was making a speech. Mr. Otis testified that the questioner was so drunk that he fell back into his seat while attempting to ask the question.

He is dead now—poor fellow—killed in his prime by the bar-room which runs night and day, Sunday and Monday, just below the hall in which our congressmen meet.

Cover him with flowers and burn incense around his bier—you who murdered him!

Chant the requiem and bless the grave—you whose cowardly silence let the assassin strike him down!

Praise his generous nature, eulogize his talent, pour forth regrets that his brilliant prospects were so cruelly shrouded in the eternal night—you whose base panderings to party flung the weeds of widowhood around his wife!

If that bar-room were driven out of the building the temptation to weak congressman would not be so great.

Facility leads to crime.

The very fact that the tempting drink is so close by, so convenient, melts the resistance of many a member who would never walk into the city for a drink.

The very fact that the bar is run as a part of the congressional restaurant, is screened from public view, is easy of access, and offers choice companionship as well as concealment, makes the pitfall the more perilous.

Mr. Preacher—you who lecture your congregation so often on the sacred duties of going to church and paying your salary—how much have you done to arouse public indignation against this national disgrace of the congressional bar-room?

How many times have your brethren in Washington preached against it?

How many times has the chaplain of the house, or the chaplain of the senate, prayed to the Most High God to blast with His divine wrath the abominations which those chaplains knew to exist within sixty feet of where they prayed?

He is dead.

Appoint your funeral committee to escort the lifeless body back to his home; furnish this committee with plenty to eat and to drink and to smoke on their doleful journey; appropriate from the common treasury the money to pay for the burial; endow the widow with the salary for the "unexpired term."

Do all this, solons of this Christian republic!—and then go back and tell your congressional bar-room to kill another one.

Here is a paragraph from a democratic newspaper which supported Cleveland in 1892, and which found no language too savage to use towards those who opposed Mr. Cleveland and who predicted that he would carry out the very schemes he has since manipulated.

(Sparta Ishmaelite:)

"The masses of this country have had since the last inauguration of Cleveland, on the 4th of March, 1893, a thousandfold better and stronger grounds for armed revolution than their forefathers for armed resistance to the tyranny of King George in 1776. What were the exactions of the stamp act and a tax of a few pence on a pound of tea compared with the continent-wide confiscation and ruin through which Cleveland and Carlisle have made their way to the superemacy of national bank gold gamblers in the very temple of the people's liberties?"

* * *

Mrs. Hearst, widow of the late Senator Hearst of California, lives in Washington, is immensely rich, and is a society leader.

At one of her entertainments she paid an opera singer $1,000 to sing a few songs during the evening.

Mrs. Hearst is the same lady who allowed her husband to be buried at public expense; and the sum you tax-payers paid for that funeral was more than $21,000.

It is to the eternal credit of Mrs. Stanford that she had the decency to bury her husband at the expense of his own enormous estate.

American tobacco jumped from 73 to 82¾ on the Stock Exchange Wednesday. The cause was thought to have been a settlement of the tobacco war, but this the Drummond and Liggett & Myers people deny.

Report says 200,000 Armenians are in a starving condition in their country, and the only help they get is furnished by the English and American charities.

A heavy snow fell at Burlington, Ia., Saturday night, with cold weather. Ice commenced running in the Mississippi so thick that all steamers were compelled to tie up.

Mr. Walford Davis Green, conservative member of the British parliament, says Spain has no right to kick at the action of the United States, as this country has always been on the side of liberty.

An Albany, N. Y., dispatch says: Lexow's greater New York bill has passed the senate by a vote of 32 to 8. The bill was not amended and now goes to the assembly for concurrence.

It is stated that Bear Spring iron furnace, in Stewart county, Tennessee will be blown in about April 1. The plant has been considerably improved, and good work is expected.

Ex-Senator Patrick Walsh has accepted the invitation of Governor Oates, of Alabama, to address the meeting to be held in Montgomery March 25 to take steps looking to an Alabama exhibit at Chicago.

A heavy hail storm at Guthrie, O. T., was followed by a downpour of sleet which will do great damage to peaches and apricots, which are in bloom all over the territory, and ruin early vegetables. In many places the hail drifted badly.

The directors of the Knoxville, Tenn., Woolen mills have voted to erect a 5,000 spindle cotton mill in connection with their plant to manufacture their own warp. This addition will cost about $10,000 and will give employment to 150 additional hands.

At Denver, Col., a reported strike of rich gold ore on a claim of the Blue Jay company caused an advance from 6½ to 27¼ in the stock of that property on the mining exchange on transactions of 625,000 shares. The rise caused a wild scene of excitement on the floor.

Henry Patterson, a young farmer living in the country near Gainesville Ga., returned from a hunt the other day, and going into the bedroom where his wife lay placed his gun on a table. It was discharged and the top of her head was blown off. The coroner's jury said the killing was accidental. She was 18 years old.

WEYLER'S WILY WAY.

Another Proclamation to Soften the Severity of Previous Manifestoes.

Captain General Weyler has issued another proclamation, the terms of which indicate a purpose to still further soften the severity of the proclamations he issued soon after his arrival in Havana.

This edict provides that all persons captured up to the date, in the provinces of Havana and Pinar del Rio, who are suspected of having been members of a rebel band, should they of their own free will deny that they belonged to such band, will be liberated in every case, provided they give their promise before two witnesses to be loyal to the Spanish cause, and provided also that no one appears against them to offer charges of any other crimes.

To this end instructions are given to judges that they shall record in the files a personal description of those against whom proceedings shall have been taken, and shall then ask for the release of those coming within the above mentioned provisions as being discharged of the crime of rebellion but they shall remain subject to the vigilant surveillance of the authorities. The same proceedings will be adopted with regard to those who are arrested and who are not accused of common crimes.

The above proclamation is signed Weyler.

NOT NEW YORKERS.

Suits Against the Goulds to Collect Taxes Are Withdrawn.

A telegram from New York says: The Goulds will not be compelled to pay the taxes on $10,500,000 which were assessed in this city for the year 1895. Five suits had been filed against the estate of Jay Gould and his son and daughters to enforce the findings of commissioners of taxes and assessments. The defendants pleaded non-residence. When the case against George J. Gould came up for hearing before Judge Pryor in the special term of the supreme court, the corporation council's representative announced that it had been determined to abandon the suits on the ground that the defendants could establish the plea of non-residence. Judge Pryor thereupon gave a judgment vacating the assessments.

The Missing Steamship Safe.

The steamship Rio de Janeiro has arrived at Honolulu out of coal, twenty-six days from San Francisco. She had battled sixteen days with heavy head gales on the northern route, when her coal supply was too near exhausted for her to make the few hundred miles remaining to Yokohama. She put about for Honolulu making sail. Before reaching here she had burned her aft deck house and mizzen top mast, and had but twenty tons left.

MACEO TO WEYLER.

Cuban General Appeals to the Spaniard to Be Less Cruel.

A special from New York contains a lengthy proclamation addressed by the Cuban insurgent general, Maceo, to General Weyler. It is dated February 27. After arraigning the Spanish commander for his crimes and atrocities towards Cubans, it says: "Out of humanity, yielding to the honorable and generous impulses which are identified with both the spirit and the tendency of the revolution, I shall never use reprisals, that would be unworthy of the reputation and the power of the liberating army of Cuba. But I nevertheless foresee that such abominable conduct on your part and on that of your men will cause victims, without my being able to prevent it, even though I should punish hundreds of innocent persons.

"For this last reason, since war should only touch combatants, and it is inhuman to make others suffer from its consequences, I invite you to retrace your steps, if you admit your guilt, or repress these crimes with a heavy hand if they were committed without your consent. At all events, take care that no drop of blood be shed outside the battlefields; be merciful to the many unfortunate peaceful citizens. In so doing you will imitate in honorable emulation our conduct and our proceedings."

The Battle Ship Massachusetts.

Uncle Sam will in a few days have another powerful war ship ready for service. The Massachusetts was launched over two years ago, and but for the delay in the completion of the armor and guns would have been in commission long ago. The vessel is now practically finished, and if necessary could go into commission in a few weeks. The delay for several months past has been due to the non-arrival of several large guns. Two of these guns are in place in their turrets and one is now on its way here from the government proving grounds at Indian Head, and the fourth will be shipped from Bethlehem in a day or two. With the mounting of the guns the armament will be practically completed.

Cheap and Not Original.

In the law and equity court of Louisville, Ky., one day recently, Judge Sterling B. Toney, who is a great stickler for promptness, turned up late, and on presentation ordered himself fined $5 for contempt of court. When his docket had been cleared he remitted the fine and all others of a like character that had been imposed on jurors and others during the week.

LAST Friday we rejoiced at receiving the following telegram:

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 13, '96
Our votes are counted here. Right prevailed. Just been seated.
W. F. ALDRICH.

THREE weeks from next Tuesday is the first primary—April 14.

REGISTRATION commences on Monday, May 4. Remember that unless you register you are disfranchised.

KANSAS Populists yesterday held their State convention and elected delegates to go to St. Louis. The platform adopted demanded the free coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.

EVERYTHING points to success for us this year both in State and national elections. A good strong pull all together and the people rule.

THE Senate Committee on privileges and elections has made a favorable report on the proposed amendment to the constitution providing for the election of United State senators by direct vote of the people.

WE suggest to the candidates it is time they were making some arrangements about the ballots for the primary. The executive committee suggested that all names should go on one ticket—the same as in the State election. This reduces the expense and at the same time is educational.

MR. Oates of Montgomery is very busy preparing data for the use of Senators Morgan and Pugh when the resolution to send the investigating committee to Alabama comes up in the Senate for argument. We hope Mr. Oates will include the notorious announcement of "Pulse" Caffee, but suppose he will be too busy to remember it.

THE Advertiser is hard at work exposing Democratic frauds in their own primaries, while the State-Herald is exerting itself altogether too much to discredit the exposure. They may continue to fight as hard as they please; they may pile up the biggest majorities in their primaries and claim the earth, but it will only cause the people to be more intent upon having their votes honestly counted in August.

Senator Chandler will send his committee to the Montgomery Advertiser first to get a few pointers as to how democrats commit frauds. If the Advertiser refuses to assist the smelling committee it will only have to go to the files of the Advertiser.—Montgomery Journal.

THIS is a frank admission. Perfectly true and the advice is good. Could not possibly do better than get pointers from the Advertiser—if pointers were needed for the '92 and '94 elections. As a book of reference on election frauds nobody disputes the fact that you cannot find anything to equal "the files of the Advertiser."

CONGRESSMAN W. F. Aldrich took his seat in Congress last Friday and we congratulate this District in now having the man who was elected by our votes in the place of the individual who has too long usurped the position. During the debate on the case in the House some strong language (but not too strong) was indulged in which should cause the blush or shame to rise to the face of all those who are responsible for the humiliation of our State by their reprehensible election practices. Mr. Liney (Rep. S.C.) said:

"Fraud upon the ballot-box was the red-eyed daughter of high treason. It was the one great menace to the republic. The report of the minority of the committee itself showed that in one county Robbins received 3177 fraudulent votes. There has never been anything like it in heaven or this side of hell."

Mr. Moody (Rep. Mass.) denounced in the strongest terms the crimes against honest elections in Alabama. He declared it to be the duty of the House to say to those persons who were striving for an honest ballot that "no man shall come here and hold a seat with garments so seeking with crime as to defile the very atmosphere which we breathe."

If the present fraudulent incumbents of official positions have the least particle of conscience left we imagine they must feel at the very least most uncomfortable at these reflections upon the villianous means by which they attained their ends.

FROM the report of the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections we extract the following:

"In August 1892 Reuben F. Kolb was the candidate against Thomas G. Jones the regular Democratic candidate. The ticket headed by Kolb was elected and the supporters of the Kolb State ticket also elected a majority of the members of the legislature; but by fraudulent and corrupt practices on the part of the election officers a majority of the votes cast was returned for the Jones State ticket, and a majority of Jones members to the legislature was also fraudulently declared elected. The creation of this fraudulent and false State government was accomplished by the wholesale falsifications of returns. The State government established, headed by Mr. Jones, was the creation not of votes cast, but was constructed on paper by the dishonest election officers in pursuance of a great conspiracy deliborately organized long before the election for the purpose of the political complexion of the State in case it should appear that Kolb and his supporters had carried the election. Mr. Kolb and his supporters allowed the fraudulent State government to assume its functions, relying upon the adoption by the legislature of a law enabling them to make a contest as to the election of governor, the passage of which contest law was publicly promised to them dy Mr. Jones to induce them not to resort to; but the promise was deliberately broken after the bill had passed one branch of the legislature."

J. G. GAY.

The open primary election is having the effect of inducing the friends of several prominent men to bring their favorites out as candidates for the several county offices. Mr. J. G. Gay of Plantersville, a gentleman who has the respect and esteem of all who are acquainted with him, has been urged to come out as a candidate for the office of tax collector. Having yielded to the pursuation of his friends Mr. Gay proposes to make a vigorous race and if elected will serve the people in a thoroughly efficient manner.

A. C. MIMS.

Squire A. C. Mims, born and raised within one mile of Clanton, who has lived his whole life in beats four and six this county, and who for twenty-six years continuously has been a justice of the peace in those beats giving great satisfaction by his impartial judgments, is announced as a candidate for the office of tax assessor. Mr. Mims is thoroughly acquainted with the needs of the county and the duties of the office and if he is elected will undoubtedly make us a good assessor.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phœbe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had Consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St., San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption, tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at J. S. Jonson, Jr., Drug Store. Regular size 50c and $1.00.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION.

By authority of the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton county a convention of the Democratic party of said county is hereby called to meet at the court house in Clanton on Wednesday the 15th day of April, 1896, at 12 o'clock for the purpose of selecting delegates to the Democratic State convention which meets in Montgomery on April 21. The following apportionment of delegates has been fixed by the committee: Beat 1, Mineral Spring, 4; beat 2, Providence 4, Jemison 6; beat 3, Benson 5; beat 4, Clanton 12; beat 5, Coopers 5, Verbena 7; beat 6, Kincheon 5; beat 8, Maplesville, 5; beat 8, Dixie, 8; beat 9, Strasburg, 4.

Delegates will be chosen to the convention at an election to be held as nearly as may be under the forms governing general elections in this State on Saturday April 11, 1896. All white voters who will support the nominees of the Democratic party, are entitled to participate in the election of delegates to the county convention.

R EHRMAN,
Acting Chairman Democratic Executive Committee Chilton Co.

Collins Chapel.

Last Saturday night a number of candidates met here and addressed a pretty good crowd. Mr. Ira Campbell called the house to order and L. H. Reynolds, Frank Crichton, J. A. Logan, L. B. Pounds, J. J. L. Stewart, J. T. Cooley M. A. Killgore and Sam Pate all made short talks. The proceedings were very harmonious, every man declaring his opposition to any personalities during the campaign, it being agreed that if any candidate should adopt the Democratic plan of slinging mud at an opponent he should be left severely alone. The meeting broke up about half past ten o'clock.

"Perhaps you would not think so, but a very large proportion of diseases in New York, comes from carelessness about catching cold," says Dr. Syrus Edson. "It is such a simple thing and so common that few people, unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to a cold. New York is one of the healthiest places on the Atlantic Coast and yet there are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in this neglect of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most sensible advice is, when you have one get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Dr. Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but we will. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will relieve the lungs, aid expectoration, open the secretions and soon effect a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by J. S. Johnson, Jr., Druggist.

CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER
— FOR — COLDS IN HEAD, CATARRH, SORE THROAT, LA GRIPPE, HEADACHE or Any Head or Throat Trouble.

DR. J. S. BROWNE, LONDON

DR. Browne is Senior Surgeon to the Central London Throat and Ear Hospital. He declares himself in a recent medical journal in emphatic terms as follows: "The vapor of Menthol checks in a manner hardly less than marvelous, acute Colds in the head. For all forms of nasal disease, causing obstruction to the natural breathway, I prescribe Cushman's Menthol Inhaler to the extent of hundreds per annum."

A CHRONIC DISEASE LURKS IN EVERY BAD COLD!

Then why do you go on in a deluded way trying to wear out your misery when CUSHMAN'S INHALER will relieve you instantly.

It is a Constant Companion! $5.00 worth of medicine for 50 cts. No sickening or nauseating drugs to debilitate your system. Only a refreshing and healthful aid to you. Indispensable in traveling. Public singers and speakers use it and find it the greatest aid in strengthening the throat.

INFLUENZA! DR. J. H. SALISBURY, a distinguished physician of New York, said: "Inhaled Menthol is particularly destructive to the life of the Influenza bacilli."

SEA SICKNESS! Dr. Beeley Thorn, in communication in the London Lancet, says: "I have found Cushman's Menthol Inhaler exercises a marked beneficial effect in Sea Sickness and especially in the headache and vertigo, which remains after the actual vomiting and retching passed off."

MOTTVILLE, N. Y., Jan. 21, '92.
I have had Catarrh about two years. A friend sent me one of your Inhalers. It helped me the first time I tried it.
T. DOUGLAS MORTON.

KINGSTON, N. Y.
I have used one of your Menthol Inhalers for about a month for Chronic Catarrh of twenty years' standing. It has given me more relief than all other remedies I ever tried. H. LATHAM.

Chancellor McSpadden being unable to hold the last term of the Chilton chancery court on account of illness, Hon. Richard B. Kelley, of Anniston, was appointed special Chancellor. We do no believe that any other person could have given such general satisfaction or received such unlimited commendation at the hands of members of the legal profession. The business of the term was promptly disposed of and the special Chancellor left on last Saturday after having made friends of everyone who had the pleasure of meeting him.

Last Friday night Dutch Crosby and Will Martin, both of whom were in jail on charges of murder, made their escape and have not since been heard from. By some means or other they had procured a finely tempered saw with which they cut out two or three iron bars of the window of the cell and so escaped.

YEARS OF INTENSE PAIN.

[illegible] Watts, druggist and physician, Humboldt, Neb., who suffered with heart disease for four years, trying every remedy and all treatments known to himself and fellow-practitioners; believes that heart disease is curable. He writes:

"I wish to tell what your valuable medicine has done for me. For four years I had heart disease of the very worst kind. Several physicians I consulted, said it was Rheumatism of the Heart.

It was almost unendurable; with shortness of breath, palpitations severe pains, unable to sleep, especially on the left side. No pen can describe my sufferings, particularly during the last months of those four weary years. I finally tried

DR. J. H. WATTS.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure,

and was surprised at the result. It put new life into and made a new man of me. I have not had a symptom of trouble since and I am satisfied your medicine has cured me for I have now enjoyed, since taking it

Three Years of Splendid Health.

I might add that I am a druggist and have sold and recommended your Heart Cure, for I know what it has done for me and only wish I could state more clearly my suffering then and the good health I now enjoy. Your Nervine and other remedies also give excellent satisfaction." J. H. Watts.
Humboldt, Neb., May 9, '94.

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Turn-Round Topics.

Spring has not come yet as it snowed the 12th and 13th and covered everything except the ground about one-half or three-quarters of an inch thick. Had the ground not been wet so the snow could have stuck without melting, it would have been a general "rabbit hunt" on the morning of the 13th.

Mr. E. L. Jones is convalescent after an attack of measles, but his wife has just taken them, and he has two children who are more than apt to take them.

Messrs. Cato and John Pattillo, Walter Kendrick and sister. Miss Daisy, attended the "social hop" at Mr. Elias Minor's near Coopers Friday night.

Miss Alice Morgan has returned to her home at Prattville after a pleasant stay with relatives and friends here, much to the regret of her many acquaintances.

Messrs. T. D. Whitsworth and P. M. Jones attended the lodge at Bozeman Saturday.

Mr. P. H. Connell our new and inexperienced overseer has put the Knight's Ferry road in as good condition as it ever was. We congratulate him and say he did well.

A CARD.

To the People of Chilton county: It is questioned as to how I stand in cutting off the north end of the county. I am opposed to it and should I be elected I would do all I could to defeat such a measure should it arise.

Editor Banner: In your valuable paper of last week appeared an article signed by my brother, Doll Hill, and I beg space to say that I do not indorse anything contained in said article. In common with many and I believe a large majority of the people of Chilton county, I desire the nomination and election of Lee Hayes to the office of sheriff and will do all I can honorably to secure his election. Respectfully,

G. W. Hill.

Maplesville, Ala., March 17, 1896.

Editor Banner: A few words from this part may not be out of place. Now that the first primary is close at hand, let us turn out freely and go and vote for the men of our choice. Mr Lee Hayes for sheriff, Mr. Tom Hubbard for tax collector, Mr. L. B. Pounds for assessor and Mr. Frank Crichton for representative. These gentlemen will be the choice of the people of beat 7 and 8. We hope that Hayes will be elected beause we think that he is the man for the position, notwithstanding the other candidates are nice gentlemen. The farmers are very backward in planting corn owing to the cold weather, but we hope the inclement weather will not continue all the year. Great success to The Banner, Beat 7.

For seven years or more Mrs. W. D. Louder, of Quincy, Ky., was subject to severe attacks of cramp colic. Mr. S. R. Morse, a druggist of that place, recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, which has effected a permanent cure, saving her much suffering besides the trouble and expense of sending for a doctor, which was often necessary. West Chilton, March 18, 1896.

Well, Mr. Editor, I am glad to see your name announced as a candidate for representative. I had about decided to vote for Mr. Reynolds until your name came out, but now I will go my last link in support of you for our next representative. Politics is getting hot over this way. The friends of Mr. J. G. Gay will announce him and put his name before the people as a candidate for collector, and I see the friends of Mr. E. W. Bailey have announced him as a candidate for assessor; this is a wise thing of his friends doing so, for Mr. Bailey is the very man to fill that office. I have been knowing him for many years, he is right in every respect. He is a hightoned gentleman, strictly honest and don't drink liquor. Mr. Lee Hayes is the very man we are looking for, for our next sheriff, and we are going to elect him for that office you may bet; we pay no attention to any false reports we hear about him.

Clanton, Ala., March 19, 1896

Editor Banner: You will please give me a few lines in your paper in regard to some reports on me. It is reported that I am a candidate in behalf of Mr. Hayes. I am sorry that people tell false on me but I am glad to think that they cannot tell anything that's true that would hurt me. I wish to say that I am a candidate in behalf of M. A. Killgore strictly.

Success to the People's Party and the Banner. Yours,

M. A. Killgore.

Randolph, Ala., March 18, '96.

Editor Banner: As there seems to be a little misunderstanding as to the intention of the primaries I will say the first is open to all candidates, and the second to the two candidates for each office receiving the highest number of votes at the first. This I think is right. It gives time to reflect and we want to be right before we quit.

My name has been mentioned for office. I have never asked for it but the people have got it up themselves. I have always considered my unworthiness as well as my incompetency, and I want the people to act wisely in their choice.

S. E. Waldrup.

$1.00 FOR YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.

Write us a letter covering these three points:
First.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."
Second.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.
Third.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, not, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.
On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

The boiler of Larkin & Grigies' mill Selma, on Saturday afternoon exploded, killing one white man and fatally injuring three others. The names of the victims have not yet been ascertained.

Help for Montevallo and Tuskegee.

The house committee on public lands has reported favorably the senate bill granting 25,000 acres of land to each the Booker Washington Institute, of Tuskegee, Ala., and to the Industrial School for Girls, at Montevallo, Ala.

The Inevitable Consequence.

A telegram received from Gadsden announces that Mrs. John Eason, who deserted her husband and children in Marshal county last December and eloped with Dr. Joe Patterson to Texas, was seen in that city, and that she had herself been deserted.

Populite State Convention.

Mr. G. B. Deans, chairman of the populite state executive committee, in accordance with the instructions of that committee, has issued a call for a state convention of the people's party, to be held in Montgomery April 28, 1896.

Assignment at Huntsville.

George T. Scruggs & Son have made an assignment to Jesse F. Young, for the benefit of their creditors. The assignment embraces a stock of merchandise, accounts, etc. Liabilities, $5,500, with assets estimated at from $7,000 to $8,000.

Total of Assessed Values.

The total assessment of real estate in the state is $145,516,138, and of personal property $25,821,886—total, $541,337,024. This is an increase of $67,529,927 in the past decade. The tax rate has been reduced from 6 mills in 1886 to 5½ mills in 1896.

New Ore Mine Opened.

The Georgia Mining & Manufacturing company has leased a number of convicts and are now at work opening up the Guiton bank of red hematite ore, near Cass, Ala. The ore is said to be of excellent quality. It will be shipped to Chattanooga and South Pittsburg.

Railroads and Their Earnings.

The table in the state auditor's report regarding railroads is full of interest. There are 3,594 miles of rail road in the state. The earnings in Alabama were $12,407,384, and the license tax received to pay the expenses of the railroad commission amounted to $12,500.

Ingraham Surrenders.

Fred Ingraham, the Central of Georgia railroad station agent who on Monday night shot and seriously wounded Conductor Joe Oliver at Fitzpatrick's Station, on Thursday gave himself up to the sheriff of Bullock county, in which the shooting occurred, and is in custody at Union Springs. Oliver's condition is precarious.

Mobile's Shipping Business.

The Mobile Register of yesterday publishes a statement of the shipping business done at Mobile during February of this year. It shows an increase of 113 per cent over the February business of 1895 and 232 per cent over the business of 1894, with an average increase of 123 per cent for each period of each year. This is a wonderful growth.

Normal College Commencement.

Dr. P. T. Hale, pastor of Southside Baptist church, of Birmingham, has been invited by the faculty of the State Normal college at Florence to preach the commencement sermon on May 24.

The large number of young teachers assembled in this well known institution from all over the south make it one of the foremost of its kind in the country.

Reaching Out for New Markets.

The coal companies of Alabama have taken steps to put a line of barges on the Mississippi river to carry their products from Greenville, the western terminus of the Southern railroad, to New Orleans and other points below. Pittsburg has heretofore supplied these markets, but the uncertainty of transportation by the Ohio has proven so disappointing that, with the favorable rates of freight offered by the Southern, the field is now fairly open to the Alabama operators.

Two Sentenced to be Hung.

Judge Greene, of the Jefferson county criminal court, on Saturday sentenced Will Smith and John Walton to hang May 8. Smith was the leader of the Brookside riot last July, when he and half a dozen other negroes ambushed Deputy Sheriff Arthur Woods and posse while they were going on their way to arrest Smith and his associates for petty offenses. Woods was killed. Three of Smith's associates have been sent to the penitentiary. Walton was a convict at Coalburg and murdered Jasper Thornton, a fellow convict, with a coal pick.

New Cotton Mill's Product.

The first shipment of cotton manufactured goods made in Birmingham left Saturday morning for Chester, Pa., over the Central of Georgia railway. The goods were manufactured by the Birmingham cotton mills, which were located at this place last fall by J. B Cotton and associates, of Chester, Pa. They were brought here through the instrumentality of the Birmingham Commercial club. The shipment consisted of about 30,000 pounds of cotton yarn in one car load. The mill has orders for more than it can supply.

Charlson Pleads Guilty.

In the federal court at Birmingham Saturday Ex-United States Commissioner Robert Charlson pleaded guilty to eleven indictments charging him with making fraudulent returns in his accounts, and asked for the mercy of the court. He will be sentenced next week. Charlson was convicted and given one year's sentence on a similar charge two years ago, but while out on bond pending an appeal fled to Mexico. A few weeks ago he was captured at San Antonio, Tex., and brought back here. Charlson was one of half a dozen federal officers indicted three years ago for alleged fraudulent practices as the result of an investigation by special examiners which disclosed frauds amounting to upwards of $100,000.

Big Lot of Cotton Burned.

Fire Wednesday afternoon destroyed the fertilizer warehouse and upper wharf cotton seed shed belonging to the Mobile and Ohio Railroad company at Mobile and 3,680 bales of cotton stored in the shed awaiting shipment to Liverpool. The fire started in the midst of the cotton and spread from end to end instantly. With great difficulty the British steamship Corse, lying in the slip alongside, was moved out into the river. She had 24,000 pounds of powder and 300 barrels of petroleum on board. The British ship Van Loo and the British bark Killy and the American schooner C. D. Hall were rescued from the slip adjoining the first slip on the south. The Hall was slightly damaged. Loss on buildings and wharf is about $21,000 and on the cotton about $75,000, covered by insurance, blanket policies.

Negro Industrial Education.

Miss Francis C. Baylor, of Virginia, a popular authoress, was in Alabama last week conferring with the school authorities in relation to the use of a part of the Slater fund in the establishment of industrial departments in the colored schools. In these departments the colored boys will be taught trades, such as shoe making, carpentry, brick laying, machinery and so on, while the girls will be given lessons in housekeeping and corresponding duties. Miss Baylor came as the agent of a number of ladies who have charge of part of the Slater fund, and it is understood that her conference with the state superintendent of education, Mr. Turner, and other school authorities, was entirely satisfactory. While in Birmingham Miss Baylor was the guest of Mayor VanHoose, with whom, as well as with Dr. J. H. Phillips, superintendent of the city schools, she consulted freely.

The City of Birmingham.

Twenty years ago, says the Birmingham Evening News in its great trade edition of Saturday, the financial interests of Birmingham were cared for by one bank with a capital of $50,000, with deposits of about $60,000. Today we have in the Birmingham Clearing House Association seven banks; three national, three state, and one private, with an aggregate capital of $1,650,000, and with deposits of about $2,950,000. Besides several smaller institutions, we have two large Building and Loan associations, with assets of about $2,000,000, and many of the largest loan companies of the eastern cities are represented here.

The clearings of the banks in the Birmingham Clearing House, as shown in the weekly reports, run from $400,000 to $500,000 per week, and show a gratifying increase over corresponding periods in 1894 and 1895. The clearings for the year 1894 were $16,810,058, and for 1895 they were $20,044,295. For the month of February, 1895, they were $1,175,694 and for February, 1896, they were $1,725,314. There are over two hundred manufacturing establishments within the confines embraced by the city directory, giving employment to 9,250 men and paying out $500,000 per month in wages, and that outside of that territory, in the Birmingham district, are other industries, principally coal and iron and allied plants, which provide employment for 20,950 men, who are paid $763,000 in wages monthly.

The industries in the Birmingham district outside the city employ men and pay wages as follows:

	Men Employed.	Wages Pd
Coal miners and helpers,	9,500	$ 418 000
Ore miners and helpers,	4,000	144 000
Furnace laborers,	3,750	150 000
Coke oven laborers,	1,300	48,000
Limestone quarries,	600	18,000
Rolling mills and pipe works,	900	35,000
Foundries, machine shops, etc.,	1 000	50,000
Total outside of city,	20 950	$ 763,000
Total in city,	9,250	$ 500 000
Grand total,	30 200	$1,263,000

This includes 2,090 coal miners in Walker county, 677 in Tuscaloosa county, 1,085 in Bibb county, 223 in Shelby county, 93 in Blount county, 120 in St. Clair county, 20 in Winston county and 75 in other North Alabama counties, making a total of 3,718 outside of Jefferson county included in the above statement. This leaves a total of 26,482 men employed by the industries in Jefferson county.

Shipping Meats North.

An enormous report seems to be in circulation to the effect that there is a noticeable scarcity of fat hogs in the Chattanooga market. The fact is that there are more hogs in the market than usual and they are of prime quality. John Shamotuiski has already packed about 1,300, Leo Ackerman about 800, W. B. Walker 500 and all the city butchers have their store houses full. A number of hogs are shipped every week from this point to Cincinnati and command the best prices. Recently Foust Bros., proprietors of the Chattanooga stock yards, shipped to Cincinnati the finest lot of fine grade beef cattle that ever left this market. There were twenty-two head and they averaged 1,320 pounds.

Cotton Statistics.

Following are the Liverpool weekly cotton statistics: Sales, total, 65,000; sales, American, 59,000; trade takings, 74,000; actual exports, 4,000; imports, total, 89,000; imports, American, 76,000; stock, total, 1,158,000; stock, American, 970,000; afloat, total, 173,000; afloat, American, 145,000; sales for speculation, 3,000; purchases for exports, 1,800.

The senate committee on territories has ordered a favorable report on the bill to admit New Mexico as one of the states. The bill provides for a constitutional convention and all the other provisions along the lines of a regular statehood bill.

Springfield Rifles.

Senator Hawley, from the committee on military affairs, has made a report authorizing the secretary of war to issue Springfield rifles to the national guard of the various states and territories in exchange for the rifles now held by them.

Will Prepare Plans.

Secretary Carlise has appointed Henry Ives Cobb, a skilled architect, of Chicago, to assist the supervising architect of the treasury in preparing plans, specifications and drawings for the new Chicago public building, salary $4,500 a year.

Arrest and Confession of Guilt.

Chief Inspector Wheeler of the postoffice department has received telegrams announcing the arrest and confession of guilt of Susan Hammond, postmaster at Hubbell, Ky., and of Postal Clerk Fisher, at Winona, Minn., charged with stealing mail matter.

As Dictated by Common Sense.

Commissioner Stump has decided to admit, under contract at New York, Walter Ainsworth and four other machinists from England, who have come to this country to put up new improved cotton machinery in Columbia, S. C., New Bedford, Mass., and New York city. It is stipulated that these men shall do no other kind of work.

Robbins Out—Aldrich In.

The republican strength in the house was increased by one Friday afternoon when, by a vote of 173 to 59, Gaston A. Robbins, democrat, was declared to be not entitled to the seat occupied by him as a representative from the Fourth Alabama district, and William F. Aldrich, his republican opponent was placed therein.

Acts of Congress Approved.

The president has approved the acts making seven years unexplained absence proof of death in pension cases; to incorporate the supreme council of the Thirty-three Degree of Scottish Rite Masonry for the southern jurisdiction of the United States and authorizing the distribution of world's fair medals and diplomas.

Election of Senators by the People.

The senate committee on privileges and elections directed a favorable report on the proposed amendment to the constitution providing for the election of United States senators by the popular vote of the people. Senator Mitchell was authorized to prepare the report of the committee. The joint resolution and the report will be submitted to the senate shortly.

George M. Coffin Promoted.

George M. Coffin, of Charleston, S. C., has entered upon the duties of deputy comptroller of the currency to which position he has been appointed by Secretary Carlisle upon the recommendation of Comptroller Eckles. He was appointed chief of the division of issues in 1886 upon the request of Comptroller Trenholm who transferred him in 1888 to the head of the division of reports, including examiner's reports, in which position he has been retained continuously since by Comptroller Eckels, Hepburn and Searcy.

Appointment—Pardon Denied.

Secretary of the Interior Smith has appointed George Y. Scott, of Rosedale, Miss., a commissioner to investigate the annuity rolls of the Osage Indian nation, vice C. F. Bloodgood, of Catskill, N. Y., declined.

The president has denied an application for pardon in the case of Crawford Goldsby, alias Cherokee Bill, sentenced in Arkansas to be hanged next Tuesday for murder.

Minister Willis' Return.

A special from Honolulu says; United States Minister Willis has announced his intention of leaving Hawaii April 15. Many people are of the opinion that the American legation will be closed for the remainder of President Cleveland's term, in order to get even with the Dole regime for criticising the action of Minister Willis in refusing to acknowledge the January celebration.

Mr. Willis' departure is looked upon as the only recourse left, as he has been persona non grata from the moment of his arrival. There has been more or less talk of the possibility of the Hawaiian government giving Minister Willis his passport, and it is fair to surmise that Willis is leaving to prevent such a contingency.

TAILORS OUT ON A STRIKE.

Union Tailor Organizations at Chicago Quit Work.

In accordance with the action taken recently at meetings of the various tailors' unions, 13,000 tailors went out on a strike in Chicago last week, comprising approximately the total strength of the union organization. Although there are some non-union men still at work, the strikers claim practically every shop in Chicago is tied up.

FIFTY FOURTH CONGRESS.

Summary of the Week's Proceedings in Both Houses.

SEVENTY-SIXTH DAY.

In the senate a bill for the punishment of offenses on the high seas (revolt, mutiny, assault and riot) was reported from the judiciary committee, and was, after some opposition on the part of Mr. Call, passed. At 1:10 p. m. Mr. Sherman called up the conference report on the Cuban resolutions. Thereupon Mr. Hoar offered a resolution, which went over under the rules, that the consideration of the conference report relating to Cuba be postponed until Monday, April 6, and that the committee on foreign relations be directed to report the facts which in its opinion justify the adoption of such resolutions, with the evidence therefor. Mr. Hoar also offered a resolution, which was agreed to, requesting the president to communicate to the senate (so far as not incompatible with the public interests) all the facts in his possession relating to the existing conflict in the island of Cuba, especially such as affect the interests and duties of the United States in the premises. Mr. Hale, republican, of Maine, addressed the senate in opposition to the Cuban resolutions. At the conclusion of his remarks a short executive session was held and the senate then adjourned.... The house passed the following bills: Limiting to 10 cents per copy the maximum price for copies of patent specifications. To print 20,000 copies of the book on agriculture by the department of agriculture. Chairman Daniels, of election committee No. 2, gave notice that he would on Wednesday call up the contested election case of Aldrich vs. Robbins, from the Fourth district of Alabama. Several bills relating to the District of Columbia were passed. The rest of the session was devoted to the further consideration in committee of the whole of the postoffice appropriation bill. Without disposing of it the committee rose, and at 5:15 o'clock the house adjourned.

SEVENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

In the senate Mr. Lodge, rising to a question of personal privilege, severely criticised the action of De Lome, the Spanish minister, in giving to the press his statement recently published, relating to the allegations of senators in the debate on Cuban affairs. A long colloquy ensued, most of those who took part in it agreeing with Mr. Lodge, as to the undiplomatic character of the Spanish minister's course. Mr. Hoar's resolution to postpone the Cuban matter to April 6th went over again. Mr. Turpie, of Indiana, resumed his speech in the Delaware senatorial election case and still had the floor when the senate adjourned.... The house passed a bill making one year's residence in any territory a condition precedent to obtaining a divorce in such territory. Two or three personal relief bills were disposed of and the postal bill occupied the remainder of the session. At 5:10 the house adjourned.

SEVENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

In the senate Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, introduced a joint resolution, which was referred to the foreign affairs committee, requiring the president to investigate the manner in which the Cuban war is conducted. Mr. Hoar addressed the senate on his resolution to postpone the Cuban concurrent resolutions to April 6th. At the conclusion of his remarks his resolution went to the calendar. The Dupont case was resumed and Mr. Turpie, of Indiana, finished his three day's speech against seating Mr. Dupont in the senate. A short executive session was held and the senate adjourned.... In the house the postal bill occupied the day's session and was passed and sent to the senate.

SEVENTY-NINTH DAY.

The senate passed the house joint resolution providing for the adjustment of claims of and against the state of Tennessee arising out of the use of certain railroads seized by the United States during the war. The debate on the Cuban resolutions was continued, but gave way at 2 p. m. to the Delaware senatorial election case, which was not concluded. Several bills were taken from the calendar and passed, and the senate adjourned.... The house was engaged today in the consideration of contested election cases. In the case of Coleman, republican, vs. Charles F. Buck, from the Second Louisiana district, it was held, unanimously and without debate, that Buck had been and is entitled to the seat. In the case of Aldrich vs. Robbins, from the Fourth Alabama district, there were three reports: one by two republican members of the committee that the apparent majority of 3,736 for Robbins should be changed to one of 601 for Aldrich; other members of the majority found a majority of 238 for Aldrich, while the minority report claimed a majority of 539 for Robbins. After several hours' debate the house, without reaching a conclusion, adjourned.

EIGHTIETH DAY.

The session of the senate today was taken up in a colloquy relating to matters growing out of the debate on the Cuban resolutions, and a speech by Mr. Cockrell, of Missouri, on the financial conditions. An executive session was held and the senate adjourned until Monday.... In the house two bills were passed. One was to require that engineers and assistant engineers on steamers sailing under American registers shall be American citizens. The other was the tonnage tax bill, repealing the reciprocal provisions of the law of 1884, of which only Germany and the Netherlands take advantage, and reducing the tax on the coastwise trade between the Americas, between the United States and the West Indies and between the United States and Hawaii from 3 to 2 cents per ton. The debate in the Aldrich-Robbins case, from the Fourth Alabama district was resumed. Mr. Dinsmore, of Arkansas, advocated the report of the minority, in favor of Robbins, in a three hours speech. Mr. Daniels, of New York, chairman of the committee, made the closing argument for Aldrich. A vote was then ordered, and, by 173 to 59, Aldrich was declared entitled to the seat. Mr. Aldrich appeared at the bar and [illegible] in by Speaker Reed amid republican applause. The vote was along party lines, the populists uniting with the republicans in voting Robbins out. Mr. White, of Illinois, was the only republican who voted for Robbins, while Messrs. Cobb, Dockery and Dearmond, democrats, of Missouri, voted with the republicans for Aldrich. At 5:15 o'clock the house took a recess until 8 and at the close of the evening session (for pension bills) adjourned until Monday.

A Nine-Year-Old Heroine.

There is a little girl 9 years old in Bristol, Conn., who has been granted a bronze medal for saving life by the Connecticut Humane Society. Her name is Grace Colvin, and she was playing with another little girl when a sand bank caved in and buried her companion. An Old Bird's Nest.

The oddest of all birds' nests is the one built by the tontobane, a South African songster. It is built of cotton and always upon the tree producing the material. In constructing the domicile the female works inside and the male outside, where he builds a sentry box for his own special use. He sits in the box and keeps watch or sings nearly all the time, and when danger comes in the form of a hawk or a snake, he warns the family, but never enters the main nest.

Saloonkeepers' Harvest.

A great manufacturing company in Massachusetts recently paid their workmen, on Saturday evening, 700 $10 bills, each bill being marked. By the following Tuesday 410 of these marked bills were deposited in the bank by the saloon-keepers of the town. Four thousand and one hundred dollars had passed from the hands of the workmen on Saturday night and Sunday and left them nothing to show for this great sum of money but headaches and poverty in their homes.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr E. M. Cross, a special Associated Press reporter, who lives at 1916 Maple Avenue, Huntington, W. Va., has knowledge of the remarkable cure of Mrs. Martha Gilkison, the wife of a carpenter of the east end of the city, who, on the 22d of September, 1895, related her experience as follows: "For a good many years I have been bothered an awful sight with my stomach. I got so I couldn't eat anything at all without souring on my stomach. Lots of times while working I would spit up great mouthfuls of stuff bitter as gall. I kept getting worse all the time and took piles of doctor medicine, but I might as well took that much starch for all the good it done me. It run into neuralgia of the stomach and worked itself all over me. Dr. Gardener, the new doctor up on Twentieth Street, told me when I saw him it was my stomach that caused all the trouble and give me an order to the drug store. I took it there, and the boy give me a box of Ripans Tabules. began getting better, and have used a little over two boxes, and am now sound and well. (Signed), MARTHA GILKISON, No. 1820 Fourth Avenue, Huntington, W. Va."

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, MARCH 26, 1896. NO. 22.

PINGREE A POPULIST.

STANDS PAT ON EVERY ARTICLE OF OUR FAITH.

Republicans and Populists and Free-Silver Democrats Will Name Him for Governor of Michigan—May Be Heard From July 22.

Miss Mary B. Miller, a student of the Englewood (Chicago) high school, has nominated Mayor Pingree, of Detroit, for president. The nomination was made the other day at a meeting of the literary club connected with the school. Her name was on the program for a speech on Mayor Pingree and his reforms. The speech will interest reformers generally, because Mayor Pingree's views are given on the three great questions of the day—Finance, Transportation, Land. Here it is:

"Men are best known by the ideas which they represent.

"When we think of Washington, we are reminded of the hero in war and in peace, who knew no faltering in the darkest hours of the republic, and who served his country for eight years without money compensation.

"When we think of Jefferson we think of his memorable words: 'That which will promote the interest of the individual in the most permanent and beneficial form, is the promotion of the general good, increasing the opportunities of mankind, and enlarging the scope of civilization.'

"When we think of Monroe, we confound his name with that great doctrine of international law now fully recognized throughout the world.

"When we think of Jackson, we are reminded of his brave resistance to the money power, which sought to fasten upon this country a duplicate of the Bank of England.

When we think of Lincoln we are reminded of his fidelity to the cause of human rights, as represented in the abolition of slavery.

"When we think of Wendel Phillips we see the figure of an aristocrat stooping to embrace the cause of the enslaved negro, unawed by the scoffs and jeers of plutocracy.

"All these men were made for the occasion: By the oppression of George III, Washington was made; in the attempt to centralize the government, Jefferson; from the oppression of the Central and South American republics, Monroe; the attempt to renew the charter of the United States bank, Jackson; and the cause of slavery made Lincoln and Phillips.

"In the latter we have a type living among us to-day, made by the selfish greed of corporate wealth, which seeks to turn all things to its own interests, regardless of the suffrages of the people. Hazen S. Pingree is an abolitionist in another sense. He believes in the abolition of corporate wealth, as presented in financial monopolies, transportation monopolies and land monopolies.

"Let us examine his position on these questions, for it is fitting that we, the future heirs to this republic and its institutions, should study out the science of government.

"What is financial monopoly? Why does Mayor Pingree seek to abolish it? Is it best for the United States that these forms of monopoly be abolished?

"We find financial monopoly represented in the national banking system of the country, which delegates to a few persons almost the entire control of the finances, with power to contract or expand the currency at will, to cause panics, create distrust, strikes and bloodshed. Now, Mayor Pingree believes that the right to issue money should be solely delegated to the people, through the treasury, with a government banking system in which there would be no selfish interests for private gain.

"With this idea worked out, it is quite plain that there would be no more panics, for the people having confidence in the government would not rush to the government banks to withdraw their money from circulation, as was done in the panic of 1893. This panic was brought about by the greed of the bankers of Wall street, New York, and the bankers of Lombard street, London, who sought to break down the rising sentiment in favor of the remonetization of silver, which was unwittingly demonetized by act of congress in 1873.

"Let us look a little further into this panic of '93. The democratic party had just been returned to power on what was popularly supposed to be a free silver platform, by an overwhelming majority of both houses of congress. This platform promised to remonetize silver with free and unlimited coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1. But there was an obstacle in the way. The president saw fit to put a different construction to the platform.

"There was a prospect, however, that congress would pass a free coinage bill over his veto. To offset this it was decided by the Wall street bankers and their friends in London to give a great 'object lesson' in the panic that followed. This was first noticed when banks began to call in their loans, and to refuse accommodations on the very best securities.

"As answer for their offense against industry and commerce, they gave out through their public press, that the panic resulted from fear of the remonetization of silver, and that when there was no farther danger of remonetization, prosperity would return. A free coinage bill was not passed and what more the Sherman act was repealed so prosperity is still far away.

"But the crowning act and the one showing the relation between the Wall street bankers and their London partners, was at once laid bare, when England arbitrarily closed the mints India to the free coinage of In consequence of this silver at shrunk 20 cents on the dollar, a breach in the intrinsic value of the dollars, as represented in gold and silver respectively.

"Now a large portion of the people of this country in '93, frightened into submission to the program of the banking monopolies, began to clamor against any attempt at remonetization, and by urging their representatives in congress, not only succeeded in preventing remonetization, but forced the repeal of all laws favorable to silver as a standard of value. Thus one-half the standard money was given a final blow, all of our silver money becoming merely token, or like a paper currency, redeemable in gold. It is natural that when redemption money is reduced by one-half, the half remaining will increase in purchasing power. Prices at once began to fall. It was soon found out that money would purchase nearly twice as much product as before. For instance, wheat fell from 90 cents a bushel to 40 cents. To the owners of money this meant prosperity, to the owners of products and all those who have something to sell, including their labor, it simply meant ruin.

"There were, or there are, some rich men, strong enough and patriotic enough, to resist this form of infamy, even at the cost of their own fortunes. Chief among these is the subject of this address. Mayor Pingree is a wealthy manufacturer as well as mayor of Detroit. On expressing his opinion, he immediately became the object of ridicule at the hands of a large portion of the prominent newspapers of the country. But ridicule is not argument, facts can never be answered by abuse; in this day the people seek the truth, not abuse. They behold in such men as Mayor Pingree, a possible savior for the cause of humanity, and of the republic.

"Now let us look at Mayor Pingree's views on trasportation monopolies. He believes in government, state and municipal ownership, in all quasi public monopolies. For instance, if the government runs the postoffice department successfully, why should it not run the entire railroad system or telegraph system? If municipalities run the water system successfully, why not extend our ownership to gas or street railways? Such a condition of affairs would have two good results, the abolition of vast private fortunes and in a more equitable distribution of wealth. For instance, instead of paying exorbitant rates to private persons or corporations, the people would be practically paying their own money into their own pockets, as it were. It is plain that government and municipal ownership of public monopolies would be a benefit to mankind. The subject admits of very little, if any, adverse argument.

"Now let us look at Mr. Pingree's views of land monopolies. First, we must find out what land monopoly is. I will give a simple illustration: On the corner of Garfield and Michigan boulevards there is a vacant lot valued at twenty thousand dollars; its owner holds it at that price. What gives the property that value? Improvements? No; it stands to-day in the same condition as in the infancy of Chicago, or when the Indians roamed the plains of Illinois. It is plain that the improvements made around it, such as the two boulevards, built at public expense, and houses adjoining, give it its value, and this value will continue to increase indefinitely as a result of improvements made around it, but not upon it. The owner is what might be called a dead head in commercial life, that is he takes advantage of natural conditions and the industry of his neighbors. Such a man is an enemy to society, for without producing anything useful, he grows wealthy out of the industry of others. Wealth thus accumulated may be called legitimate by some, but nevertheless, it is not. God gave the land to the people to improve and to beautify, and not to hold in idleness.

"To abolish land monopoly it would only be necessary to pass a law increasing the taxes on vacant or idle property taking it entirely off improved property, that is reversing the conditions under which we now live. By an error which we inherit from monarchial England, we tax people for improving their property, instead of taxing them for not doing so. For instance, I have a lot worth five hundred dollars and my tax is two dollars a year. I put up a house for eight thousand dollars, the tax gatherer immediately assesses me for my enterprise. The next year instead of paying two dollars taxes, I pay from fifty to seventy dollars; that is what I get for making improvements.

"Put all the tax on the vacant property and very soon you will see no more vacant expanses of prairie in the center of Chicago, or held for illegitimate speculative purposes. Owners of such property would be anxious to sell so as to get rid of the taxes, and the property would be so cheap as to be within the reach of all the people. All of us could then have homes.

"In Detroit, Mayor Pingree, as the chief executive of the city took occasion to advocate tax reform in this direction, and to accomplish his purpose he has found that it will be necessary to change the constitution of the state of Michigan, and it is not improbable that a legislature favorable to his views will be elected in November next.

"In the meantime, all the vacant property of Detroit is being made use of by the poor for the purpose of raising vegetables, hence we have the vulgar newspaper appellation "Potato Pingree." The experiment has proved so entirely successful that it has been taken up in other cities throughout the country.

"But the people should not lose sight of the fact that the abolition of land monopoly is one of three great problems to be solved by the will of the American people at the ballot-box.

"As an indication of the fact that Mayor Pingree's views are popular with the common people, we need only look at his several indorsements at the polls. In 1889 he was chosen mayor by a majority of over two thousand; in 1891 by a majority of five thousand; in 1893 by a majority of eight thousand, and in 1895 by a majority of ten thousand.

At a convention soon to be held in Michigan, he will be nominated for governor of that state. It may happen, however, that he will not remain a candidate for that office, for even now we hear the voice of the people of this nation calling him to a higher destiny, and I for one would nominate for president of the United States, Hazen S. Pingree, the abolitionist of 1896.

(Evening Journal.)

"Take heart,' said Mr. Debs, "the midnight watch is over.

"Defy public opinion and take your stand with men like Jackson. The world, as yet, is neither just nor generous. Still there is room for hope in this line. Free government can demonstrate itself. The forebodings and advance objections of Macaulay count for nothing as against honest attempts to establish justice among men.

"Organized labor is not understood. It is not the produce of a clime or season, but is born of oppression. While, of course, there are honest and even generous employers, they ever find themselves short of a quorum. They stand simply as honorable exceptions to an otherwise monotonous array of forces adverse to the welfare of the wage worker. The ever-widening range of machinery is constantly rendering more difficult the application of arbitration in the settlement of disputes arising from its use.

"Machinery is everywhere and is everything: man has become a mere attachment. For instance, men in Kalamazoo, Mich., operate machinery for five cents an hour. This service brings a reward of fifty cents a day—$3 a week. Such pay for intelligent effort is so palpably inadequate that strikes follow sooner or later. They do not come by chance or by choice.

"Frances E. Willard, that sterling exponent of an enlightened citizenship, says that to-day millions are kept in enforced idleness; they can get no work. They strive for this work as if it were bread itself. Happily, economics is obtaining a hearing; it is on the lips of many; it is a hopeful sign. Relife must come. Victor Hugo has aptly said the labor question is the question of mankind. A crucial change is impending. Good men are saying again: 'Prepare ye the way.'

"Abraham Lincoln placed man before the dollar, but industrial conditions have reversed the enumeration, and man's social standing is now weighed out to him just as any other purchasable commodity."

Referring to the model town of Pullman, Ill., as a condensation of industrial infamy, Mr. Debs told again some harsh-sounding truths. With a surplus of $25,000,000, this company charged rentals (and per force collected them) ranging from 25 to 50 per cent above the rate paid by others than Pullman slaves in the immediate vicinity. The exactions wrung from this unwilling tenantry were fully exposed. On every step from the cradle to the funeral casket Pullman levied toll.

Bitter was the arraignment of the Manager's association, so-called, which precipitated the strike that has been generally charged up to the American Railway Union. Twenty-six lines of railway allied themselves to wreck this trade union and blacklist its members. This damnable blacklist is enforced today so far as it is possible to do so.

"Courts are used by one side only, and injunctions are for the rich alone. During the Pullman strike, up to July 2, no trouble had occurred. But trouble was necessary. So 4,200 thieves were sworn in as deputy marshals in Chicago, and trouble began that day. Property was destroyed. Chief of Police Brennan has testified that the deputy United States marshals were the real thieves. I sought the advice of the best legal advisers of the country with regard to the injunction served upon me. I followed the advice and served six months for doing so."

Judge Jenkins and his malodorous injunction were not spared. A railroad is wrecked; then a receiver is appointed. The receiver, an officer of the court, orders a 10 per cent reduction in wages; the judge issues an injunction against a strike. A committee of congress investigates, but just as the corruption is tapped the appropriation suddenly gives out—and so does the bottom of the investigation.

"When I was in jail—"

But Mr. Debs was not permitted to finish this sentence without the interruption of the heartiest of laughter. There was something about the manner of saying it which was irresistible. Yet this preliminary introduced a pathetic story concerning a cell mate who, for the theft of an old cloak valued at $2, was sentenced in three minutes.

The speaker referred feelingly to his experience at Woodstock prison as putting him in touch with the unfortunate. "Suffering seems necessary to fully appreciate the unhappiness which attends the unemployed. Competition is a curse unspeakable. Competition is cannibalism. Co-operation can save the workers. It deserves faithful trial.

"Think, even though you think by proxy. Think upward; you must think. Books will win for you. Read after your work; read to wife and child. There is no excuse for ignorance. Shakespeare says there is no slavery but ignorance. Total ignorance is total helplessness. Have a library, if it consists of but one book.

"Associated effort only can bring emancipation. Selfishness commits suicide always. Labor must be united and just, and above the low motives so often marring it. Labor's parasites must be lopped off. Away with leaders! Debs is no leader; he does not wish to be. No one must follow; think for yourself."

The republicans gave us John Sherman, and the democrats gave us Grover Cleveland—two bricks of the same color.

ANARCHY IN INDIANA.

Laborers Assault Others for Taking Work They Had Abandoned.

Nearly a year ago the employes of the Taylor and Chaundler's foundry went on a strike on account of a difference regarding wages, and since that time there has been trouble, the strikers being determined not to allow non-union men to work and the management being equally determined to employ no other workmen. Saturday evening when the men left the shop for the day a crowd of union men advanced upon them from the west and east. With a shout the strikers attacked the non-union men with clubs, stones and brickbats. A general fight ensued. While the men were thus struggling several pistol shots were fired and William Watson, Walker Davis, non-union men and Hooker Lee a bystander, were shot. Lee received two bullets in the neck but neither of the wounds is considered fatal. Watson was shot in the thigh, the bones being shattered and the wound may prove fatal. Davis was shot through the head and was taken to his home in a dying condition. A number of the strikers were beaten with stones and clubs and some were badly battered by the tin dinner buckets in the hands of the employes.

As will be seen in another column Mr. D. C. Gandy has withdrawn from the race for the tax assessor's office.

HON. SAM ADAMS is a candidate for Representative in the General Assembly from Bibb county. He is sure to be elected and will make his presence felt at the capitol.

JOHNSTON and Clarke are making a big fuss in order to get the Democratic nomination. It won't amount to a row of pins which one gets it, for the simple reason that the Populists are going to elect the next governor of Alabama.

THE congressional committee on elections has unseated Mr. Boatner from Louisiana on the ground of fraud in the election. They considered the evidence was not sufficient to seat the contestant so simply declared the seat vacant.

CONGRESSMAN ALDRICH no sooner takes his seat than he settles down to work. He has introduced "A bill to retire the United States legal-tender notes and Treasury notes, and to substitute therefor Treasury certificates; to coin into standard silver dollars all the bullion now in the Treasury, and for other purposes." The bill was referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency and ordered to be printed.

A GREAT deal has been said and written in regard to encouraging immigration to our State. We maintain it is useless to expect immigration until we have honest elections. People are apt to think that when honesty in elections is at a discount it is not apt to be above par in other matters. Chilton county is known to have honest elections and an honest set of county officials. The consequence is immigrants are settling here. We understand the Concordia Land and Improvement Association is about to spend $150,000 at Thorsby the new settlement between Strasburgh and Jemison.

CHAIRMAN Taubeneck, of the national executive committee of the People's Party says:

"When the national conventions of the silver party and our party meet in St. Louis every honorable effort will be made to form a coalition. I believe our presidential candidate will come from the west or south, because the people distrust an eastern man. I believe we will carry a majority of the southern and western states next fall besides the territories. We will get Alabama, Georgia and the Carolinas, and if we can unite with the free coinage forces, we expect to carry all the southern states except West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee. We will get Utah, Colorado, Montana, Idaho, Nevada, Wyoming, Oregon, Washington, California, Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas and, I believe Iowa will go our way, with a fighting chance to capture Missouri. We are certain of sweeping Texas. This would leave the republicans sixteen states without taking the democrats into account."

Representative Aldrich has introduced a financial bill to retire the United States legal tender notes and treasury notes and to substitute therefor treasury certificates, and also to coin into standard silver dollars all the bullion now in the treasury. The bill has already attracted considerable attention among business men and financiers, and Mr Aldrich will press it for favorable consideration by the House committee.

Mr. Aldrich discusses the financial question as a representative Southern business man, and said to a Washington Post reporter:

"First, let us issue $500,000,000 of what we call treasury certificates. They are not to be redeemed in coin, but their receivability at par, for all government dues shall be their redemption. They should also be made full legal tender, for private debts, within the United States, and should be made available as legal reserve by national banks. The argument for the issuance and continuance in circulation of this fiat money, is based upon the following idea: The government derives its revenue from its own people, and expends it with them again. We collect annually about five hundred million dollars from the people, and pay it back to them again in pensions, in salaries, and for materials and supplies. I see no need of having metalic money, or, in fact, money of any kind in the transaction of the government with its own people. A government, properly administered, should have as much income as expense. One balances the other. The government gives out certificates for what it owes; these certificates drift to the hands of those who have taxes to pay. The government receives them back for taxes at par, the debt of the government, and to the government mutually extinguish each other. This issue of $500,000,000 is to be used to take up the outstanding greenbacks and treasury notes. When this is done there will be no further necessity of keeping a redemption fund of $100,000,000 or less in the treasury for the redemption of greenbacks, as they will no longer exist; the gold remaining in the redemption fund when the process of exchange has been completed, could be set aside as the payment of interest on the public debt, and to redeem bonds.

"The exchange of the certificates for the treasury notes would also relieve the uncoined bullion in the treasury, which, together with the seigniorage already accumulated, should be coined at the rate of, say, five millions a month, and the whole amount thus liberated should be set aside as a special fund for the upbuilding of our navy, and for coast and lake defences. This would be a concession to those who demand that we 'do something for silver,' and to those who believe that the best guarantee of peace is to be fully prepared to defend ourselves in case of war.

"What would be accomplished by the proposed change? We would do away with the necessity or excuse of selling bonds for redemption purposes. We would relieve the treasury from carrying $100,000,000 of the people's money as the redemption fund. We could build up our navy and coast defenses without increasing the taxation, and expending among them money now held in the treasury for no purpose. We have done something for silver and for gold; and by coining silver and by doing away with the gold reserve and the necessity for more gold to keep it up, we will take the strain from off the gold, lessen the demand for it, which will strongly tend to bring it nearer to a par with silver, and make, in the future, free coinage, at the present ratio, a possibility."

As will be seen by his announcement elsewhere, Mr. S. D. Posey is desirous of serving his fellow-citizens as tax assessor. He is a whole-souled, genial gentleman and his friends declare him to be qualified to fill the office. Raised in this county he is famaliar with its needs, and this is his first candidacy for any office. Mr. Posey has the misfortune to have lost one of his legs, but as his opponents have already discovered this does not affect his getting about in the most lively manner. If elected to the office he will devote his best energies and ability to making an efficient assessor.

C. W. PLANT.

This gentleman is announced as a candidate for commissioner from the Third District. Mr. Plant is a merchant of Stanton and his experience as a business man would be of considerable importance to the board. He is a straightout silver man and thoroughly acquainted with the duties of commissioner. If elected, the Third District will have an excellent representative on the board and the county will have acquired an efficient commissioner.

"Perhaps you would not think so, but a very large proportion of diseases in New York, comes from carelessness about catching cold," says Dr. Syrus Edson. "It is such a simple thing and so common that few people, unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to a cold. New York is one of the healthiest places on the Atlantic Coast and yet there are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in this neglect of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most sensible advice is, when you have one get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Dr. Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but we will. "Matron of a Benevolent Home and knowing the good Dr. Miles' Nervine has done me, my wish to help others, overcomes my dislike for the publicity, this letter may give me. In Nov. and Dec., 1893, The inmates had the "LaGrippe," and I was one of the first. Resuming duty too soon, with the care of so many sick, I did not regain my health, and in a month I became so debilitated and nervous from sleeplessness and the drafts made on my vitality, that it was a question if I could go on. A dear friend advised me to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I took 2 bottles and am happy to say, I am in better health than ever. I still continue its occasional use, as a nerve food, as my work is very trying. A letter addressed to Milwaukee, Wis., will reach me."

June 6, 1894. MRS. LAURA C. PHOENIX.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Clanton, March 25, 1896.

EDITOR BANNER: As there seems to be some misunderstanding as regards the candidates who will have to go before the second primary I wish to explain that to the best of my knowledge and belief that the executive committee ruled that when there was only two candidates for any office the one receiving the highest number of votes at the first primary would be the nominee of Party. When there are more than two candidates for any office the two receiving the highest number of votes—even if one received a majority of all the votes cast—will have to submit their claims to the second primary. This is how I understand the matter.

Yours,
JOT A. MILLER.

Coopers, March 24, 1896.

EDITOR BANNER: I wish to say to the voters of Chilton county, through the columns of your valuable paper, that Ben H. Wells, our candidate for Tax Collector, from beat 5, has not been well for several weeks, which accounts for his failure to canvass the county and converse with his many friends on the political issues of the day. Ben is still in the race and I hope his friends will turn out at the first primary and give him an opportunity to continue the race in the second primary.

For seven years or more Mrs. W. D. Louder, of Quincy, Ky., was subject to severe attacks of cramp colic. Mr. S. R. Morse, a druggist of that place, recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, which has effected a permanent cure, saving her much suffering besides the trouble and expense of sending for a doctor, which was often necessary. EDITOR BANNER: Furnish me space in your valuable paper to request my friends throughout the county to support Mr. J. T. Cooley for sheriff as I know him to be an honorable, high-toned gentleman and in every respect worthy of your support. Without a doubt we will roll up a handsome majority in this part of the county for him.

Yours respectfully,
H. B. RODGERS.

Clanton, Ala., March 17, 1896.

Editor BANNER: I see several recommendations for the various candidates and some for our present commissioners. I for one think there are some untried who would do just as well as them. I notice Rufus C. Riggins' name in the BANNER, and I think the people of this county could do no better than to elect him. I have known him for some time, he is a man that wants to deal justice to everyman and if he is elected (and he is sure to carry beat 4 and even the First district) the people of Chilton county will agree with me before his term of office expires.

EDITOR BANNER: I see in THE BANNER of the 19th that Mr. John S. Gay, of beat 8, has announced himself as a candidate for our next Tax Collector. I am proud of this. I don't think the people could make a better selection than this. I have known Mr. Gay all his life and can recommend him to the voters of the county as being alright. He is a good, religious, sober, upright man and is strictly honest, and if elected will serve the people to the very best of his ability. He is going to make a good run. It seems like we are going to be overstocked with candidates, they keep coming in and are all good men; but some of them are bound to be left. Every man wants his friends elected.

A Valuable Prescription.

Editor Morrison of Worthington, Ind., "Sun," writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for Constipation and Sick Headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Stehle, 2625 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a backache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 50 cents and $1.00

Lily, March 19, '96.

EDITOR BANNER: As politics are at such a high tide let me ask all the people to go to the primary on the 14th day of April and vote for an honorable, honest, virtuous, upright man. Surely out of the number that are running there can one of this kind be found running for each office. Let them adhere to the principles of the Alliance, especially one, to-wit: "Let the office seek the man and not the man the office." Under this head let them remember that when they nominated Pink Moore for sheriff, four years ago, it was unsolicited by him, but he has made an honest sheriff, has not forgotten the people who elected him, is the same old jolly Pink Moore, with a good word and a smile for all, and now let us give him our hearty support for tax collector. I take the authority to say that he is honest, honorable, upright and virtuous. He has filled the sheriff's office with honor to himself and county and we can reasonably expect him to fill the tax collector's office the same way. Go to the place where Pink Moore's father lived, inquire about Pink from boyhood up and you will find no one who will dispute the above.

EDITOR BANNER: Perhaps it would interest some one to see how the race will be run in beat 7. We think we know the sentiments of the people and give you the names of those who will get there the 14th. Hayes for sheriff, T. J. Hubbard for collector, L. B. Pounds for assessor, Frank Crichton for representative and all of the old commissioners who are running; we also heartily endorse J. G. Smitherman for commissioner. Alex G. Dake will get there for treasurer.

MR. J. T. SHUPTRINE, Savannah, Ga.

Dear Sir:—"Please send half-a-dozen boxes of your TETTERINE, C. O. D. This makes one and one-half dozen I have ordered from you. Some I have used myself, the remainder I distributed among friends requiring it. It has effected a cure in every case where tried. Some of them have been doctoring with our best physicians, both here and in Boston, for years without any benefit. Some said it could not be cured, as it was inherited, but one box of TETTERINE effected a complete cure. I shall always keep a supply on hand, as I know myself what it is worth. Gratefully yours,"

Supreme Court Decisions.

Since Chas. O. Tyner began the manufacture of Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy, many people have inquired as to its efficacy. Chief Justice Bleckley, of Georgia, has tried it for indigestion and dyspepsia, and gives this as his decision:

"Atlanta, Ga., March 14, 1894—Chas. O. Tyner, Atlanta, Ga.: I have used, and am now using, Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy. It is a mental as well as a physical elixir. With its aid and a pair of spectacles I can frequently see the law in spite of unsuitable or too much diet. "LOGAN E. BLECKLEY."

This is a splendid decision and people are profiting by it.

Sour

Stomach, sometimes called waterbrash, and burning pain, distress, nausea, dyspepsia, are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This it accomplishes because with its wonderful power as a blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla gently tones and strengthens the stomach and digestive organs, invigorates the liver, creates an appetite, gives refreshing sleep and raises the health tone. In cases of dyspepsia and indigestion it seems to have "a magic touch."

"For over 12 years I suffered from sour with severe pains across my shoulders, and great distress. I had violent nausea, which would leave me very weak and faint, difficult to get my breath. These spells came oftener and more severe. I did not receive any lasting benefit from physicians, but found such happy effects from a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla that I took several bottles, and mean to always keep it in the house. I am now able to do all my own work, which for six years I have been unable to do. My husband and son have also been greatly benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla —for pains in the back and after the grip. I gladly recommend this grand blood medicine." MRS. The plans and specifications for the Blue Springs cotton factory, at Oxford, have been received, and bidding for the erection of the plant is now in order.

Burglary at Florence.

A thief entered James' book store at Florence last week and helped himself to $50 cash. He entered through the back door transom and had just time to escape by the back door when a clerk entered from the front.

Under the Car Wheels.

R. F. Cribbs fell from a car on the Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham railroad at Sulligent Thursday and was killed. He was acting as a brakeman on a train of gravel, and was thrown from the top of a car under the wheels.

In Public Service Again.

Captain Peyton B. Bibb, of Montgomery, has been appointed dock master at Port Royal, S. C. Captain Bibb is an ex-naval officer, and resigned when he was well up in the line of promotion to the rank of lieutenant commander.

Will Bore for Oil.

It is said that petroleum oil has been discovered on Cedar creek and Little Bear creek, southwest of Russellville, and that a company has secured several thousand acres of land and will commence drilling soon.

Mobile Tax Collections Increase.

The annual report of the city tax collector of Mobile, Frank Petrinovich, to the general council shows that the increase in the collection of the city taxes for the year is $15,070.27, the greatest increase being in the collection of back taxes.

Death Trap at Bridgeport.

George Scheff, an employe of the Bridgeport Basket factory, fell into a pool of boiling water Saturday at the factory at Bridgeport, Ala., and was scalded to death. Superintendent Charles Steele met death in the same way and place one month ago.

River Improvement at Riverton.

Captain Kingman has returned to Chattanooga from inspecting the river improvements as far down as Riverton, Ala. He found the work on the lift lock of the Riverton canal progressing satisfactorily. About 3,000 yards of stone are being put in each month.

Basket Factory Resumes.

All preparations are being made to start the Fort Payne basket factory. Many of the hands have been secured and some of them have already been at work straightening things up and getting in shape to begin work in a few days.

Let a Female Jury Try Him.

Special Officer McGovern, of Mobile, has gone to New Orleans to bring back Harry Wolrick, a ladies' tailor who was arrested in that city on the charge of swindling a number of ladies in Mobile, who gave him material to make into garments. He failed to return either the material or the garments.

The Deadly Open Grate.

The little 2-year-old daughter of Mr. Charlie Mitcham was badly burned at his home this morning about 11 o'clock. She was playing around the fire when her clothes caught and soon her entire apparel was ablaze. The doctors think that she is not necessarily fatally injured.

Editor Lee's Sad Misfortune.

Mr. L. H. Lee, a prominent young lawyer and editor of the Clayton Courier, met with an accident while out dove shooting a few days ago. Two shot struck his left eye. He came here for treatment and his friends everywhere will regret to learn that he will lose it.

A Very Painful Accident.

Mrs. James Masson, wife of the president of the First National bank of Mobile, was thrown from her horse Saturday afternoon and the horse fell on her. She was picked up bleeding at the ears and was conveyed into a residence near by and physicians summoned. It is stated that she was not as badly hurt as was at first supposed.

Stamp Sales at Florence.

The sale of stamps in the Florence postoffice during the month of February amounted to $510, an increase of $72 over the sales in February, 1895, which was $438. The business in the Florence office shows a gradual increase nearly every month and it is a pretty good sign that business in other lines is also keeping up well.

Birmingham Ball Park.

Work at the base ball park goes on as rapidly as possible, notwithstanding the inclement weather. Contractor William Wells, who is building the grand stand, was seen by a News reporter this morning and he said that before the allotted time his part of the work would be completed. The fence around the park is going up and the whole field is assuming some shape.

At the State Capitol.

Governor Oates returned from Washington Saturday about noon and spent the afternoon at his office. He is hopeful that the land grant for Alabama schools will get through the house. Things are pretty badly torn up now on the second floor, but when the repairs are completed the improvement will be very noticeable. The senate chamber and hall of the house of representatives will look like new places.

The Marshal Went to Sleep.

At Gadsden, a United States prisoner, J. F. Barnes, under arrest on a charge of perjury, made his escape. Deputy Marshal Wheeler Leath took his prisoner out of jail, purchased him a new suit of clothes and took him to the opera, intending to take a late train for Birmingham. During the performance the marshal went to sleep and the prisoner walked out.

Tug Sunk—Steamer Arrived.

News reached Mobile Saturday afternoon of the sinking of the tug Daisy in Grant's Pass while towing a raft of timber from Pascagoula to Mobile. There are no details of the accident.

The steamer Gulf City of the Alabama and Florida line, before reported ashore in Apalachicola Bay, where she was driven by a gale of wind, has arrived at Mobile.

Just What They Wanted.

Friday night the store house of E. E. Jackson & Company, at Georgiana was broken into, and dry goods, shoes, groceries, in fact, something of almost everything in the store was taken. From appearances next morning it seems that they took their time and selected just what they wanted. This is the first instance of the kind in several years.

Tangled in the Lines.

A serious accident befell Mr. Roland Lee, of Selma, last week. While out driving his horse ran away, throwing him out of a road cart. He got tangled up in the lines and was dragged several hundred yards. He was finally picked up by several negroes and brought to the city, and the best medical aid summoned. His injuries are exceedingly dangerous, and great fear for his recovery is entertained.

More Industrial Progress.

One of the largest band saw mills in the south is being erected in Madison county, five miles south of Huntsville, by parties and capital from Indiana.

The outlook indicates that the coming spring Huntsville will experience a large building boom. A large number of northern farmers are locating in the county and buying farms, and everything points to the continued growth of Huntsville and the advancement of the county.

More Cars Mean More Traffic.

The Elliott Car works, of Gadsden, have received an order from the Sea board Air Line for 500 box cars, and the shops went to work on the order Monday. This is considered a great thing for Gadsden, as it means that $250,000 dollars will be turned loose here during the dull summer months. Captain J. M. Elliott, Jr., is now in Washington making estimates for 500 more, and it is likely that he will secure them. The car works are just finishing an order for the C. R. & C. railroad, and the Seaboard order will keep the plant from shutting down a single day.

South Alabama Press Association.

The third annual session of the South Alabama Press Association was held in Montgomery last Thursday. Among the business transactions of the meeting was the adoption of a minimum rate for foreign advertisements, and a circular letter to be sent publishers throughout the state. The old officers were re-elected, with the addition of a vice-president. The board now is: President, J. B. Stanley, Greenville Advocate; vice-president, T. E. Williams, Dothan Siftings; secretary, Ira Champion, Troy Messenger. The president announced the following executive committee: F. P. Glass, D. T. Miles, J. B. Simpson and W. C. Crumpton.

New Railroad Extension.

There is every prospect now of the building of a large portion of the long-delayed Decatur, Chesapeake & New Orleans railway, of which Dr. Sandusky was the chief promoter. Men are now at work on the link between Fayetteville and Decatur, Ala., and the money is furnished by the syndicate who recently bought the road. C. P. Perin, of Birmingham, Ala., who is vice-president of the organization; James E. Rhodes, of this city, who is manager of the construction company, and W. B. Barnard, engineer, left Friday morning to survey the line of the road from Fayetteville, Tenn., to Madison Cross Roads, in Alabama, and also to examine critically the trestles, bridges and also the machinery, consisting of engines, etc., now at Madison Cross Roads.

Successful Fisher for Suckers.

Calling himself Rev. Johnson, a negro came to Jackson county about a month ago, who claimed to be a Baptist preacher from Boston, Mass., who was in the south organizing lodges of the "Sons and Daughters of America." As he was a bright yellow negro, of fine appearance and seemed to be well educated, he met with good success and organized lodges at Hollowood, Stevenson and Scottsboro, charging each member $3.50 each. After staying here about a month and collecting something over $150, he skipped the country with the cash. The heaviest losers are the colored people near Hollowood, some of whom mortgaged all their effects in order to get their whole families in the lodge. Since leaving here they have found he is a fraud, and no trace of his present whereabouts can be had.

Desperate Attempt to Escape.

Ike Singer cut Jordan Lee's throat from ear to ear at Oak Grove, La., one day last week. Singer was arrested, and, while on the way to Floyd, La., in charge of Deputy Sheriff Sthrock and posse, attempted to escape. The posse ran him about two miles. After killing his horse, he promised to surrender, but, on coming up, he jumped at the deputy and attempted to get his pistol, and, while scuffling, was shot six times by Mr. Sthrock, the deputy, and one time by some one else, all taking effect. Both Lee and Singer are still alive, but are not expected to live till morning.

Important Supreme Court Decision.

The supreme court of Tennessee rendered an important decision Friday which directly sustains the legislative committee that seated Peter Turney as governor. H. S. Old had been arrested for fraudulent voting and in passing on his case, the court held that a vote cast without evidence of payment of poll tax was fraudulent. It was because of this fact that the Tennessee republicans failed to show poll tax receipts that Evans was not declared governor. This is the first legal action on this point.

LIVE WASHINGTON NOTES.

Greer County, Texas, Held to be Uncle Sam's Property.

MORE DRY DOCKS RECOMMENDED.

The Cruiser Olympia Tries Her Speed, Four New Battle Ships and Fifteen Torpedo Boats—Venezuela's Evidence—Bill to Confer Statehood on New Mexico.

Bill Favorably Reported.

The senate committee on territories favorably reported the bill for the admission of the territory of New Mexico to statehood.

More Dry Docks Recommended.

The house naval committee has decided to recommend three new timber dry docks, one at Algiers, La., one at Portsmouth, N. H., and one at Mare Island, Cal. An appropriation of $100,000 is made for each.

Popular Election of Senators.

The senate committee on privileges and elections made a favorable report on the amendment to the constitution providing for the election of United States senators by a direct vote of the people.

Weather Forecast Postmarks.

The scheme of adding the latest weather forecasts to the postmarks on letters will be commenced by the postoffice department July 1. Applications for this service from over forty postoffices have been filed and it will be introduced first in New York, Chicago and other large offices.

Greer County, Texas.

The claim of the United States to the territory known as Greer county to which the state of Texas also made claims was affirmed by the decision of the supreme court of the United States announced today by Mr. Justice Harlan. The decision settles a controversy which has been waged by the state and federal governments for many years. The territory in question is situated in the southwest corner of the Indian Territory and comprises about 1,500,000 acres.

Venezuela vs. J. Bull.

The council of Venezuela has submitted to the Venezuelan commission a printed brief, presenting a bit of new and apparently conclusive evidence in support of Venezuela's claim. It refers to the map contained in a two-volume large folio geography prepared by Thomas Myers, professor in the Royal Military academy of Woolwich in 1822. The Essequibo is shown as the dividing line between British and Spanish Guiana. Numerous citations are set forth in the brief to show that England at that time recognized the limits now claimed by Venezuela.

Speed of the Cruiser Olympia.

A recent speed run of the cruiser Olympia between two Chinese ports was made the subject of an official report which has just reached the navy department. Notwithstanding very rough weather, the Olympia averaged 20 knots an hour and would have made 23 knots according to her officers, in smoother water, thus becoming the second fastest cruiser in the world. The Minneapolis of our navy, which holds the record, made her remarkable speed of 23 knots and a fraction on her official trial, where every condition was favorable to speed and where forced draught was used. The Olympia ran under natural draught.

Kentucky Senatorial Question.

When asked if an extra session of the Kentucky legislature could elect a successor to Senator Blackburn, Senator Mitchell, chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, said: "Undoubtedly, and its their duty to elect one. I myself was elected by a special session of the legislature. The regular session, like the one just adjourned at Frankfort, fritted the term away balloting for a senator. An extra session was called soon afterwards and at the session I was elected." Senator Gray, of Delaware, former chairman of that committee, asked for his opinion, said it was too delicate a matter for him to discuss, but said he guessed so.

Spaniards Got the Munitions.

Minister Dupuy de Dome received the following telegram from the captain-general of Cuba:

Havana, March 20, 1896.

A detachment of Variadero Notr Cardenas captured 150 boxes of ammunition for Remington and Winchester rifles, nine boxes of cavalry rifles, fourteen tin boxes of medicine and twenty knapsacks covered with oil cloth, two boxes explosives and three boats.

(Signed) Weyler.

Minister de Lome has no doubt that all this material was that landed by the Collazo expedition from Cedar Keys, in the schooner J. S. Mallory, captured by the United States revenue cutters, and released by the customs authorities at Tampa and afterwards transhipped near the southern coast of Florida to the steamer Three Friends, which landed it in Cuba several days ago.

To Enlarge Our Navy.

The house naval committee has decided to recommend the construction of four battleships and fifteen torpedo boats. The battleships will have a displacement of about 11,000 tons, and shall cost not to exceed $1,750,000 each, exclusive of armament. The appropriations to begin the work on the battleships will be in keeping with the amount which Secretary Herbert says he could expend next year for that purpose. Five of the torpedo boats will be of large size and will cost in the aggregate $850,000, while the appropriation for the remaining ten, which will be of smaller dimensions, will be $800,000. In view of the expedition with which boats of this character can be built, $1,256,250 of the entire amount will be provided for in the present bill. The large boats will have a speed of 26 knots, as against 20 knots for the smaller vessels. This conclusion was reached only after a two hours' discussion, participated in by all the thirteen members present.

FIFTY FOURTH CONGRESS.

Summary of the Week's Proceedings in Both Houses.

EIGHTY-FIRST DAY.

In the senate Mr. Call offered a resolution, which was agreed to, directing the secretary of the treasury to inform the senate what orders have been issued from the treasury department to seize United States vessels loaded with arms and munitions of war and with passengers on board supposed to be destined for Cuba, and by what authority such seizures and arrests have been made. Mr. Lodge then took the floor and addressed the senate on the immigration bill. At the close of Mr. Lodge's speech the immigration bill was restored to the calendar, and the house tariff bill, with the finance committee's free coinage amendment, was taken up. Mr. Pugh addressed the senate on the finances. At the conclusion of Mr. Pugh's speech the conference report on the Cuban belligerency resolutions was taken up and Mr. Morgan, a member of the committee on foreign relations, addressed the senate in favor of the adoption of the report. Without finishing his speech Mr. Morgan yielded to a motion to adjourn, and at 5:30 o'clock the senate adjourned until tomorrow.....This was suspension day in the house, and the following bills were passed under suspension of the rules or by unanimous consent. Providing free homesteads on the public lands of Oklahoma for actual, bona fide settlers, with an amendment suspending until further legislation can be had by congress the operations of the land laws in Greer county, Texas, due to the decision today of the supreme court declaring that county a part of the public domain. Increasing the penalty for mutilating or defacing coins, and making the passage of such coins a felony. The house at 4:12 adjourned until tomorrow.

EIGHTY-SECOND DAY.

Senator Morgan concluded his speech on Cuba, and Senator Pugh finished his remarks on the finances. No business was done and the senate at 5:40 adjourned.....The house, after five hours spent in considering it, passed a bill revising certain sections of the customs administrative act, and then adjourned.

EIGHTY-THIRD DAY.

The morning hour in the senate was given to consideration of a joint resolution directing the secretary of the interior to execute the law for opening to settlement 2,000,000 acres of land, originally a part of an Indian reservation in Utah. The Dupont election case was then taken up and Mr. Thurston made an argument for Dupont, after which a number of bills were passed without objection.....The day's session of the house was devoted to the discussion of the resolutions reported from the committee on foreign affairs censuring Ambassador Byard. Without reaching a conclusion the house adjourned.

EIGHTY-FOURTH DAY.

The senate resumed the debate on the Cuban resolutions, continued it through the day's session, and adjourned without reaching a conclusion.... The debate on the Bayard censure resolutions was continued today and reached the point of an agreement to vote on them tomorrow at 12. Mr. Taylor, republican, of Ohio, reported from committee number two, on elections, resolutions declaring vacant the seat now occupied by Mr. Boatner, of Louisiana, and gave notice that they would be called up tomorrow and voted on without debate. Adjourned.

EIGHTY-FIFTH DAY.

The debate on the Cuban resolutions was continued. Mr. Mitchell, chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, reported the joint resolutions for the election of United States senators by the people. Mr. Gray, democrat, of Delaware, gave notice of a minority report to be made. Mr. Allen addressed the senate in opposition to Mr. Dupont's claim to a seat in the senate. The following senate bills were taken from the calendar and passed: Senate bill for the relief of settlers upon lands within the indemnity limits of the grant to the New Orleans Pacific Railway company. To approve and ratify the construction of a railroad bridge across Caddo lake at Mooringsport, La., and across the Red river near Fulton, Ark. Also senate bill for the exchange of land at Choctaw Point, Ala., held for lighthouse purposes, for another tract better adapted for the same purpose. Appropriating $25,000 for the monument in Baltimore to the memory of Gen. William Smallwood and the soldiers of the Maryland line in the war for American independence. Also senate bill to pay Holmes & Leathers, contractors on mail routes in Mississippi, $12,209 for transportation of the mails in April and May, 1861. Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, offered a joint resolution recognizing belligerency in Cuba. The legislative appropriation bill was reported from the committee and the senate adjourned until Monday....The house passed the Bayard censure resolution, six democrats voting for and five republicans against it. The vote was 180 yeas to 71 nays. In the contested election case of Alexis Benoit vs. Charles Boatner, from the Fifth Louisiana district, the seat was declared vacant, and a new election will result. A night session was held to consider pensions and the house adjourned until Monday.

A Very Dull Rogue.

Julius Mayse, supposed to be of Greenville, Miss., but more recently of Vicksburg, appeared at Tullulah, La., one day last week, and claiming to represent Loeb, Bloom & Co., of Paducah, Ky., got a team to go to Lake Providence. Arriving at Milliken's Bend he claimed to be representing Jacobs & Garnet, of Memphis, Tenn., and that he was a son of Jacobs. While here a Mr. Tellen exposed him as a fraud and he skipped back to Tallulah. News of his character preceded him, and he was arrested on arrival and jailed. Inquiries were dispatched to both firms he claimed to represent and both answered that they knew no such man. On his person when arrested were two checks to which the names of Tullulah merchants had been forged, and he acknowledged the forgery.

Not the Mallory Cargo.

From information received the seizure of arms and ammunition made the other day by the Spanish in Cuba is not so important as indicated. The munitions seized were not from the Mallory, but were from the schooner Arkell. The Arkell was at anchor at a place called Elvarudo. All the arms aboard had been landed save 145 cases of ammunition, when the gunboat Caradad have in sight. The men on the Arkell abandoned the schooner and hastily escaped to the shore. The Caradad seized the Arkell and 145 cases of ammunition.

AN OPERATION WAS UNSUCCESSFULLY PERFORMED.

The Patient Was Finally Restored, After Eighteen Years.

From the Evening News, Newark, N. J.

About eighteen years ago, when Mrs. Annie Dale, of 88 Bruce street, was a bright, merry school girl, she was taken ill with scarlet fever. She recovered, but she was a very different girl from a physical standpoint. She was cured of the scarlet fever, but it left her with an affection of the back. As she grew older the pain seemed to increase. Her sufferings were intensified by her household duties, but she never complained, and with one hand pressed tightly to her back she did her work about her cozy home.

"I was fourteen years old when I was attacked with scarlet fever, and have now suffered with my back for eighteen years.

"Night and day I suffered. It really seemed as if I must succumb to the pain, and then to make matters worse, my head ached so badly that I could scarcely see, at times. Finally I went to St. Michael's Hospital, at the corner of High street and Central avenue, and there the surgeons performed a difficult operation on my back, but it did no good; it was like everything else. I was told at the hospital to return for another operation, but the first had left me so weak I could not go back. Then again I had become discouraged and my three children needed my attention and care at home. The pain became harder to stand and my back was almost broken, it seemed. I thought I would never know what it would be like to be well again when I was told to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. With many doubts, a faint heart and an aching back I went to get the pills, and little dreaming that they would prove the elixir of a new life to me, I began to take them. Only a short time elapsed before I began to improve. Could it be possible that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were doing what everything else had failed to accomplish? I asked myself the question many times and before long I was enabled by my improved condition to answer the question with an emphatic 'Yes.' Now the pain of almost twenty years is cured by these Pink Pills in a few months. I have no pain of any kind now, but I have got some of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and while I do not think it will ever be necessary to use them again, I shall certainly never be without them in the house."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

NATURE'S WAY:

There is no reason why the period preceding childbirth should be full of discomfort. There is no reason why childbirth itself should bring a feeling of dread to the mother. Nature does nothing wrong. It is the abuse of nature by wrong living, lack of exercise, ill-fitting clothes, that brings about the tortures of childbirth.

Perfectly healthy women go through the ordeal with comparative ease. Nature intended it that way. Women approaching motherhood have really but one thing to do—get strength generally and locally.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. John J. Barry lives at 104 Concord st., Brooklyn, N. Y., is 65 years old. He used to be a freight clerk, but for eleven years has done no work, mainly on account of rheumatism. He has always been troubled a good deal with constipation, but a few months since, his attention having been directed to Ripans Tabules, he commenced a course of treatment with them, using them according to directions. As a result the trouble from constipation is overcome and there is a positive improvement to be noted in the condition of his rheumatic joints. His daughter, who lives with him and has suffered a good deal from dyspepsia, also uses the Tabules and has found in them the greatest possible benefit.

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce st., New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

WANTED--A MAN.

ONE WHO WILL NOT BETRAY THE PEOPLE.

Interview with Gen. Sherwood—He Compares the Financial Policy of Other Nations to the Present Policy of the United States.

Gen. Sherwood has just returned from a business trip to Indiana. He has had facilities for becoming acquainted with the condition of business, and last evening, when asked for the result of his observations, he said:

"Business ought to be a great deal better, but we have the consolation that it could not be much worse. I saw a good business man in Toledo this morning, who has been in active business for twenty-five years, and he told me that this is the worst February for business he had ever experienced."

"Do you find business men generally talking that way?"

"Business men generally are not as hopeful as one year ago, especially merchants, and manufacturers. Congress, of which so much was promised by the republican long-distance prophets a year ago, is doing nothing to help business or to ease the money market, and from present indications will adjourn without doing a thing. Last week I was down in central Ohio in one of the large manufacturing cities, and both the president and cashier of a leading bank there told me money was tighter than a year ago. I asked if the new bond issue would not help, and they both said it was only a temporary expedient that would not help anybody outside the bond buyers. The cashier said the fact that so many bankers were anxious to put their money into bonds at a low rate of interest was a sure indication that they had no confidence in the future of business enterprises. Both the president and cashier said a majority of the business men in that town were not making any profit, hardly keeping even, and most of the merchants were afraid of a further decline in values of textile fabrics.

"I went into the bank to get a small check cashed; you know I never have a large one, and when I was leaving the cashier asked me if I had read Tillman's speech in the senate. I told him I had not; only the press summary. He then said that it was a powerful speech, and Tillman only said what a great many people are now thinking. He said he had subscribed for a number of Tillman's speeches for free distribution among his goldbug friends, and agreed to send me a copy. After thanking him I expressed surprise, as I knew he was a John Sherman, Grover Cleveland, close corporation, gold standard man only six months ago. He then said his convictions were now for free silver, as he had been fully educated by the disasters and business wrecks we have had under the gold standard and that he belonged to that class of men who had the courage to admit when he was wrong."

The reporter asked Gen. Sherwood if he had seen the statement of Chairman Anderson of the Ohio democratic committee that Cleveland could not have the democratic nomination again, if he desired it.

"Yes; I read that and was very much surprised. Col. Anderson doubtless judged by the last Ohio democratic state convention at Springfield, when the office holders proved more potent than the delegates representing the democratic masses; but the result of the election ought to have admonished Col. Anderson not to try any more experiments on this line. It is true that Cleveland is a rank favorite with the republicans; and from a party standpoint he ought to be, as he has betrayed the democratic party on every vital issue, and has carried out without a quiver, either of remorse or shame, all the financial schemes of the party he was elected to repudiate and overthrow.

"When I came up from Indianapolis a few days ago, a couple of farmers got on the train at the first station this side of Muncie, Ind., and took a seat in front of mine. One was from Darke county, Ohio. From conversation on the deplorable condition of farming, they drifted into politics and to condense the animus of their talk, one said he had always been a democrat, but if he had known Grover Cleveland would have done what he has done, he would sooner have voted for the devil for president. In reply to a taunt from his companion that Cleveland might run again, he said he would sooner vote to hang him than vote for him for president again, or any other man like him, 'and,' he added, 'I know lots of democrats in my section that feel the same way.' His companion, who was evidently a Harrison republican, said: 'Well, I guess it don't make much difference to us who is elected. Congress and the president are just alike.'"

The general continued: "There is a deep and all pervading discontent among the masses of both parties over prevailing conditions, and all the people need now is for the leaders of the democratic party to cut loose from Grover Cleveland, repudiate entirely his financial policy, absolve the party from all responsibility for his deplorable administration and put the party back on Jeffersonian lines. Then there would seem to be a chance, and it is the only chance, to elect a democratic president this year. It is criminal folly for democrats to longer attempt to sustain a man who has betrayed every democratic principle worth anything. The real facts are, Grover Cleveland is a stench in all right smelling democratic nostrils. At the end of his term he will have less real friends among the democratic masses than Benedict Arnold had in the continental army when Lord Cornwallis surrendered.

"Witness the absolute brutality of the last proposition of the gold standard papers, that borrowing gold by issuing one hundred millions of interest bearing bonds would strengthen the public credit and help business. Carry this idea into your own business. Could a corporation or business firm strengthen their credit by making a large loan of money and issuing interest bearing notes for obligations that bore no interest? Is not the proposition thoroughly idiotic when examined in the light of ordinary common sense? We have now had over $260,000,000 useless bonded debt created in the past two years, and the end is not yet. When the Sherman silver act was repealed all the gold bugs in the land, big and little, from John Sherman down, claimed that we would have prosperity in sixty days. Read Senator Sherman's last speech in the senate, just before the silver repeal bill passed. Sherman was the chief bugler among the loud singing cuckoos in both houses of congress. He then said that all we needed to bring gold from Europe by the ship load and give us a substantial business boom was to destroy silver as a unit of value and a money metal. And it was done by men who were elected to congress sacredly pledged to bi-metallism. Look at the terrible business wrecks in the immediate trail of this infamous enactment. Look at the record of bond sales since then. See from the records how every promise for better times has been proved criminally false and delusive. And again we see Senator Sherman, as the real mouthpiece of his platitudinous obesity of the White House, arise in the senate and commend the present house of representatives because they have just voted to kill any silver legislation whatever.

"And did you notice that Sherman savagely criticised leading statesmen and senators of his own party for voting against another tariff bill, and commended the republicans of the house for defeating any legal recognition whatever of the white metal; that Sherman, in a speech made at Zanesville last year, before the Ohio republican convention, claimed to be a stanch and trusty friend? And he had the marvelous audacity to claim, in his speech, not yet five days old, that these house republicans, 'fresh from the people,' as he said, represented the people. It was almost 1,900 years ago, if I remember aright, that Christ, talking by inspiration from on high, of just such beings, said:

"'They bind heavy burdens and grievous to be borne, and lay them on men's shoulders; but they themselves will not move them with one of their fingers. Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye devour widow's houses and for a pretense make long prayers.'

"And all these modern Pharisees from Sherman down claim to be champions of the only honest money, and that all are dishonest or ignorant who oppose their schemes of confiscation of the property of the common people by law. I would like the Plain Dealer to look up the campaign records of the members of the present congress who voted a few days ago to murder the honest silver dollar of the constitution at every stage of the voting, and see how many preached the gold dollar of the vampires on the stump when out vote begging. I venture the opinion there are not ten congressmen in the whole array, from the entire country west of the Allegheny mountains, that dared talk to their constituents in their electioneering campaigns as they voted in the house. Everybody knows, who knows anything, that nine-tenths of all the intelligent citizens of Ohio are at heart bi-metallists. And we have the scoundrelism of modern politics well represented in the vote referred to, showing that fidelity to a public trust is no loger the rule of conduct with a majority of our public men. In fact, representative government has ceased to be representative and the boodler in the primaries expects his servant, whom his corruption money elects, to become the tool of the Shylocks when elected, and the record of this house of representatives to date proves that whom the boodler buys the Shylock holds securely in his grip.

"When we witness the humiliating cowardice of the present house of representatives in refusing to even make one move to relieve the financial stress of the people, it is no wonder so many business men are giving up in despair. Let us suppose that the silver men had had their way in 1893, as the gold men had theirs, and suppose we should have had the result we witness today—of the increase of the bonded debt of over $260,000,000; with falling prices of all products of labor, and of the farm and mine, and with the appalling list of business failures, suicides, want and woe, and crime, that has followed as the inevitable result of the gold standard. Why, it would not be safe for one of the silver leaders to venture out upon the streets of any city, or hamlet in the country on account of mob violence. Surely, there would be no newspapers in the land with enough of the gall of brutality to have advocated a continuance of the policy.

"And now that we have had the terrible experience of the last two years and a half, with a policy that every democrat of intelligence and patriotism predicted at the outset would result only in disaster, it seems incomprehensible how any well meaning citizen who loves his country and his kind should exhibit a disposition to further exploit the field of disaster. Certainly no true democrat is in favor of it. My observation is, and I am looking at the situation only from a business standpoint, that business men of both parties are thoroughly convinced that the present fiscal policy must be changed before we can have any substantial prosperity, and I believe that a majority of sagacious business men understand that the present effort of the republican leaders to try and avert the only live issue (the money question) by switching off on the tariff is a scheme of humbug and fraud, as transparent as it is insincere and dishonest.

"The people are about ripe for a leader who is sound on the money question for the people's honest dollars and not the scarce gold of the Shylocks that has never been seen by the common people, has never been the money of circulation and never will be. There is no civilized country anywhere that has ever adopted or ever will adopt our present financial policy of fiat money for the people and gold for the Shylocks. There is no civilized country in the world that would discard silver as a money metal if that country was as rich in silver mines as the United States. The world's record today is that all the silver using countries are prosperous and all the exclusive gold countries are not. This ought to dissipate the miserable rot of the gold standard organs that a silver standard for the United States would mean bankruptcy. It is a bare assertion with no vitality to sustain it, but lie. Even England; the credit nation of the world, would not tolerate for a month our present fiscal policy. We recovered soon after the war from the Geneva award some $15,500,000 of England. When this claim matured the banking and commercial classes of Great Britain, fearing a disturbance of the money market should gold be withdrawn for export, induced the Bank of England to interpose and the United States treasury was induced to exchange securities, so as to prevent any withdrawal of gold.

"Here is McKinley, who claims to be for protection (and no one is able to tell just what that means now), not in favor of the protection of our richest and most favored American product, silver. The fact that whole communities have been wrecked in the west by legislation which he commends, and populations wrecked by hostile legislation, in direct conflict with his whole theory of protection, does not move him to utter a word of condemnation. He has been going up and down the land with Napoleonic beak and Chesterfieldian pose and talking the barren paucity of unmeaning platitudes about protection, utterly oblivious to the well known fact that a bill embodying all his ideas, framed according to his own sweet will, not only created revolution in his own party in almost every state in the union, reduced wages in ten thousand manufacturing establishments in less than three months, but so disturbed economic conditions that the most sagacious students of history attribute the panic of 1893 almost solely to his work. Surely it is a desperate case of desperation to look for a savior from present disaster in a party and country wrecker whose work is only five years old.

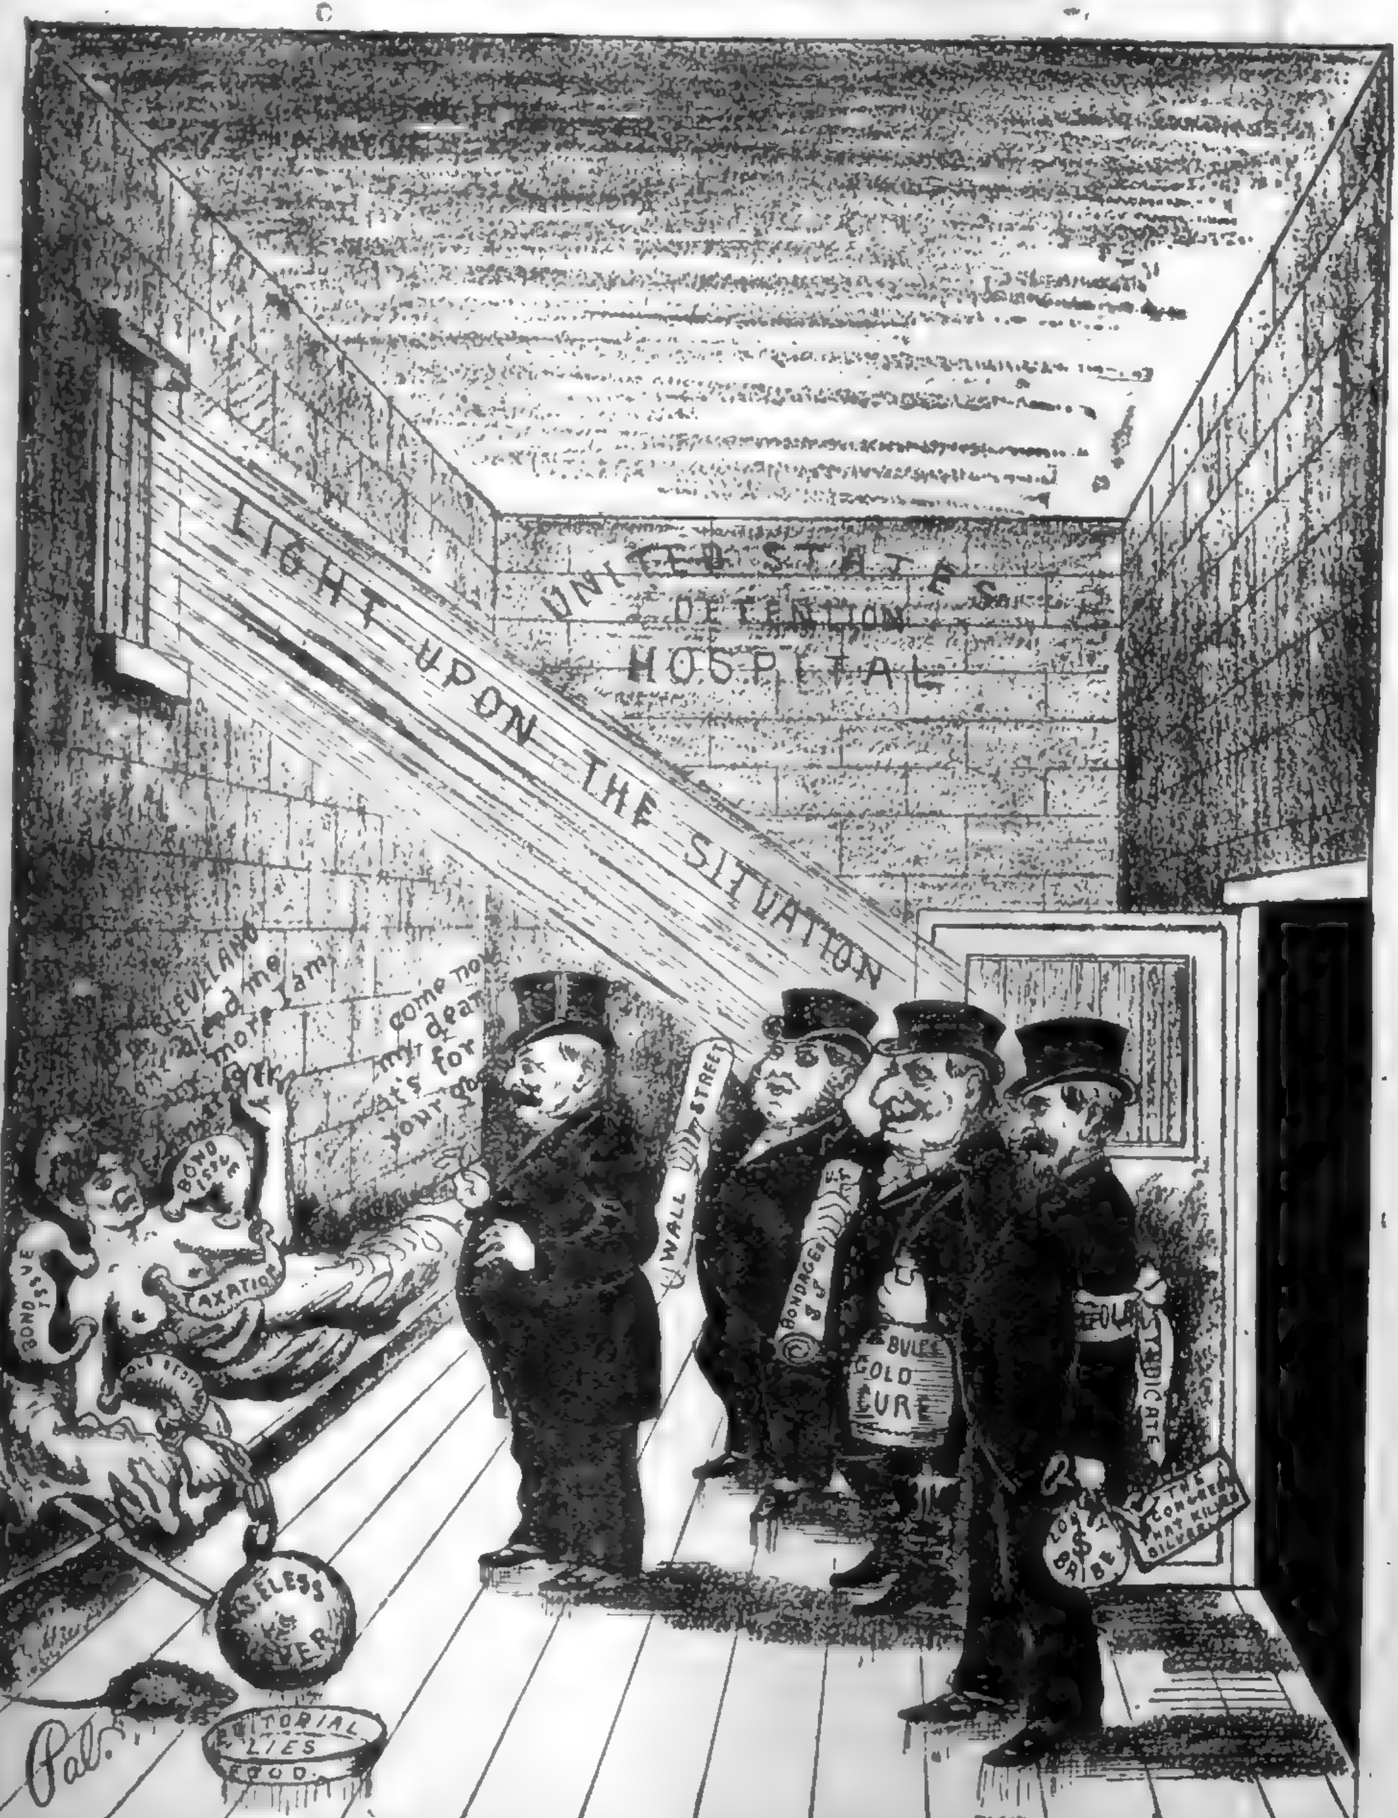
"But where is the people's savior now, do you ask? I do not seem to see him, but Gov. Matthews of Indiana looks fairly well. This time the people will scrutinize the man more than the platform. Cleveland's base betrayal has taught us that. Sibley of Pennsylvania is both the man and the platform. I remember during the war, when disaster after disaster overtook the army of the Potomac, that it was the poet of the camps, Edmund C. Stedman, who wrote the ringing battle cry that electrified the country. It was the well remembered poem, 'Give us a Man.'

"'Give us a man of God's own mold,
Fit to rally his fellow man;
Give us a rallying cry and then,
Abraham Lincoln, give us a man!'

"Then a man on horseback was wanted to command the army of the Potomac. Today we want no man on horseback. We want no man who looks to an increased standing army and formidable battleships and forts and fortifications along our frontiers for continued protection and glory; but we want a man anxious to do justice to the great, brave, patient people, and whose humane rule will cause the people to love the country and its free institutions; and then neither armies, nor navies, nor forts, nor bastiles will be needed. A happy, contented and prosperous poulace is the best shield of the state."

The designs for six of the fifteen main buildings of the forthcoming Tennessee Centennial exposition have been accepted and the construction put under contract, to be completed by June next. The lakes and terraces have already been finished, and the Administration building has been completed.

COMING EVENTS CAST THEIR SHADOWS.



It is believed that another issue of bonds will be necessary, if the exports of gold to England continue for any length of time.—New York Post (English Syndicate Organ).

Senator Lexow's greater New York bill has passed the assembly by a vote of 91 yeas and 56 nays. The measure now goes to Governor Morton for approval,

A dispatch from Berlin, Germany, says that China, instead of making Port Arthur a free port, will cede it to Russia in exchange for important concessions.

The United States cruiser Raleigh returned to Fort Monroe, Va., last Thursday at 8 p. m. from a four hours' trial trip at sea, making twenty-two knots per hour.

Dispatches received from Havana state that the Bermuda landed the arms and ammunition she carried and that Gen. Calixto Garcia and his men safely joined the insurgents.

An explosion occurred in the Brunner mine, New Zealand, last Thursday morning. Five miners are known to have been killed and sixty are entombed with no hope of their being rescued.

Reports received at Valparaiso of violent earthquakes throughout different portions of Chili have caused many of the inhabitants to leave the city and towns and camp in the country districts.

The boiler in the steamer Artemus Lamb exploded Thursday morning above Alton, Ill. Fireman Ed. Lallard and Eli Lancaster were blown into the river, but were rescued. Both were fatally injured.

Ellis & Lessig Steel & Iron company, of Pottstown, Pa., has notified its employes of a raise of wages in every department of 10 per cent. The change, which will go into effect April 1, will benefit over 500 men.

The Norwegian bark Erato, which went ashore last Wednesday night seven miles below Tybee island, is a total wreck, and wreckers are at work trying to save what they can before the vessel goes to pieces.

The Egyptian public debt commission has decided, to advance from the reserve fund £500,000 asked by the government for the purpose of defraying the cost of the Nile expedition. Of this amount £200,000 must be furnished immediately.

An eastbound freight train on the Indiana, Illinois and Iowa railroad was wrecked at North Judson, Ind., Thursday night. A wrecking crew found the dead bodies of four unknown men in a car of oats. They had evidently died from suffocation.

Near Waycross, Ga., last week, two road agents held up and robbed R. H. Rawls, merchant and postmaster at Schlatterville. They thought he had $4,000 insurance money. They only got $50 and a rifle. It is reported that one of the robbers has been caught.

By an explosion of nuptha in Newark, N. J., one night last week Albert Aericht, of that city, and Fred Gallagher, of Rockland, Mass., were burned to death, and two other workmen were seriously burned. A fire resulting from the explosion damaged the works about $2,000.

The Grand opera house at Springfield, Mo., one of the finest theaters in the west, burned at 2 o'clock Friday morning. The fire originated under the stage and swept through the scenery and in a few minutes the entire building was in flames. Loss, $80,000; insurance, $40,000.

William Bradley, while walking near the big saw in a mill at Readyville, Tenn., stumbled and fell against the circular saw, and was horribly mutilated. His right leg was severed near the groin and his body hurled by the saw into the dust pile. When taken out life was extinct.

John L. Perkins is in jail charged with the murder of Stephen Howard, son of a blind man. The boy was leading his father along the road when Perkins quarrelled with the boy. The blind man struck at Perkins, but hit his boy. Perkins then seized the old man's stick, killed the boy and threw the body into a neighboring creek.

The Southern Railway company reports for February gross earnings of $1,494,918, an increase of $233,010, and net earnings of $430,405, an increase of $47,120; and from July 1 to February 27 gross earnings of $13,451,370, an increase of $1,046,780, and net earnings of $4,384,350, an increase of $332,011.

The steamer Sam Brown, lying at the lower wharf, Louisville, Ky., ready to go below with a large cargo, was burned early Friday morning. It is estimated that it will be a total loss. The Brown was owned by Capt. Sam Brown, of Pittsburg. She was built at Pittsburg in 1881 and was valued at $25,000.

At Buffalo Bluff, Fla., on Thursday last, Captain Ben McGraw, aged 66, and George La France became engaged in a fight about some work La France was doing for McGraw. La France beat Captain McGraw so that he will probably die. McGraw used a knife and disemboweled La Erance, who is mortally wounded.

An incendiary fire last Thursday morning destroyed the upper floor and roof of the White block, situated on Memorial square, Chambersburg, Pa., causing a loss of $60,000, the insurance being $25,000. Adjoining buildings were also damaged. Among the occupants of the White building to suffer loss was the Register printing office.

Three of the Southern railway train wreckers are in jail at Macon, Ga. It seems clear now that the Shaws wrecked the Southern's train to get damage for injury to their wives. Criswell's confession is generally believed. It is reported that one of the Shaws has confessed, but if this is true the confession has not been made public.

Nearly a dozen residences and three-quarters of the business portion of the village of Benton, Ark., were destroyed by fire, which started shortly after midnight Friday morning and raged for nearly three hours. The village has 1,000 inhabitants and no fire department. The total loss is estimated at $40,000 and is but partially covered by insurance.

The Midway Deposit bank, of Midway, Ky., made an assignment at Versailles, Ky., Friday to John Wise, a director. Fifty thousand dollars is due depositors. The bank has $60,000 in collectable notes and it will probably pull through. It is understood that William Shipp, cashier, and Charles W. Stone, assistant cashier, used $25,000 of the bank's funds in outside transactions.

Lem Henderson, the negro who was killed at Middleboro, Ky., Thursday night while attempting to burglarize a store, was one of the negroes who recently escaped from the Knox county Tenn., work house and who led the blood-hounds such a long and lively chase. He was a small copper-colored negro and at the time of his escape was serving a sentence in the Knox county work house for the robbery of a house at Ooltewah.

A duel was fought in the Neubabetsburg wood, near Berlin, Germany, last Thursday morning between Herr Zonker, a solicitor residing in Potsdam, and an officer in the German navy. The duel was fought with pistols and Zonker was shot and instantly killed. Zonker was a prminent lawyer.

Information has been received that the Matabeles of the Inseza and Filabusti districts, South Africa, have revolted and murdered many of the white settlers there. Large numbers of whites are flocking to Buluwayo for protection. The people of the towns in Matabeland are erecting defences to protect themselves against the natives, and volunteers are being enrolled. Armed forces have been dispatched to the disturbed districts.

The schooner William Todd, Captain Campbell, belonging to Calais, has arrived at Kingston, Jamaica, from Mobile, Ala. Her commander reports that he was fired on by Spanish gunboats off the Isle of Pines. He hove to, was boarded and his vessel was searched. The Spaniards did not find anything contraband on board the schooner, and so she was allowed to proceed.

Wolvek, the ladies' tailor who was arrested in New Orleans some days ago for being a fugitive from Mobile, and charged with having embezzled a lot of ladies' clothing which had been intrusted to him while he was working in Mobile, has informed the Times-Democrat that he was tried by the mayor of Mobile and honorably acquitted.

Fourteen hundred men employed in the ship yards of Wheeler & Co., West Bay City, Mich., went on a strike this morning against the check system of payment. The firm gave as their reason for adopting the system the danger of transporting $20,000 every pay day. The strikers are holding a meeting to discuss the situation.

Three hundred weavers at the big Eagle & Phenix mills, Columbus, Ga., walked out Saturday, and it is expected that many more will go out within the next few days, and will necessitate the closing of the entire plant. This is the result of a notice of a cut in the wages of the weavers. A committee waited upon the officers to protest against the reduction, but the decision of the company was declared to be final. For a short time there were indications of a serious riot. The strikers made strong efforts to induce others to join them, but failed. It is claimed that the reduced wages are not lower than is paid at other mills.

Later—The mills shut down on Monday evening "until further notice." The 300 strikers have thrown out of employment 1450 operatives.

New Probate of an Old Will.

The will of Benjamin Franklin was allowed in the Suffolk county, Mass., probate court by Judge Grant on petition of Mayor Quincy, as a foreign will, having been probated about a century ago in the orphans' court in Philadelphia. The probate of the will is deemed necessary in view of a legal disposition of the "Franklin fund," which was created by the will of Franklin and now amounts to several hundred thousand dollars. There was no opposition to the probate and it was admitted upon the credit of the certificate of the recorder of the orphans' court.

Cotton Warehouse Burned.

The Reedy River Manufacturing company, whose factory is seven miles from Greenville, S. C., had 1,000 bales of cotton, which had been bought early in the season at 9 cents, and stored in a warehouse 100 yards from the mill. Last Thursday they began to take it out for spinning. When the hands returned to the warehouse after the noon rest and opened it they found the cotton blazing. It was all consumed. Loss, $33,000; insurance, $30,000.

Ex-GOVERNOR THOMAS SEAY died at his home in Greensboro on last Monday.

ONE week from next Tuesday is the first primary. We hope every man has made up his mind to come out and vote on that day.

JUDGE PARSONS having exchanged circuits with Judge John R. Tyson, of Montgomery, the next term of Chilton circuit court will be held by Judge Tyson.

IN another column we furnish the full text of the financial bill introduced by Congressman Aldrich. It contains some very interesting features which we propose to discuss later on.

AN effort is being made in Texas to have the Populists and Republicans fuse. The Republicans are to support the Populist ticket on the condition that the Republican presidential electors are placed on the Populist ballots.

WE have received such an immense amount of correspondence this week it is impossible to get it all in. We have done our best with it, and now throw ourselves upon the indulgence of such of our correspondents whose communications we are compelled to hold over.

THE organized Democratic press is in a state of great disquietitude. The more the Clarke faction and the Johnston faction yell at each other and call one another bad names the more truthful they get and by the time the election comes on they will have disclosed so much rascality on either side that all honest men will have concluded to let Democracy severely alone and will come and vote the Populist ticket —the only honest ticket in the field.

AT the last meeting of the State Executive Committee the following gentlemen were appointed managers of the primary elections:

Beat 1. T. J. Dorminy, W. P. Cleckler.

Beat 2. (Box 2 Jemison) B. M. Gentry, Ira Cambell; (Box 1 Providence) I. B. Martin, W. H. Shaw.

Beat 3. (Box 1 Benson) W. H. Varden, William DeShazo; (Box 2 Macedonia) Z. J. Jones, J. P. Nix, J. D. Glasscock.

J. W. FOSHEE.

The friends of J. W. Foshee have induced him to allow his name to be placed before the people as a candidate for commissioner for the First District. It is almost superfluous for us to say anything in the way of introduction. Everyone knows Wash Foshee to be a gentleman well qualified in every particular to perform the duties of the office to which he aspires and everyone knows that if he is elected we shall have gained a most efficient commissioner.

S. E. WALDRUP.

A thorough-going reformer, a true Populist, a honorable gentleman—these are the qualities which have caused the friends of Mr. S. E. Waldrup to bring him forward as a candidate for commissioner from the Second District. Mr. Waldrup has been identified with the reform movement ever since its inception in this State. He is an able and accomplished gentleman, perfectly competent to perform the duties of commissioner and if he is the choice of the people we are satisfied we shall have another good commissioner.

Editor BANNER: We realize that with the candidates of Chilton county the day of reckoning is close at hand, and what we wish to say is that Mr. J. A. Logan of Clanton is still before you, and still claiming your support for tax collector. We do not hesitate to say that the voters of this county can do no better than to elect him. This they are going to do. Gentlemen, let us all march up to the polls the 14 of April and vote together for so worthy a man, and then show me a man who can say he is sorry he has done so. ELI.

A BILL

To retire the United States legal-tender notes and Treasury notes, and to substitute therefor Treasury certificates; to coin into standard silver dollars all the bullion now in the treasury, and for other purposes.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and house of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and is hereby, authorized and directed to issue five hundred million dollars in Treasury certificates as herein provided.

SEC. 2. That said certificates shall be of the denominations of ten, twenty, fifty and one hundred dollars, and shall be in the following form, to-wit: The United States will receive this certificate at its par value for all customs, taxes and all public dues, and said certificates shall be a legal tender at their par value in payment of all debts, public and private. When any of said certificates are received into the Treasury under any law from any source whatever, and shall belong to the United States, they shall not be retired, canceled, nor destroyed, but they shall be reissued and paid out again and kept in circulation: Provided, That nothing herein shall prohibit the cancellation and destruction of mutilated certificates and the issue of other certificates in their stead. Said certificates when held by any national-banking association may be counted as a part of its lawful reserve. Said certificates shall be of uniform size and appearance, from designs selected by the Secretary of the Treasury, and a sum sufficient to carry into effect the provisions of this Act is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated. The United States shall receive said certificates as the exact equivalent of the standard money of the United States, dollar for dollar.

SEC. 3. That the Secretary of the Treasury shall, immediately upon the passage of this Act, prepare and issue the said certificates in place of all United States legal-tender notes and of Treasury notes issued under the Act of July fourteenth, eighteen hundred and ninety, that may be in the Treasury, and shall continue the substitution of said certificates for all the legal-tender notes and Treasury notes that become the property of the Government by redemption, exchange or otherwise. The said legal-tender notes commonly called "greenbacks," and the said Treasury notes are to be canceled and destroyed.

SEC. 4. That the Secretary of the Treasury shall coin into standard silver dollars, as soon as practicable, the silver bullion purchased under authority of the Act of July fourteenth, eighteen hundred and ninety, entitled "An Act directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon, and for other purposes," as may be freed by the withdrawal, redemption, or substitution of the Treasury certificates for the Treasury notes issued for the purchase of said bullion; and in addition thereto he shall coin into standard silver dollars that portion of said silver bullion which represents the seignorage or profit to the Government, to-wit: The difference between the cost of the silver purchased under said Act of July fourteenth, eighteen hundred and ninety, and its coinage value. The coinage of standard silver dollars is to continue as above until all bullion now in the Treasury is coined. The silver dollars so coined shall be placed in the Treasury as a special fund to be used for coast and lake defenses, for additions to the Navy and similar purposes, as may be hereafter determined upon by acts of Congress. The Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to issue silver certificates against the silver dollars when coined and deposited in the Treasury as provided by this Act.

SEC. 5. That the Secretary of the Treasury shall redeem the United States notes commonly called "greenbacks," and also the Treasury notes issued under the provisions of the Act of July fourteenth, eighteen hundred and ninety, when presented for redemption, in standard silver dollars or in gold coin, using for redemption of said notes either gold or silver coins, or both, not at the option of the holder, but exclusively at the option of the Treasury Department, and said notes when so redeemed shall be destroyed as provided in section three of this Act.

SEC. 6. That the gold held in the Treasury at a redemption fund for the legal tender and Treasury notes, when the process of substitution of Treasury certificates therefor shall have been completed, shall be set aside and used as a redemption fund for United States bonds and to pay the interest thereon.

SEC. 7. That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to use such portion of the five hundred million dollars of Treasury certificates in the payment of the current expenses of the Government as shall remain after deducting the total amount of legal-tender notes and Treasury notes outstanding on the passage of this Act from the said five hundred millions.

SEC. 8. That this Act shall take effect immediately.

SEC. 9. That all acts and parts of acts in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Marvelous Results

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at J. S. Johnson, Jr. Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

L. H. Reynolds, Frank Crichton and others will address the people at:

Coopers, Saturday evening, April 4th, 2 o'clock.

Providence church, near Watson's Cross Roads, Tuesday night, April 7th.

Cane Creek, Thursday night, April 9th.

Liberty Hill, Wednesday night, April 8.

Littlejohn's schoolhouse, Thursday morning, April 9, 11 o'clock.

Jemison, Friday night, April 10.

Clanton, Saturday, April 11, 2 o'clock.

All candidates are invited to be present.

Plantersville Ala., March 24, '96.

Editor BANNER: Will you please give me space in your worthy paper to speak a few words. In your issue of the 19th I read a piece from Maplesville, stating that Mr. Tom Hubbard would get the votes cast for tax collector in beats 7 & 8. I just wish to say that he is mistaken for Mr. J. G. Gay will get three-fourths of the votes cast in beat eight. Mr. Gay is a very fine man, is a good Christian worker as well as a deacon of the church and has been superintendent of the Sunday-school for several years. The time is fast coming when we should elect Christian men for office and we assure he is thoroughly competent to fill the office. Hurrah for Messrs. Gay, Bailey, Crichton and Hayes. YOUNG MIKE.

1000 WAYS TO CURE A COLD!

Quinine, aconite, hot tea, onion syrup, whiskey and quinine, rock candy and rye, a "sweat," foot bath, starvation feeding, wrapping your hose around your neck, cod liver oil, and old hundreds cough cure, these and over 900 other ways are used by the human race to cure a cold. The best way is to make CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER your daily companion and you will never catch cold.

A man must be miserable indeed who is laid up with a bad Cold, Catarrh, Headache, unable to breathe without pain, his throat sore and his head throbbing, when one little product in the market called CUSHMAN'S INHALER will give him instant relief.

RELIEF EASY TO GET!

He may go on and on, sneeze his head off for that matter, sniffle and snort around to everybody's discomfiture. His eyes may become inflamed, his head and ears ache, and his throat so sore he can hardly swallow. Patient he must be to endure it all when for 50c. he can buy CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER and restore himself to his normal condition.

Cushman's Menthol Inhaler a Jewel!

A woman will sit around prostrated in nerves, feeling desperate over loss of sleep, head and eyes racked with pain, cold settled in every bone, so miserable that life seems a blank, but if she would make the marvelous little instrument known as CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER her daily companion, her headaches would come less frequent, she would never have a cold, and sore throat and catarrh would have no terrors.

NEVER NEGLECT A COLD OR COUGH

Neglect a Cold or Cough and if La Grippe don't get you, Consumption will. CUSHMAN'S INHALER cures colds and all diseases of the breathway passages. You lose dollars in doctor bills in not keeping CUSHMAN'S INHALER handy to drive off a cold or cough or sore throat at its very first approach.

The Greatest Authority in the World.

DR. J. LENNOX BROWNE, F. R. C. S. Ed. Senior Surgeon to the Central London Throat and Ear Hospital, says: "The vapor of Menthol checks in a manner hardly less than marvelous, acute Colds in the head. For all forms of nasal diseases, causing obstruction to the natural breathway, I prescribe CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER to the extent of hundreds per annum."

DR. BROWNE.

[Is not this recommendation sufficient for all who read may profit by it?]

Brings sleep to the sleepless. Cures Insomnia and Nervous Prostration. Don't be fooled with worthless imitations. Take only CUSHMAN'S. 50c. at druggists, or mailed, postpaid, on receipt of price. Write for book on Menthol and testimonials.

$1.00 FOR YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.

Write us a letter covering these three points:

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co.; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

CONFEDERATE PENSIONS.

For the accommodation of the wounded confederate soldiers and widows who are entitled to the benefits of an act for the relief of needy confederate soldiers &c, approved February 13th, 1891, and who are required by said act to make application annually to the Judge of Probate for said relief. I will be at Stanton on Saturday April 25 in the forenoon, and at Maplesville in the afternoon, and those desiring to make application as required by said act can meet me at the above named places and I will wait upon them.

Respectfully,
R. M. HONEYCUTT,
Judge of Probate.

Mrs. J. P. Bell, Osawatomie, Kan. wife of the editor of The Graphic, the leading local paper of Miami county, writes "I was troubled with heart disease for six years, severe palpitations, shortness of breath, together with such extreme nervousness, that, at times I would walk the floor nearly all night. We consulted the best medical talent. They said there was no help for me, that I had organic disease of the heart for which there was no remedy. I had read your advertisement in The Graphic and a year ago, as a last resort, tried one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart, which convinced me that there was true merit in it. I took three bottles each of the Heart Cure and Restorative Nervine and it completely cured me. I sleep well at night, my heart beats regularly and I have no more smothering spells. I wish to say to all who are suffering as I did; there's relief untold for them if they will only give your remedies just one trial."

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Okmulgee, I.T., March 26, '96

Editor BANNER: Your very interesting paper "THE BANNER" makes its more than welcome visits out here in the Nation regularly every week, and feeling a deep interest in every thing pertaining to the general welfare of the people of Chilton county I am desirous of expressing some thoughts through your columns concerning the candidates for nomination for the various offices in the primary election to be held next month and especially the candidates for Representative.

I notice that you (Frank Crichton) and Bro. Reynolds are candidates for that office. I also notice that Reynolds pledges himself to work and vote against the cutting off of part of Chilton county if he is elected. Lewis ought to have thought of this when he and Mr. Randal, of Calera, were down in Montgomery using their best endeavors to get old man West's little bill through the Legislature some three or four years ago. In one of your December issues he denies a report that he offered to pay me any reasonable amount for my influence for the bill. In this he is correct. He never offered or made any such proposition. But when he asserts that he never approached me on the subject—if he means the bill when he says subject—he asserts too much, for he did approach me concerning the bill, and it was at his solicitation that I requested the Jeffersonian caucus to hear him and Mr. Randal in person in behalf of the West bill. The caucus agreed to hear them. Lewis advocated before that caucus the cutting off of the north end of the county. He said although a citizen of Chilton he lived near the line and that all or most of his business transactions were done in Shelby; most of his friends and acquaintances lived in Shelby, and his post office was in Shelby, and that it was too inconvenient to have to go twenty or more miles to get to the court house which he had to do in Chilton. Strange, was it not, that Lewis Reynolds was the only man in the county of my knowledge to go down to the capitol to aid and assist in getting an act passed that would have damaged his county thousands of dollars, and only because it would be so much more convenient to him.

Lewis seems to be unfortunate in getting office. In 1892 the Alliance failed to indorse him for the Legislature, but not to be outdone, in a very short time he was out for Senator. The county that he wished so much to be a citizen of gave us A. T. Goodwin. When I left the county last fall Reynolds, I understood, was a candidate for Sheriff, and this Spring he wants to be the Representative, and yet there are some people ready to swear they will never, no never, enter into a scramble for office.

Now, Mr. Editor, as the darkey said, let us suppose the case. Suppose that the Alliance in '92 had chosen Bro. Lewis for Representative, north Chilton would now have been in Shelby county if he could got it there, and the county would have been the loser by large odds—but it didn't! Suppose the district convention at Calera in '92 had nominated Bro. Lewis for Senator, instead of Goodwin, could you estimate our loss in County, State and Nation? But it didn't, thank the Lord!

If I could cast my vote in Chilton this year I would vote for Representative Frank Crichton, Sheriff Lee Hayes, Assessor L. B. Pounds, Collector J. A. Logan, Treasurer A. G. Dake, Commissioners Smitherman, Robinson, Glasscock and Harris, and for Superintendent J. W. Moore.

Hoping that the good people will honor you by giving you the nomination. I am yours &c,

O. M. MASTIN.

Jemison, Ala., March 30, 96.

Editor BANNER: The candidates of our county were met at Rockymount, Saturday evening by a fine audience of country people. We regret that we were too late to hear the opening address by Mr. Crichton, followed by Mr. Reynolds. He is a brilliant speaker. There were also speeches by J. A. Logan, L. B. Pounds, Stewart, Wells, Killgore and others, all of which were very interesting. The audience was adorned by the presence of a good number of ladies. At the close of the speaking the people were dismissed by Mr. J. B. Northcutt, chairman of the evening.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $100 per bottle

Clanton, Ala., March 28, '96.

Editor BANNER: Please publish for me my positive denial of the vile report that is going the rounds of the county, viz: that I came to Clanton without any intention of becoming a candidate for sheriff, but that after an hour's consultation with R. Ehrman I consented to become a candidate and forthwith had my name announced as such.

I hereby pronounce said report as utterly false and without the slightest foundation. I am a candidate from my own choice and in regard to the wishes of my friends, and if elected I shall discharge the duties thereof to the best of my ability following only my line of duty. Truly yours &c,

J. T. COOLEY.

Clanton, Ala., March 26, '96.

Editor BANNER: Please give me a few lines in your paper in regard to my views about who I think ought to be our next sheriff. I think as we have never had a sheriff from the eastern part of the county and as brother M. A. Killgore is a good man and well qualified to fill the office, we ought to elect him. You will all think over the matter and see if I am right and if you think so you may rest assured we will appreciate your help. I feel interested in him because I know he is alright, a hard working man and needs it. I know he will get a good vote and I hope he will get there.

Yours,
EDDIE GILES.

West Chilton, March 30, 1896.

Editor BANNER: In looking over the political field, we find many aspirants for official honor in Chilton county. Of course fitness for office and faithful service in the reform cause should influence our votes. Therefore we think Mr. Frank Crichton is the man for Representative in the General Assembly, he would be an honor to Chilton county. S. E. Waldrup for commissioner is an ardent friend of the reform cause, and we think he will be well supported. For tax collector, there is the true and brave J. A. Logan, who is entitled to, and we believe will get the hearty support of the people of Chilton, his record is good. For assessor, there is L. B. Pounds, a man of sterling worth, a true Populist, he has been on the right side all the while. Populist of Chilton county, I think we will make no mistake in heartily supporting the above mentioned candidates.

"POPULIST."

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION.

By authority of the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton county a convention of the Democratic party of said county is hereby called to meet at the court house in Clanton on Wednesday the 15th day of April, 1896, at 12 o'clock for the purpose of selecting delegates to the Democratic State convention which meets in Montgomery on April 21. The following apportionment of delegates has been fixed by the committee: Beat 1, Mineral Spring, 4; beat 2, Providence 4, Jemison 6; beat 3, Benson 5; beat 4, Clanton 12; beat 5, Coopers 5, Verbena 7; beat 6, Kincheon 5; beat 8, Maplesville, 5; beat 8, Dixie, 8; beat 9, Strasburg, 4.

Delegates will be chosen to the convention at an election to be held as nearly as may be under the forms governing general elections in this State on Saturday April 11, 1896. All white voters who will support the nominees of the Democratic party, are entitled to participate in the election of delegates to the county convention.

R. EHRMAN,
Acting Chairman Democratic Executive Committee Chilton Co.

Spring Medicine

Your blood in Spring is almost certain to be full of impurities—the accumulation of the winter months. EASTER WITH THE VOUDOOS.

BY EDGAR W. BACON.

Three of us sat in the cabin spinning yarns. Overhead the boom creaked till the tautened sheet caught up the block with a slam; then it swung lazily back as the Carondelet rolled on the next swell.

Captain Taggert refilled his pipe and settled himself comfortably before he responded to our demand for a story.

"If a man is bent on doing a foolish thing he ought to select some other kind of foolishness than taking his wife and child on a voyage with him. I learned that lesson by experience.

"You remember my telling you about the time the old Kate Morris was seized by the Haitians for running the blockade? Well, my wife was with me that trip, and as the baby was only raising eighteen months, of course we had not left her at home. We got a big indemnity for the schooner, but that didn't prevent our being on shore for the best part of a month and passing the kind of an Easter that will give the old woman a shiver just to think about to this day.

"Pretty country, Haiti. Ever been there? It's got mountains that I couldn't begin to describe, for I aint any hand at describing, and water along the coast that beats the Mediterranean, while, as for the trees and flowers, they make you think you've got into a greenhouse as big as all outdoors. It's a real sightly place, but I wouldn't live there if you should give me the island. No, sir!

"The town where we were when the Kate Morris was held was as white and clean looking as anything you ever saw, if you stayed far enough away, but close at hand one would judge that it could stand considerable disinfecting.

"Men on horseback used to come swinging through the streets that weren't clean enough to walk in or wide enough for a wagon. The women wore long-tailed dresses, and it seemed to us that they spent most of their time climbing the hill to a little prayer house that stood on the slope just outside of the town. It was getting on to the end of Lent, and I suppose they had religion stronger than common.

"We soon found out that there were two kinds of religion on the island. All the women did not go to confess to the priest. There was an old hag that had a hut to the west'ard of where we were stopping where a good many of them used to meet and concoct deviltry. Between that hag and the priest there was more hatred than you ever saw between rival candidates for a country postoffice. There was religion, politics and war all mixed up in it, for the old woman was the Obi Woman or Voodoo witch.

"I had heard a good deal about the voodoos and how they worship a serpent and pray to the devil, and eat human flesh, and I naturally wanted to get an invitation to one of their shindigs, but I found that they chose dark nights and out-of-the-way places for the exercises, and if an outsider got caught looking on his family was apt to go in mourning.

"I took it kind of the old priest that he came and told us that we wanted to look out for that old woman. You laughed at her or did something she didn't like, he said, and she will do you harm if she can. Don't go too far and keep watch of the child.

"When he said this—not in good English, but so that he could be understood—my wife turned pale and wanted to go right back to the Kate Morris. But the Haitian Navy was in charge, and we couldn't do that, so we made the best of a bad bargain and stayed right on where we were. But there wasn't a morning came that I didn't wish Car'line and little Carrie were back with her folks in Boston.

"The old priest was friendly. He came up frequently after we got acquainted. I think he felt kindly to me because we were the only two men in the place who were not generals. It was a pleasure to see him pet little Carrie. They got to be the biggest kind of friends. But if she saw the voodoo woman anywhere she would scream and hide in her mother's skirts. Then I could see a wicked look come into the eyes of that old hag till they were exactly like the eyes of an angry snake.

"Politics got to be pretty strong about there. It seems that the National party—that is the revolutionists—had the church with them, while the Government had its agents out among the voodoos trying to get their support. The revolutionists were in power in that town, but the others were strong enough to be dangerous.

"A good deal of this I made out from the priest's pigeon English, and you may be sure that I was with the church party. The Government had my schooner, and I did not like that, and I was not going to train with pagans and snake worshipers anyhow.

"It got to be pretty close to Easter, and they were making great preparations at the church. My wife went down to look on. The women treated her well, and she was in high feather.

"That night little Carrie was gone. How it happened we could not tell. At first when we missed her we thought that she had gone into the house, but finding that she was not there her mother became frantic and in a little while the whole town was roused. We searched everywhere. At the witch woman's house first, and after that in every place where we could possibly suspect that she had been hid. The frightful suggestion that she might be dead was replaced by another still more horrible when we recalled the tales we had heard of voodoo ceremonies.

"That night, after dark, some one came creeping to our hut as though not wishing to be seen. She stole in like a ghost and quickly shut the door, putting up her hands to reassure us, for we were startled at the intrusion. It was a rather pretty young woman, whose child my wife had taken in her arms and kissed at the church that day.

"With broken English and broken French and many signs she let me know that there was a voodoo dance that night and that she knew the way to it.

"I had hard work to prevent Caroline from going along, but at last I did persuade her that it would be better for her to go to the priest and tell him what we had learned. She clung to me and cried: 'Bring her back; bring her back with you!' till I was almost unmanned.

"I followed my guide through a tangled forest where there was no path. Up and up through vines that wound themselves about me and thorns that cut like knives. At every step I expected to feel the stinging fangs of the deadly fer de lance. Presently we heard the trum trum and soon came upon the voodoos. They were in a little hollow dancing in a clear space, around which were blazing bonfires. Their priestess, the old hag, smeared with blood and dirt and dressed in a fantastic way, occupied the centre, leading the singing and getting those brutes waked up to a crazy pitch. It was not pretty to look at. But I did not see my baby anywhere, and I could hardly tell whether to be most relieved or disappointed.

"I was undecided what to do (for I did not want to waste time if Carrie was not there), when I heard a little whimpering cry not far to the left of where we were hid. My guide heard it at the same moment, and laid her hand on my arm as a signal for silence. Then we crept as quietly as two snakes till we came across a woman who was guarding my little girl. That woman was so wrapped up in the dance that she did not hear or see anything else. Her neck was craned out as if she was waiting for a signal to join them. She woke suddenly when Zelie's long fingers were wrapped around her throat to prevent her screaming and my pistol barrel was plunged in her face.

"We tied her, hand and foot, gagged and bound her and dumped her down in a hollow filled with ferns, where it would be difficult to find her. Then we left those savages and made for town. I did not mind how the thorns and the branches tore my hands and face and clothes now, as long as I could protect the little sleepy white head that nestled down to my shoulder.

"Half way down the hill we met a company of revolutionist soldiers. My guide held a brief parley with them, and when they found who we were they let us go. I could not understand what was said, but I could understand some distant shots that we heard before I put Carrie in her mother's arms.

"The voodoo people got the worst of the scrimmage. What's that? What Car'line said? Look here, old man, you are not married, and never had a child of your own, so I'll excuse you, but you'll maybe know some day that there's part of a yarn like this that would stick in a man's throat if he should try to tell it.

"Anyhow, the hag was dead, shot down by the soldiers. The next day all the children in the place turned out in their Sunday best, and all the mothers rejoiced.

"Carrie was there in the first place of all, carrying a lily as tall as herself, for when the old priest saw her he stooped and took her up and she headed the Easter procession in his arms."

EASTER VERSE.

Easter.

The flowers by the garden tomb
Each lent to each its sweet,
And made a fragrant pathway
For the coming of His feet.

Glad Easter unto Easter
Its own blest radiance gives,
And shining ranks of festivals
Repeat the cry, He lives.
—George T. Packard, in Youth's Companion

Easter Hope.

When winter's minions have withdrawn
Their spectral tents from hill and plain,
And dawn, by vermeil-mantled dawn
Comes spring to claim her own again.

The wind-flower in its sunless sleep
Within its prison chamber chill
Feels sudden through its being leap
A vernal and ecstatic thrill.

Hope bids thee look, O drooping heart,
Beyond Death's dark environing.
When, like the flower, thou too shalt start,
Renewed as with the touch of spring.
—Clinton Scollard, in Harper's Bazar.

Easter-Tide.

Happy, happy Easter Day sets its bells a-ringing!
Once again—the Lenten passed—hearts are tuned for singing!
Let us cast our woes aside, think no more on sorrow,
While from the glad Easterside hope and peace we borrow.
Let us lift our eyes above, seek the glorious blue,
And remember that beyond dwells the Christ so true,
And that ere He reached that throne, for our sakes He died!
And our risen Christ we praise at the Eastertide.
Come, ye hearts that have been sad, hear the joy-bells ringing!
Come, ye hearts that have been glad, join ye in the singing!
Praise the living Christ whose eye sees our every need,
Praise the Lord of Hosts who is our "Comforter" indeed.
—Mary D. Brine.

An Easter of Ye Olden Time.

The observance of Easter is connected with the history of Christianity itself. And while there has never been any difference of opinion among Christians as to the general observance of the festival, in the early church the Asiatics kept the feast on the day of the Jewish Passover, while the Western Christians observed it on the first Sunday after the Passover.

Hence arose a great dispute in the second century, and Victor, the Bishop of Rome, excommunicated those churches which did not keep it on the Sunday. The controversy was brought before the Council of Nice, in the year A. D. 325, and it was decreed that Easter Day should be kept on the Sunday following the Jewish Feast of the Passover, which Passover is kept on the fourteenth day of the Jewish month Nisan. At the same time, to prevent all uncertainty, it was made a rule of the church that the full moon next to the vernal or spring equinox, should be taken for the full moon in the month Nisan, and the 21st of March be accounted that vernal equinox. Consequently, Easter Day is always the Sunday following the full moon which falls on, or is next, the 21st day of March.

The day is still known as Pascha in the Eastern Church, as well as in the various churches in Europe, the English title of Easter being probably derived from the old Saxon word "Oster," Spring. Some scholars have suggested that it had its origin in the word Eastre, the name given to the Anglo-Saxon goddess of the dawn. For the Church took the pagan philosophy and made it the buckler of faith against the heathen. She took the pagan Sunday and made it the Christian Sunday. And she took the pagan Eastre and made it the Christian Easter.—Home and Country.

We Can Thank the Chinese.

But few people have any idea that the originals of the many-colored eggs which are now being distributed as Easter gifts have probably descended to us from the greatest of the Chinese spring festivals, and can boast of an antiquity of more than 700 years before the Christian era. So there appears to be no new thing under the sun; and although the magic eggs of to-day are merely receptacles for a nondescript medley of bon bons and bijouterie, they are a survival, or a revival, of one of the quaintest of Old World customs.

This practical method of disposing of Easter eggs suggests that much of the ceremony connected with them is due to the celebration of the Easter feast which succeeds the Lenten fast. That "an egg at Easter" is a very old proverb in this country is sufficiently shown by the fact that the Pope sent Henry VIII. an Easter egg in a silver case, while an extract schedule of the personal expenses of Edward I. contains, against Easter Sunday, the suggestive item: "Four hundred and a half eggs, 1s. 6d." The price is as noteworthy as the number.

But the most remarkable feature of the usage is its international character. Thus, in Russia, it is customary to exchange visits and eggs on Easter day, and "to drink a deal of brandy." Again, in Italy, dishes of eggs are sent to the priests to be blessed, after which they are carried home and placed in the center of the table. It is the correct thing for all the guests to eat one of them. The custom also exists in Spain and Germany, and generally among the Jews, Greeks, Persians in some form or another.—Chambers's Journal.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Summary of the Week's Proceedings in Both Houses.

EIGHTY-SIXTH DAY.

In the senate the conference report on the Cuban resolutions was, on motion of Mr. Sherman himself, disagreed to, and the senate insisted on its disagreement to the house substitute for the senate resolutions, and asked for a further conference. The same conferees on the part of the senate were reappointed—Sherman, Morgan and Lodge. The joint resolution, by Mr. Mills, and the concurrent resolution, by Mr. Platt, on the same subject, are yet to be disposed of. The legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill was taken up and considered for upwards of two hours—some thirty out of 135 pages being disposed of. The senate at 5:36 p. m. adjourned until tomorrow. ....Today's session of the house under the rules was given to District of Columbia business, but the district calendar was soon cleared up and the remainder of the session was spent in consideration of a bill to modify the existing law regarding the punishment of crimes committed under federal jurisdiction involving the death penalty so as to allow a sentence to prison for life. After three hours' discussion the passage of the bill was frustrated by a point of no quorum made by Mr. Barrett, republican, of Massachusetts, and the house adjourned until tomorrow. In the morning hour bills were passed authorizing the construction of various bridges, authorizing the leasing of school lands in Arizona, exempting logging trains from the law requiring patent couplers and air brakes. The speaker laid before the house today a communication from Secretary Lamont submitting a letter from the president of the Mississippi river committee, reporting the caving of the west bank of that river in front of Helena, Ark. The damage already done is serious enough to excite alarm for the safety of valuable public and private interests, and it is recommended that $75,000 be made available to construct the necessary protecting works.

EIGHTY-SEVENTH DAY.

Mr. Mills, of Texas, addressed the senate in support of his joint resolutions requiring the president to use his good offices to induce the government of Spain to concede to Cuba the right of self-government, and, in the event of Spain's refusal, to take military possession of the island and hold it until the Cubans organize a government and raise military and naval forces to defend it....In the house Mr. Hull, republican, of Iowa, had presented from the committee on military affairs for consideration of the house the senate bill which repealed section 1218 revised statutes, regulating the appointment of officers in the army or navy, providing that no person who held a commission in the United States army and afterwards entered into the service of the Confederate States, or any state thereof, should be appointed an officer in the army or navy of the United States. The bill was passed after two hours debate, Mr. Boutelle alone voting in the negative. The unfinished business, when the house met, was the bill introduced by Mr. Curtis, republican, of New York, to reduce the number of crimes subject to capital punishment, and it was passed. The house agreed to the senate request for a further conference on the Cuban resolutions. Mr. Boutelle, chairman of the committee on naval affairs, reported the naval appropriation bill for the years 1896–7, and it was ordered printed. The house adjourned until tomorrow.

EIGHTY-EIGHTH DAY.

Mr. Platt introduced in the senate a resolution fixing the time of the final adjournment of congress on May 2. Referred to committee on appropriations. The legislative bill was considered for sometime and went over. At 5:5 the senate adjourned....Today's session of the house was devoted chiefly to the naval appropriation bill.

EIGHTY-NINTH DAY.

The senate passed a joint resolution authorizing ex-President Harrison to accept certain medals tendered him while president. The legislative appropriation bill was up for further consideration and went over. A number of resolutions were offered, and the senate adjourned....The house passed the naval appropriation bill, as it came from the committee, without amendment. Several private bill were passed. A concurrent resolution authorizing the president to appoint a banking and currency commission, to consist of nine citizens, to act with the comptroller of the currency and to report their recommendations and conclusions to congress, was offered by Mr. Heatwhole, of Minnesota, and referred to the committee on banking and currency. The sundry civil appropriation bill was reported to the house, and the house adjourned.

NINETIETH DAY.

The senate took up the legislative appropriation bill. Mr. Sherman's motion to strike out the sections providing compensation for district attorneys, clerks and marshals by salaries instead of fees, was defeated by nays 30 to yeas 18. On motion of Mr. Hill the section changing the time of meeting of the territorial legislature of New Mexico from December to May was, after a hot debate, stricken out. The bill was then passed and the senate adjourned until Monday.....The house spent two hours of the day's session in discussing the question of what business should be taken up. It was finally decided to consider private pension bills. Four of these were considered in committee of the whole, favorably reported, and the house adjourned until Monday.

The South's New Industries.

The south's industrial growth continues despite the calamity criers and hard time wailers. The Baltimore Manufacturers' Record gives the following summary of the new industrial enterprises projected in the South during the last three months, as compared with the first quarter of 1895:

Description of Industries.	1895.	1896.
Iron furnaces
Machine shops and foundries	23	13
Stove foundries		1
Miscel. iron and steel works	12	13

Feed for Layers.

In regard to feed, most farmers know that hens will fatten on the grains raised on the farm, wheat, oats and corn, if these are fed regularly either by mixture or with frequent change. These are improved by grinding and a little meat added a couple of times a week. But it may be well to hear what a Nova Scotia expert has to say about feeding laying hens. He says: "There is nothing equal to the exclusive use of meat and bone with very little of anything else."

Going to South Africa.

During the last year or two there has been something of a migration of miners from the Western States to South Africa, and advertisements of rates and routes to South Africa are printed in most of the mining papers. The movement seems to have extended to others than the miners, and may indicate that the emigrants have not fared badly. A man advertises in a recent issue of a Deadwood paper that he will sell at a bargain his saloons in Deadwood and in Lead, as he intends going to South Africa. Whether he expects to make money out of the mines or the miners he doesn't state.

Cheap Horses.

A herd of about 7,000 horses was bought on a Washington ranch the other day by the Portland Horse Meat Canning Company at $3 a head.

A Good Dog is Worth Looking After.

If you own a dog and think anything of him, you should be able to treat him intelligently when ill and understand him sufficiently to detect symptoms of illness. The dog doctor book written by H. Clay Glover, D. V. S., specialist in canine diseases to the principal kennel clubs, will furnish this information. It is a cloth bound, handsomely illustrated book, and will be sent postpaid by the Book Publishing House, 134 Leonard St., New York City, on receipt of 40 cents in postage stamps.

Turpentine for Worms.

If turpentine is given to lambs for worms, let it be done after a twenty-four hours' fast, and when the first stomach is empty. It is not unlikely that the whole flock is affected if we find worms in one. The turpentine and linseed oil can be administered with milk, or the trupentine poured upon the salt allowed them; they will eat it readily.

A religion that does not stick to a man during business, is no good after business hours.

Do Birds Understand Music?

This question has recently been discussed among naturalists, and Dr. G. M. Gould, of North Carolina, asserts not only that katydids keep time, but that they produce a kind of music which may be described as orchestral. Both Dr. Gould and another observer have listened to two orchestras of katydids answering one another all night long. Sometimes individual performers were noticed to drop out of time, but upon the whole the stridulation of these insect bands is harmonious and in a regular key. Observers do not agree on the point whether or not there is a difference of pitch between the notes of two orchestras.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out ten are caused by catarrh; which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Cotton.

With careful rotation of crops and liberal fertilizations, cotton lands will improve. The application of a proper fertilizer containing sufficient Potash often makes the difference between a profitable crop and failure. Use fertilizers containing not less than 3 to 4% Actual Potash.

Kainit is a complete specific against "Rust."

Our pamphlets are not advertising circulars booming special fertilizers, but are practical works, containing the results of latest experiments in this line. Every cotton farmer should have a copy. They are sent free for the asking.

RIPANS TABULES

"Some time ago," said Clifton Arnsparger (of Paris, Ky.), County Attorney of Bourbon Co., Ky., "I saw the advertisements of Ripans Tabules in the Louisville Courier-Journal, and believing it was the remedy I needed, I determined to get some of the Tabules. There was no name attached to the advertisement, so I wrote to the publishers of the Courier-Journal and was referred to the Ripans Chemical Co., 10 Spruce st., New York, from whom I obtained a box for 50 cents. I had been greatly troubled with sick headache, but since I secured Ripans Tabules, whenever I begin to feel symptoms of sick headache or sour stomach, I take one or two Tabules and escape all the terrors of a splitting headache. One taken after eating has aided my digestion and made me feel like a different person. I find I now can get the Tabules from a local druggist. (Signed), Clifton Arnsparger, September 13th, 1895."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to the Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce st., New York. Sample vial, 10 cts.

MISSING ISSUE

THE SILVER QUESTION

INVASION OF THE UNITED STATES BY THE ASIATICS.

How They Exchange the Products of Their Labor for Our Gold, Which They in Turn Exchange for Silver to Hire Cheap Labor to Compete with Ours.

(By Joseph K. Clark, Butte, Montana.)

The question that seems most to bother the Americans in regard to the Chinese-Japanese situation, is whether our brothers of the Orient are our financial superiors or not, and, as they appear to have the best of the matter at present, to an unprejudiced observer, it would seem that as they know when they have a good thing and then make the best of it, they, at least, are the financial superiors of those antiquated minds that see nothing but financial disasters in bi-metallism.

If the recent treaty between those nations is carried out in the spirit as well as the letter, and to the adaptibility of the Chinese is added the ingenuity of the Japanese, their progress during the twentieth century would be wonderful indeed.

The Chinese, since the time of Confucius, seem to have done nothing but adhere to ancient customs; the Japanese, on the other hand, are a people of progress, and during recent years have made gigantic strides in all the arts and sciences and in commerce.

The first cotton spinning factory in Japan was established at Kagishima more than forty years ago, by Shemazu Haribisa, the greatest feudal prince of modern times.

For nearly twenty years this was the only factory of the kind in the country, but in 1867 the people began to wake up and since then so many other factories have been established that there are now 580,564 spindles in operation, which, taken with those now in process of construction, will make the total number of spindles nearly one million.

One of the articles in the Japanese-Chinese treaty that will be most important to the development of the Chinese, and important to the world of commerce reads as follows:

"Japanese subjects shall be free to engage in all kinds of manufacturing industries in all the open cities, towns and ports of China, and shall be at liberty to import into China all kinds of machinery, paying only the stipulated import duties thereon."

At first, with but a casual thought, it would seem that this article opens up before Americans visions of great prosperity; that soon the United States would soon wrest from England the supremacy in the oriental trade.

All this would happen and more, if advantage were taken of the treaty (for the Japanese look upon us as their best friends), and if we were not brought into direct labor competition with them.

While we may be slightly benefited for the time, as it is, still, they are rivals to be feared, not despised or looked down upon, and the treaty virtually makes China and Japan one nation, with a population of 500,000,000 people.

For labor they pay about 17 cents per day in gold to men and 11 cents to women.

They are the greatest imitators in the world, and as they have no patent laws by which foreigners may be protected, they seize upon every useful patent and with their cheap labor turn out products for a net cost that would make Americans open their eyes wide in astonishment.

A recent article in the "Inventive Age" has the following paragraph:

"One of the subjects for our statesmen in the near future will be: 'How best can we protect the American manufacturers and the American laborers from the imitative genius, piracy and cheap labor of Japan, not alone in cotton and cotton goods, but in the manufacture of everything the arts produce."

Thirty-five years ago the Japanese might have been classed as barbarians, and they were divided into many factions. They had a civil war and the victorious party proclaimed the present reigning sovereign "mikado of the Japanese empire." He was but seventeen years of age, but had been educated in the United States and had acquired many American ways and modes of thought.

Under his enlightened rule a great social revolution took place. Edicts were promulgated tolerating Christianity and permitting Buddhist priests to marry nuns.

It is claimed by some people that the marriage of this multitude of Buddhist priests accounts, in a great degree, for the intelligence the Japanese display to-day as a nation, for the priests were the educated men of the land.

In 1871 a board of education was formed and a year later a college with a staff of European professors was established and largely patronized.

As their chief intercourse was with the United States, England and France the study of the languages of those nations was insisted upon, and the adoption of all mechanical appliances that could promote the arts and sciences was encouraged.

At this time one railroad was in operation, with others in process of construction. Now their railway system compares favorably with those of the European powers.

In 1870 a national mint was established at Osaka, the machinery being imported from England. In this year they issued their first coin made in their own mints. Heretofore it had been coined in other countries, but used as national coin.

The Japanese came from a mongrel Tartar source, and their origin dates far back into antiquity. The national religion is Bhuddism, but sanction was given to the worship in the old faith, Sin Fin, or Faith in Gods.

The Chinese have historical legends that antedate the flood mentioned in the Bible, and have a history that reaches back farther than any other nation now in existence.

The wonders of the Empire caused the discovery of this continent, for Columbus had in his mind as much the discovery of a short route to Cathay, as he had the desire to prove the correctness of his theory that the world was round.

If it had not been for his vivid and glowing descriptions of the riches and marvels of this country, Isabella and Ferdinand probably never would have listened to his pleadings, and have supplied him with vessels, and men, and money to make the trial.

Later a famous traveler, Sir John De Mandeville, returned home with glowing accounts of the country, and with strange tales of the queer people inhabiting it.

Their first porcelain furnace was set up in the seventh century in the province of Kiangsi, but the celebrated furnaces of Kinti Chin were not established until almost two hundred years later.

They now have over five hundred porcelain furnaces in operation, which supply nearly the whole world in porcelain ware. In the matter of baking the porcelain no other country has ever excelled them, one single piece passing through forty hands before it is deemed finished.

The date of the origin of the manufacture of silk in China is lost in the mists of remote antiquity. From the Chinese the Persians acquired the art; from the Persians the Greeks learned it, while it is not known whether the Romans had it from the Greeks or through some intercourse their sea captains had with the Chinese themselves.

They excel in the manufacture of damasks and flowered satins and in their simple hand looms can reproduce the most intricate of French and English patterns. China Crepe has never been imitated successfully.

In the tenth century they had invented printing machines and were proficient in the manufacture of the finest paper.

Their most elaborate works are the Imperial Canal and the Great Wall. The latter was built about 200 B. C. and extends west from Pekin along the entire northern frontier for a distance of over 1,500 miles, over rivers and across mountains and plains. It was from 15 to 30 feet in height, and 25 feet at the base, while the top was 15 feet in breadth, or wide enough for six men to ride horse back abreast.

The Imperial Canal is one of the greatest works of its kind in the world and flows from Pekin to Canton, a distance of 1,200 miles. This great work was constructed in the thirteenth century and runs through a most fertile country, where every variety of vegetable life may be grown on account of the diversified climate.

Thus, centuries before we became a nation, China had progressed in art and manufacture, and although they have been isolated to a great extent from the rest of the world, thereby being unable to profit by the developments of civilization, with the Japanese to teach and aid them, they will be able soon to make anything that can be manufactured in any other place in the world.

They produce the raw material in their own land and sell the manufactured article for gold in a gold standard country,

I have thus briefly outlined the present condition of China, simply to direct your attention to what we may expect in the near future, when the well paid labor of America will be brought into direct competition with the pauper labor of China and Japan.

There is only one logical conclusion to come to if our legislators do not take some active steps towards preventing such competition the wages of American labor will drop.

The gold bugs have always been victorious.

You ask, "Why?" "Because the masses do not understand the financial question?" This is true only in part. The main reason is that the gold bugs have bought both judge and jury. Is it any wonder that they are awarded the verdict?

Three-fourths of the people of the United States are in favor of free coinage on a basis of 16 to 1 and have cast their votes to that effect, electing on a silver platform men who, when elected, repudiated their promises and deceived the people, supporting gold bug theories regardless of the suffering and misery their actions brought upon the people who elected them.

The time has come when the masses must make the great effort of their lives to gain recognition. In the elections of 1896, the silver question will be the axis upon which all others revolve; so prepare to make the fight of your lives. Cast aside all party affiliations. If you cannot get an honest man nominated in your own party, vote for any honest man, regardless of party, but be sure that he is honest.

Remember that the gold-bugs are preparing for the greatest fight they have ever had; they realize their jeopardy and that the people have become determined to be heard and so are making strenuous efforts to provide against defeat.

This is not a political fight. It is a battle with the pluotcrats of London and their agents in the United States on one side and the people on the other. The people must win, for if they lose, the cause of the people—free silver—will be retarded for years.

Nominate, regardless of party, an honest man. One who will boldly and at all times support free silver, and after nominating, elect him, and the cause is won.

Beware of bankers! They are false prophets and nine-tenths of them are auxiliaries of the gold bugs in London. They are gold bugs themselves for purely mercenary reasons. With gold mono-metallism they can retain their high rates of interest.

What does it matter to them that you lose your farm or your home; that the laborers on railways, in fields or in factories, have to work for a few cents a day to compete with the cheap labor of China and Japan—they get their interest just the same.

Every one that can read should study the financial question and prepare himself to cast his vote for an honest, true man, who will at all times and in all places work for the good of the country and the good of the people.

What little gold there is is controlled by, comparatively, a very few men, or locked up in vaults by the hundreds of millions.

At the beginning of the Christian era the Roman Empire had 1,800,000,000 of metallic money. At the end of the fifteenth century they had less than $200,000,000. India and China then were in the height of their glory and splendor and the inference is that much of the money that disappeared found its way into the coffers of the wealthy Indian and Chinese nabobs.

In these countries gold was needed, for the Chinese, at this time were building the Imperial Canal, and in India gorgeous and magnificent temples were being constructed.

Are we going to follow this example? Are we going to furnish money, depreciated in our own country, but to other nations worth its own value, that they may beautify and make rich their own lands while paupering us?

At this time the Roman Empire must have had men who well might have been named Sherman, Carlisle and Cleveland, who acted as emissaries to India and China and made the Roman masses believe that silver was worthless and so demonetized it.

The monied people of India and China at that time, probably, were as ready to buy it at fifty cents on the dollar as their descendants are ready to buy it of us, and we are not sure that they even paid that much.

But, however, they lost their money, their trade, their power; for when a nation or individual loses money, credit goes with it and with the credit goes trade and power.

To this loss of money and power may be accredited their decline in civilization, their decrease in population and commerce and the disappearance of their freedom. History records nothing to show the cause of this deplorable result except the shrinkage of bimetallic money.

History repeats itself, and if we, the people of the United States, cannot retainb imetallic money, we will follow in the footsteps of the Roman Empire.

We alone are not suffering from the demonetization of silver; the peasantry of all gold standard countries are sharing the disastrous results with us.

In the statistics compiled by Archbishop Walsh of Ireland it is shown that prior to 1873 the exports of yarn from India to China and Japan alone were practically nothing. In 1873 occurred the demonetization of silver. What effect that had upon the industry may be seen from the following table:

In 1874	$ 1,000,000
In 1875	5,000,000
In 1880	25,000,000
In 1885	75,000,000
In 1889	127,000,000
In 1891	165,000,000

England had this trade until silver was demonetized in 1873, when she lost it, and while losing this she lost in nearly every other branch of commerce in proportion. It is only a question of time when all her spindles and looms will be silenced.

What has been said of England may be said also of the United States or any other gold standard country, unless bimetallism be adopted.

Demonetization of silver is responsible for this loss of prestige.

It is easily enough seen why silver standard countries prefer to trade with one another; and when silver is demonetized by any nation that nation immediately begins to lose her trade.

To cite a suppositious case that may be made applicable to ourselves. Suppose we were to have our gold discounted at the rate of 100 per cent by the silver standard countries. Would we not at once seek some gold-standard nation with whom we might trade, that our gold might be taken at par? Reverse the case, and the present situation is explained.

As I have said, they sell the manufactured article in a gold standard country for gold, and for gold alone. They take away nothing but gold. This is one reason, and a potent one, why gold is disappearing from the United States. This gold is shipped to London and is changed for fifty cents on the dollar for bar silver, which is taken to China and Japan, coined and put in circulation among their own people, where, at its coined value, it is as good as gold, and has the same purchasing power.

The gold then goes into the vaults of London only to come back to the United States to purchase our bonds at a high rate of interest. The London bankers take in exchange our silver at fifty cents on the dollar, they having contracted far into the future at that price, knowing that the production of silver is running short.

It may readily be seen why nations having a silver standard do not care to join the gold standard nations in international bimetallism.

At present they make a profit of 100 per cent upon every dollar's worth of gold they exchange, but if they joined in international bimetallism, they would be compelled to take in exchange for their manufactured articles our silver on a parity with gold, thereby depriving themselves of the handsome profit they are in the habit of realizing, for they would have to pay for our silver 129 29-100 per ounce. This would leave the gold in our country and there would no longer be complaints of a depleted treasury and a diminished gold reserve fund, and no need of further issues of government bonds.

Then, too, they would purchase our raw material, for there would be no discount on their silver money; but at present, as we will pay only fifty cents on the dollar for their silver, they will not buy of us, preferring, naturally, to deal with some silver standard country where their silver is taken at par.

This proposition appears to me so simple, so plain, so capable of but one solution that it is a matter of wonderment to me that our so-called statesmen and financiers should hesitate concerning the course to pursue.

If this condition of affairs is to continue; if our silver is to be used in this manner; if we have to compete with the cheap labor of China and Japan, what is to become of our laboring class, of our farmers, of all our industries?

A friend of mine who has a large vineyard in California, says that in consequence of the continued hard times it did not pay him last year to pick the grapes, and that rather than see them rot on the ground he fed them to hogs. He also said that if the prospects were no better this year he would make no attempt to cultivate his vineyard, but would allow it to run to weeds.

Buyers of wheat last fall sought in vain for the cause of the unprecedented and continued low prices of all cereals. The visible supply warranted higher prices, but instead of going higher the price continued to decline.

The same cause that affects our depleted treasury and our reduced gold reserve fund, also affects the price of all our industries, the price of wheat, the price of cotton, the price of everything that is produced in the United States.

There is only one remedy for all this and the sooner it is applied the better it will be for all classes of people in the country, and that remedy is bimetallism.

The cause of the trouble is the demonetization of silver, which occurred in 1873, and the deleterious results have come upon us so gradually that we have lost sight of the cause in the effect.

When the people realize that the demonetization of silver is the real cause of the hard times, they will demand, with their votes, the free coinage of silver on a basis of 16 to 1, and when that time comes, as come it must, then will the tide of depression turn and flow in the direction of prosperity.

I predict that the time has come—that in this year of 1896—bimetallism will become a law, the only drawback being that for the past twenty years the gold bugs have had control of the press and the press has made the masses believe that silver is worthless, and that nothing but gold is money.

I have too much faith in the intelligence of the masses to think that they will believe longer in the gold-bug theory, and if it does not come this year, then in 1900 will they proclaim their independence of thought and demand bimetallism, but failure this year means four more years of hard times and low wages.

When the people come to understand that there is not one-fourth enough gold in the world to supply them with money, then will they rise up in their might, overthrow the single gold standard and place silver where it belongs as the people's money.

The silver cause has been discussed for twenty-three long years. During this time we have had great panics and great strikes, tramps have overrun the country, and the Coxey army made march on Washington.

Silver has been championed and defended, not only in the United States, but in England, by the most eminent lawyers and statesmen, but up to the present time has been defeated in every trial.

We, the users of gold, as a minority of one-fourth of the people of the world, can never control the majority of three-fourths, who use silver, and the sooner we succumb to the inevitable the sooner will we become prosperous.

The people's money it has been from all time, and the people's money it should be for all time to come.

AWFUL RESULTS OF MUTINY.

Mutineers Murdering Their Officers Meet a Fearful Retribution.

The steamer Empress, of Japan, which has just arrived from the Orient brings news of a terrific explosion in which a large number of Chinese soldiers were killed by an explosion at Kiang Gin. Two regiments revolted, and at a signal from their leader they seized the guns of the forts and proceeded to kill off all of the officers and a new regiment of soldiers recently arrived. In the midst of the massacre a magazine exploded and all hands were blown to pieces. Two battalions must have been wiped out of existence, as not a soldier lived to tell if the magazine went off by accident or designedly. All within 100 yards of the magazine were killed by flying shells. The story of the mutiny is told by those who watched it from a distance.

Besides an immense quantity of shells, 16,000 pounds of powder was stored in the powder room. One company fighting near the building literally disappeared from the face of the earth, not a trace of any of them being found.

Captain Kao, who was sent in command of the battalions, found them shockingly demoralized and all sorts of crimes were being practiced in the garrison towns. His attempt at honset reform cost him his life. Several celebrated officers of the late war were killed.

Tug Burned—Crew Saved.

The tug Peter Dalton of the Independent Towing company burned Saturday morning off Rogers Point. The crew was rescued by the Welcome of the same company, which happened to be passing the Dalton when the fire broke out. The tug had a quantity of dynamite on board. The only hose on board was a small coil ¾ of an inch in size. This was inadequate, but the men did the best they could in trying to keep down the flames until they could get to a place of safety. Captain Tom Barry ordered the schooner Dowey to cut loose and preparations made for leaving the burning vessel. The Welcome drew up alongside of the Dalton, and the latter's crew was transferred together with the dynamite, and the Dalton was given up to the flames.

Homicide in Kansas.

Charles Branscombe, editor of the New Era, of Wellington, Ks., was killed, probably by accident, by Robert Simmons, editor of the Caldwell News. Simmons and A. A. Richards, editor of the Wellington Daily Mail, had been carrying on a bitter newspaper war They met by chance and both drew revolvers and commenced firing. At the fifth shot Branscombe, who was in company with Richards, was pierced by a bullet and fell.

METAL CHECKS INHIBITED.

Parties Using Them Too Lib rally Subject to Arrest.

The first of a series of arrests under the United States statutes relating to metal coins and tokens and coupons, were made by United States Marshal Hawkins, at Linton, Ind., last week. If they hold good it will effect all manufacturers, mine owners and merchants who are using metal checks or tokens or coupon books, as a matter of convenience or otherwise. It has been the policy of mine operators to issue to miners before pay day metal checks, and merchants also used these checks, which have been a money equivalent in all mining districts for years. Those arrested include Nathan Dixon, of the Summit Coal company, and Finney Strong, president of the Linton Supply company. Some of the tokens were confiscated. These two companies alone have nearly $40,000 in tokens and coupons in circulation.

Road Agents Thwarted.

A southbound express train on the Iron Mountain road narrowly escaped a holp-up at 11 o'clock last Wednesday night. Preceding the express was a construction train of three cars. When Gad's Hill, Mo., was reached the first train ran onto a siding and into an obstruction. On the steep bank overlooking the track were five mounted and armed men. The would-be robbers saw they had the wrong train and hurriedly rode off. The track was repaired and both trains proceeded unmolested. Gad's Hill is the scene of the memorable robbery by the James and Younger brothers in 1873.

Novel Plan for Swindling.

A swindle which evidently is new in Missouri is being worked with great success in many towns there. A woman book agent appears in town and goes from house to house leaving books for examination. Next day a man calls to see if the books are wanted, and if they are not he takes them away with him. Usually they are not wanted. A few days later the woman agent appears again, and on being told that the man has taken away the book weeps copiously, says the villain has been collecting her books all over town, pleads poverty and so on, and accepts the proffered compensation.

Bank Clerk Disappears.

James Sanford, clerk of the Bank of Commerce of Louisville, Ky., has disappeared, and his accounts with the bank are short $10,000. He had charge of the Louisville and Nashville railroad's account, and, with the help of an accomplice, got away with the cash.

THE SILVER QUESTION

INVASION OF THE UNITED STATES BY THE ASIATICS.

How They Exchange the Products of Their Labor for Our Gold, Which They in Turn Exchange for Silver to Hire Cheap Labor to Compete with Ours.

(By Joseph K. Clark, Butte, Montana.)

The question that seems most to bother the Americans in regard to the Chinese-Japanese situation, is whether our brothers of the Orient are our financial superiors or not, and, as they appear to have the best of the matter at present, to an unprejudiced observer, it would seem that as they know when they have a good thing and then make the best of it, they, at least, are the financial superiors of those antiquated minds that see nothing but financial disasters in bi-metallism.

If the recent treaty between those nations is carried out in the spirit as well as the letter, and to the adaptibility of the Chinese is added the ingenuity of the Japanese, their progress during the twentieth century would be wonderful indeed.

The Chinese, since the time of Confucius, seem to have done nothing but adhere to ancient customs; the Japanese, on the other hand, are a people of progress, and during recent years have made gigantic strides in all the arts and sciences and in commerce.

The first cotton spinning factory in Japan was established at Kagishima more than forty years ago, by Shemazu Harihisa, the greatest feudal prince of modern times.

For nearly twenty years this was the only factory of the kind in the country, but in 1867 the people began to wake up and since then so many other factories have been established that there are now 580,564 spindles in operation, which, taken with those now in process of construction, will make the total number of spindles nearly one million.

One of the articles in the Japanese-Chinese treaty that will be most important to the development of the Chinese, and important to the world of commerce reads as follows:

"Japanese subjects shall be free to engage in all kinds of manufacturing industries in all the open cities, towns and ports of China, and shall be at liberty to import into China all kinds of machinery, paying only the stipulated import duties thereon."

At first, with but a casual thought, it would seem that this article opens up before Americans visions of great prosperity; that soon the United States would soon wrest from England the supremacy in the oriental trade.

All this would happen and more, if advantage were taken of the treaty (for the Japanese look upon us as their best friends), and if we were not brought into direct labor competition with them.

While we may be slightly benefited for the time, as it is, still, they are rivals to be feared, not despised or looked down upon, and the treaty virtually makes China and Japan one nation, with a population of 500,000,000 people.

For labor they pay about 17 cents per day in gold to men and 11 cents to women.

They are the greatest imitators in the world, and as they have no patent laws by which foreigners may be protected, they seize upon every useful patent and with their cheap labor turn out products for a net cost that would make Americans open their eyes wide in astonishment.

A recent article in the "Inventive Age" has the following paragraph:

"One of the subjects for our statesmen in the near future will be: 'How best can we protect the American manufacturers and the American laborers from the imitative genius, piracy and cheap labor of Japan, not alone in cotton and cotton goods, but in the manufacture of everything the arts produce.'"

Thirty-five years ago the Japanese might have been classed as barbarians, and they were divided into many factions. They had a civil war and the victorious party proclaimed the present reigning sovereign "mikado of the Japanese empire." He was but seventeen years of age, but had been educated in the United States and had acquired many American ways and modes of thought.

Under his enlightened rule a great social revolution took place. Edicts were promulgated tolerating Christianity and permitting Buddhist priests to marry nuns.

It is claimed by some people that the marriage of this multitude of Buddhist priests accounts, in a great degree, for the intelligence the Japanese display to-day as a nation, for the priests were the educated men of the land.

In 1871 a board of education was formed and a year later a college with a staff of European professors was established and largely patronized.

As their chief intercourse was with the United States, England and France the study of the languages of those nations was insisted upon, and the adoption of all mechanical appliances that could promote the arts and sciences was encouraged.

At this time one railroad was in operation, with others in process of construction. Now their railway system compares favorably with those of the European powers.

In 1870 a national mint was established at Osaka, the machinery being imported from England. In this year they issued their first coin made in their own mints. Heretofore it had been coined in other countries, but used as national coin.

The Japanese came from a mongrel Tartar source, and their origin dates far back into antiquity. The national religion is Bhuddism, but sanction was given to the worship in the old faith, Sin Fin, or Faith in Gods..

The Chinese have historical legends that antedate the flood mentioned in the Bible, and have a history that reaches back farther than any other nation now in existence.

The wonders of the Empire caused the discovery of this continent, for Columbus had in his mind as much the discovery of a short route to Cathay, as he had the desire to prove the correctness of his theory that the world was round.

If it had not been for his vivid and glowing descriptions of the riches and marvels of this country, Isabella and Ferdinand probably never would have listened to his pleadings, and have supplied him with vessels, and men, and money to make the trial.

Later a famous traveler, Sir John De Mandeville, returned home with glowing accounts of the country, and with strange tales of the queer people inhabiting it.

Their first porcelain furnace was set up in the seventh century in the province of Kiangsi, but the celebrated furnaces of Kinti Chin were not established until almost two hundred years later.

They now have over five hundred porcelain furnaces in operation, which supply nearly the whole world in porcelain ware. In the matter of baking the porcelain, no other country has ever excelled them, one single piece passing through forty hands before it is deemed finished.

The date of the origin of the manufacture of silk in China is lost in the mists of remote antiquity. From the Chinese the Persians acquired the art; from the Persians the Greeks learned it, while it is not known whether the Romans had it from the Greeks or through some intercourse their sea captains had with the Chinese themselves.

They excel in the manufacture of damasks and flowered satins and in their simple hand looms can reproduce the most intricate of French and English patterns. China Crepe has never been imitated successfully.

In the tenth century they had invented printing machines and were proficient in the manufacture of the finest paper.

Their most elaborate works are the Imperial Canal and the Great Wall. The latter was built about 200 B. C. and extends west from Pekin along the entire northern frontier for a distance of over 1,500 miles, over rivers and across mountains and plains. It was from 15 to 30 feet in height, and 25 feet at the base, while the top was 15 feet in breadth, or wide enough for six men to ride horse back abreast.

The Imperial Canal is one of the greatest works of its kind in the world and flows from Pekin to Canton, a distance of 1,200 miles. This great work was constructed in the thirteenth century and runs through a most fertile country, where every variety of vegetable life may be grown on account of the diversified climate.

Thus, centuries before we became a nation, China had progressed in art and manufacture, and although they have been isolated to a great extent from the rest of the world, thereby being unable to profit by the developments of civilization, with the Japanese to teach and aid them, they will be able soon to make anything that can be manufactured in any other place in the world.

They produce the raw material in their own land and sell the manufactured article for gold in a gold standard country.

I have thus briefly outlined the present condition of China, simply to direct your attention to what we may expect in the near future, when the well paid labor of America will be brought into direct competition with the pauper labor of China and Japan.

There is only one logical conclusion to come to if our legislators do not take some active steps towards preventing such competition the wages of American labor will drop.

The gold bugs have always been victorious.

You ask, "Why?" "Because the masses do not understand the financial question?" This is true only in part. The main reason is that the gold bugs have bought both judge and jury. Is it any wonder that they are awarded the verdict?

Three-fourths of the people of the United States are in favor of free coinage on a basis of 16 to 1 and have cast their votes to that effect, electing on a silver platform men who, when elected, repudiated their promises and deceived the people, supporting gold bug theories regardless of the suffering and misery their actions brought upon the people who elected them.

The time has come when the masses must make the great effort of their lives to gain recognition. In the elections of 1896, the silver question will be the axis upon which all others revolve; so prepare to make the fight of your lives. Cast aside all party affiliations. If you cannot get an honest man nominated in your own party, vote for any honest man, regardless of party, but be sure that he is honest.

Remember that the gold-bugs are preparing for the greatest fight they have ever had; they realise their jeopardy and that the people have become determined to be heard and so are making strenuous efforts to provide against defeat.

This is not a political fight. It is a battle with the pluotcrats of London and their agents in the United States on one side and the people on the other. The people must win, for if they lose, the cause of the people—free silver—will be retarded for years.

Nominate, regardless of party, an honest man. One who will boldly and at all times support free silver, and after nominating, elect him, and the cause is won.

Beware of bankers! They are false prophets and nine-tenths of them are auxiliaries of the gold bugs in London. They are gold bugs themselves for purely mercenary reasons. With gold mono-metallism they can retain their high rates of interest.

What does it matter to them that you lose your farm or your home; that the laborers on railways, in fields or in factories, have to work for a few cents a day to compete with the cheap labor of China and Japan—they get their interest just the same.

Every one that can read should study the financial question and prepare himself to cast his vote for an honest, true man, who will at all times and in all places work for the good of the country and the good of the people.

What little gold there is is controlled by, comparatively, a very few men, or locked up in vaults by the hundreds of millions.

Silver has been championed and defended, not only in the United States, but in England, by the most eminent lawyers and statesmen, but up to the present time has been defeated in every trial.

We, the users of gold, as a minority of one-fourth of the people of the world, can never control the majority of three-fourths, who use silver, and the sooner we succumb to the inevitable the sooner will we become prosperous.

The people's money it has been from all time, and the people's money it should be for all time to come.

Congress appears determined to divert the minds of the people—even if it has to run a bluff on every nation of the globe.

If the "Judas from Kentucky" is the Democratic nominee for president there is a bushel of fun ahead.

The Silver Knight says the Populists ought to make their own platform and make it to suit themselves.

AWFUL RESULTS OF MUTINY.

Mutineers Murdering Their Officers Meet a Fearful Retribution.

The steamer Empress, of Japan, which has just arrived from the Orient brings news of a terrific explosion in which a large number of Chinese soldiers were killed by an explosion at Kiang Gin. Two regiments revolted, and at a signal from their leader they seized the guns of the forts and proceeded to kill off all of the officers and a new regiment of soldiers recently arrived. In the midst of the massacre a magazine exploded and all hands were blown to pieces. Two battalions must have been wiped out of existence, as not a soldier lived to tell if the magazine went off by accident or designedly. All within 100 yards of the magazine were killed by flying shells. The story of the mutiny is told by those who watched it from a distance.

Besides an immense quantity of shells, 16,000 pounds of powder was stored in the powder room. One company fighting near the building literally disappeared from the face of the earth, not a trace of any of them being found.

Captain Kao, who was sent in command of the battalions, found them shockingly demoralized and all sorts of crimes were being practiced in the garrison towns. His attempt at honset reform cost him his life. Several celebrated officers of the late war were killed.

Tug Burned—Crew Saved.

The tug Peter Dalton of the Independent Towing company burned Saturday morning off Rogers Point. The crew was rescued by the Welcome of the same company, which happened to be passing the Dalton when the fire broke out. The tug had a quantity of dynamite on board. The only hose on board was a small coil ¾ of an inch in size. This was inadequate, but the men did the best they could in trying to keep down the flames until they could get to a place of safety. Captain Tom Barry ordered the schooner Dowey to cut loose and preparations made for leaving the burning vessel. The Welcome drew up alongside of the Dalton, and the latter's crew was transferred together with the dynamite, and the Dalton was given up to the flames.

Homicide in Kansas.

Charles Branscombe, editor of the New Era, of Wellington, Ks., was killed, probably by accident, by Robert Simmons, editor of the Caldwell News. Simmons and A. A. Richards, editor of the Wellington Daily Mail, had been carrying on a bitter newspaper war. They met by chance and both drew revolvers and commenced firing. At the fifth shot Branscombe, who was in company with Richards, was pierced by a bullet and fell.

METAL CHECKS INHIBITED.

Parties Using Them Too Liberally Subject to Arrest.

The first of a series of arrests under the United States statutes relating to metal coins and tokens and coupons, were made by United States Marshal Hawkins, at Linton, Ind., last week. If they hold good it will effect all manufacturers, mine owners and merchants who are using metal checks or tokens or coupon books, as a matter of convenience or otherwise. It has been the policy of mine operators to issue to miners before pay day metal checks, and merchants also used these checks, which have been a money equivalent in all mining districts for years. Those arrested include Nathan Dixon, of the Summit Coal company, and Finney Strong, president of the Linton Supply company. Some of the tokens were confiscated. These two companies alone have nearly $40,000 in tokens and coupons in circulation.

Road Agents Thwarted.

A southbound express train on the Iron Mountain road narrowly escaped a hold-up at 11 o'clock last Wednesday night. Preceding the express was a construction train of three cars. When Gad's Hill, Mo., was reached the first train ran on to a siding and into an obstruction. On the steep bank overlooking the track were five mounted and armed men. The would-be robbers saw they had the wrong train and hurriedly rode off. The track was repaired and both trains proceeded unmolested. Gad's Hill is the scene of the memorable robbery by the James and Younger brothers in 1873.

Novel Plan for Swindling.

A swindle which evidently is new in Missouri is being worked with great success in many towns there. A woman book agent appears in town and goes from house to house leaving books for examination. Next day a man calls to see if the books are wanted, and if they are not he takes them away with him. Usually they are not wanted. A few days later the woman agent appears again, and on being told that the man has taken away the book weeps copiously, says the villain has been collecting her books all over town, pleads poverty and so on, and accepts the proffered compensation.

Bank Clerk Disappears.

James Sanford, clerk of the Bank of Commerce of Louisville, Ky., has disappeared, and his accounts with the bank are short $10,000. He had charge of the Louisville and Nashville railroad's account, and, with the help of an accomplice, got away with the cash.

Registration begins on Monday, [illegible].

Of course you are going to register, but see to it that your friends and neighbors also register.

Our second primary will be held on Tuesday, May 5—two weeks from next Tuesday.

Organized Democrats held their county convention yesterday at Clanton and will send a solid delegation for Joseph F. Johnston.

Senator Butler last week introduced a bill at Washington providing for the establishment of a postal telegraph system by the government.

The County Executive Committee will meet on Saturday and officially declare the result of Tuesday's primary. We propose next week to give all the details of the election.

"Call us no longer the organized democracy," wailed a Democrat at their convention yesterday, "but rather let us be known as the demoralized democracy." And he correctly expressed it.

Next Saturday the county convention meets at Clanton to elect delegates to the State convention at Montgomery on the 28th. In view of the uncertainty as to what course the State convention may take it would be best to send the delegation uninstructed.

The wheat crop in Australia is reported to be short and the probabilities are they will have to import wheat to make good their own shortage instead of being able to export any. In South America the crop is also short. The chances are that wheat growers in the United States will have a better market for this year's crop and will realize much better prices.

By one means and another Joseph F. Johnston has secured a majority of the delegates to the State Democratic convention to be held at Montgomery next Wednesday, and evidently will be the nominee of the party. It is immaterial to us how he has obtained the nomination—we now know whom we have to fight in August and all that concerns us is to see we have the right man at the head of our own ticket and then work unremittingly to elect him by the largest majority ever known in the State.

The many friends of Mr. Reuben C. Duke will be pained to learn of his death by Bright's disease which occured last Monday at the home of his father at Ashford, Ala. The remains were brought to Clanton on Monday night and interred in the cemetery Tuesday evening. Rev. J. G. Lowery conducted the funeral services in the Baptist church, and a large number of friends headed by the Masonic fraternity attended him to his final earthly resting place.

THE PRIMARY.

The first primary has passed over quietly and comfortably. Up to the time of going to press we have not been able to obtain the returns from all the boxes. So far as we have been enabled to get the information it would appear that for the sheriff's office Cooley is ahead with Hayes and Killgore pretty well matched for second place. For the assessor's office Mims and Pounds seem to be well in the lead, with Posey running close behind the second man. The race for the office of tax collector has been one of the hardest for the prophets, but it appears from present figures that Logan is a long way ahead and that Pink Moore and Hubbard are close together for second place with Ben Wells not a great way behind. Duke for treasurer and J. W. Moore for superintendent of education have met with no opposition and consequently have a walk over. The greatest surprise of the day was at the last moment the introduction of B. W. Rollins in opposition to Reynolds and Crichton for representative. The figures we have at this time show Reynolds leading and Rollins close after him. This result was unquestionably obtained by nearly all those opposed to Reynolds throwing their votes to Rollins while Reynolds friends stood manfully by him. The commissioners by districts seem to be as follows: First district, Riggins; Second district, Glasscock; Third district, Smitherman; Fourth district, Robinson.

The case of the office seeking the man has been well illustrated by the lack of votes for the two delegates to the county convention. No one knew whom to vote for—no names having been mentioned in this connection—and the consequence was very few votes were cast. The office seeking the man is a beautiful theory, but it is essential in order to get a fair expression of the opinion of the people they should know beforehand whom it is they are asked to support.

O.

Jemison.

At a meeting of the Citizens of Jemison, Ala., held at the Academy Monday night, the 30th of March, the following resolutions were made and unanimously adopted.

Whereas: The frequent occurrences of drunken carousals, of loud profane and boisterous talk, having lately been witnessed and heard in the town of Jemison, and

Whereas: Believing that such occurrences are caused by the sale of intoxicating drinks in the town of Jemison, and

Whereas: Knowing that such acts are against the Laws of the State of Alabama, and that the influence of such unlawful and illegal proceedings are detrimental to the good Citizenship, the high moral standing and the Christian Spirit of Jemison, be it

Resolved 1st: That we, as the Citizens of Jemison, condemn all such unlawful, illegal and immoral acts, and

2nd: That we do in mass assembly pledge ourselves to have the Laws upheld, and

3rd: That any person or persons found guilty of selling, causing to be sold, of being so intoxicated as to use profane and boisterous language on the streets or in the town of Jemison, or any public drunkenness against the Laws of our State, will be by us reported to the Grand Jury of Chilton county, pledging ourselves that we will banish from our midst, by taking legal steps against any person or persons guilty of such, regardless of race, color or previous condition.

(Signed) Citizens of Jemison, Ala.

Condensed Testimony.

Chas. B. Hood, Broker and Manufacturer's Agent, Columbus, Ohio, certifies that Dr. King's New Discovery has no equal as a Cough remedy. J. D. Brown, Prop. St. James Hotel, Ft. Wayne, Ind., testifies that he was cured of a Cough of two years standing, caused by La Grippe, by Dr. King's New Discovery. B. F. Merrill, Baldwinsville, Mass., says that he has used and recommended it and never knew it to fail and would rather have it than any doctor, because it always cures. Mrs. Hemming, 222 F. 25th St., Chicago, always keeps it at hand and has no fear of Croup, because it instantly relieves. Free Trial Bottles at J. S Johnson, Jr. Drug Store.

POPULIST DELEGATES.

Reduced Fare Arrangements.

Through the courtesy of the Southern States Passenger Association, persons attending the People's Party State Convention, to be held at Montgomery, Ala, commencing Tuesday, April 28th, will be granted a reduction in their railroad fare only under the following conditions:

First—Each person must purchase a first-class ticket (either unlimited or limited) through to the place of meeting, for which he will pay the regular tariff fare, and upon request the ticket agent will issue to him a certificate of such purchase.

Second—If a through ticket cannot be procured at the starting point the person will purchase to the most convenient point where such through ticket can be obtained, and there repurchase through to the place of meeting, requesting a certificate properly filled out by the agent at the point where the purchase is made.

Third—Persons coming from points at which through tickets to Montgomery cannot be procured, should be instructed to purchase tickets to Birmingham, Selma, Opelika or Lanett, (as may be most convenient) and there re-purchase to Montgomery, taking certificates from both agents from whom tickets are secured. The certificates obtained from the agent at any of the points named above will be honored at Montgomery for the reduced rate returning to the point at which it was secured, and the other will be honored for the reduced rate returning thence to the starting point, if presented on or before May 4, 1896.

Fourth—Tickets for the return journey will be sold by the ticket agents at the place of meeting, at one-third the first-class limited fare, only to those holding certificates, signed by the ticket agent at the point where the through ticket to the place of meeting was purchased and countersigned by the secretary or clerk of the convention, and vised by an agent of the association, certifying that the holder has been in attendance upon the convention.

Fifth—It is absolutely necessary that a certificate be procured, as it indicates that the full fare has been paid for the going journey, and that the person is, therefore, entitle to the excursion rate returning. It will also determine the route via which the ticket for return journey should be sold, and without it no reduction will be made.

Sixth—Tickets for the return journey will be available for continuous passage only; no stop over privileges being allowed on tickets sold at less than full fares. Certificates will not be honored unless presented within THREE DAYS after the date of adjournment of the convention.

Seventh—Ticket agents will be instructed that excursion fares will not be available unless the holders of certificates are properly identified, as above described, by the secretary or clerk on the certificates, (such certificates to be vised by the agent of the association), which identification includes the statement that fifty or more persons who have purchased full fare tickets for the going passage and hold properly receipted certificates have been in attendance at the meeting.

The certificates are not transferable, and the signature affixed at the starting point compared with the signature to the receipt will enable the ticket agent to detect any attempted transfer.

N. B. Please read carefully the above instructions, be particular to have the certificates properly filled and certified by the railroad agent from whom you purchase your going ticket to the place of meeting, as the reduction on return will apply only to the point at which such through ticket was purchased.

Yours truly,
R. F. Kolb.

Turn-Round Topics.

Spring, beautiful spring has come at last. Yes, winter has shaken off her icy fetters and put on a new robe of spring. Flowers are in bloom; trees of all kinds are putting forth their buds; the birds are singing the songs of springtime, the bumble-bee and the honey-bee are busy sipping the nectar from the flowers, and in short everything is most lovely and beautiful.

The farmers here are all about done planting their up-land corn, the low damp bottom land will not be planted before about the first of May. Some of the farmers have commenced to plant cotton, though for the want of rain they are somewhat backward. Unbroken land is getting so hard that it can hardly be plowed, and what can be plowed? clods up, which is injurious to the land.

HEART DISEASE, like many other ailments when they have taken hold of the system, never gets better of its own accord, but Constantly grows worse. There are thousands who know they have a defective heart, but will not admit the fact. They don't want their friends to worry, and Don't know what to take for it, as they have been told time and again that heart disease was incurable. Such was the case of Mr. Silas Farley of Dyesville, Ohio who writes June 19, 1894, as follows:

"I had heart disease for 23 years, my heart hurting me almost continually. The first 15 years I doctored all the time, trying several physicians and remedies, until my last doctor told me it was only a question of time as I could not be cured. I gradually grew worse, very weak, and completely discouraged, until I lived, propped half up in bed, because I couldn't lie down nor sit up. Thinking my time had come I told my family what I wanted done when I was gone. But on the first day of March on the recommendation of Mrs. Fannie Jones, of Anderson, Ind., I commenced taking Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart and wonderful to tell, in ten days I was working at light work and on March 19 commenced framing a barn, which is heavy work, and I hav'nt lost a day since. I am 56 years old, 6 ft. 4½ inches and weigh 250lbs. I believe I am fully cured, and I am now only anxious that everyone shall know of your wonderful remedies."

Dyesville, Ohio. SILAS FARLEY.

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5 or it will be sent, prepaid on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Editor BANNER: I beg space in your columns to reply to Young Mike, he spoke of a candidate and recommended him for an office I don't think a man could be higher recommended than to say he was a christian, that is a recommendation that neither of the old parties want. Yet it is the most important qualification that a man needs to fill any office, for a man that is a christian will do nothing wrong. So give us christians as rulers then we will have peace in the land.

$1.00 FOR YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.

Write us a letter covering these three points:

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

HEART DISEASE, like many other ailments when they have taken hold of the system, never gets better of its own accord, but Constantly grows worse. There are thousands who know they have a defective heart, but will not admit the fact. They don't want their friends to worry, and Don't know what to take for it, as they have been told time and again that heart disease was incurable. Such was the case of Mr. Silas Farley of Dyesville, Ohio who writes June 19, 1894, as follows:

"I had heart disease for 23 years, my heart hurting me almost continually. The first 15 years I doctored all the time, trying several physicians and remedies, until my last doctor told me it was only a question of time as I could not be cured. I gradually grew worse, very weak, and completely discouraged, until I lived, propped half up in bed, because I couldn't lie down nor sit up. Thinking my time had come I told my family what I wanted done when I was gone. But on the first day of March on the recommendation of Mrs. Fannie Jones, of Anderson, Ind., I commenced taking Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart and wonderful to tell, in ten days I was working at light work and on March 19 commenced framing a barn, which is heavy work, and I hav'nt lost a day since. I am 56 years old, 5 ft. 4½ inches and weigh 250lbs. I believe I am fully cured, and I am now only anxious that everyone shall know of your wonderful remedies."

Dyesville, Ohio. SILAS FARLEY.

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1. 6 bottles for $5 or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Editor BANNER: I beg space in your columns to reply to Young Mike, he spoke of a candidate and recommended him for an office I don't think a man could be higher recommended than to say he was a christian, that is a recommendation that neither of the old parties want. Yet it is the most important qualification that a man needs to fill any office, for a man that is a christian will do nothing wrong. So give us christians as rulers then we will have peace in the land.

$1.00 FOR YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.

Write us a letter covering these three points:

FIRST.—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

SECOND.—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

THIRD.—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, net, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents, if consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain; Zeilin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 300 or 400 per cent., instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you be sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.

On receipt of your letter enclosing photograph, we will mail you free of charge, a $1.00 package Liver Medicine, or on receipt of letter without photograph, we will mail you a 25 cent package, free.

Sir Benjamin Ward Richardson still gives it as his fixed opinion that every man and every woman should attain the age of 100. According to Sir Benjamin, the would-be centenarian must have a blonde complexion, with hazel eyes, light brown hair and reddish cheeks. He must never smoke nor drink, must eat very little meat and he must not work by artificial light.—London Globe.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

With local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surface. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surface. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

DROWNED IN THE TENNESSEE.

Suicide at Athens—The A. G. S. Railroad Improving Its Road Bed and Putting in Steel Bridges—Three Negro Tramps from Georgia Arrested With Sixteen Watches.

His Leg Amputated.

Samson Allison, whose foot was crushed in Forest Thursday by an L. and N. train, was compelled to have his leg amputated to save his life.

Convicted and Sentenced to Hang.

The trial at Athens of George and Charles Seawell for the murder of Upshaw Smith ended Saturday in a verdict of guilty and they were sentenced to be hanged.

Death From a Blow on the Head.

Jesse Norris, a young lad of 18, of Butler county, died Friday night from the effects of a blow received on the head by a piece of scantling in the hands of an ex-convict—Jim Allbritton.

A Farmer Stabs Himself.

James Henderson, a Limestone county farmer, committed suicide at Athens while attending circuit court there last week by stabbing himself with a knife. No cause for the deed is thus far assignable.

Man and Horse Drowned.

J. W. Lynch, while attempting to cross a swollen stream near Decatur one day last week, was drowned. One of his horses was drowned also and the other was with much difficulty rescued.

B. Y. P. U. Convention.

The annual convention of the Baptist Young People's Union was held in Anniston last week. The session was well attended and of an interesting character. Dr. P. H. Mell of Auburn, presided, with Wm. A. Davis, of Anniston, as secretary.

Negro Who Killed Jim Espy.

Hill Williams, the negro who killed Mr. Jim Espy near Gordon, which occurred on the 3d instant, was committed to jail at Abbeville, Friday. It is said to have been a very brutal murder, and it was feared Williams would be lynched, but this was averted.

W. R. Daughtry Discharged.

W. R. Daughtry, of the firm of Thomas Butler & Co., who was arrested on two warrants charging him with embezzling the firm's money, was tried at Opelika Saturday before the county court judge, and dismissed on account of a technical error in the warrants. Butler is still in jail, and all of the immense stock of musical goods has been divided out among creditors.

Taking Other People's Letters.

Pearl Congers, a colored girl 14 or 15 years of age, was arrested a few days ago for taking other people's mail from the Tuskegee postoffice. For some time she has been calling for mail belonging to one or two white persons and would carry it home. She was finally caught and carried to Montgomery, and, failing to make a $100 bond, was put in jail.

The Sixteen Watches Claimed.

The sixteen watches taken by the local police from the three negro highwaymen wanted in Rome and arrested in Anniston Wednesday morning, belong in Chattanooga, where they were stolen from a fruit stand last week. The three negroes, who knocked down and robbed a white man near Rome Tuesday night, were convicted in that city on preliminary trial.

Dothan Looking Up.

A board of trade was organized at Dothan last week by some of the most influential business men. Joseph Baker was elected president, Dr. J. R. G. Howell, vice-president, Ed Nix secretary, and W. T. Nicholson treasurer. This movement means a great deal for the town and section. The board proposes means looking to immigration and cotton factories, and many other important enterprises is to be pushed.

Church and Barn Burned.

The barn of Rev. M. N. Morrison, of Trinity, Ala., was discovered to be on fire about 12 o'clock Sunday. The flames spread rapidly and were soon communicated to the M. E. church, south, building, and others in the neighborhood, resulting in the destruction of the church, the barn and damage to other property, including the Masonic lodge room, to the amount of $3,000.

Executive Committee, B. Y. P. U.

Before the Baptist Young People's Union convention at Anniston adjourned Friday afternoon the following executive committee was elected: B. D. Gray and Charles F. Wheelock of Birmingham, T. F. West of Pratt City, W. D. Gray and L. R. Dix of Montgomery. E. P. Hogan of Birmingham was elected secretary and treasurer. Talladega was selected as the place in which the convention should be held next year. The date will be settled upon later by the executive committee.

Sixteen to One.

Henry Thompson, Charley Williams and William Henry, three negro tramps, charged with knocking down and robbing a white man at Atlanta Junction, just this side of Rome, Thursday night, were arrested on a southbound Southern freight train early Friday morning and locked up at Jacksonville. On being searched Thompson was found to have in his pockets sixteen new gold watches. He told several conflicting stories as to where he got them. The negroes will be held until a Georgia officer comes for them.

Between Mobile and Guatemala.

Mobile merchants and merchants at Puerto Barrios, Guatemala, have joined the forces and have sent the Managua down on the Belize line touching at Guatemalan ports. They will run a weekly by steamer, and it is said that there is considerable opposition Machees Brothers who have the Guatemalan subsidy, and it is expected that this opposition may result in Mobile securing the subsidy.

Valuable Trotter Ruined.

Fantasy, the greatest trotter in the Hamlin string, with a record of 2:06, and a fair showing of breaking the world's record the coming season, met with perhaps a fatal accident while jogging along the road near the Driving park at Selma Friday morning. A negro was driving the mare and as she turned the corner near Moore's dairy a white goat ran out into the road, causing the spirited animal to jump to one side; the wheels of the cart ran up the street car track. The cart was overthrown, the driver thrown out and the frightened mare made a break. The end of the shaft stuck in the flesh under the shoulder. She ran and kicked and before she was stopped the shaft had made three ugly wounds from 3 to 4 inches deep.

A. G. S. Improvements.

The road bed of the Alabama Great Southern railway between Chattanooga and Birmingham is being given a general overhauling. A considerable amount of the track is being reballasted, this outside of the general repair of the track bed.

All of the wood bridges on the line are to be torn away in the near future, steel ones being placed in their stead. This improvement will cost the road several thousand dollars, there being quite a number of bridges between Chattanooga and the southern terminus at Meridian. A force of men, outside of the regular bridge crews, has been employed to place the new steel bridges.

Bridge No. 13, below Fort Payne, has been rebuilt, the old wooden bridge having been removed and the metal one put in its place. The work of placing a steel bridge in the place of No. 14, between Rising Fawn and Sulphur Springs, has been commenced. The work of placing the new bridges, after all necessary arrangements are perfected, is easy, requiring about an hour's time, and delaying no trains any length of time.

Hanged by a Mob of Masked Men.

Between midnight and daylight Sunday morning a mob of masked men went to the county jail at Scale, took Reddyck Adams, colored, therefrom and murdered him. The mob did its work very quietly, no one being disturbed but the jailor, who was very badly frightened. Some person representing himself as a deputy sheriff from Beat 4 knocked at the jailor's door, telling him he had a prisoner to put in jail. The jailor at once proceeded to the jail and unlocked it, being entirely unsuspicious, when he was surrounded by a posse of perhaps thirty armed and masked men. Resistance on the part of the jailor was useless. Reddyck was taken out hurriedly and carried to a little clump of woods about 200 yards east of the jail, where he was securely tied, one end of a plow line placed around his neck, the other thrown over a limb, and he was drawn up about 3 feet from the ground. The rope was tied to a post of the fence of the city cemetery and Reddyck was left dangling in the air, where he was found about 6 o'clock. Reddyck Adams deserved to be hung, but the law should have done the job. He is the man who waylaid and so foully shot Mr. R. T. Renfroe last November, and after shooting him robbed his person, burglarized his store and set fire to his dwelling. He had been on trial in the circuit court here last week, and the jury had been out on his case from 5:20 Wednesday until 3 p. m. Saturday, when they were discharged after having made a mistrial. A coroner's jury was empanelled to investigate the mobbing of Adams, and after examining a number of witnesses adjourned.

AMERICANS GET OUT OF SPAIN.

Spanish War Fleet Being Put on a War Footing and Waiting Orders.

A dispatch from Madrid says: Affairs look so serious again that American tourists are hurrying away. Space on the Sud express, which leaves for Paris tomorrow afternoon, has already been taken.

The passage of the belligerency resolutions has caused excited talk. A guard is still maintained at the American legation, but it has not been increased. The feeling is prevalent that the crisis is near and that the trouble may break out at any moment.

The captain-general of Ferrol reports that the fleet which is being organized there is already to go to sea. The ships composing it are the ironclads Pelayo, Infanta, Maria, Terressa, Vizcaya and Oquendo, the torpedo destroyer Destructor and various torpedo boats. They will for the present be supplied with the necessary war material and will probably leave for the river Arosa on Friday week to go through a course of instruction until the government decides on the ultimate destination. The last three named ironclads are really second-class cruisers.

At the End of the Voyage.

During a squall on the bay of San Francisco Thursday morning the British ship Blairmore was capsized and six of her crew drowned. Nine others of the crew were rescued by boats that were in the vicinity. The captain, John Crow, swam to the small boat lying astern and pulled himself to the landing. The Blairmore arrived from Newcastle, N. S. W., with a cargo of coal, about a week ago, making the voyage in fifty-six days, the fastest on record. The Blairmore was anchored about a half mile off the Union Iron works in seven fathoms of water. Though the weather was squally all the morning, the ship held fast, and Captain Crow had apparently no reason for fear. At 7 o'clock, however, the wind suddenly sprang up from the southeast with increasing violence. The tide was then at its flood, and, taking the ship on the starboard bilge, keeled her over considerably. The captain thought the wind had about exhausted itself, but suddenly a wild squall rushed up and, catching the vessel under the port bow, lifted her completely out of the water. For a moment she seemed held in the air. She dropped over on her side, and shortly after sank out of sight.

Serious Results of a Storm.

A wind storm with the violence of a cyclone visited the vicinity of Red Cloud, Neb., Saturday evening. On the farm of Andrew Hawley, a barn was blown over, burying Hawley and his little girl, crushing the child's shoulder and leg; she may die. The father was seriously injured. Damage to property is thought to be large, but details are meagre.

LIVE WASHINGTON NOTES.

The Cuban Resolutions on the President's Desk, and May Rest There.

NAVAL APPROPRIATION BILL.

The Plague in China—Minister Terrell in Washington—Acts of Congress Approved—Appropriations for Coast Fortification—Bankruptcy Bill to be Reported.

Arizona's Governor Confirmed.

The senate in executive session Thursday confirmed the nomination of Benjamin J. Franklin, of Phoenix, Ariz., to be governor of Arizona, vice L. C. Hughes, removed.

Grade of Lieutenant-General.

The bill to revive the grade of lieutenant-general for the purpose of conferring it upon Major-General Miles has been reported to the house. The report compliments the career and service of General Miles.

Bermuda Ship Channel.

United States Consul Hanger, at Bermuda, reports to the state department that the work of improving the ship channel there has been completed, and vessels drawing 20 feet of water may now come in at low tide directly to the wharves at Hamilton.

Two Acts of Congress Approved.

The president has approved the act exempting logging trains from the operation of the act requiring the equipment of trains with safety brakes and couplers; also the joint resolution authorizing Benjamin Harrison to accept medals from Spain and Brazil.

Bill Favoring Widowed Pensioners.

Senator Allen has introduced a bill providing for the restoration of the names of widows of soldiers to the pension rolls after the death of the second husbands, who by reason of a second marriage have been dropped from the pension rolls.

Bill to Protect Military Parks.

Several bills were on Wednesday considered by the committee on military affairs of the house and ordered to be favorably reproted. The military telegraph operators bill which recently passed the senate and a bill providing penalties for trespassers on the Chickamauga and Chattanooga Military park, broadened to apply to all national military parks, were reported.

New Mexico and Arizona.

The house committee on territories voted to report favorably the New Mexico statehood bill to the house and also decided to defer action on the Arizona bill. So evenly divided was the committee that the fate of the bill rested on a single vote. This vote decided to place the question of New Mexico's admission before the house for settlement, and also sidetracked for the time the decision of Arizona's fate.

Pushing Prosecution of Witnesses.

It is the intention of the government to push as rapidly as possible the prosecution of the remaining witnesses indicted for contumacy in refusing to answer questions of the senate sugar trust investigation committee, of almost two years ago. Elverton R. Chapman, the New York broker, whose conviction by the district supreme court was confirmed by the district court of appeals, will come over from New York to surrender himself Monday.

A Bankruptcy Bill.

The house committee on the judiciary has completed its work on the bankruptcy bill and decided to report the bill to the house this week. The measure is based upon the old Torcy bill, which has been in congress for several years. Under the bill as framed, involuntary bankruptcy can be forced only for fradulent or wrongful acts, or when the debtor being insolvent suspends payment for thirty days. Safeguards are provided to prevent the dissipation of estates by the expenses of bankruptcy.

The Fortifications Bill.

The members of the committee of the house appropriations committee who have been working on the fortification bill have been disposed to provide liberally for public works. Friday Chairman Hainer, of the subcommittee, reported the bill to the full committee and it may pass the house this week. The bill will provide for extensive works and will authorize expenditures of from $7,000,000 to $8,000,000. Under its provisions the government will be able to begin the extensive works contemplated by Senator Squire's bill and to carry them on for the first year. In the main, the recommendations of the war department will be carried out and the manufacture of carriages and parts of guns will be continued so that the guns can be put into use as soon as they have been made. The cash appropriations of the bill will be sufficient for carrying on the work to March next.

Minister Terrell Returned.

Mr. Alexander W. Terrell, United States minister to Turkey, who arrived in New York from abroad Sunday, reached Washington at night and made an early call Monday morning on Secretary Olney, with whom he was closeted for some time. Mr. Terrell declined to talk for publication about the Turkish situation beyond repeating the remark he made on landing in New York, that there had been no outbreaks for two months and that everything in the perturbed sections was apparently quiet. He added that despite the attacks made on his administration as minister, he knew to his gratification that he was sustained by the president and the state department. Mr. Terrell could give no information as to the length of his stay in America nor whether he would visit his home in Texas. There is reason to believe that Mr. Terrell will remain in Washington for some time, going over with the president and Secretary Olney all the matters affecting the relations of Turkey and United States and giving them the benefit of his knowledge and observation.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Summary of the Week's Proceedings in Both Houses.

NINETY-SIXTH DAY.

Several bills of minor importance were passed by the house, among them being the following: For the relief of settlers within the indemnity of the New Orleans Pacific railroad; to authorize the secretary of the treasury to reconvey to the former owners certain lands in Valveade county, Texas. A bill granting a pension of $100 a month to Gen. John M. Thayer was passed. Mr. Leonard, republican, of Pennsylvania, presented the report of the committee on elections in the case of W. C. Robertson vs. George B. Harrison, recommending the adoption of a resolution declaring Mr. Harrison to be entitled to his seat. The resolution was agreed to without debate. After about an hour devoted to miscellaneous business the Cuban question was taken up and debated until the hour of adjournment. Having reached an agreement to vote on Monday the house, at 10 p. m., adjourned.

NINETY-SEVENTH DAY.

The senate met, talked and adjourned, with an agreement to vote at 5 p. m. tomorrow on the postoffice appropriation bill.... In the house Mr. Wadsworth, of New York, chairman of the committee on agriculture, read a letter from Secretary Morton stating that, in obedience to the unanimous sentiment of the house, he had arranged to put up garden seeds in packages of five each instead of fifteen, as at first arranged, making 2,025,000 packets instead of 625,000 for the use of the members of congress. The change required an additional expense of $5,000. The report of the conference committee, recommending the adoption of the senate Cuban resolutions, was agreed to; yeas 245, nays 27. The river and harbor bill was passed by a vote of 216 to 40, and the house adjourned until tomorrow.

NINETY-EIGHTH DAY.

After the introduction of several resolutions the senate resumed consideration of the postoffice appropriation bill. An amendment by Mr. Wolcott, republican, of Colorado, that whenever one postoffice is consolidated with another so as to make it a station or substation, as provided in the bill, the salary of the superintendent or clerk may be paid out of the appropriation for clerks, was voted down by 48 to 7. Mr. Pasco offered an amendment that nothing in the bill should authorize the establishment or maintenance of any station, sub-station or branch postoffice beyond the limits of any city or town. This was adopted—yeas 30, nays 25. The committee amendment appropriating $80,000 as additional compensation to the Oceanic Steamship company for ocean mail service from San Francisco to New Zealand and New South Wales was agreed to—yeas 32, nays 21. And the item of $196,614 for necessary and special mail facilities on trunk lines from Boston to Atlanta and New Orleans by way of New York and Washington was retained in the bill, Mr. Vilas' motion to strike it out having been voted down—yeas 13, nays 39. An amendment requiring the expenditure of $50,000 for experiments in rural free delivery was offered by Mr. Butler, populist, of North Carolina, and was agreed to—yeas 27, nays 25. The bill was then passed and the senate at 5:35 adjourned until tomorrow.... The session of the house today was devoted to consideration of a bill for the establishment of a public library in Washington, and a bill to adopt the metric system of weights and measures. Pending a call for the yeas and nays on the latter the house adjourned.

NINETY-NINETH DAY.

The senate passed the bill granting a pension of $50 a month to the widow of Major General C. H. Hamilton; a bill authorizing a bridge across the Chattahoochee river at Columbus, Ga., and a bill for the improvement of roads at Gettysburg National park. After an executive session the Indian appropriation bill was taken up and at 5 o'clock it was laid aside and the senate adjourned.... In the house the bill to adopt the metric system of weights and measures, after having passed by a majority of two, was reconsidered and referred back to the committee. The bill to repeal the compulsory pilotage law so far as it relates to sailing vessels in the coastwise trade was called up, discussed and laid aside with the understanding that a vote on it will be taken tomorrow. The conference report on the agricultural bill was adopted and the house adjourned.

ONE-HUNDREDTH DAY.

The Indian appropriation bill was considered in the senate and after making some progress was laid aside. The remainder of the time was taken up in speeches and routine business, until the last hour, when seventy-five private pension bills were taken from the calendar and passed, and the senate adjourned.... In the house the bill to repeal the compulsory pilotage law was defeated. The District of Columbia appropriation bill was passed. Several other matters were before the house upon which no final action was taken. At 5:05 the house adjourned.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIRST DAY.

The day's session of the senate was devoted chiefly to considering the Indian appropriation bill. A bill granting aid to an international exposition at Omaha was passed, and the senate adjourned.... In the house the debate on the bill to provide a tax on domestic and imported filled cheese was continued. A number of local and private bills were passed—an evening session was held to consider private pension bills, of which three were passed. Adjourned.

Ohio Adopts Electrocution.

By the action of the house Thursday, in passing the Jones senate bill, Ohio adopts the electric method of execution. It does not go into effect until July 1, and continues the gallows method of execution for all persons upon whom the sentence of death has already been pronounced. Four condemned men now in the annex of the state prison will therefore be hung. Charles Morris, who has been found guilty of murder in the first degree at Washington Court House and is awaiting sentence, will probably be the first victim of the electric chair in the state.

Strife Between Fellow Craftsmen.

Governor McGraw, of Washington, on Wednesday evening called out the militia on account of the trouble between the Washington and Oregon fishermen along the Columbia river near Ilwaco, on the Pacific coast, and forty picked men left Seattle for the seat of trouble Thursday afternoon. Their instructions are to aid the civil authorities of the Pacific country. It is feared the action of the governor will foment strife, and further trouble is feared.

Last Year's Poor Mackerel Catch.

Last year's mackerel catch was almost a failure, and few of the many vessels engaged in the fishery paid expenses. Bad weather and fog prevented a good catch in the early part of the season and the fish were not at all plentiful. Later in the season the weather was good, and large bodies of mackerel were seen at different points along the Atlantic coast, but for some reason they were wild, did not school and could not be taken. The same conditions are said also to have been noticed abroad. The Norwegian and Irish mackerel catches were very poor.

Miss Alcott's View.

In a book of reminiscences of Concord thirty years ago, by Frank Stearns, just published, the author relates how Miss Alcott came to him one day, and asked him to take her out rowing. He complied, but he found it more of a job than he had anticipated.

"This is the darnedest boat I ever pulled," he remarked.

"Frank," said Miss Alcott, "never say darn. Much better to be profane than vulgar."

Paderewski's Joke.

The other day when Paderewski was dining at a hotel in Richmond, Va., a fine nickel-plated banjo was sent in by a local banjo player, with the request that the great pianist should write a short musical sentiment on the sheepskin head. Paderewski complied with the request, and this is the sentiment to which he attached his signature: "I have not the pleasure of being a performer on this beautiful instrument; am only a piano player." Now the banjo player is asking his friends if the virtuoso was "jollying" him.

Circulation.

"I write to let you know how pleased I am with your sarsaparilla. I felt very weak and tired last month, and went, as usual, to get ——'s sarsaparilla, and did not know but I had ——'s until I got home, when I found I had yours. And pleased I am that I got yours, for it made me rugged and strong sooner than ——'s, and so strong that I set to work, alone, to turn a house round. I moved this house its full length, and then 16 feet back. Quite an undertaking for one man. But it was your sarsaparilla that gave me strength to do it. I shall always take it in future."—THOS. RIPANS TABULES

Mr. P. T. Barry, who has general charge of the advertising contracts of the Chicago Newspaper Union, is compelled to pass a large portion of his time in journeying to and fro in the interests he represents. Speaking of Ripans Tabules, Mr. Barry says that he has carried them with him in his satchel on all his trips, since he first became acquainted with their excellent qualities. He uses four or five a week, being always particular to take one after a hearty or, more especially, after a hasty meal. He never requires more than one. Mr. Barry does not remember how he was first induced to make trial of Ripans Tabules, but now he buys them of the nearest druggist whenever his supply is exhausted. "They are specially convenient," Mr. Barry says, "and a mighty nice thing—just what a man needs when traveling, if he needs a medicine at all."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce st., New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1896. NO. 26.

A HISTORICAL STORY.

WITH 60,000,000 HEROES AND 50,000 VILLAINS.

A Brief Running Sketch of the Pioneer Days, Progress and Degeneration of the American People—Where Will It End?

Romance and oppression brought our forefathers to found a home of freedom on the mysterious shores of America. Brave, adventurous spirits were those who broke the ties of old associations and came to exercise their God-given rights and ingenuity upon the raw material of creative bounty. They found the land ready-made, free as the air and water, which in turn purified and refreshed each other for the growth of a glorious vegetation, without which neither man nor any other animal could exist.

Throughout the long and hard struggle of shaping natural wealth to artificial and human designs, their imaginations looked forward to the establishment of a noble society of free men, women and children, sharing equally the bounties of nature, and equally protected in life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Fancy kept pace with fact, and hope inspired them through toil and tragedy. The good humor of health and freedom drove away homesickness and bound them together in love and loyalty to each other.

They were neither phanatics nor knaves. There was but little originality in their plans—they were simply following the natural instincts which the Creator instilled into the souls of the first pair in the Garden of Eden.

There was a God-made before a man-made decree that all men should be free and equal. As long as every man was compelled to earn his bread by the sweat of his own brow there was unity and patriotism. Necessity bound them with no stronger ties than brotherly love—but a few were bound only with necessity, and as the means of protection increased the selfish ones early set about to acquire a portion of the country's riches without work. They saw that in protecting themselves the people must also protect the guests who did not work. They dare not permit invasions of enemies in the hope of their killing only the idlers. The common people were always in the majority, hence in protecting themselves also guarded the holes in which the cowardly speculators were hidden.

The speculators early invaded the American soil—the people were honest and unsuspicious—besides they were not quite free from the doctrines of landlordism taught in their old homes. They submitted to seizure of lands, and never questioned the validity of charters from kings of the old countries.

There was seemingly plenty of land for all time, and people of growing communities, when crowded, moved farther west and took up new land.

And all this time speculators were getting more and more land, for which they had no use, and holding it for the time when they might take advantage of the necessity of the people for homes and sell them land. It required "long heads" to look forward so far—and the common people never trouble themselves about the future while everything appears to move smoothly. Capital descends to the idle sons and grandsons of millionaires, and likewise the necessity of homes descends to the children and grandchildren of debtors. Children are born in debt, and pay what their fathers owed to dead men to the children who were born holding mortgages against the unborn. Truly the mortgage is a deathgrip.

Ever since Abraham bought a sepulcher, and paid for it with silver, money has been building palaces upon graves.

Money has been the cause of every war that stains the pages of civilization's history. It is the bunco-steerer that gets two "hay-seeds" fighting and steals their coats while they fight. It gambles on the results of war as it would on a cock-fight. Its owners never go to war; they hire substitutes and save their own precious heads to govern the fools who are left after the fighting is over.

English love of money forced our forefathers into revolution.

Love of money caused the late war. The men who fought to abolish slavery were patriotic in their effort to abolish the evil—but love of money caused the evil—and in the war itself the money power had no interest except as a speculation. Black slave owners lost, and white slave drivers won.

Capital laughed at the pathos of the situation, and turned its attention to forcing an issue of bonds to control labor without the responsibility of feeding the laborer.

Thousands of heroes lost their lives to free the slaves, and others lived to become slaves themselves.

The people of the south were so badly whipped that they were willing to accept anything—and the soldiers of the north were so puffed up with victory that they suspected no conspiracy and in the sight of "old glory" marched in proud military step to their doom. The war gave common people something to talk about for the few years that capital wanted for uninterrupted scheming.

Parties sprang up, bitterly opposed to each other, and the people took sides blindly, while the far-seeing money power contributed to the campaign funds of both parties and collected their pay from the administration, in the shape of land grants, subsidies, franchises, etc., etc.

Newspapers were started, and tried to tell the truth, but found it more profitable to lie for money. Art and literature were pursued principally by the inane millionaire society class, and vigorous truth was condemned by the plutocratic press as blasphemy and treason. Nature was pronounced vulgar, and the people read only such papers as plutocracy endorsed and supported. The laborer was told that God intended him to do the dirty work, and that brains should rule. Thank God, they will—a few brave students here and there have been studying the principles of justice, besides applying these principles to existing conditions—and when the people grew sick of the slush and slobbering of society chatter, solid food was demanded—and the demand brought the supply. Authors, heretofore too poor to bear the expense of expressing themselves, found the people's press ready to publish, at its own risk, modest works that have since circulated to the corners of the earth.

The birth of the Populist movement was a great psychological explosion. Little fires broke out here and there, growing brighter, then dying, only to be succeeded by a conflagration that startles the world.

The effect of the teaching of all the despised great thinkers of all time seems to have concentrated for a final struggle that must succeed now or never. There is no more land to be taken up, no more wildernesses to conquer—the people must turn about and make homes where they find themselves.

I started to write a story, and began it with the word "romance"—but there is no romance in it. There are fathers and mothers, lovers and maidens in the story—some of them married—some of them single—but as for them living "happily-ever afterward," they made a mistake in not killing or driving the villains to suicide, as is done in the conventional stage play—so there is no happiness. Marriage entangles hearts in the problem, and financiers don't consider hearts. This story will end with the coming of the millennium.

Cleveland's Debt.

"T. M. P." asks the Press how much money there was in the treasury when ex-President Harrison took his seat in 1889 and how much there was when Cleveland took his seat in 1893. Information is also desired as to the total issue of bonds made under the Cleveland administration, and how much the interest thereon will be.

The Treasury books show that on March 1, 1889, three days prior to General Harrison's inauguration, there was $266,404,441 in the Treasury, and on March 1, 1893, immediately preceding Cleveland's inauguration, the total available cash was $124,128,089. In the four years of Harrison the National debt was reduced as follows in round numbers:

1890	$125,000,000
1891	135,000,000
1892	40,000,000
1893	10,000,000

This was an aggregate of $310,000,000 of interest bearing obligations canceled. The Cleveland administration to date exhibits an increase in the national debt of four bond sales. The first issue was in February, 1894, $50,000,000 at 5 per cent, for ten years, commanding $25,000,000 interest at maturity. The second issue was in November, 1894, of $50,000,000 five per cent bonds, for nine and one-half years, commanding $23,750,000 interest at maturity. The third issue was in February, 1895, of $62,315,400 four per cent bonds for thirty years, commanding $74,778,480.

The fourth issue was in February, 1896, for $100,000,000 four per cent bonds, running twenty-nine years at four per cent commanding 116,000,000 interest at maturity. This addition to the public indebtedness is in principal $262,315,400 and in interest $239,528,480, making a grand total of $501,843,880. The sum total of the Cleveland indebtedness, is found by adding to this increase of interest-bearing debt the Treasury deficiency to date.—New York Press.

The Tariff Humbug.

The republicans proclaim loudly that protection is the one and only issue, the holy of holies, the ark of the covenant as it were. How hypocritical is this pretence plainly appears when they are called on to choose between protection and the single gold standard. The other day, in the Kentucky legislature, it seemed as if the race for senator was to be left between two democrats, Carlisle and Blackburn. Immediately the gold standard republicans rushed to the support of Carlisle in order to defeat a free silver candidate. Yet Carlisle is the ablest enemy protection ever had in congress. In fact, he is ultra free trader. Evidently the average goldbug is ready to embrace even a free-trader if with him he can get his darling idol gold. When Senator Allen made his proposal in the senate to furnish six Populist votes to the republicans to pass their tariff bill if they would incorporate free silver with it, they declined with scorn. They prefer to let even protection go than to grant free silver. This shows exactly how the wind blows. The silver people can learn a valuable lesson from it.—The Nonconformist.

The people's party has arrived at that point where it don't propose to listen to any propositions of fusion with either of the two old frauds which it denounces, or any other party that favors trusts or monopolies of any kind. The people's party is a party of principles, and when it ceases to be such it should go out of existence.

Money and transportation are two agents of exchange which are of a public nature, and government can't control either without owning and operating them.

MR. TOBE SPILKINS.

HE THINKS POLITICS ARE VERY BADLY MIXED.

Makes Him Sweat to Keep Up—Would Leave the Democratic Party If He Did Not Want to Be Sheriff So Bad—Describes Nineteen Kinds of Democrats

From Morgan's Buzz-Saw (Hardy, Ark.)
Boney Forks,
(Which is in the Stait uv Arkansaw),
February the 6teenth, 18ninety6.

Mistur Editur—Things is gittin' aufully mixed up. I'll be dad gummed if I hain't gittin' tired uv this politix biznes. If it wuzen't fur bein' sheruff I'd leev the dad dratted party. It hain't no longer a solid falanx like it wuz when I cooden't git the nominashun fur nuthin'. Now when I kin git the nominashun fur a good offis, tha air quarllin' and fussin' like dogs and kats. I never wuz so puzzeled tu kno how tu bee a Democrat in mi life. Thare hain't no recete nor formulay that will sute aul okkashuns. God knose I tri tu bee a Demikrat, fur I want tu be sheruff so bad, but it maiks me swet. The trubbel now iz I don't kno whitch kind uv a Demikrat tu be. Thar iz tu mi nollege ninetene kinds uv Dimikrats, az follers:

The goldbug Demikrats,
The free silver Demikrats,
The national bank Demikrats,
The government issue Demikrats,
The high tariff Demikrats,
The low tariff Demikrats,
The tariff fur revenu Demikrats,
The fre traid Demikrats,
The bond ishuin' Demikrats,
The anti-bond ishuin' Demikrats,
The home rool Demikrats,
The federal trupes Demikrats,
The grenebak Demikrats,
The hard munny Demikrats,
The "my daddy wuz" Demikrats,
The inkum tacks Demikrats,
The no inkum tacks Demikrats,
The phool Demikrats whoo don't want offis.
The smart Demikrats whoo duz.

Thare ma be sum uther varietize, but I kan't think uv them now, and I hoap tha won't git offended bekoz I fale tu menshun thair partikular variety.

Now what puzzels me iz whair did aul these varietize kum frum? Tha coodent kum frum the saim ansesters, and it looks like sumboddy haz bin goin' awa frum hoam and krossin' the brede. Tha hain't no differents betwene sum uv theze Demikrats and the Republikans. If sum uv our leeders hain't bin sleepin' with Republikan harlots then I hain't no judg uv ophspring, and kan't tell a mulatter frum a ful blooded nigger, whitch I think I kin.

Thare wuz a time when you cood tel a Demikrat bi the wa he talked, but now you haf tu see him voat be4 you kin kno. The only sines left uv old Demokrasy that kin be rekonized without identyfikashun is our luv fur likker and our inklinashun tu kuss the Republikans.

Under theze tryin' surkemstanses it iz very diffikult tu run fur offis with enny kind uv satisfakshun.

When a man runs fur offis he iz expekted to sa sumthing. In order tu git tu bee sheruff I cood kepe mi mouth shut and be a ninetene-sided Demikrat, but tu talk enny tu speek uv and sute aul kinds uv Demikrats iz a fete that is hard tu du. I hav bin thinkin' over what kind uv a speach I wood maik in this kampane, and have rit out what I am goin' tu sa. I think it will kiver aul kinds uv Demikrats and not maik enny uv 'em mad. Here is mi speach in substantal:

"Feller sitizens: I am no offis seeker like the dad gummed Populists, but at the urgent solisitashun uv millyuns uv mi frends I hav konsented tu leev mi peeceful home and la doun fur the time beein' mi okkupashun az a plain onest farmer, and bekum yoor kandydait fur the responsibel offis uv sheruff. (Cheers.) Feller sitizens, in makin' this grait sacrifize, I want tu sa I du it with du appresiashun uv the onerous dutize uv the offis tu whitch I—I mene mi frends, hav asked me tu aspire. You want tu kno, uv korse, be4 you voat fur me what mi politix iz. I want tu sa rite here tha air jist the saim az yourn. (Great and tremendous applauze.) Tu the men whoo beleev in a gold standard I want tu sa, when Tobe Spilkins iz sheruff, he wil let you pa yoor fines and taxes in gold. (Not mutch applauze.) Tu the fre silver men, you kin pa yoor's in silver, and the paper munny men kin pa thair's in paper munny. (Applauze.) And tu the men whoo hain't got enny munny at aul, I want tu sa I wil taik the taxes in koon skins and heffers. (Aufful site uv applauze.) Feller sitizens, I stand with you aul on the tariff. (Applauze.) I beleev in a hi tariff on sum things, a low taruff on sum things, and fre traid in sum things, and what tariff we have, adjusted fur revenu only. (Tremendous applauze.) I'm oppozed tu nashnul banks (applauze) eggscept when we think it iz nessessary (applauze). I'm oppozed tu the ishue uv bonds (applauze) only when we nede munny. (Cheers.) I'm in faver uv home rool fur Demikrats (appluaze) and federul trupes fur the Republikans and Populists. (Wild and enthusiastic applauze.) I'm in faver uv them whoo wants an inkum tacks a havin' it (applauze) and them whoo don't want it not havin' it. (Applauze.) My daddy wuz a Demikrat (applauze) and I never scratched a tickket in mi life. (Great eggscitement and loud cheering.) I luv the grand old Demikratick party (applauze) with its brilyant rekord and eminent staitsmen. (Applauze.) I wil never see its banner traled in the dust. (Loud cheers.) It's a grand old party. (Cheers). It's got more prinsiples on tap than enny other party ever thought uv. (Cheers.) It stands reddy tu reseev ennyboddy that wants tu kum intu its shelterin' fold, and it don't maik enny differents what he beleevs. (Cheers.) We have taken out patents on ninetene kinds of Demikrats and have patents for seven moar kinds applide fur. (No applauze.) Let every Demikrat du hiz duty. Boys, stand bi the grand old party wunts moar. Let us voat 'er strate. Let the seeride ranks kloze up and form a solid falanx whose majestick tred kin be heerd from the rok bound shores uv Nu Ingland tu the golden gait uv Kaliforny, and from the shimmerin' laiks tu the Gulf uv Mecksiko. Let the band pla." (Loud and prolonged cheering.)

You see, I hav insurted the "cheers" and "applauze" at the proper plaises, and when I am maikin' mi speach and kum tu them I maik a sine tu the uther kandydaits, and tha start the applauze. I think this iz the best plan, az you air aulwaze shure uv the applause and git it right whair it iz needed, and whair you want it. If that speach don't fetch 'em I don't kno what wil. It don't seme tu me like ennyboddy cood find enny falt with it.

Seniter Jones and Guvernor Clark iz havin' a talkin' match in mi stait now. Tha both want tu be seniters. Clark kin beet Seniter Jones a spittin', and kin hold him a purty level rase a promisin' good things tu the peeple, but I don't think Clark kin beet Jim Jones, becos Jim haz a bigger salary tu spend than Clark. I hoap I'll git tu bee sheruff. Yours til the kows kum home.

TOBE SPILKINS,
Whoo wants tu bee sheruff.

Goldbug Praise for Populists.

The following encomium from the goldbug Oregonian on the populist party will make thousands of votes for the army of reformers in the coming elections:

"For the free-silver man, whether he pretends to be a republican or democrat, there is no logical stopping place or ground to stand on short of the populist camp. There is where he belongs, for the populist party is the only party that has committed itself on any national platform to free coinage of silver. When, therefore, men who insist on free coinage of silver like Hon. C. P. Yates, of Washington county, and Hon. Sylvester Pennoyer, of Multnomah county, take formal leave of the republican and democratic parties and cast their lot with the populist organization, they do a logical, necessary and straightforward thing: The populist party is the silver-money party."

We seldom have an opportunity to copy the truth from any of Rothschild's organs; but the Oregonian, of March 5, 1896, admits the fact that there is no room in the army of avarice, flaunting the banner of the demo-republican combination, for an honest silver man. No one can serve in either of Rothschild's political parties without leaving country, home, liberty, prosperity and happiness behind. It is only the captains and generals, the bosses and corruptionists of the two old parties, who live upon the fat of the land and enjoy the crumbs which fall from the table of gold aristocracy. Honest men in the ranks of gold monopoly are as much out of place as Christians obeying the commands of the father of lies who offered to the Savior of mankind as large a bribe as the kings of avarice ever offered for the worship and submission of the masses to the rule of the classes. What honest man can view universal distress in a country of unbounded resources and inhabited by seventy millions of the most enterprising and energetic people on earth, without indignation against the conspirators who produced the ruin? When the Oregonian says that the populist party is the only party against hard times, is the only party that repudiates alien rule, is the only party that is opposed to bonded slavery, is the only party that is in favor of preserving the institutions of America, is the only party of liberty, truth and equal rights, it commends the populist party in language of eulogy which cannot be surpassed. If it be true, that the populist party is the only party in favor of Americans ruling America, and against the subjugation of this country to the English gold standard, and the oppression and extortion of the agents and emissaries of the mother country, what name is there in the English language which shines brighter and is more emblematic of our institutions than the name "Populist," which is already glorious by the enemies it has made? The commendation of the Oregonian has removed every objection that any honest man can have to join the populists in a common cause against the iniquities which the Oregonian cherishes, and for which it lives and has its being.

Don't be alarmed, Mr. Oregonian, the silver men and populists, and all other good men, will get together to fight your kind and every other kind who are in favor of the enemies of the republic. You have drawn the line between honest American citizens and Tory corruptionists of the gold standard. The people will take you at your word.—Silver Knight.

Both the old parties are in favor of "control" of railroads; the Omaha platform favors ownership, and when it was put there it was supposed to be a "fundamental principle" of the platform.

EVANGELIST DIAZ.

The Cuban, Imprisoned by Weyler. Appeal to Baptists in his Behalf.

A million and a half Baptists will soon be demanding the release of Rev. A. J. Diaz, the Cuban evangelist, who has been arrested and imprisoned by General Weyler. Rev. I. T. Tichenor, corresponding secretary of the Southern Baptist convention, has issued an address to the Baptists of the south. In it he calls on the denomination to raise a fund to defend Diaz and to care for him and his family. Dr. Tichenor says that Diaz will not dare to touch a mouthful of food prepared in the Spanish prison for fear of being poisoned. The Baptists of this section, and they are numerous, are arroused by the news of the arrest, and they will appeal at once to the state department to interfere.

Diaz is an American citizen. He was a patriot of the revolution twenty years ago. To escape arrest he threw himself into the sea, hoping to drift back to shore at nightfall, but he floated so far out that he could not get back. A passing ship picked him up and carried him to New York. He was converted in this country, joined the Baptist church and returned to Cuba as an evangelist. He has done a great work there and has greatly endeared himself to the Baptists of the states.

News of the arrest and incarceration by the Spanish officials of Rev. A. J. Diaz, an American citizen and superintendent of missions of the Southern Baptist convention, in Cuba, was received in Atlanta, Ga., last Thursday by telegram from Havana to Dr. I. T. Tichenor, corresponding secretary of the home mission board of the Southern Baptist convention. No particulars are given, but it is presumed that the arrest is on account of Dr. Diaz's well-known pro-insurgent proclivities, though it is not believed here that he has been guilty of any overt act that should have subjected him to imprisonment.

Dr. Diaz is a great favorite among southern Baptists, and it is probable that a concerted movement will begin among them to secure his release. He is a native of Cuba, and, it is said, had to flee from the island on account of his alleged connection with the rebels in the former revolutions, escaping from a pursuing party of Spanish soldiers by swimming out from the shore to a passing vessel. He went to New York and subsequently entered the Baptist ministry. After the war he returned to Cuba to undertake the work of proselyting his own people. He has been very successful and has built up a large following in Havana, where he presides over the finest protestant church on the island.

A young woman, who has no name, was arrested in New York City the other day for stealing with her teeth.

RATHER HOT UP THERE.

Several Cities Report Last Friday the Hottest April Day Yet Recorded by the Signal Service.

Philadelphia—The hottest April 16 experienced in many years. The highest point reached was 88 degrees at 3 p. m., but the greatest discomfort was caused by the excessive humidity. No fatalities have been reported.

Chicago—The hottest April day since the signal service was established in Chicago. The mercury went to 87 in the afternoon, beating the highest previous mark by 3 degrees; and it was several degrees warmer in the street. No prostrations were reported.

New York—Eighty-five degrees was shown by the official thermometer at 3 o'clock p. m., the highest temperature for an April day that the local signal office has recorded. This was the fourth day of the hot spell and according to the forecast there probably will be three more days of high temperature before a change comes.

Murderer Shot and Captured.

Julius Zilke, who murdered in cold blood his employer, Edward Davids, a wealthy farmer, near Markesan, April 6, and has since eluded officers, was captured at Appleton, Wis., Thursday morning. Zilke carried a rifle, with which the murder was committed. Policeman Garvey overtook him on the railway tracks about a mile north of the city, and called upon him to surrender. Zilke raised his rifle to fire, whereupon the officer shot him twice, once just over the heart, and once in the hand. After being shot, Zeilke dropped his gun and ran nearly a mile before he was caught. He will probably die. There is a reward of $1,300 for his capture.

A Fiend Incarnate.

Walter Crawford, a fugitive negro convict, is inviting a violent death in the country about forty miles southeast of Memphis, Tenn. Tuesday morning he knocked his guard senseless with a club, released a gang of fellow convicts and fled with the guard's weapons. Making his way to the home of a witness against him, Crawford shot him dead and would have served his wife the same had she not escaped by flight. He then went after a hostile planter, who saw him coming and, mounting his horse, hurriedly fled the danger. Friday the sheriff and posse took the field and it was reported last night the fugitive had already killed two of his pursuers.

Five Children Suffocated.

In a tenement house fire at Turner's Falls, Mass., at 5 o'clock Friday morning, five French children were suffocated. Property loss small.

NEWS comes from Georgia that the Populists and Republicans will unite on the same State ticket.

THE county executive committee met at Clanton, last Saturday and counted the votes cast at the first primary. We give the details in another column.

ANOTHER victory! Yesterday Mr. A. T. Goodwin took his seat in Congress and the ballot thieving fraternity get one more set back Mr. Goodwin took his seat amidst applause. Hurrah for co-operation and dismay to organized democracy.

WE are again oblige to hold over a pile of communications, and once more call the attention of our correspondents to the fact that letters received on Thursday morning cannot be expected to be published that same day.

THE county convention met at Clanton on Saturday last. Ira Campbell was elected chairman and Alex G. Dake secretary. The following were elected delegates to the State convention: E. L. Manning, W. G. Riggins, J. R. Vinson, B. M. Gentry' G. W. Patrick, H. I. Honeycutt, W. H. Conway. A motion was made and carried that the delegation go without instructions.

A PRIVATE telegram states that Mr. W. F. Aldrich, the recently seated member from Alabama, was on Thursday last appointed a member of the committee on banking and finance, one of the most important committees in the House.

Mr. Aldrich's bill on finance which he introduced in a few days after he was seated, has made him recognized at once as one of the ablest members of Congress and his constituency has cause to feel proud of him—Ex.

MARDIS L. WOOD, whilom Democratic nominee for congress from this District, and a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee, was on Tuesday morning, at the depot in Montgomery, shot by Sheriff Kennedy of Dallas for alienating the affections of his (Kennedy's) wife. Percy Wood, who was with his brother at the time, was also shot and died soon after. Mardis was not killed, but is expected to lose both arms. Kenneday gave himself up.

THE Democratic State convention has put the free silver plank in its platform and elected a solid silver delegation to the national convention. That's alright in its way and we are glad of it. Only we expect the next Democratic State convention will be putting the sub-treasury plank of the Populites in its next platform. The Populist "crank" of to-day is the wise man of the Democrats two years hence.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Coopers, Ala., April 21, '96.
To the Voters of Chilton county.

As my name has been introduced to a number of you at the primary election held on the 14th day of April, 1896, as a candidate for a Legislator. I now feel it to be my duty to speak to the public concerning this matter. I was not a candidate my self. I did not authorize onyone to use my name as such on that day. Mr. Miller, the chairman of the Executive committee, called on me in the evening of the 13th, before the primary was to be held the next day following, and insisted that I become a candidate for the Legislature at once and let my name go before the people to-morrow. I said to him that it was too late and stated to him that I had been solicited by a number of my friends to make the race for that office but had refused to run the race. Mr. Miller said that there is considerable dissatisfaction among the people with the other candidates for this office, and that it was his understanding that a number of the people would vote for me whether I did consent to run or not. In this conversation I said to Mr. Miller that if my people picked me up and run me anyway and if they were to nominate me that I would have to serve them. I am satisfied that it was this expression from me that caused my name to go before the poople on the day of the primary. Mr. Miller said to me in this conversation that there were a number of others waiting to hear from me. He did not tell me that my name would be used when he left me nor during the time that he was with me except that it was his understanding that there were a number of people that would vote for me whether I run or not.

As you know, my name was scattered among you as far as it well could be carried, and a number of votes were cast for me, large enough to place me in the second primary. This act seemed to add confusion to confusion among our people. I have had a number of men to call on me to find out what I was going to do with or concerning this movement. Some of my friends say that if I run on that I am a ruined man politically. Others say that this action is not my action and that I must not come down that I will be politically dead and such action on my part will be erroneous. You can see that I am in the center of confusion. Knowing that the highest power known among men lies in the whole people, I therefore put my case before you as your friend for you to consider and to act upon at the primary election to be held on the 5th day of May. I want you to act according to the best of your judgment in this case. If you find after a thorough examination and consideration of this case that I was wrongfully and erroneously put before my people, though you may be a special friend to me, you have the right to rebuke that act by casting your vote for Bro. Reynolds.

If I shall prove to be your choice I say to you that I will serve you and your interests to the very best of my skill and ability.

I will say to those who cast their votes for me on the 14th that they have my heartfelt thanks for the great interest and confidence that they have manifested to-ward me.

Your friend,
E. G. ROLLINS.

Clanton, Ala., April 21, 1896.
Editor BANNER: Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words concerning my position as candidate for sheriff.

For some time my name has been announced as a candidate for sheriff subject to the action of the People's Party, and last Saturday at Clanton, after the result of the primary was learned by me, and before the Executive committee examined the returns, I told my friends that if the interest of the party demanded it, and if it would be to the promotion of harmony in the party, I would willingly withdraw my name and not allow it to go before the people at their second primary, so I thought it would be better to continue my name before the people till their next primary election, and there let them say by their votes, what was best.

I am still as I have been, entirely subject to the wishes of the people, and when it is fairly expressed, I shall cheerfully yield, let their decision be as it may.

I shall not enter into any further canvas, as I am known all over the county, but will only say, that if I receive the nomination, I will appreciate it very much and will perform the duties of the office to the best of my ability, without partiality or favor, but if I do not receive it, the man who does will get my hearty support.

Very respectfully,
LEE HAYES.

Clanton, Ala., April 20 '96.
Editor BANNER: Sir, you will please give me space in your paper to express my feelings as a defeated candidate, I am perfectly satisfied and I feel my conscience clear of misrepresenting anything or bringing any reproach upon the party. To my friends I thank you all very much for your support and appreciate it as much as if I had received a majority. I wish to say to the voters to be as quiet as possible and look over the claims of the nominees and elect the men of your choice. Turn out in August and support the nominee. Gentlemen, I am out of the race but I am not out of the fight. I have my choice whom I rather would get there but every body cannot get their choice. Every body must be satisfied for the majority to rule for that is the only way we can ever keep together. I hope the people will consider well the importance of the success of our party and keep in the middle of the road. As the old saying is, stand to the rack, fodder or no fodder.

Success to the People's Party and BANNER. Respectfully,
M. A. KILLGORE.

State of Alabama,
Chilton County,

Personally Appeared before me, E. F. Fuller, a N. P. & Ex-officio J. P., C. W. Plant who being duly sworn on oath deposes and says if such report is being circulated in Chilton county, that Lee Hayes brought me out as a candidate for the office of commissioner is untrue and without foundation as he never had any talk with me on the subject of my being a candidate before or since the election and it is a positive falsehood. C. W. PLANT.

Sworn and subscribed before me this the 20 day of April, 1896, E. F. Fuller, N.P & J.P.

Clanton, Ala., April 20, '96.
Editor BANNER: It seems that the order of the day is to circulate scandalous reports, or lies, on the candidates of the different offices of the county. If that don't kill the People's party she will never die. I am a Populite from "tip to toe," and am sorry indeed that men will stoop so low as to tell lies on some one else just to gratify their own feelings. I call attention to this fact in behalf of the People's party; for she will surely go under if such procedure is continued much longer. I heard very recently that some one was telling, down on Mulberry, some miserable lies on J. A. Logan, a man who, for ten years, has almost spent his life in the interest of the Farmers Alliance and People's party. I have known him to stop his plow and ride over the county to awaken the people to a sense of their duty. He has spent valuable time in reading to prepare himself for the emergency. In fact he has done more for the reform movement than any man in the county. I have known J. A. Logan from infancy. He was a moral boy, and when he was 21 years old we elected him justice of peace in our beat in Coosa county, and he discharged his official duties with honor to himself and to his people. He is strictly a temperate man, and his character is without blemish. And now will we listen to infamous lies made and told by the most unscrupulous characters in the county, and refuse to support a man who has so valiantly fought our battles through thick and thin, and perhaps did what no other man in the county could have done as well as he did. I know of my own knowledge that he has spent his own money freely to promote our cause, and if his opponent, Mr. Hubbard, has ever done anything I have never heard of it. Equal rights to all and special favors to none should be our motto; therefore give us Logan this time for we may need him again soon to confront Col. Brown, of Talladega and others. Success to the People's Party,
A. D. MASSEY.

TO THE PEOPLE.

Be it known that I have made the following changes in the Register business. In beat six I have appointed Elijah Deason instead of Milton Roper, as Mr. Roper's eye-sight is very much impaired and he is growing too old. In beat eight I have appointed C. W. Plant to succeed E. L. McKee on account of his health and holding a position away from home. In beat 4 by request I have appointed W. B. James in place of W. M. Wilson. Beat 9, D. N. Riggins in place of Henry Estes who has left the county. I am ready to make any other appointments for vacancies that may occur in any of the other beats when notified.

B. W. GARNER, County Rgister.

I will be at Macadonia Tuesday May 5, at Benson Saturday May 9 for the purpose of registration and at my home near Benson the remainder of the time.

J. C. VEAZEY, registrar beat 3.

Beat 1—Mr. D. H. Mullins will be at Mineral Springs on Tuesday, May 5.

Beat 9—Mr. D. N. Riggins will be at the election box at Strasburg on Tuesday, May 5.

All Beat Registers will facilitate their work by attending the primary election to be held on Tuesday, May 5. Please make your appointments.

When no change is announced in THE BANNER the Beat Registers who acted at she last election will hold the same position in this election.

1000 WAYS TO CURE A COLD!

Quinine, aconite, hot tea, onion syrup, whiskey and quinine, rock candy and rye, a "sweat," foot bath, starvation feeding, wrapping your hose around your neck, cod liver oil, and old hundreds cough cure, these and over 900 other ways are used by the human race to cure a cold. The best way is to make CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER your daily companion and you will never catch cold.

A man must be miserable indeed who is laid up with a bad Cold, Catarrh, Headache, unable to breathe without pain, his throat sore and his head throbbing, when one little product in the market called CUSHMAN'S INHALER will give him instant relief.

RELIEF EASY TO GET!

He may go on and on, sneeze his head off for that matter, sniffle and snort around to everybody's discomfiture. His eyes may become inflamed, his head and ears ache, and his throat so sore he can hardly swallow. Patient he must be to endure it all when for 50c. he can buy CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER and restore himself to his normal condition.

Cushman's Menthol Inhaler a Jewel!

A woman will sit around prostrated in nerves, feeling desperate over loss of sleep, head and eyes racked with pain, cold settled in every bone, so miserable that life seems a blank, but if she would make the marvelous little instrument known as CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER her daily companion, her headaches would come less frequent, she would never have a cold, and sore throat and catarrh would have no terrors.

NEVER NEGLECT A COLD OR COUGH

Neglect a Cold or Cough and if La Grippe don't get you, Consumption will. CUSHMAN'S INHALER cures colds and all diseases of the breathway passages. [illegible] lose dollars in doctor bills in not keeping CUSHMAN'S INHALER handy to drive off a cold or cough or sore throat at its very first approach.

The Greatest Authority in the World.

DR. J. LENNOX BROWNE, F. R. C. S. Ed. Senior Surgeon to the Central London Throat and Ear Hospital, says: "The vapor of Menthol checks in a manner hardly less than marvelous, acute Colds in the head. For all forms of nasal disease, causing obstruction to the natural breathway, I prescribe CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER to the extent of hundreds per annum."

[Is not this recommendation sufficient that all who read may profit by it?]

DR. BROWNE.

Brings sleep to the sleepless. Cures Insomnia and Nervous Prostration. Don't be fooled with worthless imitations. Take only CUSHMAN'S. 50c. at druggists, or mailed, postpaid, on receipt of price. Write for book on Menthol and testimonials.

Your Boy Won't Live a Month.

So Mr. Gilman Brown, of 34 Mill St., South Gardner, Mass., was told by the doctors. His son had Lung Trouble, following Typhoid Malaria, and he spent three hundred and seventy-five dollars with doctors, who finally gave him up saying: "Your boy won't live a month." He tried Dr. King's New Discovery and a few bottles restored him to health and enabled him to go to work a perfectly well man. He says he owes his present good health to use of Dr. King's New Discovery and he knows it to be the best in the world for Lung trouble. Trial Bottles Free at J. S. Johnson, Jr., Drug Store.

From LaGrippe.

How Dr. Miles' Nervine Restored One of Kentucky's Business Men to Health.

NO DISEASE has ever presented so many peculiarities as LaGrippe. No disease leaves its victims so debilitated, useless, sleepless, nerveless as LaGrippe.

Mr. D. W. Hilton, state agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Kentucky, says: "In 1889 and '90 I had two severe attacks of LaGrippe, the last one attacking my nervous system with such severity that my life was despaired of. I had not slept for more than two months except by the use of narcotics that stupefied me, but gave me no rest. I was only conscious of intense mental weakness, agonizing bodily pain and the fact that I was hourly growing weaker.

When in this condition, I commenced using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. In two days I began to improve and in one month's time I was cured, much to the surprise of all who knew of my condition. I have been in excellent health since and have recommended your remedies to many of my friends."

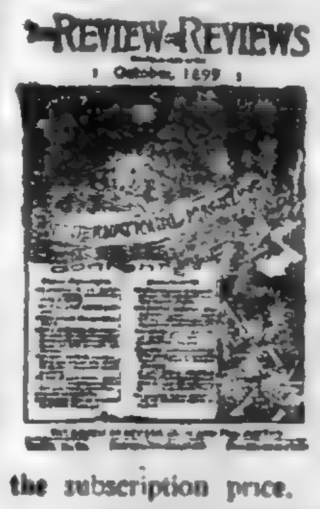
THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Edited by ALBERT SHAW.



THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

Clean Stables.

Start into the winter with clean stables, and keep them in that condition. We always hear that stock of all kinds are more liable to contract disease in winter than summer, and no doubt many ills that stock contract in winter may be traced to filthy stables and bad ventilation. Clean stalls and good bedding make stock healthy.

Dear Sir:—"Having used several boxes of your TETTERINE, I can say that it is the best remedy I have ever found for skin diseases. After failing with Cuticura and other similar preparations, through the recommendation of a friend I tried a box of TETTERINE, and two applications was all that it took to effect a complete cure of a breaking out on my foot of long standing. I think it is the best salve in the world for skin diseases." Yours truly,

The Governor Grants a Pardon.

Governor Oates has issued a pardon for George A. Pearce, of Mobile, who pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzlement in the city court of that county last July and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.

Churches in East Florence.

There is a decided boom in church building in East Florence. The Methodists of that part of the city have just completed a handsome house of worship on Sweetwater avenue, and the Presbyterians are now enlarging their chapel by the addition of an L which will cost about $500.

Patents Issued to Alabamians.

Patents have been issued to: John W. Noble, Anniston, Ala., car coupling; Brice Park, Roanoke, Ala., plough attachment; James N. Williams, Mobile, Ala., mucilage receptacle; Charles Linstrom, Vicksburg, Miss., locomotive truck spring hanger; W. C. Colwell, Palatka, Fla., hose coupling. Harry W. Russell, of Huntsville, Ala., has registered a trade mark for handles for axes and similar tools.

Excursion to Birmingham.

The first excursion of the season went down the Louisville & Nashville road Saturday morning from Decatur. It was conducted for the benefit of the reading room of the Louisville & Nashville shops at New Decatur and between 400 and 500 people came to the Magic City. The regular Decatur accommodation train had four extra cars attached and the crowds at the stations along the road were picked up without losing a moment's time. The excursionists return home in the afternoon.

In a Pickle is Picklesimer.

Rev. J. M. Picklesimer, of Bridgeport, has at present no church and no congregation. He handed in his resignation and requested the customary letter, which would enable him to pursue his chosen avocation in other quarters. The congregation promptly accepted his resignation, but refused to give the required letter on the ground that the charges made against him had not been disproven, and consequently not having been proved to be innocent, he was guilty.

The Mary Lee Coal Property.

A declaration of incorporation for a mammoth mining corporation has been filed in the probate court at Birmingham. The name of the corporation will be the Jefferson Coal and Railway Company. This corporation has acquired the property of the Mary Lee Coal and Railway Company, and, as the projectors are capitalists, with abundant funds, it is confidently believed that the new organization will go to work on a large scale in developing the extensive mineral properties of the Mary Lee company. Douglass H. Gordon and Henry S. Jenkins, of Baltimore, Md., filed the declaration of incorporation. The capital stock is to be $100,000.

Four Days' Sport at Demopolis.

The Demopolis Driving and Bicycle Association will inaugurate its first spring meeting with four great racing days—May 11, 12, 13 and 14.

A large force of men have been at work on the track and park, and by Saturday everything will be in readiness. A large and commodious grand stand as well as bleachers will be erected, and to crown it all a dancing pavilion will be built for the accommodation of the young people. On this occasion a splendid brass and string band will be on hand and will furnish their full quota toward making it the great success which it now promises to be. There will be four bicycle races and two horse races on the 11th, 12th and 13th, and on the 14th there will be a shooting tournament. $500 in prizes is offered. Further particulars will be furnished by the Demopolis Driving and Bicycle Association.

Big Land Deal Closed.

There was a big deal closed Saturday in Mobile which will result in the development of some ten thousand acres of cypress lands lying between the Mobile and Birmingham railroad and the Mobile river, and known as the Ladd lands. The novel feature of this deal is to be found in the fact that the sale of these lands will result in the bringing to the Mobile market of some 25,000,000 superficial feet of cypress timber. This will be done without the aid of freshets, and involving the use of pull boats, whose success has already been demonstrated in the Louisiana cypress swamps. In addition to the cypress that is on these lands, there are also about twenty million superficial feet of pine, which will also be developed. The land brought $40,000.

Rev. Picklesimer Pecked.

The following is the resolution passed at the regular convention of Holly lodge K. of P. April 16, 1896, Bridgeport, Ala.:

Whereas, Brother C. F. J. Meyers' character has been assailed through the public press by one Rev. J. M. Picklesimer by the statement "that he has picked said Meyers up out of the gutter since he (Picklesimer) came to Bridgeport," and,

Whereas, Said Meyers was a charter member of this lodge and has since remained in good standing and that the charge preferred is unfounded; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we condemn the statement as false. Be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of this lodge, and a copy sent to The Chattanooga Times for publication.

Supposed to be Dr. N. S. Jordan.

On Thursday afternoon a man appeared at the house of Mrs. Gertrude Smith, of Magnolia Springs, and asked for a drink of water, which was given him. He had all the appearance and answered fully to the description o Dr. S. N. Jordan, a practicing physician of Columbus, Ga., who disappeared from his home some few months ago and who was tracked to Bay Minette, Baldwin county, where all traces of him were lost. From Mrs. Smith's he went on east toward the old Dowty place, where he was overtaken by two men and brought back and questioned. He denied being Dr. Jordan, but said he had been to Bay Minette and to Fairhope Colony, near Montrose. He did not have much to say. The Columbus authorities were wired for instructions, but, the nearest telegraph station being eight miles away, before an answer had been received the man, not being closely guarded, walked off, going back in the direction of the Dowty place.

State Sunday School Convention.

The session of the State Sunday School convention in Selma during the past week has been probably the most interesting in the history of the organization.

The following officers have been elected for the ensuing year:

President, Prof. Thomas W. Palmer, Tuskaloosa.

Secretary, James M. Glenn.

Assistant Secretary, S. B. Brewer, Anniston.

Statistical Secretary, F. M. Stillwell, Selma.

Executive Committee—W. E. Holloway, T. L. Jones, John B. Fellows, W. D. Dillard, E. J. Russell, A. A. Oden, Joseph Carthel, Prof. William P. Taylor, W. E. Bingham, S. D. Holt, J. B. Greene, Stewart Brooks.

District Vice Presidents—First, George M. Garth, Courtland; Second, W. F. Fragin, Albertville; Third, Dr. E. C. Anderson, Anniston; Fourth, W. R. Sawyer, Birmingham; Fifth, George H. Cole, Eutaw; Sixth, W. T. Atkins, Selma; Seventh, W. B. Davidson, Montgomery; Eighth, C. D. Carmichael, Ozark; Tenth, D. L. Mauphin, Mobile.

Results in Jefferson.

Dr. R. M. Cunningham, (free silver) is declared the nominee for the state senate. The vote cast for him was 4,620, against 3845 for Mr. M. A. Porter. Dr. Cunningham's majority, 785 votes.

The following were nominated as the six candidates for representatives in the lower house of the general assembly: John J. Altman, 4,652; I. A. Brown, 4,112; John Harkins, 3,857; Daniel Green, 3,722; D. J. Ovens, 3,560; L. Y. Lipscomb, 3,355;—all sound money men, except Altman.

Frank P. O'Brien received the nomination for sheriff with 2,488 votes, leading Burgin, who was next, 591 votes.

J. B. Francis received 4,915 votes for tax collector, his majority being 1,744.

J. Felix McLaughlin was nominated tax assessor, with 4,815 votes, a plurality over A. J. Tarrant, 2,253.

Treasurer, Kenneth F. Hawkins, 3,651.

County commissioners—W. P. Stradford of the First district, L. D. Lacey of the Second district, William S. Morrow of the Third district, George L. Young of the Fourth district.

Mr. R. E. Jones, a Confederate veteran, of Camp Hardee, received the highest vote cast for any nominee, 6,675 for coroner, with a majority of 5,594 over H. E. Warner.

Sequel to the Burden Robbery.

A special from London says: Two men, whose real names the London police say are William Turner and William Roberts Dunlop, were arraigned in the Marlborough Street police court Thursday afternoon charged with the illegal possession of jewelry. The prisoners were remanded into the custody of the police for a week.

The correspondent is informed that the two men are undoubtedly either the actual burglars or accomplices of the burglars who robbed I. Townsend Burden's house in New York city some months ago. Twenty-eight unset diamonds, valued at $15,000 were found in their pockets. They refused to give any explanation. At their lodging the police found jewelry to the value, as they say, of $200,000, together with the settings of the diamonds found upon them when arrested. The jewelry was sewn up in belts and in the lining of their clothes. One gold piece with the name "T. Burden" engraved upon it, was also found.

Brutally Murdered His Son.

Abraham Carson, a negro laborer, living at No. 89 Church street, Charleston, S. C., brutally murdered his son Jacob, aged 12 years, last week. Jacob had been away from home without leave and this so enraged the father that he stamped and beat the boy to death. Carson's young daughter was an eye-witness to the deed, but was afraid to interfere. The boy's body was terribly mangled by the blows and cut by the boot heels of the unnatural father. Carson endeavored to escape, but was captured by the police and is now in jail.

Give the Girls A Chance.

The mayor of Vancouver has received a peculiar letter from Toronto, written in the interests of the young women in Toronto and other eastern Canadian cities. In this unique epistle the writer states that according to statistics there is a shortage in the female population in the northwest territories and British Columbia, amounting to about 40,000, and there is in eastern Canada a corresponding overplus of unmarried women. In order to equalize matters it is proposed to send young women of good health and moral character west to be distributed where the demand is greatest, and for this purpose it is sought to establish a home at Vancouver, for the reception and distribution of the young women for British Columbia.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Summary of the Week's Proceedings in Both Houses.

ONE HUNDRED AND SECOND DAY.

A resolution directing the secretary of war to furnish a plan and estimates for the improvement of the Nebraska side of the Missouri river opposite Sioux City, Ia., was adopted.....The "Filled Cheese" bill was passed. It provides for a special tax on manufacturers of this product of $400 per annum, a tax of 1 cent a pound on the product and a license tax of $12 a year on retaelers. At 4:40 the house adjourned until Monday.

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRD DAY.

The senate receded from its amendment to the legislative appropriation bill authorizing the extension of the contract for printing the patent office Gazette for another year. The judiciary committee reported back the joint resolution proposing a remonstrance with the British government, in the matter of the imprisonment of Mrs. Maybrick, with the opinion that the senate has no jurisdiction of the subject. The argument on the Dupont case took up the remainder of the session and the senate adjourned until tomorrow.....The house passed the bill providing for holding United States courts at Biloxi, Miss., instead of Mississippi City. A number of private bills were disposed of and the remainder of the session was devoted to District of Columbia affairs. The house adjourned until tomorrow.

ONE HUNDRED AND FOURTH DAY.

Mr. Squire, republican, of Washington, addressed the senate on his bill to provide for coast defenses. The remainder of the session was taken up in arguments on the Dupont case, and at 5 p. m. the senate adjourned until tomorrow.....The house passed the fortifications and coast defense bill. The secretary of war estimated that $8,045,163 could be expended in the coming year. The bill carries specific appropriations amounting to $5,842,337, and authority is given the secretary of war to make contracts involving the further expenditure of $5,542,276, making the total authorized expenditure in the bill $11,384,613.....The following shows the aggregate amount appropriated and authorized by contract under each subdivision of the bill, namely: Gun and mortar batteries, $5,260,000; sites for fortifications, $250,000; preservation and repair of fortifications, $50,000; plans for fortifications, $5,000; sea walls and embankments, $17,975; torpedoes for harbor defense, $100,000; armament for fortifications, $5,502,675; proving grounds, Sandy Hook, N. J., $38,000; Watertown arsenal, Mass., $43,500; Benecia arsenal, Cal., $4,500; Watervliet arsenal, N. Y., $3,105; ordnance and fortification board, $100,000; Fortress Monroe sewerage system, $9,860. The house agreed to the conference report upon the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill as far as the conferees had agreed and ordered another conference upon the matters still in dispute between the two houses, of which there are something over 100 out of 314 items added by the senate. At 4:35 o'clock the house adjourned.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTH DAY.

Most of the day's session of the senate was taken up in the debate on the Dupont case. After an executive session at 4 to 4:55 p. m., bills were passed amending the law relating to the protection of salmon fisheries in Alaska; for the sale of public lands by private sale in the state of Missouri, and to pay the heirs of Sterling D. Austin $59,287; appropriating $17,000 for acquiring burial grounds at Fort Meigs and Put in Bay Island, O., and the interment therein of the remains of the soldiers and sailors of the war of 1812. At 5:39 o'clock p. m. the senate adjourned.....The report of elections committee on the case of Moorman vs. Latimer from the Third district of South Carolina, in favor of the sitting member was adopted without division. Mr. Hull, republican, of Iowa, chairman of the committee on military affairs, called up the resolution for the appointment of William B. Franklin, of Connecticut; Thomas J. Henderson, of Illinois; George L. Beal, of Maine, and George W. Steele, of Indiana, as members of the board of managers of the national soldrs' home. The day was spent in the discussion o. charges brought against General Franklin and Colonel Smith relating to the management of the Leavenworth home, and with the understanding that a vote should be had at 3 p. m. tomorrow the house adjourned.

ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTH DAY.

In the senate the bill for a new museum was placed on the calendar. Further argument was heard in the Dupont case. Peffer's resolution for investigation of recent bond issues was taken up and Mr. Hill, of New York, addressed the senate, opposing the resolution. Pending Mr. Hill's speech the hour of 5:30 arrived and the senate adjourned.....In the house—The resolutions appointing the board of managers of the national soldiers' home occupied the session today and were adopted: The resolutions name General W. B. Franklin and George W. Steele to succeed themselves, Gen. T. J. Henderson of Illinois to succeed John C. Black and Gen. G. L. Beale of Maine, to succeed Francis Fessenden. At 4:35 the house adjourned.

Destructive Floods in Quebec.

Great damage is being done in the eastern townships of Quebec by water rising in the rivers, due to the hot sun melting the snow. Railway bridges and tracks are washed out, houses are submerged and factory fires extinguished.

The Quebec Central has lost its great iron bridge, 150 feet long, which crosses a ravine at Ste Anselme, twenty-one miles south of Point Levis. This cuts off all communication between this section and the New England states. In the vicinity of Sherbrooke, the tracks of the Quebec Central, the Maine Central and the Boston and Maine have been washed out in various places. Traffic will be interrupted for weeks. Sweeping past the city of Sherbrooke, the St. Francis river has burst from its confines and covers the country for a half mile between that city and Richmond. At Richmond the water is several feet deep in the main street. The city of Janesville is completely submerged. Umberton and Melbourn suffer in a lesser degree. The water is still rising.

Bound, Gagged and Pounded.

Four prisoners escaped from the penitentiary at Michigan City, Ind., the other day by scaling the walls. They are still at large. Six were in the conspiracy. Two weakened at the last minute and were bound, gagged and pounded into insensibility by the other four. The runaways were among the hardest prisoners in the institution.

Paralysis.

From the Press, New York City.

Morris Presianer, of No. 1 Pitt Street, New York, who is a real estate agent and collector of rents, caught a severe cold early last spring, which settled upon his kidneys. Soon he began to suffer severe pain in his backbone, sides and chest. His symptoms grew rapidly more alarming, until at last he was as helpless as a child and could scarcely move as he lay on his bed. As Mr. Preslaner is well known in the part of the town where he resides, he had many sympathizers, who did all they could to help him.

Though a native of Berlin, Mr. Presinner has lived in this country for forty years, having served the country of his adoption by three years' hard service in the civil war. He enlisted with the Nineteenth Illinois Infantry, taking part in many battles and marching with General Sherman to the sea. While in Georgia, Mr. Presianer was promoted to first Sergeant for bravery on the field of action. He is now a member of Koltes Post, G. A. R., and is one of the most popular men in the Post.

Mr. Preslaner told a reporter the story of his dreadful illness and wonderful recovery. The reporter met him as he was returning from a long walk, and, saying that he had heard of his wonderful cure, asked him to tell the story. When Mr. Presianer was comfortably seated in his pleasant parlor, he told the following story, which, he said, he hoped everyone who was suffering as he had suffered, would read. His words were as follows: "To begin with, I was taken sick just a year and a month ago, having taken a severe cold which settled on my kidneys. At first I thought the pain I suffered would soon pass away, but, instead of doing this, it grew more intense every day, so that in a week I could walk only with considerable difficulty.

"I called in a doctor, who said I had locomotor ataxia and began treating me for that disease. He did me no good, and all summer long I could scarcely attend to my business at all. Then I called another doctor and took his medicine for several weeks, but experienced no relief. Dr. Truman Nichols, of No. 287 East Broadway, who I at last called in, helped me more than any of the other doctors, but along towards fall I grew worse, despite his treatment. I think Dr. Nichols is a good doctor and understood my case, but despite this fact his medicines did me no lasting good.

"Early in November the little strength I had in my legs left me and I was unable to stand. The pain in my back and sides became almost unbearable and my limbs grew cold. An electric battery I bought failed to help, and for weeks I felt myself gradually growing weaker until all hope left me.

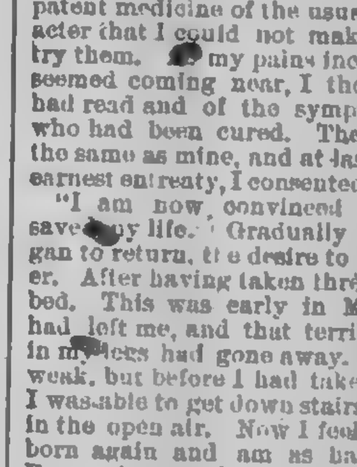
"Sometime before this I had read of a wonderful cure a man had received from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, but was so prejudiced against what I thought was a patent medicine of the usual worthless character that I could not make up my mind to try them. As my pains increased and death seemed coming near, I thought of what I had read and of the symptoms of the man who had been cured. They were precisely the same as mine, and at last, with my wife's earnest entreaty, I consented to try Pink Pills.

"I am now convinced that these pills saved my life. Gradually my strength began to return, the desire to live grew stronger. After having taken three boxes I left my bed. This was early in March. All pain had left me, and that terrible dead feeling in my legs had gone away. I was still very weak, but before I had taken the fourth box I was able to get down stairs for a short walk in the open air. Now I feel as if I had been born again and am as happy as a child. Every pleasant day I take a walk, and am sure that in a month I will be as well as ever."

All diseases, such as locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus' dance, partial paralysis, sciatica, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervous headache, palpitation of the heart, effects of la grippe, pale and sallow complexions, and all forms of weakness, either in man or woman, disappear when Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are taken. Pink Pills can be bought of any dealer, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

RULES IN BRITISH GUIANA.

Augustus Lawson Hemming, K. C. M. G., the New Governor.



GOV. HEMMING.

The people of this country are especially interested just now in British Guiana and in the new Governor who has been appointed by the British Government for that colony — Augustus Lawson Hemming, K. C. M. G. Sir Augustus has seen thirty years' service in the home colonial office and is well qualified for the position. He has on several occasions been entrusted with delicate missions affecting boundary disputes, and he is thus well fitted to cope with the difficulty regarding the Venezuela boundary line. British Guiana is one of the most thriving of the British possessions in the tropics and is the equal of Trinidad or Mauritius. Its sugar product is equivalent annually to $10,000,000 and is worked by coolies imported from East India. There are rich gold fields in Essequibo and Cuyuni. Sir Augustus will therefore find a prosperous country under him.

A Valuable Franchise.

A cash offer of over $2,000,000 has been made by a leading banking house, representing a foreign syndicate, for the privilege of running canal boats on the Erie canal by electric traction.

The exclusive franchise for electric traction on the canal belongs to the Cataract General Electric company, one of the branches of the great Niagara Falls Power company. Several months ago experiments were made at Tonawanda, with a system of towing canal boats by a small motor running on a cable. The motor ran successfully and it is said to be ready for operation the entire length of the canal. If this system be put into successful operation the canal would become the great traffic route from the lakes to the seaboard.

A French governor of the South Pacific colony of New Caledonia, who was also an admiral of the navy, assumed his authority (says an exchange) while the natives were still cannibals. There had been rumors of an insurrection, and the admiral called before him a native chief who was faithful to the French cause and questioned him as to their truth. "You may be sure," said the native, "that there will be no war at present, because the yams are not yet ripe." "The yams, you say?" "Yes. Our people never make war except when when the yams are ripe." "Why is that?" "Because baked yams go so very well with the captives."

Properly Named.

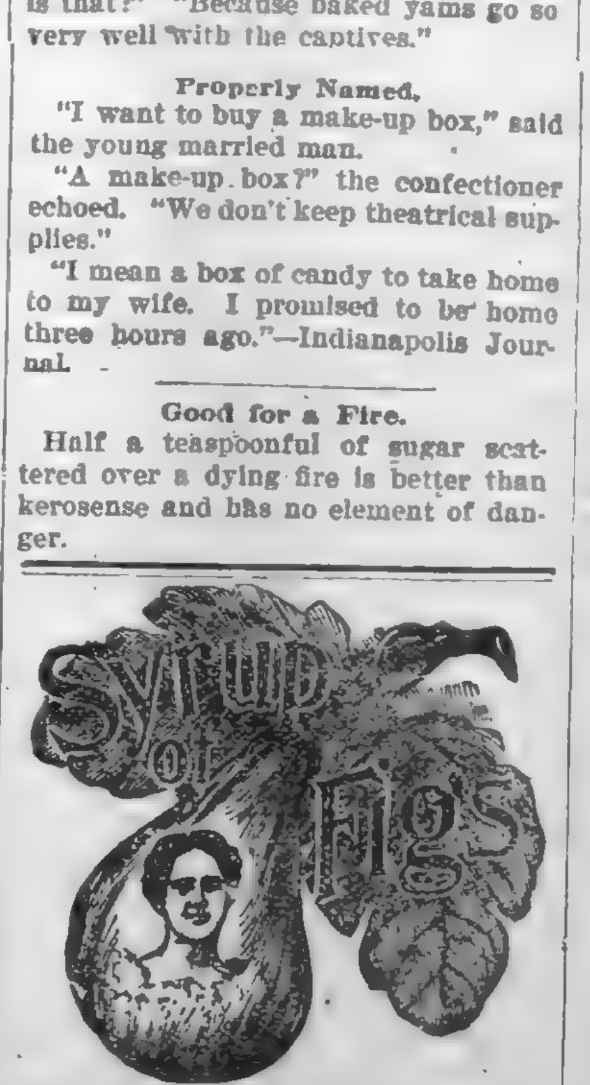
"I want to buy a make-up box," said the young married man.

"A make-up box?" the confectioner echoed. "We don't keep theatrical supplies."

"I mean a box of candy to take home to my wife. I promised to be home three hours ago."—Indianapolis Journal.

Good for a Fire.

Half a teaspoonful of sugar scattered over a dying fire is better than kerosense and has no element of danger.



Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

The following true anecdote may be of some interest, illustrating the mathematical capacity of the Boers: "Six years ago an Englishman owed a sum of £500 to a Boer. When payment was demanded, instead of paying the whole sum, he paid only £300. On arriving home the Boer counted out his money with the aid of a 'Ready Reckoner,' and found that he had been paid £200 short. He immediately returned to the Englishman, explained to him that, according to his 'Ready Reckoner,' he was £200 short. The ready witted Briton seized the book and replied that it was 'last year's.' The Boer returned satisfied."—London Tit-Bits.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. William T. Cline, a grocer doing business at 1422 Norris St., Philadelphia, recently made the following statement concerning Ripans Tabules: "I had what the doctors called Nervous Indigestion, from which I suffered day and night. I tried several doctors, took electric treatment, patent medicines, and, in fact, everything that I could hear of, but nothing done me any good and I made up my mind there was no help for me, only to grin and bear it, but one day I was passing a drug store and stopped to look at the display in the window and I happened to see a card with 'Ripans Tabules' on it and I thought, well, here's another straw for a drowning man, so I'll throw some more money away, so I went in and bought a box, and, seems to me, the first dose took effect. I have been taking them ever since and they have surely worked wonders with me. When I look back on the past and then on my present condition, seems to me I am a new man. I am enjoying elegant health now, and I feel that I owe many thanks to Ripans Tabules. I have recommended them to several of my friends who say they are wonderful, and I must say they are a God send to any one suffering from a disorder of this nature."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce st., New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

"Aye! There's the rub!"

And that ought to be enough in itself to seal the doom of bar soap. This rubbing with soap may get clothes clean, if you work hard enough, but can't you see how it wears them out?

Follow the directions that come on every package of Pearline, and you'll find that you not only do away with the hard and ruinous work of rubbing—but that you save time, and actually get better results. At every point Pearline is better than soap. But the mere fact that Pearline saves the rubbing—that ought to settle it.

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, APRIL 30, 1896. NO. 27.

OWN THE RAILROADS.

PEOPLE HAVE RIGHTS AS WELL AS CORPORATIONS.

Brother Hinckley Discusses Some of the Reasons Why The Government Should Own the Railroads—Only a Question of Common Sense.

Macaulay, in an essay written in 1824, makes this observation:

"The blind reverence for things ancient is indeed so foolish that it might make a wise man laugh if it were not also sometimes so mischievous that it would rather make a good man weep."

"Vested rights" belong in the category of "things ancient blindly reverenced," the absurdity and seriousness of which, in this latter day of the nineteenth century, cannot be better exemplified than in the treatment accorded to the railroads of this country. The "rights" by which a few men control with an iron hand every avenue and outlet of our gigantic, far-reaching commercial system, and out of which they have accumulated fortunes so vast as would put to shame even the vivid oriental imagination that conceived the Arabian nights, were "vested" in them by laws enacted by legislators who were elected as representatives of the people.

The ridiculousness and the seriousness which have followed the people's blind reverence of the rights which they have conferred upon railroads are about equally divided and are worthy of a few moments' consideration.

A corporation gets a charter for a railroad, then, on the ground that its construction will benefit the public, it appeals to the various counties, townships or municipalities through which it has located its line on paper for aid. The assistance is voted, say, by a given county to the extent of $200,000. The construction of the road begins; but in its progress through the county instanced it runs up against the farm of some independent (?) tiller of the soil, who enters an objection to its passage through "his" place and declares that his "vested right" in his farm shall not be sacrificed for any railroad that ever was. But the railroad gives "bond" for the settlement of any damage which the farmer may sustain and goes through, and when the case comes to court, the farmer learns for the first time that his "vested right" in the farm, although of as ancient origin as most vested rights, must give way to the "weal of the public" as represented by the railroad's "vested right" to go where it pleases. The $200,000 voted in aid of the corporation was more than sufficient to construct every inch of the road through the level prairie county voting it, and today the state auditor's report shows that the entire property of the railroad in that county is assessed for tax purposes at less than $150,000. This means that the company is not only not taxed on any property of its own in that county, but has $50,000 capital furnished by the citizens of that county upon which it pays no tax. But this is not "socialism" or "paternalism;" oh, no, its "business."

The same state in which the above instanced railroad is located (Illinois), has on its statute books a law which provides that if a person be killed by any railroad in the state the surviving relatives shall not be allowed to collect exceeding $5,000 damages. If the person be only crippled, however, he can get any damages that he can prove, and it has happened that cripples have collected more than double the amount their relatives could have obtained if they had been killed outright.

This state also happens to be the field in which the power wielded by railroads over the personal liberty of the citizen has received its most startling illustration. The imprisonment of Debs by "injunction" instead of by a jury of his peers has dignified the populists' proposition for government ownership into the most important question before the American people today. The money question, even in its entirety, involves no such consequences as the continuation of this newly risen but rapidly becoming omnipotent despotism which spurns the personal liberty of the humble citizen from its path with the same cold blood that it buys a legislature or corrupts a court.

How are you going to get the railroads? asks a doubting Thomas.

The people, under God, are omnipotent. They must take possession of the railroads exactly in the way that a railroad takes possession of the land it needs. The railroads do not pay fancy prices for the citizen's land, neither should the citizen pay fancy prices for the railroads. The value of the railroads is fixed by their owners at about $10,000,000,000.

Squeeze the water out of this and the residue would represent very little more than the amount of the national debt at the close of the war. Let the government print this amount of full legal tender money, not promises to pay, and pay it to the railroad owners, and it will not only own the roads, but it will have partially solved the money problem. "But the increased patronage would make the party in power invincible."

The only danger that comes from the dispensing of patronage consists in the fact that it is too generally used to pay [illegible] political workers and ward heelers for campaign services, and in the other fact that the patronage itself consists of a soft snap always considered desirable. How many ward heelers or soft-handed boodlers would want to be section hands or brakemen or firemen or engineers or conductors on a government railroad? Do you suppose the people of this country would tolerate a party for an instant that would jeopardise their lives and property by turning off skilled railway men and employing green hands in the interest of their party? Hadn't we better display a little less blind reverence for vested rights as they are and a little more intelligent consideration of the future?

ALLEN NOT A CANDIDATE.

Writes a Letter to Governor Holcomb Stating That He Is Out of the Race.

Special Dispatch to the World-Herald. Governor Holcomb several days ago received from Senator W. V. Allen a letter in which the writer explains the reason for writing it, and as the letter is sufficiently explanatory of itself it is here given. This is the letter:

"Washington, D. C., March 24.—Hon. Silas A. Holcomb, Lincoln, Neb.—My Dear Governor: I have just been reading the very pleasant things said of me in connection with the populist nomination for the presidency, in your recent interview published in the press dispaches, for which please accept my thanks. The favorable mention of my name with the high office of president of the United States by the chief executive of my own state, who is himself able and well qualified by education, temperament, and experience, to fill the exalted position, possesses double value and is truly gratifying.

"I have not been unconscious, for several months, that a strong sentiment exists in the populist party throughout the nation favorable to my nomination, and I will not disguise from you that it has given me much pleasure to know that my services in the United States senate have been instrumental in prompting the use of my name in that connection. I have also observed quite an extensive discussion of the matter in the public press, and I have been the recipient of hundreds of letters asking me if I would be a candidate for the nomination, or accept it if tendered me.

"Fully realizing that ordinarily it is to be considered indelicate to either accept or decline a nomination that has not been tendered, still I feel that the time has come when, in the interest of the party, I should speak openly and frankly, as I desire above all things to promote the interest of the populist party, and by that means the interest of my country. Deeply conscious that it would be a distinguished honor to be the standard bearer of a great politicau party founded on the principles of eternal justice and right, a party that must, in my opinion, soon succeed to the administration of our national government, I nevertheless deem it unwise to permit my name to be used as a candidate.

"I think every true citizen should, at this time, consult the interests of the country and not his own personal desire. I do not feel that my experience has been such as to warrant me in being a candidate for the nomination, or in accepting it if it should be tendered me. There are many older and abler men in the party than I am, highly well qualified to make the race, and I feel confident that I can do the cause greater good by remaining where I am, fighting in the ranks for success, than by accepting the nomination if it should be tendered. The welfare of the party, and, therefore, the welfare of the country, is to be consulted at all times; principles count for everything, and men for nothing, in our struggle.

"Permit me also to say in this connection that there are personal reasons why I should not be a candidate, among which is the important fact that I have a family of children whose education must be looked after at this time, and who need my personal supervision more now than they have ever needed it before, or will ever need it again, and I must not permit myself to imperil their interests for my own promotion.

"Profoundly grateful to my fellow citizens of the state and nation for the flattering mention of my name in connection with the highest office on earth, I sincerely trust that hereafter attention will not be centered on me, but on some gentleman better qualified to discharge the duties of the position in the event of an election, and that wisdom will characterize the formation of our platform and the nomination we may make. I have the honor to be very truly, your friend,

"WILLIAM V. ALLEN."

Never Been Proposed.

"The people's party declares in favor of government ownership of railroads and telegraph lines. But nowhere in its platform does it indicate a plan to secure this end. Why charge that we are in favor of purchasing all the railroads at once at their capitalized value, including the watered stock, and issuing bonds for the amount and taxing the people to pay the bonds? No populist has ever proposed any such thing. The railroads could be bought and paid for within twenty years out of the net earnings and savings without taxing the people one cent, or increasing the present rate of freight and passenger tariff. But the people are already taxed on every dollar of capital represented by railroad bonds and stocks to the extent of ten thousand million dollars. They are taxed in freight and passenger rates which they have to pay the railroad companies. What the people's party desires is that the money which now goes to pay dividends on stocks and interest on bonds shall go toward purchasing the railroads and eventually owning and operating them at greatly reduced rates."

The dromedary parcel post service in the German territories of southwestern Africa has given better results than were expected. The dromedaries are adapted to the climate, are not effected by the prevalent cattle diseases, are not made footsore in stony regions and do not suffer extreme thirst when deprived of water for a week.

THE GREAT DEBATE.

CRISP AND SMITH DISCUSS THE CURRENCY QUESTION.

Tom Watson Also Takes His Pen in Hand to Make a Few Remarks Which Are Very Pointed Indeed—His Logical Conclusions.

People's Party Paper: The Augusta Tribune describes Mr. Crisp as "an old gentleman with a bald head, adorned by a short-cropped fringe of hair on the outer edges."

Correct.

The same authority photographs Mr. Smith as "a smooth shaven, well-kept looking gentleman, with a face as round as the full moon."

Correct.

The "old gentleman with the bald head" opened the debate with a palmetto fan and a misstatement.

He said that the decline in values commenced immediately after the demonetization of silver in 1873. This is not true for two reasons:

1st. Silver was not "demonetized" till 1894.

2nd. Because the decline in values commenced several years previous to 1873—as several middle-aged men in America ought to know.

The "moon faced gentleman," however, did not seem to be posted upon this point, and he let the misstatement pass unchallenged.

It is a strange thing to us that Free Silver debaters will base their discussions upon so false a foundation. Unless they are willing to commit themselves to the principle of "Fiat money" they have no case at all.

The only sound and unanswerable portions of Mr. Crisp's argument are those which sustain the Populists in theory of money.

Once you say that the Government's mandate can arbitrarily make the ratio 16 to 1, you might as well say it can make it 20 to 1, or 10 to 1. Mr. Smith puts this with great force and Mr. Crisp did not even try to answer.

If the Commercial value of silver cuts no figure in deciding coinage ratio, then it is the Government's say-so which fixes it. And if the Government's say-so can fix it, independent of Commercial value, the "16 to 1" standard becomes a mere matter of convenience. It involves no principle at all.

It is true that Mr. Crisp can justly claim that our past experience proves that our government can make a success of the 16 to 1 ratio. It did it prior to 1873, and could do it again.

Certainly; but the success was due to the "Fiat money" principle, and not to the commercial value of the silver out of which the dollar was made. This was shown by the fact that the trade dollar, which contained more pure silver than the standard dollar, was at a heavy discount, while the standard silver dollar was at par. The trade dollar was not a full legal tender—did not have behind it the fiat of the law. It had to go mainly upon its value as mere silver. It had little worth except its commodity or commercial value.

The smaller standard silver dollar, on the contrary, had behind it the mandate of the law; it was full legal tender. It cancelled all debts dollar for dollar, not because the creditor wanted it to do so, but because the Government said it must do so.

Therefore everybody took as a dollar the smaller amount of silver which was in the standard dollar, while nobody would take, as a dollar, the larger amount of silver which was in the trade dollar. Nobody would accept it for more than eighty-five cents.

By act of congress the large trade dollar had to be melted up and coined into smaller legal tender dollars before they would circulate.

Mr. Smith must know all this, yet he did not dare to use it. Why? Because it proves too much for a democrat—no matter whether he be goldbug or free-silverite. It proves that the populists are right in saying that the legal tender quality is that which lifts silver and gold and copper and paper into the dignity and power of money.

The unanswerable portion of Mr. Crisp's speech is that in which he argues the case for "More Money." On that point Mr. Smith fails entirely to meet the argument.

But the reply lies right upon the surface, and the average Populist will see it at a glance.

Mr. Smith could have replied that to issue "More Money" does not necessarily mean more silver. If commercial values cut no figure, the argument for "More Money" would rest as firmly upon copper as upon silver. Every reason which Mr. Crisp urged for the issue of "More Money" would apply just as forcibly to the issuance of irredeemable treasury notes as to silver.

If the government's say so creates dollars why use silver when paper is so light, so convenient and so cheap?

It is this weakness in the logic of free silver Democrats which is so apparent to everybody except themselves.

When they claim that the government's fiat does not fix the value of a dollar, they should candidly concede that the market value should do it.

If they admit that it is the government's fiat which fixes the value of the dollar, then they should frankly confess that any other material would answer the purpose as well as silver.

To assert that any nation can give to silver a coinage value different from its commercial value is manifestly absurd—unless you admit that the legal tender quality which the government imparts to it by law is different from the commercial value which the markets of the world give to it by tho rule of supply and demand.

And the moment you admit that this legal tender quality does fix the value of the coin, regardless of the world's markets then you are talking Populism.

We know that you claim that is not so. You claim that you believe silver would go back to its 1873 value if the 1873 conditions were restored. True. But remember that there are two awkward facts to confront you as long as you stop short of the Populist position:

1st. The trade dollar is there to prove that it was not the value of the silver which made the standard dollar circulate at par. It was the power of the legal tender law!

2d. There are the market quotations of 1873 to prove that the amount of silver in the standard silver dollar was worth three cents more, on the markets of the world, than the amount of gold in the standard gold dollar. This proves too much for you; not too much for us Pops!

Neither of these awkward facts interfere with the "fiat money" principle, but they play the mischief with any free silver argument which stops short of the Populist position.

Each of the two facts alluded to conclusively prove that the commercial ratio is one thing and the legal coinage ratio quite another; the market value of 420 grains of non-legal tender silver (trade dollar) may be only 85 cents, while the legal value of 416½ grains of legal tender silver (standard dollar) may be one dollar.

On the contrary, the market value of 416½ grains of silver might rise above a dollar, whereas it could only, as a coined dollar be worth a dollar in the payment of debts.

No mere "free silver Democrat" can get over these two facts.

Mr. Smith is correct when he says that the nations of the world have changed the coinage ratio time and again to make it conform to the commercial ratio. As he says, it has been done also in this country. We think that the gold bugs are right when they claim that a debased dollar, under mere bimetallism, would drive the good dollar out of circulation. The reason is obvious: the good dollar would seek its true level, and would part company with its inferior.

To witness the dodgings and the squirmings of the free silver men when impaled on this point is funny. They cannot answer it, and they rarely try.

But to the Pops this alleged gold bug argument, this so-called "Gresham law" has no terror at all.

We admit that any commodity, obeying the laws of a mere commodity, will go where the best price invites it. Of two commodity dollars, the less valuable will continue to toddle around, as a dollar, while the more valuable will go into a better business. For instance, if the law stamps the words "one dollar on ten cents' worth of iron and also stamps the words "one dollar" on one hundred cents' worth of gold, the gold will not associate on such terms with the iron. It will leave the dime's worth of iron to keep up the pretense of being "one dollar," while the one hundred cents' worth of gold will be called to those uses which make it worth one hundred cents.

This is the Gresham law—destructive to your weak-kneed silverite who wants more money, but who does not want it based on the fiat of the government.

To us Pops this "Gresham law" goes for nothing.

We say we don't care a dime where gold goes; nor what the gold in the gold dollar is worth. We don't care whether silver stays at home, or visits around.

What we want is money. And to us, money means that thing which the government declares to be a dollar, and declares to be good in payment of a dollar's taxes and a dollar's debts. That's all we want in this country, and the law of this land and the enormous wealth of this people would carry paper money, at par, as easily as it carries paper bonds to a premium.

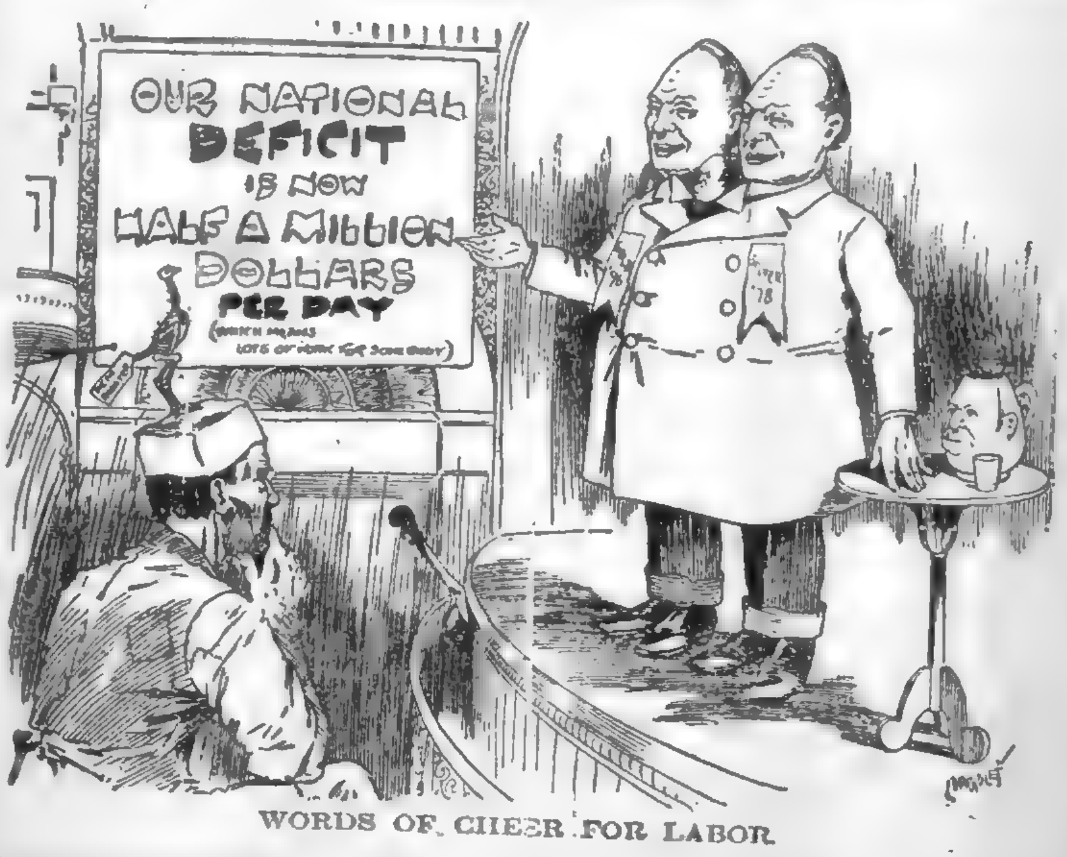
It is the law and the government's credit which floats the bond. The same agencies should float the dollar. Paper is paper, and a promise is a promise and there can be no reason why Uncle Sam's word on a paper dollar is not as good as his word on a paper bond.

For all purposes of trade in this country, then, a paper dollar, backed by the government, would answer our purposes as well as silver and gold.

For foreign trade, we would have to do just as we do now—settle our balances by bills of exchange or by gold and silver in their commercial shape. The United States government stamp on gold and silver dollars is worth nothing to use in foreign trade. Gold bars and silver bricks, duly assayed, would do quite as well.

With governments banks, panics would be impossible.

CARLISLE IN CHICAGO.



OUR NATIONAL DEFICIT IS NOW HALF A MILLION DOLLARS PER DAY

WORDS OF CHEER FOR LABOR.

"YOU MUST NOT AGITATE."

The Combines and Tyrants for Ages Past Have Said This to the People.

Congressman Wheeler, of Alabama, made some forcible remarks in the house a few days ago. He has introduced a bill providing that so long as the gold standard is maintained in this country the salary of all the officials, including congressmen, be reduced to three-fourths the salaries now provided by law.

In speaking on the bill Mr. Wheeler said:

Now, Mr. Chairman, we must either reduce salaries or we must enact the senate substitute into law, and thus provide for the coinage of silver. The arguments in favor of the gold standard were little more than the reiteration of the same scarecrow doctrines that were sent here from Wall street to oppose the silver-coinage law of 1878, and which have been reiterated every time a silver coinage bill has been brought before this body. The arguments were shown to be fallacious then and the history of the last eighteen years has proven them to be utterly without foundation.

A most distinguished member of this body—probably the ablest lawyer from the state which he represents on this floor, and by far the ablest advocate of the gold standard on this side of the house, a gentleman for whom we entertain profound regard, a gentleman whom I saw in his seat a few moments ago—after the fallacy of those arguments had been exploded, after every principle and theory that he advocated on this question had been refuted, cried out: "Stop all this agitation for the free and unlimited coinage of silver."

Yes, the distinguished gentleman cried, "You must not agitate." That Mr. Chairman, has been the exclamation of tyrants in all ages—"you must not agitate." (Applause.) When gentlemen resort to this ultimatum they admit that their arguments are fallacies. Nero told the people that they "must not agitate;" Caligula told the people that they "must not agitate." The gold-standard bankers of New York city, who now own substantially all the gold in the United States—so much was shown by the late bids on the bonds—were able to purchase bonds for gold to the amount of $102,448,199.55, while the 20,000,000 poeple who live south of the Ohio and Potomac rivers were only able to purchase to the amount of $222,086.

These gentlemen of New York insist that "this gold must be the only money of ultimate redemption." They have the farmers of the south and west by the throat, and they say, "You must not agitate. If you do we will make it worse for you; we control the money of the land; we have a power which you cannot resist;" and the distinguished gentlemen who advocate the gold-standard policy, cry out, "You must not agitate." "You farmers of the west, you farmers of the south," cry the bankers and monied men, "we have by our methods reduced the value of your products to one-half; and we have degraded you to mere toilers; we have elevated ourselves to be money kings and sovereigns; and now we say, 'You must not agitate' (applause); if you agitate this question we will make matters worse for you."

The speeches of these gentlemen are merely a repetition of the exploded theories which the Wall street and Lombard street bankers and brokers sent here in 1877 and 1878 to oppose the silver-coinage law of 1878, and which were reiterated by the same men when they struck the final blows upon silver by the bullion bill of 1890 and purchase-clause repeal of 1893.

Every prediction made by these men has proven to be false, and every prediction made by the friends of silver has proven to be correct and true. They said the silver-coinage act of 1878 would be followed by panic and distress. We denied this and insisted that it would bring prosperity. We were right and the gold-standard bankers were wrong.

Pattern for Burglars.

About the most considerate man the New York police have run up against for a long time is a burglar who left his overcoat containing his photograph in the house he last robbed. Other burglars should imitate his example, thus saving the police no end of trouble.—Ex.

Let Populists decide what they want done before going to the national convention. Don't leave the whole thing to be settled in the hurry and confusion of a convention.

CURRENTS OF TRADE

As Observed and Reported by R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review.

MONEY MARKETS FAVORABLE

Foreign Commerce Looks Up—More Confidence Inspired by Evidences That Agitation for Cheap Money Will be Laid to Rest This Year. Retail Trade Better.

Failures for the week have been 238 in the United States, against 230 last year, and 44 in Canada, against 37 last year. Business has been favored by seasonable weather and the distribution of products has made fair progress not yet reducing retail or wholesale stocks far enough, however, to improve the position of industries. Money markets have grown more favorable, as well as the state of foreign commerce, and until the apparently groundless revival of discussion about the Venezuelan trouble there were brighter prospects of European investments here. The belief that agitation for cheap money will be permanently laid at rest this year is gaining ground and in financial quarters causes more confidence for the future. Prices of commodities are on the whole lower than ever before, having declined 2 per cent since April 1 and 17 per cent since July, 1890. The fall in manufactured products is a little less than it was April 1, but in farm products greater. Cotton goods were bought less freely last week, and the northern mills have taken scarcely any cotton this month. The feeling is more hopeful, because retail trade is better. The situation in woolen goods does not improve.

The large orders taken for boots and shoes when prices were reduced to last year's lowest, more than a month ago, result in shipments nearly equal to last year's. New orders are not coming in freely except for immediate delivery to fill out broken stocks. Leather is weaker with heavy sales, averaging about 3 per cent lower for the week, although hides at Chicago are a shade stronger. Neither pig iron nor manufactured products have improved in demand as yet, though further combinations have raised prices of rods and of bar iron to $1.20, while steel remains at $1.15 and nails 5 cents higher May 1. Brokers at Pittsburg are still selling steel billets 60 cents below the pool price. Structural angles are a shade lower, though some good contracts are expected.

A Gold Bug Verdict.

In a suit for damages against a street railway, decided in St. Louis, the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff for "one gold dollar." Judge Woods objected to the wording of the verdict. The verdict was recorded.

TWO BELLIGERENT CONGRESSMEN

Have High Words and the Historic Inkstand Comes to the Front.

Congressman Money, democrat, of Mississippi, senator-elect from that state, and Congressman Hall, democrat, of Missouri, had a personal encounter in the committee of naval affairs last Thursday. Statements conflict as to the language used by Mr. Money and resented by Mr. Hall, but it seems to be clear that, whatever were the words used, upon their utterance Mr. Money rose to his feet and Mr. Hall grabbed an ink well and hurled it at him. The blow behind the ear staggered him. Mr. Hall did not hit him with his fist. Mr. Money, though staggered, also clutched an ink well and let it drive at Mr. Hall's head, but the Missourian dodged and the missile flew harmlessly by and struck the wall opposite. Mr. Coakly, committee messenger, and other mutual friends rushed between the combatants and stopped the proceedings.

Mr. Money was taken to the room of the committee on claims, where his wounds were dressed by a physician who happened to be in the building. There were two cuts, one just back of the ear, about an inch long, and the other further down the neck, both probably made by the points of the ink well. Mr. Money, like his adversary, said he did not desire to make a statement.

There were present in the committee room, in addition to the two combatants, Commodore Fithian and Representative Meyer, of Louisiana, and Wilson, of New York, members of the committee. The altercation was over Mr. Wilson's bill for the reorganization of the personnel of the navy. An anomymous circular against the bill figured in the controversy.

Mr. Wilson says he was reading his mail and the conversation was participated in in a spasmodic fashion by all about the table. He says according to his recollection the row followed a statement of Mr. Hall's to the effect that whoever made such statements as were made in the circular, made statements which were not true. Mr. Money thereupon, according to Mr. Wilson, looked up and said: "Do you mean to say I am a liar?"

Mr. Hall replied in a low tone. Mr. Wilson says he does not know exactly what the reply was, but thereupon Mr. Money applied the epithet and the row began. The ink well thrown by Mr. Money, he says, narrowly escaped Mr. Hall's head and passed over his shoulder.

THE PLATFORM.

"The People's Party of the State of Alabama, in convention assembled, recognizing the supremacy of political liberty over all the questions that can come before the people of the State for solution at the general State election, to take place on the 3rd day of August, 1896, reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Populism as follows:

"First—We demand a free ballot and a fair count.

"Second—We believe in the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of international agreement.

"Third—We demand that miners and others like corporate labor be paid in lawful money of the United States semi-monthly.

"Fourth—We favor a tariff for revenue, so adjusted as to protect, as far as practicable the farmers, and the labour in our shops, mines, factories and mills, and their products against foreign pauper labor."

Judge Zell Gaston's amendment to the 2d section was as follows:

"We demand the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the abolition of national banks, the expansion of the currency to meet the needs of the people and the demands of commerce, free from the control of corporate influences, and we condemn the issue of interest bearing bonds in time of peace."

Next came a lot of resolutions, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that our representatives in congress be and are hereby requested to use their best endeavors to secure appropriations by the Federal Government to open the Warrier River to navigation from the coal fields to the Gulf of Mexico."

"Resolved, That our county appointing boards are hereby requested to give to the political opposition a competent inspector at every polling place in their respective counties,

"And we further request the inspector so appointed to give a competent clerk and fixer at each polling place to said political opposition."

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Clear Creek, Ala., April 27, 1896.

Editor BANNER: The canvas of our primaries is drawing to a close. In a few days we shall know who our nominees are. Let us have a full turn out on the 5th of May. Come one and all. You can both, vote and regisger on that day. Kill two birds with one stone and save t me. Let me again call the attention of the voters to Mr. J. A. Logan who is before you for tax collector. He surely needs no further recommendation from any source. His services in the reform movement for the last ten years has fully demonstrated to the people of Chilton county that he the working man's friend, and it does seem to me that if merit ever deserves a reward now is a good time to bestow it. Let every voter in the county see to it that J. A. Logan's name is on his ticket and you will never have accasion to regret it.

Editor BANNER: I am astonished at our people. I often hear church members say they won't vote for a preacher and therefore can't vote for L. B. Pounds for tax assessor. That is one of the greatest mistakes of their lives. Mr. Pounds is a christian man, a honorable high toned gentleman in every sense of the word. He is a useful man in the cause of righteousness. He is able to defend the truth and fully competent to assess the taxes. If the people would think for a moment they would see that they would be doing great missionary work by electing L. B. Pounds. He is a poor man and has 5 little motherless children to work for and serve 4 or 5 churches. He would feel less embarrassed if he was placed in a position to get a support without calling on the churches for it. Pounds has made a bold and vigorous fight for reform and no man can say ought against him. Give us Pounds for assessor. Success to the BANNER.

Editor BANNER: As I cannot make a canvas of the county I ask a little space in your paper to express my gratitude to my friends for their support in the primary April 14th. As I am very busy in my crop and cannot leave home, if I fail to see any of my friends they will know that it is not because I don't want their support. I will certainly appreciate all that anyone will do for me. I want the people to do what they think is best and cast their votes for the man of their choice and I assure you that I will be satisfied and abide by the result. Someone is telling that I am supported by or running in the interest of some few. I will say that I am out for tax collector and am strictly in the interests of Tom Hubbard and I leave the matter in the hands of the voters and abide by their action May 5th. Respectfully,

T. J. HUBBARD.

Editor BANNER: Please alow me space in your most interefting paper to say a few words in regard to our candidates for sheriff. As there has been some outrageous lies told on Mr. Lee Hayes, I just want to say that Mr. Hayes was one of the first in the People's Party and has been faithful to the present time, always ready to bear his part and spend his own money. Now, gentlemen, Mr. Hayes says he would rather be dead than to injure the People's party.

Strasburg, Ala., April, 29 '96

Editor BANNER: Please allow me space in the BANNER to correct some erroneous and false reports that I learn are being circulated against me in some parts of the county in regard to the support of certain candidates, both for sheriff and representative. Now, I say emphatically to the people that I am not working especially for any man but for myself, and I am, doing that in a high-toned, gentlemanly way. I have made no alliances with neither of these men, I have counseled for harmony and upright conduct upon the part of any and all. I have done this publicly and privately, and I am surprised that anyone will entertain any other opinion of me; neither am I trying to get in by detracting from my opponent. I simply ask the people for the office of assessor, because that I am in such condition as that it would greatly benefitme. I am a poor man, I preach to poor people, and and when you confer this favor on me it will be fully appreciated.

I am most truly yours,
L. B. POUNDS.
